I believe there should be more community involvement in the NWMC Association. If you would like to become a member of the association the fee is $10 for three years—a mere $3.33 per year.

The only way you have a say or vote in the decisions of NWMC is to become a member of the association. I encourage everyone to become a member and have a say in the decisions. Call 681-5716 and I will get you a Northwest Medical Center Association membership form.

Thank-you.
Sincerely,

Undressed Fishing Advice

There was some sage Greek philosopher, centuries ago, who suggested that the more we learn the less that we know (I've never quite figured out how these Greek types managed to gain such credibility in modern society. Were I to clothe myself in a loose fitting sheet that offered all the body-covering modesty of a shrunken hospital gown and spit out one-liners from the back of the launch, I assure you there would be a dramatic drop in my number of commercial trips.)

The wisdom of the line, however, applies easily to my existence. I did, after all, know everything when I was 18 years old and am amazed at how little understanding I possess nowadays. Good examples of this newfound lack of knowledge are evident in daily interactions with my wife, my children and large carburated gas engines.

It is with little surprise, then, that I now find myself too awed by a downrigging process that a few short years ago offered little in the way of professional challenge. No longer do the original instructions seem adequate:

Step One—Lower downrigger with lure attached;
Step Two—Reel up fish;
Step Three—Repeat.

Now, several years further along the path of fishing development, I find myself asking questions on a more and more frequent basis. Why, for instance, when trolling the exact same quarter-mile square of lake over the exact some time frame, do I consistently catch 20 percent fewer fish than the three or four more experienced guides around me?

Why, when such similarities in time and geography are so consistent that I could hurl small barnyard animals from my boat to theirs, are these guys coming in with half a dozen fish that are larger than the biggest walleye in my cooler?

(Incidentally, I've never hurled animals of any sort at any boat and I certainly do not promote the use of walleyes in the laboratory testing of cosmetics either.) Is it possible, to actually get better at downrigging?

Apparently so, if the proof is in comparison of catch per equal unit of effort. With an ego bruising several years of Downrigger 101 under my belt and a more humble, open-eyed view of the next stages of learning ahead, I offer a few basic suggestions.

First, realize that at any singular point in time, no two plugs are created equal. What might be hot at 10 a.m. can call out of favor by 11. Use what's working and abandon what isn't. Colors, style, size, sound—they all make a significant difference. This is an abrupt about face for a guy who jig-fished Lake of the Woods for years with nothing more than a plain old lead-head. The evidence is just too compelling for me to deny any longer that color is a moot point in 30 feet of murky water.

Start the day with as much diversity as you dare and narrow the field according to the catch. Keep a spare pole rigged with your next possibility and you'll be less reluctant to pull up and change.

Make note of the tiniest details. For instance, was the ball set at 31 or 31.5 feet on that last fish? Was the plug 20 feet behind or 25? There are actually a few guides out there who, after boating a fish, will meticulously search the monofilament for the indentation left by the release to insure that the lure will be in the identical "strike zone" position again.

Is the "strike zone" tight to the bottom or is it eight inches up? Do your "trips" come on the inside of a corner (slow down) or the outside of the turn (speed up)? Are more fish caught on the upwind or the downwind pass? Sometimes it's simply a matter of direction, other times it's a distinct speed traveling with or against a stiff breeze.

Always remember, walleyes are a schooling fish and they tend to school by size. If there's one nice one, there'll probably be more. Even in the anonymity of the expansive, Big Traverse mud flats, individual fish aren't scattered around, schools of them are. Learn to use that GPS you got for Christmas—it's as valuable a tool as your propeller.

Work the smallest of spots hard despite a seeming absence of any humanly definable structure. Like cramming college students into a Volkswagen, the number of walleyes that can fit into a square yard of lake bottom is truly amazing.

You can get better at downrigging as soon as you acknowledge there is more to know. It's that potential for improvement that makes it as challenging and entertaining as any other style of fishing. As longtime lake-rat Les Lemm once put it, "Those who dislike downrigging the most are those who understand it the least."

I'd say that's pretty sage counsel coming from a guy I've never seen dressed in anything remotely resembling a toga.

TRAP LEAGUE

Thief River Falls Trap League completed its 1999 regular season schedule Monday with shooting that filled out its post-season field and also produced a trophy-winning overall points champion.

Top five finishers in both the First and Second Half season standings shoot for the city title Aug. 23. But because four First Half qualifiers duplicated their efforts in the Second Half, the post-season line-up will actually feature just six teams. Bakke Insurance, Red Lake Falls Building Center, Narverud Cleaners, and the Eagles all had top five finishes in both standings. They will be joined in the final shoot by Northwest Grain, a First Half qualifier, and The Times, a Second Half qualifier.

In the overall points race, which combined the First and Second Half totals, Bakke Insurance (11-14) and Narverud Cleaners (14-11) both came up with 25 points. Red Lake Falls Building Center 24 (12-12) and the Eagles 22 (11-11).

Before the shoot-off for the team title, the annual Thief River Falls Trap League 50-target individual class championship shoot will take place Monday, Aug. 16.

Sports medicine team is expanded this year

■ Student trainer orientation planned

Sports medicine team at Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls has been expanded for the 1999-2000 school year, it was reported this week. New providers have been added in an attempt to expand the coverage for athletic teams at Lincoln High School and Northland Community and Technical College. A student athletic trainer educational program has been scheduled for the week of Aug. 23-27.

Anita Lizakowski, a certified athletic trainer, will again be supervising the training rooms and the student trainer programs at both schools. Her scheduled hours are from 1 to 3 p.m. at Northland and 3 to 5 p.m. at Lincoln.

Additions to the sports medicine staff this year are Naomi Laird, Deniece Hanson, Jodi Crockett, and Dr. Greg Houlihan.

Laird is an orthopedic physicians assistant working with Dr. Ray Allard. As a certified athletic trainer she will also be providing some training room and event coverage.

Hanson will be working predominately in the physical therapy department of Dakota Clinic. She has a degree in exercise physiology and will be available to assist in the rehabilitation of athletic injuries and the development of training programs.

Crockett will be joining the physical therapy department this fall after she completes her master's degree in physical therapy.

Houlihan, who recently joined the Dakota Clinic staff, will be assisting in both training room coverage and sideline covering during the sports season.

Other sports medicine team members include Allard, Dr. Mark Yuska, podiatry; Drs. Jim Langland and Chuck Winjum, primary care; and physical therapists Bonnie Davidson and Mike Crockett.

Appointments to see any of the sports medicine team members can be made by calling either the Dakota Clinic physical therapy

Hagan family competes in World Championship Horseshoe Tournament

Newfolden was well-represented at the recently-completed 1999 World Horseshoe Tournament in Greenville, OH. Jerald Hagen and daughters Alexandra, Cassandra and Stephanie of Newfolden all competed in the event, along with Paul Hagen of Cooperstown, ND, Jerald's father.

Jerald Hagen put together an 11-4 record during the competition and placed third in Class D-1. He threw 25 percent ringers.

Fourteen-year-old Stephanie Hagen had a second place finish in Class D Juniors with a 10.5-3.5 won-loss record and 22.68 percent ringers. She lost a 34-33 title-deciding tie-breaker to 15-year-old Garrett Gjesdal of Cooperstown, who was 11.5-2.5 and threw 27.14 percent ringers.

Alexandra Hagen finished sixth in Class E Juniors. The 11-year-old had a 7.5-5.5 record and threw 4.62 percent ringers.

Nine-year-old Cassandra Hagen was 2-11 and threw 2.31 percent ringers in Class E Juniors.

Paul Hagen, the girls' grandfather, competed in Class S-3.

Mackenzie, age 4, was also on hand in Ohio.

In an earlier tournament at Mayville, ND, Alexandra was first in Class C; Stephanie finished second in Class B; and Jerald placed third in his adult class.

Offense carries Legion team

A .361 team batting average kept Thief River Falls in most games during the recently-completed 1999 American Legion baseball season.

Numbers compiled by Post 117 coach Mike Wienen showed eight players carrying a .300 or better batting average, with five of them hitting above the .400 figure.

Wienen, who is the Thief River Falls assistant coach during the high school baseball season, was pleasantly surprised with the increased summer production after the Prowlers had struggled at the plate. "Our bats were cold this spring, and we didn't hit the ball that well at the start of the (Legion) season," he explained. "But we really improved at the plate during the summer."

Jeff Rislov led the Post 117 attack with a .506 batting average (44/87). Steve Wiseth, a VFW regular, hit .500 as a Legion fill-in (21/42), while Jarod Reierson batted .458 with a team-high 49 hits and 107 at-bats, Derek Berg hit .441 (45/102) and Andrew Solem had a .434 season (46/106).

That group was joined by .300 hitters like Brett Johnson, who finished with a .396 average, Josh Jensen .315 and Nick Wilcox .313.

Other Thief River Falls statistical leaders were Solem (12 home runs); Rislov (3 triples); Joey Pribula (12 doubles); Berg (46 runs scored); Rislov, Solem and Wilcox (19 walks each).

However, an impressive offense wasn't enough to produce a winning season as Thief River Falls finished 15-19 overall. "I was very happy with our offense, and our pitching was okay," noted Wienen, "but our defense had a little trouble at times."

Biggest disappoint, according to Wienen, was an 0-2 showing at the six-team, double-elimination Ninth District tournament. "I wish we could have had a better tournament," he said. "I still think we were capable of beating anybody there and winning the whole thing."

At times, Wienen found himself with a thin, if not nonexistent, bench that forced him to use 16-year-old VFW players to fill out a line-up in a program designed for players up to 18-years-old. "That's just something you have to deal with in summer baseball," mentioned Wienen. "The VFW program is going well. I think our numbers will be okay in the future."

Orientation for NCTC students set for Aug. 20

Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls will conduct an orientation day for all new incoming freshmen on Friday, August 20. The orientation is designed to assist new students in adjusting to college life.

Presentations are scheduled from Dr. Orley Gunderson, Northland president, Dennis Bendickson, Dean of Student Services, Carol Torgerson, Learning Center director, Carrie Cervenka, counselor, Kelsy Blowers, New Venture Center director, Gene Klinke, director of Minority Student Services, Rick Nelson, Activities director, Laura Landin, Student Senate President, Donna Quam, Financial Aid director, and Becky Holthusen, Human Resources director.

Don Howe, orientation day organizer, urges all new students to attend. "This brief session provides new students with valuable information on their rights and their responsibilities as a student at Northland," he said. "Each presenter will make a very short presentation and answer questions from those attending, and with the new construction taking place at Northland, we will be providing information on room changes, areas that are, or will be, closed off due to construction," he concluded.

Sen. Grams to conduct hearing on flood insurance

Sen. Rod Grams has announced that he is planning to conduct a field hearing on the National Flood Insurance program on Wednesday, August 25, at 2 p.m. in Youngquist Auditorium Research and Outreach Center on the campus of University of Minnesota at Crookston.

Grams stated in a recent letter that, "Floods have been, and continue to be, the most destructive natural hazard in terms of economic loss to the nation. Over the last 30 years, the federal government has assumed a major financial role in easing the impact of flood damage on individuals and communities and established the National Flood Insurance Program."

Grams continued stating, "during the 1997 floods, I heard some complaints about the program. For these reasons, I am conducting a field hearing on the National Flood Insurance Program."

Grams encourages all residents in the area and throughout the state that have been adversely affected by the floods to attend the hearing to learn more about how this flood insurance program works.

MN Chamber policy session held in TRF

What really happened at the Legislature this year? What does it mean for the year 2000?

While the ink isn't dry yet on bills passed by the Legislature this year, the Minnesota Chamber wants to know what you think should be the business priorities for the 2000 session of the Legislature.

The Thief River Falls Chamber and the Minnesota Chamber invite you to join us for a policy development meeting on Monday, August 30, at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls from noon to 1:30 p.m. Lunch will cost $7.

A recap of the 1999 Legislative session will be provided along with an examination of what the outcome means to local employers. More importantly, the Minnesota Chamber wants help and input as it begins building the business agenda for the year 2000. The next Legislative session will be particularly important with an election and re-districting around the corner — not to mention, significant policy issues for Minnesota companies.

Extension Service has toll-free crisis referral service

A new "Rural Response Line" to help families in crisis is up and running, says Bob Byrnes, educator with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

The new toll-free telephone number is 1-800-555-6466 and it's answered from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. "We encourage anyone with questions to call,' Byrnes says. 'The Rural Response line is an information and referral service, not a crisis line."

However, when needed, referrals will be made to crisis lines in Minnesota, Byrnes adds. The new service is an effort to help Minnesota families and rural communities deal with the state's social and economic crisis.

The information and referral line is a partnership effort between the University's Extension Service and its Rural Response partners: the Minnesota Association of Counties, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Bankers Association and the University's College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences.

In addition, a new website with hundreds of references to help rural families in crisis is now available. Access it by contacting any county office of the University of Minnesota Extension Service, or by entering www.extension.umn.edu, then clicking on Rural Response.

Ninth intern now serving Goodridge Lutheran parish problem of the protestant and Catholic churches across the country. Young people are simply not currently seeking the ministry or priesthood as a vocation.

A February e-mail message that Reverend Dahlen received from Bishop Bob Isaksen spells out the problems currently being experienced by the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA).

The message reads, "Bishops representing the nine regions of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America came to the Lutheran Center in Chicago February 22-23 requesting a total of 455 ordained ministry candidates to fill vacant pulpits. Only 216, or 47 percent, of the requested number were available in the annual winter consultation when the majority of seminarians receive their assignment to a region and synod."

Reverend Michael Cooper-White, who as director of the Department of Synodical Relations conducts the assignment process, is quoted in the message as saying, "This is the lowest availability in the history of the ELCA. Over the past five years . . . we've gone from 97 percent in 1994 to 68 percent in 1997 and now 47 percent in 1999. . ."

Cooper-White goes on to say, "I'm convinced that at the very least we're in the midst of a serious deployment crisis. Some areas, especially those where seminaries are located, have an abundance of candidates; in others, congregations will wait a long time and perhaps never again call their own pastor. The church is being forced to explore creative leadership patterns such as . . ."

Reverend Dahlen points out another startling statistic when he says that well over half of ELCA congregations are rural, and up until the mid-1980's these rural congregations provided over half of the clergymen. Today, only 20 to 25 percent of seminarians are from rural congregations.

Dahlen has served the Goodridge parish of Faith Lutheran, Ekelund Lutheran and Bethany Lutheran churches for the past 13 years and is appreciated by the members of his congregations for his folksy warmth and sense of humor.

He says that rural congregations have become lax in "dutifully and prayerfully" encouraging their sons and daughters to seek ministerial vocations. Parents are no longer encouraging their children to stay in rural areas. "There seems to be a 'get out of Dodge' mentality out there," he says.

While Reverend Dahlen appreciates the on-going rural crisis, he also cites that the overall economy is healthy, and the nation is, for the most part, at peace. "Entrance into the ministry tends to be a crisis driven vocational choice," he says.

However, instead of sitting back and letting this crisis simply happen, the Goodridge parish, under the ministerial leadership of Reverend Dahlen, is doing something positive to bring ministers to the rural churches of America.

For the past nine years, the parish has participated in the Horizons intern program of the ELCA. The purpose of the program is to train seminary students in specialized ministries. These are defined as ministries in cross cultural churches where a language other than English is spoken or membership is ethnically diverse, inner city churches or, as in the case of northwestern Minnesota and other rural areas, what have been identified as "remote" rural churches.

Horizons is nationwide program based at ELCA offices in Chicago. Seminary students and churches alike apply to the program with accepted students placed in churches which meet the program's criteria.

Up until this year, the interns who have been sent to Goodridge have come from Luther seminary in St. Paul, Trinity seminary in Columbus, OH and Gettysburg seminary in Gettysburg, PA.

This year's intern is unique in the fact that she is the first seminarian to come to the Goodridge parish from Southern Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbia, SC.

Originally from Pensacola, FL, Maria Lopez came to Goodridge on July 27 and will remain until July 12, 2000 "unless she flunks," Reverend Dahlen jests. "Forty-six weeks to go," Maria retorts.

Educational requirements for the ministry include four years of college and four years of seminary.

Maria realized at 16 that she wanted a ministerial career but didn't realize that she would ever be candidate for ordination. A deaconess program attracted her to Valparaiso University in northwestern Indiana.

Following her graduation, she worked as a social worker for seven years and while in North Carolina served as a church deaconess, preaching, heading up the church's Christian education department and coordinating a Big Brother/Big Sister program.

It was the South Carolina congregation that encouraged Maria to seek ordination, teasing her that were she ordained, she would be able to write her sermons during office hours.

A seminarian spends the last year of his or her education serving as an intern. Realizing that once her education was complete she would most likely be called to serve a rural congregation, Maria applied to the Horizons program for placement, and her acceptance brought her to the Goodridge parish.

With the exception of having spent three weeks last summer on an Indian reservation on the South Dakota/Nebraska border, Maria has never been this far north. "She'd never been on a gravel road," Reverend Dahlen laughs. "And I didn't know what to think of those 'Minimum Maintenance' signs," Maria says. They both chuckled as they recalled a day when Maria was driving down a minimum maintenance road and was startled by the three sandhill cranes that flew out of the road ditch and into her path.

While Maria will have much to adjust to with regard to Minnesota's wildlife and weather, she has had no problem adapting to its people. "Everyone has been so nice," she says.

As an intern, Maria performs all of the duties of a pastor, and Bob Dahlen can certainly use her help. When the other area churches lost their ministers last fall, he took on the Holt parish of Nazareth Lutheran Church in Holt and Silverton Lutheran Church in rural Thief River Falls.

With about 700 parishioners making up the Goodridge parish and approximately another 425 in the Holt parish, Bob and Maria are serving over 1,100 people in the five locations. They are assisted by parish secretaries. Margie Iverson has been the secretary for the Goodridge parish for about 25 years, and Patty Wagner is the long-time Holt parish secretary.

Bob and Maria divide up the five services every Sunday, leaving each church during the last hymn so that they can make it to the next church on time.

Maria is living in the parsonage in Holt and will remain there during her stay unless a pastor is called. In addition to housing, she receives a stipend for her services.

In previous years, the Goodridge parish has provided scholarships for its interns. "Maybe if you're good . . ." Bob teases Maria. Contrary to what some believe, seminarians are responsible for their own educations with tuition at seminaries being similar to that of a college.

Reverend Dahlen has a great appreciation for the "remote" rural parishes he serves, citing the health of the congregations, sense of community and above average church attendance as some of the "neat" things that are going on. "Besides, it's nice to be in front and close to the back door at the same time," he jests when talking about smaller churches.

Bob will pass his enthusiasm for rural congregations on to Maria as he has the eight interns who have served the Goodridge parish in previous years.

He notes the success of the Horizons program. Seven of the former interns who served the Goodridge parish accepted calls and have served rural parishes in Maine, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and North Carolina. Six continue to serve rural congregations, and another is currently serving as the campus pastor at Oak Grove Lutheran High School in Fargo.

More than likely, Maria too will be called to serve a remote rural parish, and her job will have been made easier by her participation in the Horizons intern program. Her experiences in the Goodridge parish will prepare her for the isolation of the rural setting while dealing with the pressures of a new ministry.

Regardless of where she eventually is called to serve, whether it be suburbia or the inner city or a remote rural community, Bob and Maria agreed that there is at least one thing that the people of all churches have in common. "They have the same ten commandments and the same problems in obeying them," Maria says. Amen.

Counties recieve DNR payments in lieu of taxes

Payments also include a portion of funds derived from the sale of state timber, plus agricultural, mineral and miscellaneous leases. This is the 20th year that counties have received in lieu of tax payments from the state.

The dollar distribution to each county is based on the total acreage of state and county administered land in each county.

By law, Strauch said, counties are required to deposit 40 percent of the funds received into the county general revenue fund. Another portion must be deposited into a county resource-development fund for use in forest management, fish and wildlife habitat improvement, recreational development and maintenance of county-administered natural resource lands.

However, counties receiving less than $5,000 annually for resource development may elect to deposit those funds into their general revenue accounts. Organized townships also receive a portion of the payment for road and bridge projects.

A list of fiscal year 1998 disbursements paid in 1999 follows. Con-Con payments are not included in the "Payments Others" column this year as they were in previous years.

Farm price crisis meet features Sen. Wellstone taxes, health care and education, the family farmer's voice is not being heard. There is a crisis in the countryside but Washington will not pay attention."

Wellstone called on farmers and people in rural communities to organize and mount a grassroots effort to get the attention of policymakers and make the voice of rural America heard in Washington.

"It is going to take this kind of broad-based, nonpartisan grassroots organizing around the country to make those voices heard," the senator said.

"The first thing we need to do is get more emergency assistance out to farmers so they can farm another day...While this funding is desperately needed, any farmer will tell you that he or she would rather not rely on handouts. The questions farmers ask me are, 'What about the future? What will happen two or three years from now?' For the long run, we need to move beyond emergency aid and find ways to shore up the family farm system before it becomes extinct."

Wellstone says the long-term solution to the farm crisis starts with price, but the crisis goes deeper than price.

"Our farm economy today is driven by big corporate agri-business interests that are squeezing out family farmers," he said. "The economic power amassed by agri-business giants translates to undue political power over policies which affect family farmers. They have come to dominate the markets as well as food and agricultural policy.

"The fight for economic power in the countryside is an old story," the senator continued, "but in 1996, with 'Freedom to Fail,' corporate agri-business really did win. And farmers, small town businesses, farm lenders and rural communities are threatened because of it. We need to change the current structure of agriculture and more vigorously enforce antitrust laws."

Wellstone also called for a strong mandatory price reporting law to provide a "fair and transparent" market for farmers, and stressed the need to broaden the national awareness of these issues and engage the nation in the struggle faced by rural communities.

"We need to sustain our system of family farm agriculture, not only for rural communities, but for the sake of our entire economy and for the sake of a safe and secure food system for all Americans," he said.

Community band practices Aug. 23 with new director

Linda Samuelson, who will succeed Les Torgerson as music instructor at Northland Community and Technical College this fall, plans to meet members of the Northland Community Band Monday, August 23, at the 7 to 9 p.m. rehearsal.

Mrs. Samuelson called The Thief River Falls Times from her present residence in Deer Lodge, MT, on Monday to request an announcement of the band's first rehearsal this season. She said she will be at NCTC beginning August 18 for band members who might want to contact her.

Samuelson has a Bachelor of Music Education degree from Lawrence University in Appleton, WI, and a Master of Music degree with an emphasis in saxophone performance from Baylor University in Waco, TX. She and her husband Robert have a 27-month-old son, Alan.

Les Torgerson retired from the music program at Northland last spring following a lengthy career in the community.

Isaac Kelinoski, 10, Thief River Falls, was among the 100 or so children participating in the MinnAque fishing clinic in Thief River Falls on Tuesday at Chief Red Robe park. The free Minnesota Department of Natural Resources program was open to children ages 8 to 14.

"People see her as an excellent teacher, willing to go the extra mile in preparation and delivery and able to adapt to various audiences and conditions creatively."

How is farming different from other small business?

Why does the government subsidize farmers but allow small printers, grocers or construction companies to go out of business?

That question was posed at a recent Citizens' Forum on the current economic and social crisis in Minnesota agriculture and originating from Farmfest.

"Food is a vital commodity and we don't want to be held (price) hostage by a few integrated companies controlling the food supply," responded panelist Erlin Weness, farm management educator with the University of Minnesota extension service.

"The answer may have more to do with our vision of rural America than with economics," suggested panelist Will Anthony, an economist and farm operator from Nicollet county. "Many of us like to see the countryside dotted with small farms, dairy cows and a few pigs.

"I am one who likes to see many small farms," Anthony added, "but past government policies to support small farms have not been successful. Probably the only policy that will work is to pass a law saying a farm can only be so large. But size can't always be measured by the number of acres". Large, intensive livestock operations may require little land, he said.

The session was broadcast statewide by Minnesota Public Radio and the University of Minnesota extension service coordinated downlinking to sites throughout Minnesota. People who came to the downlink sites could call questions in to the panelists.

But small printers don't have to contend with the international trade embargoes that have been imposed on agriculture, said another caller.

"That's a very good point," Anthony said. "We've had a misguided trade policy in agriculture that's been largely directed by the State Department.

"Food has been used as a weapon, which is very unfortunate for farmers," Anthony added. As a recent example, the Chinese premier wanted to negotiate agricultural trade "but we sent him away empty handed."

The forum was the third of four sessions. The fourth and final session entitled "Creating a Vision for the Future of Minnesota Agriculture" will be conducted August 30 at the Minnesota State Fair.

Lakehead Pipe Line employees struggle against a rain swollen Clearwater river to deploy a boom. The deployment of a boom was part of an emergency training exercise conducted by Lakehead Pipe Line on Tuesday, August 17, near Plummer. About 25 employees of Lakehead Pipe Line participated in the event.

Lakehead Pipe Line holds training exercise Tuesday

Lakehead Pipe Line conducted a training exercise Tuesday, August 17, near Plummer. The exercise simulated a spill of crude oil into the Clearwater River, and participation of 25 employees in training on how to handle the spill.

John Hayes, district manager for Lakehead Pipe Line, emphasized that it was not a timed response, but a training exercise. Hayes said Lakehead Pipe Line employees regularly participate in training exercises — about two times a year in each district.

During the training exercise, the employees learn about responsibilities for different duties, and actually went through the motions as if responding to a real emergency.

Each of Lakehead Pipe Line's districts are equipped with emergency response equipment, necessary in stopping and cleaning up any spills. In this exercise, employees mobilized three trailers equipped with tools and equipment needed to stop spills and begin the clean-up process.

In the emergency exercise Tuesday, the employees had to deploy an oil-capturing boom across the Clearwater river. Swollen with rain water, deploying the boom in the river proved to be a difficult challenge. In this incident, instead of capturing spilled crude oil, the boom captured hoola hoops. Hayes said they have used many different things to simulate a hazardous material floating down the river, including popcorn.

Other agencies, including the Red Lake County Sheriff's department and a representative of the Minnesota Division of Emergency Management, observed the activities.

Protecting the environment and safety are two of Lakehead Pipe Lines' most important priorities, said Larry DeBriyn, vice president of Lakehead Pipe Line. DeBriyn was also on hand to observe the training exercise.

DeBriyn worked in the Bemidji district (Thief River Falls) in 1989 and 1990 then transferred to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Now DeBriyn is a vice president and is located in Duluth.

Following the exercise, a meeting was held to discuss the exercise. The meeting allows employees and observers an opportunity to provide input on how to improve training in the future.

Old Mill State Park plans Grinding Day August 29

One phase of the area's historic past will be demonstrated Sunday, August 29, when the 1999 Grinding Day is held at Old Mill State Park west of Newfolden. The old grist mill at the park will be in operation for three hours that afternoon and a number of other activities also are planned.

Members of the Marshall County Historical Society and Friends of Old Mill State Park will again provide the volunteer labor necessary to operate the mill. Power to turn the mill stones is provided by Case steam engine No. 359 built in 1896 and restored by local volunteers in 1958.

Grinding of grain into bran, middling and flour will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. and the public is invited to watch the milling operation. Fresh ground flour and bran may be purchased at the site from members of the county historical society.

The park is located 13 miles east of Argyle on County Road 4, 12 miles west of Newfolden on County Roads 28 and 4, or 17 miles northeast of Warren on County Road 3.

Other special events planned for August 29 include the following:

- Prairie ridge walk will take place at 11 a.m. to look for colors of wild prairie grasses and wildflowers and listen to sounds of the wind. Those taking the walk are to meet in or near the beach house or the parking lot just above it.
- Public artwork dedication is scheduled for 12 noon at the park entrance. The artwork was provided by artist Jeff Kreitz with a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission through funds appropriated to the Minnesota State Arts Board by the Minnesota State Legislature.
- Cattail crafts will be an activity for children at 2 p.m. Participants will meet at the mill site, learn about this common wetland plant and make a cattail person to take home.
- Viking Volcanoes 4-H club will sell homemade bars, popcorn, pop, lemonade, ice cream treats and fresh fry bread to raise money for their community pride project.
- A "pioneer visitor from the past" will make an appearance at the event and horse-drawn wagon rides will be available.

Visitors to Old Mill State Park have a variety of outdoor recreation facilities at their disposal. There is a shady picnic area, picnic shelter, swimming beach, horseshoe and volleyball court and an open area for ball games and other sports.

The park's campground has 26 shady sites, 10 of which offer electrical hook-ups, and a building with shower facilities and flush toilets.

According to park manager Mary Broten, the campground at Old Mill State Park and 19 other smaller state parks in Minnesota will close from Labor Day weekend this year until Memorial Day weekend next year due to funding shortfalls.

A vehicle permit is required to enter Minnesota state parks. A daily permit is $4 and an annual permit is $20. Either may be purchased at the park office. Persons who have questions about the park or its programs and services may call the park at 218-437-8174 or write to Mary Broten, Park Manager, Old Mill State Park, Route 1, Box 43, Argyle, MN 56713.

Visitors will have a chance to relive history in the encampment area at Old Crossing and Treaty Park during next weekend's 1999 AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival. Encampment activities will begin with a bonfire at 9 p.m. on Friday, August 27.

AFRAN Chautauqua offered Aug. 26-29

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Regardless of the season, the life of Virgil Benoit of rural Red Lake Falls is all about culture. Benoit is among the members of the board of directors of the Association of the French of the North (AFRAN) who have been preparing for this year's AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival at Old Crossing and Treaty Park on August 26-29.

Throughout the school year, Virgil spends his days teaching French and French Canadian culture at the University of North Dakota. Recently, he has been overseeing the construction of Pierre's Bakery, a teaching bakery that opened yesterday (Friday, August 20) in Red Lake Falls and an endeavor that he hopes will eventually lead to a French cultural center.

As the finishing touches were put on the bakery on Thursday, Virgil took a few minutes to share some of the highlights of what visitors can expect at the 1999 annual AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival.

This year's event has been selected as a Local Legacy by the Library of Congress. Deemed a "traditional activity, event or area of creativity that merits being documented for further generations," the event will be documented through photography, video and souvenirs for the purpose of creating an exhibit entitled "The Legacy of Old Crossing, Huot, Minnesota" at the Library of Congress in May 2000.

While most of us will never see the exhibit at the Library of Congress, we can take in the event at the historic Red Lake county park. The souvenir button that admits one to all of the 1999 festival

Long-time Baudette physician dies

Baudette - As Baudette's physician from 1932 until his retirement in 1978, Dr. Adlai Alvin Brink brought area care from the horse and buggy era to modern medicine.

At the age of 92, Dr. Brink died Saturday, August 14, at the LakeWood Health Center.

After looking at possibilities in Roseau and Warroad, Dr. Brink set up what would be his first and last practice in Baudette in 1932. For several years, he served as the area's only doctor, and his wife recalls that during those years he only got a few hours of sleep each night. In addition to his medical practice, he was also active in numerous civic affairs. The Baudette Region

Lakehead Pipe Line conducted a training exercise Tuesday, August 17, near Plummer. The exercise simulated a spill of crude oil into the Clearwater River, and participation of 25 employees in training on how to handle the spill.

John Hayes, district manager for Lakehead Pipe Line, emphasized that it was not a timed response, but a training exercise. Hayes said Lakehead Pipe Line employees regularly participate in training exercises — about two times a year in each district.

During the training exercise, the employees learn about responsibilities for different duties, and actually went through the motions as if responding to a real emergency.

Each of Lakehead Pipe Line's districts are equipped with emergency response equipment, necessary in stopping and cleaning up any spills. In this exercise, employees mobilized three trailers equipped with tools and equipment needed to stop spills and begin the clean-up process.

In the emergency exercise Tuesday, the employees had to deploy an oil-capturing boom across the Clearwater river. Swollen with rain water, deploying the boom in the river proved to be a difficult challenge. In this incident, instead of capturing spilled crude oil, the boom captured hoola hoops. Hayes said they have used many different things to simulate a hazardous material floating down the river, including popcorn.

Other agencies, including the Red Lake County Sheriff's department and a representative of the Minnesota Division of Emergency Management, observed the activities.

Protecting the environment and safety are two of Lakehead Pipe Lines' most important priorities, said Larry DeBriyn, vice president of Lakehead Pipe Line. DeBriyn was also on hand to observe the training exercise.

DeBriyn worked in the Bemidji district (Thief River Falls) in 1989 and 1990 then transferred to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Now DeBriyn is a vice president and is located in Duluth.

Following the exercise, a meeting was held to discuss the exercise. The meeting allows employees and observers an opportunity to provide input on how to improve training in the future.

Old Mill State Park plans Grinding Day August 29

One phase of the area's historic past will be demonstrated Sunday, August 29, when the 1999 Grinding Day is held at Old Mill State Park west of Newfolden. The old grist mill at the park will be in operation for three hours that afternoon and a number of other activities also are planned.

Members of the Marshall County Historical Society and Friends of Old Mill State Park will again provide the volunteer labor necessary to operate the mill. Power to turn the mill stones is provided by Case steam engine No. 359 built in 1896 and restored by local volunteers in 1958.

Grinding of grain into bran, middling and flour will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. and the public is invited to watch the milling operation. Fresh ground flour and bran may be purchased at the site from members of the county historical society.

The park is located 13 miles east of Argyle on County Road 4, 12 miles west of Newfolden on County Roads 28 and 4, or 17 miles northeast of Warren on County Road 3.

Other special events planned for August 29 include the following:

- Prairie ridge walk will take place at 11 a.m. to look for colors of wild prairie grasses and wildflowers and listen to sounds of the wind. Those taking the walk are to meet in or near the beach house or the parking lot just above it.
- Public artwork dedication is scheduled for 12 noon at the park entrance. The artwork was provided by artist Jeff Krenz with a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission through funds appropriated to the Minnesota State Arts Board by the Minnesota State Legislature.
- Cattail crafts will be an activity for children at 2 p.m. Participants will meet at the mill site, learn about this common wetland plant and make a cattail person to take home.
- Viking Vulcanoes 4-H club will sell homemade bars, popcorn, pop, lemonade, ice cream treats and fresh fry bread to raise money for their community pride project.
- A "pioneer visitor from the past" will make an appearance at the event and horse-drawn wagon rides will be available.

Visitors to Old Mill State Park have a variety of outdoor recreation facilities at their disposal. There is a shady picnic area, picnic shelter, swimming beach, horseshoe and volleyball court and an open area for ball games and other sports.

The park's campground has 26 shady sites, 10 of which offer electrical hook-ups, and a building with shower facilities and flush toilets.

According to park manager Mary Broten, the campground at Old Mill State Park and 19 other smaller state parks in Minnesota will close from Labor Day weekend this year until Memorial Day weekend next year due to funding shortfalls.

A vehicle permit is required to enter Minnesota state parks. A daily permit is $4 and an annual permit is $20. Either may be purchased at the park office. Persons who have questions about the park or its programs and services may call the park at 218-437-8174 or write to Mary Broten, Park Manager, Old Mill State Park, Route 1, Box 43, Argyle, MN 56713.

Visitors will have a chance to relive history in the encampment area at Old Crossing and Treaty Park during next weekend's 1999 AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival. Encampment activities will begin with a bonfire at 9 p.m. on Friday, August 27.

AFRAN Chautauqua offered Aug. 26-29

by Kathl Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Regardless of the season, the life of Virgil Benoit of rural Red Lake Falls is all about culture. Benoit is among the members of the board of directors of the Association of the French of the North (AFRAN) who have been preparing for this year's AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival at Old Crossing and Treaty Park on August 26-29.

Throughout the school year, Virgil spends his days teaching French and French Canadian culture at the University of North Dakota. Recently, he has been overseeing the construction of Pierre's Bakery, a teaching bakery that opened yesterday (Friday, August 20) in Red Lake Falls and an endeavor that he hopes will eventually lead to a French cultural center.

As the finishing touches were put on the bakery on Thursday, Virgil took a few minutes to share some of the highlights of what visitors can expect at the 1999 annual AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival.

This year's event has been selected as a Local Legacy by the Library of Congress. Deemed a "traditional activity, event or area of creativity that merits being documented for further generations," the event will be documented through photography, video and souvenirs for the purpose of creating an exhibit entitled "The Legacy of Old Crossing, Huot, Minnesota" at the Library of Congress in May 2000.

While most of us will never see the exhibit at the Library of Congress, we can take in the event at the historic Red Lake county park. The souvenir button that admits one to all of the 1999 festival

OUR SAVIOUR'S CHRISTIAN ACADEMY

"Train up a child in the way he should go..."
Proverbs 22:6

HISTORY

OUR SAVIOUR'S CHRISTIAN ACADEMY (OSCA) has been in existence for over 25 years. Pastor Carl Wosje (a former area pastor) donated land for a Christian school in 1973; the school began with the name King's Way Academy. In 1979, Our Saviour's Lutheran Church became the school's sponsor, and its name was changed to Our Saviour's Christian Academy. NOTE: The school's association with Our Saviour's Lutheran Church will be changing in the near future, so watch for a name change!

Our Saviour's Christian Academy is located on Highway 59 Southeast, just outside the Thief River Falls city limits. Two additions have been added to the original building since the school began.

PHILOSOPHY

The philosophy of education of Our Saviour's Christian Academy is founded upon the principles of Scripture because we desire that our explanation of the reason of all things be true. This philosophy gives direction as to why we teach, what we teach, and how we teach; thus, our curriculum and methodology are distinctively Christian.

This Christian philosophy affirms that each subject will be taught from the Biblical principles of that subject because the Word of God is the only source of absolute truth, wisdom, and knowledge. One of our educational objectives is that students learn to reason from the Bible in all aspects of life.

SPIRITUAL EMPHASIS

Our Saviour's Christian Academy is a CHRISTIAN school which means that Jesus Christ is uplifted and honored in every aspect of school life. Students are given a strong foundation in the Scriptures. They both memorize and learn to reason from the very Word of God.

Our Saviour's Christian Academy is an extension of the Christian home. Students are taught Christian living through Bible-based curriculum. They are challenged to be Light and Salt in their homes, churches and communities.

Is OUR SAVIOUR'S CHRISTIAN ACADEMY For You?

God tells the Israelites in Deuteronomy 6:4-9 to teach His Word diligently to their children—from morning to evening. Our Saviour's Christian Academy's purpose is to assist the home and church in building a solid Christian foundation in the life of each student—from morning to evening! It is our goal to produce true Christian scholars who will be used of God to propagate the Gospel to the whole world and restore our American Christian Republic to its historic, Biblical foundation.

If this sounds like a ministry you would be interested in, give us a call at (218) 681-7753.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS DON'T JUST HANG ON OSCA'S WALLS, THEY ARE HONORED AND TAUGHT—DILIGENTLY!

ACADEMICS

Academic successes at Our Saviour's Christian Academy are numerous. Students consistently score above the national average on standardized achievement tests. Graduating seniors have done well in college and vocational settings.

The curriculum used is a modified School of Tomorrow curriculum. Most students compete the core subjects individually, advancing only when they have mastered the subjects/materials. High school students do many of their subjects through lecture classes. All pupils are held accountable to high academic standards.

Our Saviour's Christian Academy is an accredited school from pre-kindergarten through twelfth grade. The accrediting agency is The Association of Christian Schools International (ASCI).

Small classes and qualified, caring staff provide a unique atmosphere for learning.

Pre-kindergarten classes for 3- and 4-year-olds are included for those parents who desire a Christian influence in the very early, formative years.

SOCIAL/SPORTS

Although students at Our Saviour's Christian Academy are expected to work hard, they find time to relax and have fun together. Christian friendships are created that last for many years beyond graduation.

Our Saviour's Christian Academy offers soccer, boys' and girls' basketball, and girls' volleyball. Other extracurricular activities are also available.

Dates for fall CRP seeding are extended

Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Pennington county has announced that the deadline for fall seeding on Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acreage has been extended.

Mike Ratzlaff of the county NRCS office said that normal seeding dates for introduced grasses and legumes are August 1-20. Due to excessive moisture this year, the deadline has been extended to September 1.

"This extension applies to introduced grasses and legumes only," Ratzlaff emphasized. "CRP contracts that involve native grass plantings cannot be planted during the fall seeding period."

Landowners planning fall seeding on their CRP acres should contact the local NRCS office for more information.

Information distributed at Challenger

Important information will be distributed to parents at the Challenger open house on Wednesday, August 25, from 5 to 7 p.m. The information needs to be filled out and returned to the child's teacher the first week of school.

All parents and students are encouraged to attend the open house and meet their teacher and visit their classroom.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@spacestar.net

Since it is cool like fall when I am writing these recipes, I had to find some fall treats for you to bake. If it is hot again by the time the Watch comes out, save them – it won't be long before fall is really upon us!

I bought a calendar with recipes on it this year and I couldn't resist this one with the chocolate. I made it and it is delicious, so I wanted to share with you. The crust isn't hard and dry at all – it's light and rich. The recipe calls for a 15x10 inch pan and you can use that size, but I think it would be better in the smaller pan:

FRENCH CARAMEL PECAN BARS

3/4 cup butter, melted
1 regular sized package French vanilla cake mix
1 egg
2 1/2 cups quick cooking oats
1 can caramel pecan or coconut pecan frosting mix (ready made)
1 (12 ounce) package chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped pecans

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 9x13 inch cake pan.

Melt butter in large bowl. Reserve 3 tablespoons cake mix and add remaining mix to butter. Blend well. Add egg, blending well, then stir in oats. Press 2/3 of the mixture in prepared pan, reserving other 1/3 for topping.

Microwave frosting in microsafe bowl on high for 1 minute. Add reserved cake mix and mix until large lumps disappear. Drizzle half of frosting mixture over cake, then sprinkle with chocolate chips and pecans. Drizzle remaining frosting over. Crumble reserved topping over frosting.

Bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until top is golden and edges are bubbly. Cool completely before cutting into bars.

It is time for apples, and here is another apple crisp recipe that sounds perfect for a cool fall day – you can't have too many apple crisp recipes anyway:

APPLE CRISP

4 cups peeled and sliced apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/3 cup flour
1 cup oats
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup melted butter

Place apples in baking dish. Sprinkle with lemon juice.

Combine dry ingredients and melted butter, mixing until crumbly. Sprinkle crumbs over apples.

Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until apples are tender.

This sounds like a very solid, moist cake, filled with good apples and nuts – frost with white frosting or wouldn't cream cheese frosting be good:

APPLE NUT CAKE

1 3/4 cups sugar
1 cup oil
3 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
3/4 cup chopped nuts
4 or 5 apples, chopped

Mix in order given. Place in 9x13 inch greased and floured pan. Bake at 350 degrees for about 40 minutes.

Someone wanted a recipe for pickled peppers last year and here is a recipe I found – haven't tried them, but they sound good:

PICKLED PEPPERS

4 quarts long red, green or yellow peppers
1 1/2 cups salt
4 quarts water
2 cloves garlic
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
10 cups (4 to 6 percent acidity) vinegar
2 cups water
1/4 cup sugar

Cut two small slits in each pepper.

Dissolve salt in 4 quarts water. Pour over peppers and let stand 12-18 hours in cool place.

When ready to can, drain peppers, rinse and drain again.

Combine remaining ingredients and simmer 15 minutes. Remove garlic.

Pack peppers in prepared hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space.

Bring remaining ingredients to boil and pour over peppers, leaving 1/4 inch at top. Adjust caps.

Process half pints and pints 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Makes about 8 pints.

Fall apples can make a delicious, tasty bread for snacking:

APPLE BREAD WITH TOPPING

3/4 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
3 tablespoons sour milk
3 cups flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups chopped apples
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons brown sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time.

Add soda dissolved in sour milk and mix well. Add flour, salt and vanilla. Mix in apples.

Pour into 2 greased and floured loaf pans.

Combine last 4 ingredients and spread evenly over batter in pans. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour or until it tests done.

Speaking of breads, you can't have too many banana bread recipes either, so here is another you might like to try:

BANANA BREAD

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
Scant 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 or 4 small bananas, mashed
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift flour, soda and salt.

Cream butter and add sugar, eggs and vanilla, stirring until thoroughly mixed.

Stir in mashed bananas, then fold in dry ingredients and nuts.

Bake in well greased loaf pan or 8 inch square cake pan at 350 degrees for about 1 hour or until tests done.

Foreign citizen sentenced on felony conviction

Floriberto Estrada-Behana, also known as Heriberto Estroda-Behana, was sentenced before United States District Court Chief Judge Rodney S. Webb on a charge of re-entry of a deported alien after conviction for an aggravated felony.

Estroda-Behana, 46, pleaded guilty in May 1999 to being in the United States in April of 1999 after being deported to his native Mexico on February 12, 1999. Estrada-Behana had previously been convicted for possession of cocaine base for sale on January 11, 1997, in Los Angeles, CA.

Chief Judge Webb sentenced Estroda-Behana to 70 months imprisonment to be followed by two years of supervised release. Estrada-Behana was ordered to pay a $100 special assessment to the Crime Victim's Fund.

The case was investigated by the United States Border Patrol and the Thief River Falls Police Department.

Assistant United States Attorney Lynn Jordheim prosecuted the case.

Question: What's dark black, has two webbed feet and flies?

Answer: A cormorant that's been dead for about 24 hours.

Grisly humor to say the least. It's certainly humor that I didn't understand nor appreciate when I first showed up on the scene a few years back. My urban upbringing forced me to view the long, graceful, seemingly endless lines of birds encountered on lake travels in a more Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom fashion than in a "plague on humanity" way.

The huge flocks of glistening, diving "crowducks" that boiled the lake waters in a food-searching frenzy were chunks of nature that I could see, smell and hear. This wasn't some subtle, fleeting encounter with a shoreline whitetail, this was the out-of-doors up close and personal!

Who cares if they took a fish or two out of my creel potential? They were as big a part of the outdoor experience as was the shore lunch. The tales I'd heard of their impact on the fishery were, I reasoned, simply exaggerated accounts offered by non-objective, fish hungry locals who let emotion cloud reality.

And then some well-intentioned friend sticks a copy of the September Sports Afield in my hand and the next thing you know another of my self-righteous, somewhat uninformed, East Coast notions is shoved rudely into a pile of bird guano.

I will not try to re-hash the article (Who Killed the Cormorants? by Scott Wallace) but merely recommend it as an eye-opening piece for anyone who has an opinion on the cormorant situation. It's a well-written, objective commentary on a 1998 incident in upstate New York. The specifics pertaining to game fish populations, bird numbers and habits, local attitudes and the Federal view of all three are eerily similar to our present situation on Lake of the Woods.

I do think some mistakes were made and some injustices done, but who's really interested in my views? It will suffice for me to offer a quote and some directed encouragement for you to dig out the calculator after you've read the article in its entirety:

"The New York Department of Environmental Conservation's (Minnesota's DNR equivalent) study on the eating habits of Little Galoo's cormorants continued unabated through the summer of 1998. Its findings, released late last year, provided exhaustive evidence supporting the anglers' common-sense claims. The scientists determined the island's 16,000-plus cormorants consumed a staggering 87.5 million fish in 1998, including 1.3 million smallmouth bass.

"In contrast, anglers reeled in a mere 36,000 mature bass, less than 20 percent of the season's take 20 years ago. Though the smallmouth accounted for a seemingly miniscule 1.5% of the cormorants' diet, the study showed the birds were gobbling up the strong 1995 year class—4 to 8-inch fish just reaching sexual maturity—the species linchpin to future survival." (Sports Afield, September 1999)

Remember, these numbers aren't the adrenaline-filled guesstimates of a wild-eyed local hooligan, but the unmotivated offerings of a conservative New York bureaucratic agency. Taken in that context, the use of the word "staggering" carries a degree of understatement with it. If we dare generalize these numbers to a Lake of the Woods portrait, there seems reason for concern. You do the math at home; I'll do my best Socratic impersonation here.

How many cormorants are actually on this lake—10,000? 50,000? 100,000? I've seen single flocks of well over 1,000. How many is too many? Apparently their numbers are exponentially stronger than ever before in history and it's possible that they're not even indigenous to this area.

Are they content with tullibees or does their diet extend to such delicacies as walleye, and if so, how big? Reports of cormorants bringing pound-and-a-half walleyes to the surface are common. Are sauger, because of their relative size, more prone to cormorant predation? The plight of the sauger seems inversely proportional to the resurgence of the birds.

Is the Little Traverse Bay, with its shallower water and barren, exposed rookery rocks, more apt to suffer from the recent deluge of crowducks? The area appropriately labeled "Crowducks" on the map rarely yields small fish any more. How much, in the way of fish take, are the blossoming populations of gulls and pelicans benefiting from the increased cormorant numbers? These birds have established a parasitic relationship with the cormorants, routinely stealing what is brought to the surface.

So many cormorants, so few answers. What, then, do we do with these newfound concerns about our growing bird population. The shooting of adult birds to exercise a numbers control, as advocated by the New York Department of Environmental Conservation, seems a bit out of our "Minnesota Nice" character. The oiling of eggs—the method sanctioned by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is a politically generated procrastination, offering relief a distant 15 to 20 years down the road.

Is there an "over-bird" problem at all?

I still point excitedly to large flocks of the birds and encourage guests to break out cameras for an impressive nature shot. My youthful days in the city can't help but leave me overwhelmed by such large numbers of wildlife.

However, I find myself wondering recently, if I shouldn't spend more time practicing my excited pointing at the birds and less time honing my walleye catching abilities. I'd hate to enter the new millennium with a bygone, unmarketable skill.

How To Return Your Tax Rebate To The State

One of the relatively little publicized aspects of the $1.3 billion "sales tax rebate" which is reimbursing an estimated three million Minnesotans for overpayment of taxes is how to return the money to the State of Minnesota. That's right ....how to rebate the rebate.

No, ludicrous as it may seem, this is not intended to be a joke. The communications division of the Minnesota Department of Revenue included with its information packet on rebate procedure a page on "How to donate your rebate money back to the state." Not only that, it spells out two ways to do so—a general donation or a stadium donation.

If you think the state can make better use of the rebate funds than you can, you can go the general donation route. Cash your rebate check and write your own check to "State of Minnesota," accompanied by a note indicating to which state agency or program you would like your money to go. (For instance: Department of Transportation—Metro light rail transit.)

If no program or agency is indicated, eventually the money will filter into the state's General Fund. Send your check to the return address on your Sales Tax Rebate mailer, which is: Minnesota Department of Revenue, Mail Station 0075, St. Paul, MN 55145-0075.

The second option is to back your support for a new professional sports stadium in the Twin Cities (presumably for baseball, but the instructions are not specific on that) by sending the rebate money back for that purpose.

Again, cash the rebate check and write your own check to "Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission," (write really small so you can get that all on the line) indicating in the memo portion of the check or in an accompanying note that the check should go to the "New Stadium Fund." Send your check to Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission, 900 S. Fifth St., Minneapolis, MN 55415. (Honest, this is for real!)

Upon receipt of each donation, the MSFC will deposit the check into the account and send the individual an acknowledgement of receipt, which will include the check number and amount. It will also include a summary of the terms of the agreement.

The fund will have a sunset date of June 30, 2000, at which time the governor and the MSFC will determine if there is a viable plan to build the stadium. If not, the funds will be returned to the donors (probably so they can send them back to the state's General Fund).

"Check with your tax accountant or the IRS regarding the deductibility of this donation," the Department of Revenue suggests. We might also suggest checking with a clinic for a psychiatric evaluation to determine mental fitness to be a rural Minnesotan.

Well, we can't fault the state for making all options available. And you know what? There are people who are going to take them. As Russian comedian Yakov Smirnoff is so fond of saying: "What a country!"

Panama Canal Giveaway Brings New Concern

As of December 31, control of the Panama Canal and U.S. military bases protecting it will be turned over to the country of Panama. U.S. troops will leave and our nation will be subject to the whims of an unstable nation to which treaties are as significant as gum wrappers.

The Times/Northern Watch received a letter recently from John and Kathy Tyler of Eden Prairie expressing concern about what will happen in control of the canal. We do not run letters written and distributed for circulation to multiple publications in our public opinion column, but the Tylers make some points that indicate reason for concern.

According to the letter, Panama Law No. 5 was passed by the Panama Legislative Assembly in January of 1997, giving Hutchinson Port Services a 50-year lease on the canal entrance ports of Balboa on the Pacific Ocean and Cristobal on the Atlantic Ocean. Hutchinson Port Services is identified as an agent of Red China. This indicates Panama's value of Article VI of the Canal Neutrality Treaty which was to guarantee U.S. warships "expeditious passage and head of line."

Furthermore, under Panama Law No. 5, Hutchinson can occupy current U.S. defense sites including Rodman Naval Station and Albrook Air Force Station—also a violation of the neutrality treaty. This would give Red China the potential to base missiles, warships and J-11 bombers 900 miles from Miami, FL.

The Tylers' letter states the following:

"This give-away of the Panama Canal was engineered by President Jimmy Carter, the candidate that 'would never lie to us,' implemented by Henry Kissinger and negotiator Sol Linowitz, and brought to its completion by William Jefferson Clinton. The influence of Chinagate continues to loom large....Is this the quid pro quo for China's donation to the 1996 Clinton-Gore reelection campaign?"

If it had the backbone, Congress could still reverse the treaty on the grounds that if two different treaties are agreed to by the two sides, neither treaty is valid. Question also remains whether the Panama Canal Treaties are legal under the U.S. Constitution.

The canal give-away was bad policy from its inception and it is already beginning to be shown just how bad it is.

Way back in 1913, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said, "The control of the Panama Canal is far more important to our national security than is the control of the Kiel Canal to Germany or the Suez Canal to that of Great Britain. Its protection is more essential than the protection of any part of our coast or any of our seaports, however important, because it is the key to the protection of many seaports and thousands of miles of coastline. It might easily make the whole difference between victory and defeat."

Ways of waging war have changed from 1913, of course, but ship movement is still a vital part of any military defense or offense. The Panama Canal is too important to the United States to give up control.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Dakota Clinic and Northwest Medical Center (NWMC) both want to see Thief River Falls become a larger regional medical center. We believe that this could more easily be accomplished through establishing a better working relationship between NWMC and the Dakota Clinic.

The current NWMC board's letter in the August 14 Northern Watch is an excellent illustration of the attitudes and challenges we face in attempting to create an effective working relationship. In our view, their letter is further evidence of the need for change in the NWMC board.

Dawn Johnson, Roseau, is Acts of Kindness winner

Selected because of her exceptional commitment to the Roseau Area Arts Association, Dawn Johnson of Roseau has been named a recipient of the 1999 Acts of Kindness: Governor's Volunteer Award.

The statewide award program honors volunteers who make life better for others by giving of themselves to improve their neighborhoods and communities. Gov. Jesse Ventura is scheduled to present the award at the Department of Natural Resources Outdoor Stage Tuesday, August 31, at the Minnesota State Fair. The program will be from noon to 1 p.m. and the public is invited.

Johnson served on the Roseau Area Art Association (RAAA) board of directors since its inception in 1989. She has been instrumental in helping RAAA reach its vision to make the arts part of the lives of Roseau area residents.

Her special interest is to involve youth and encourage them to use their creative talents by performing in the arts. As the liaison to the Roseau school district, she coordinated a residency project for actors from Prairie Fire Theatre and the students, culminating with the production of Alice in Wonderland by a cast of 60.

Because of her dedication and commitment, the students' self-confidence has risen, their drama skills about next year's events. The enthusiasm of parents, residents and school district staff has also increased. In addition, area artists received greater visibility and appreciation of their work through the annual Art in the Park show which Johnson coordinates.

"Dawn seems to have never-ending creative ideas for programming," stated Betty Johnson, who nominated Dawn for the award. "Her enthusiasm is contagious—causing others to want to have a piece of the action."

Gov. Ventura said that more than two million Minnesotans annually serve their communities and neighbors, from cleaning highway ditches to helping formulate public policy.

"Through their special acts of kindness volunteers make the quality of life in our state among the highest in the nation," the governor said. "It is important that we, as Minnesotans, acknowledge their spirit of volunteerism that makes such a difference in our communities."

The annual Acts of Kindness awards program is administered by the Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Service (MOCVS) in the Department of Administration. MOCVS provides statewide leadership and service to the volunteer

A member of the Midwest Quartet Association, the Golden Street Quartet over the years has sponsored and sung in concert with such Gospel groups as the Singing Americans, Perfect Heart, The Dixie Melody Boys, the Blackwood Brothers, the Cathedral Quartet and others. Among concert appearance sites has been the Minnesota State Fair.

River Road Casino opens new restaurant

Ribbon cutting for the new 5,000 square-foot, 200-seat restaurant, at the River Road Casino will be held at 3 p.m. on Friday August 20. The new addition has also allowed the casino to expand its gaming choices with 250 additional new machines. This is the first of what could be many additions at the casino located just eight miles south of Thief River Falls and immediately east of Highway 59.

The new addition has yet to be named. It will however, be named the week of August 15 by the winner of the River Road Casino employee contest to name the restaurant. The winner will receive a $150 cash prize for the winning name suggestion.

Marvin Hanson, gaming manager for the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians, owners of the casino-restaurant complex, describes the unique features of the new dining experience as "reflective of the Thief River Falls area. The selections will be hardy and down-home, although the signature dessert, Bananas Foster, may be considered a 'stretch' for a 'down-home' selection. As a matter of fact, the dessert area will be the first area guests see as they enter the food selection area. That's because we want them to eat dessert first, then their entrees, then dessert again," Hanson said. Hanson said he was only joking, but desserts have been proven to be buffet-style patrons' most popular item.

Hanson added "The buffet will be active rather than passive, because chefs will be doing the cooking in the dining room. Instead of a long line and counter, each food category will be offered in a colorful cart-like individual station, similar to carts that would be found in an outdoor fresh food market in 'old Americana.'"

The outdoor country street-market atmosphere created indoors, features park benches serving as dining area seats, street lights 10-feet tall, a replicated two-story building, and a pargola shaped like a dream-catcher in the center of the 'market'. The 30-foot ceiling simulating the outdoors, complements the surroundings which were built like a stage set. The dining room decor was inspired by fruit and vegetable colors, and features a mix of corn yellow, pumpkin orange, green bean green, and blueberry blue. With woodwork stained red, with an off-setting yellow, and black light fixtures, the simplistic wood molding was inspired by the Shakers, to create a residential feel, which includes the hutches in the room. The spring structure which houses the buffet will survive 150 mile per hour winds, exceeding the strength of any building in Minneapolis.

Bobby Whitefeather, chairman of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians, said this entry into quality food service and the addition of 250 new machines, "is allowing our people to make the most of the opportunity gaming has afforded us. Despite the location of our River Road Casino, we feel our investment in its expansion tangibly demonstrates our ongoing commitment to making it more attractive for our valued guest. This newest step will allow us to determine our progress even farther, within reason, adding amenities for the benefit of our guests, increased employment opportunities for our people, and increased economic strength to better the quality of life on our reservation. With careful study and deliberation, the addition of lodging, a water park, golf course and even a race track are under consideration for the eventual development of River Road into a destination venue."

Basket making will be among the Native American crafts demonstrated at the AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival at Old Treaty and Crossing Park near Red Lake Falls August 28-29.

events is $5 for adults and $1 for children.

"Chautauqua" refers to the educational aspects of the event and is named for the Chautauqua Institution founded at Chautauqua Lake, New York in August of 1874 as a means of giving summer instruction to Sunday school teachers. The movement rapidly expanded to include a school of languages, a summer school for public school teachers, a school of theology, and series of clubs for young people interested in reading, music, fine arts, physical education and religion.

Chautauqua in combination with a festival creates an event that is enjoyable for people of all ages while keeping with AFRAN's mission of creating an understanding of the area's French heritage.

AFRAN was a recipient of a 1999 Arts Across Minnesota (AAMN) grant which was used to fund a variety of workshops in art form areas including Ojibwe flutes, story telling, writing, landscape painting, historic ceramics, puppetry, beadwork and dream catchers.

Given by master artists to local participants, workshops in the various art forms began In March. Projects will be completed through demonstrations at next weekend's festival.

Events on Thursday will include a presentation on surface embellishment of Anishinabe beadwork by Ruth Waukazo at 6:30 p.m. at Lafayette High School followed by a talk on French genealogy and history of the Red River Valley French by Alfred Fortier at 8 p.m.

On Friday, August 27 a workshop on fiddling techniques will be presented by Dean Bernier at 6 p.m. in the main tent at Old Crossing and Treaty Park. At 9 p.m. a bonfire with stories by Michele Delorme and guests will be held in the encampment area.

Festive meals and drink are always a popular part of the festival, and this year's event will include culinary demonstrations by authentic French chefs in the food tent on Saturday and Sunday between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Recipes will be distributed, and following each demonstration, chefs will be available for question and answer sessions.

A special brunch prepared by guest chefs will be served at the park from 9 to 11 a.m. on Sunday.

Also, a Best of the Season Farmers Market will be held both days in a country setting near the river, featuring fruits, vegetables, canned goods, candy and baked items.

Those wishing to show off their baking skills are invited to participate in the bake off competition on Sunday. Categories include breads, pies, cakes and novelties with $10 prizes awarded in each category and a $50 best of show prize. Items should be brought to the food tent by 1:30 p.m. that day.

While most of the festival events will be held at Old Crossing and Treaty Park, a public dance sponsored by the Northwest Regional Development Commission will be held at the American Legion in Red Lake Falls on Saturday from 8:30 p.m. to midnight. The activity will feature instruction on dances and music with Dean Bernier and Sandra Sawatzky.

Other musical programs throughout the weekend will feature the junior fiddlers and dancers from Turtle Mountain, Native American flute music, fiddlers and French Canadian music. A fiddlers contest will be held on Sunday afternoon.

Those attending the festival will have a chance to visit and enjoy the Michif and voyageurs encampment. The 20 to 30 camps and tepees will feature a variety of folk art, historical stories and food.

While youngsters will delight in all aspects of the festival, one of the special hands-on activities for children will include making dream catchers with Bob Hesslund.

Sunday's festivities will conclude with keynote speaker Bobby Whitefeather, chairman of the tribal council of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians. He will be introduced by Senator LeRoy Stumpf and sponsored by the Minnesota Humanities Commission.

Sponsors of the event, in addition to those already mentioned include the McKnight Foundation, Red Lake County Historical Society and Red Lake county.

Much effort is put into organizing the annual event, and besides Virgil Benoit, AFRAN's board of directors includes John Thibert, Anne Healy, Jerry Amiot, Pierre Uebe, Father Tim Bushy, Maryse Proechel and Carol Uebe. Membership to the organization can be obtained through a $15 family donation or an individual donation of $10.

Benoit estimates that approximately 2,000 people will visit this year's Chautauqua and French Festival on August 26-29 and describes many of those who attend as "reflective," enjoying the opportunity to visit, talk about history and exchange stories and ideas.

Mn/DOT Commissioner to visit four area communities

Minnesota Commissioner of Transportation Elwyn Tinklenberg will be in Thief River Falls, Warroad, Roseau and East Grand Forks Tuesday, August 24, as part of a two-day tour of the Northwest District of Mn/DOT.

Following visits Monday to Park Rapids, Bemidji and Erskine, Commissioner Tinklenberg will overnight in Thief River Falls and participate in a breakfast meeting at 8 a.m. Tuesday at the Best Western Inn.

The morning meeting will include county commissioners, county highway engineer, representatives from Arctic Cat Inc., Digi-Key Corporation, city officials, Chamber of Commerce, NWROC, Northwest Grain, CSFA and the Minnesota Wheat Council.

At 9:15 a.m. the commissioner will dedicate a new city bus, followed by a brief bus tour to several area businesses and education facilities.

At 10:30 a.m. he will fly to Warroad for an 11:15 a.m. lunch with city and county officials and representatives from Marvin Windows, Chamber of Commerce, Christian Bros. airport and Solvay Pharmaceuticals. Following a bus tour of Warroad, the commissioner will travel to Roseau.

An RCAT bus tour of Roseau will begin at 2 p.m. from Brandt's Restaurant and include Polaris Industries. A 2:20 meeting at the restaurant will include county and city officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Polaris Industries, Burkel Grain Service and NWROC.

At 3:30 p.m. Tinklenberg will fly to East Grand Forks for a bus tour beginning at 4:30 p.m. from the airport. The tour will include American Crystal Sugar plant, Highway 2 renovation, downtown development and East Grand Forks/Grand Forks transit. At 5:45 at the Comfort Inn hors d'oeuvres and coffee will be served for the commissioner and representatives of the city, county, American Crystal Sugar and Mn/DOT.

At 7 p.m. Commissioner Tinklenberg will leave for the airport for a flight to the Twin Cities.

Selected as a "Local Legacy" by the Library of Congress, the 1999 AFRAN Chautauqua and French Festival will be documented through photography, video and souvenirs for the purpose of creating an exhibit entitled "The Legacy of Old Crossing, Huot, Minnesota" at the Library of Congress in May of 2000.

Commodity loans and LDPs are topic of public meetings

Public meetings will be held in Thief River Falls and Goodridge Tuesday, August 24, to provide farmers with information on commodity loans and Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs).

Sessions will be at 9 a.m. in the basement meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls and 11 a.m. at the Goodridge community center. The meetings are not expected to last more than an hour each and will include question and answer sessions.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture has made changes in the programs that will affect 1999 LOP and loan applications," states Glenn Schafer, executive director of the Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) office.

"In addition, the meetings will review the current guidelines and options available to producers. Because the LDP and commodity loan programs will be an important part of grain marketing for 1999 crops, all producers are encouraged to attend one of the two meetings," Schafer said.

The county executive director also issued reminders involving other programs administered by FSA as follows:

• Producers who have Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts beginning Oct. 1, 1999 will have the contract acres (commonly referred to as base acres) eliminated on those CRP acres unless the producer operated other land in 1999 to which the bases can be transferred. Requests to transfer contract acreage must be submitted to the county FSA office by September 30.

• The Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) has been made available in Pennington county. This program compensates producers for livestock losses resulting from flooding and summer storms of 1997. Losses already compensated through a previous LIP sign-up will not be eligible. The current LIP sign-up period ends September 3.

Schafer invites producers to contact the Pennington County FSA office if they have questions regarding any of the programs noted above.

University of North Dakota freshman Matt Myers talked with Denny Minks of KKAQ radio Wednesday during the UND football team media day photograph and interview sessions at Memorial Stadium in Grand Forks. Myers, 6-7, 330-pound offensive tackle, is a 1999 Lincoln High School graduate.

Matt Myers will be building for future

by Mike Lundgren

Matt Myers is a big guy. And he's getting bigger. When the 1999 high school graduate from Thief River Falls stepped on to the Memorial Stadium artificial turf Wednesday for media day and photo session, the 6-7, 330-pound offensive lineman was among, if not the biggest, players in a University of North Dakota football uniform.

"I've gained 50 pounds since basketball season," said Myers, a two-sport standout for the Prowlers who spent the summer following a weight-lifting and running program designed by the UND coaching staff.

However, despite his size, and his off-season efforts, Myers, along with the rest of the in-coming freshmen recruits, is ticketed for a redshirt first year in Grand Forks. He will practice, but will not play football this fall, preserving four years of college eligibility while becoming acclimated to college life.

The designation was not a surprise, said Myers. "If something happens, and they need help, I'll get a chance to play," he explained. "Otherwise, I'll be redshirted. It'll be different not playing, but it's a chance to get bigger and better."

New North Dakota offensive line coach Chris Mussman likes what he sees in Myers, but is willing to wait for him to develop. "On the hoof, he fits the bill," said Mussman. "We're really excited about his size. We just have to see how he moves and handles himself. But right now the freshmen don't figure into our plans. If he (Myers) happens to move up on our depth charts, and we need him to fill a position, Matt and I will become very personal. We'll have a lot of one-on-one meetings to get him ready to play."

But with the case of most freshmen, Myers will spend a year of internship before seeing game time. It's a major adjustment for players whose eye-catching high school careers landed them college scholarships, admitted Mussman. "The good ones can handle it," he said, "and sometimes you get a surprise – someone who comes from nowhere and breaks into the line-up. But right now we just want him to get acclimated to UND, Grand Forks and his classes."

Myers was being actively recruited by NCAA Division 1-AA Montana last year. As he explained it, the school was talking to five players to fill three available scholarships at offensive tackle. As luck would have it, their top three choices all accepted the offers. Myers, though, isn't disappointed in his NCAA Division II surroundings at UND, where he plans to major in wildlife biology. "I'm having a good time," he said. "I like it here."

Myers' summer schedule included an appearence in the annual Minnesota high school all-star football game, where he was one of three players rotating between the two tackle spots in the Outstate offensive line – a line that helped beat the Metro squad 17-13. "I thought I did okay," he said about his all-star game performance. "It wasn't too difficult playing against those guys."

The UND roster also includes punter Brent Benlow, a product of the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River program, who was redshirted as a freshman a year ago, and runningback Blaise Larson of Red Lake Falls, who left the team before the start of the 1998 season but decided to return this fall.

Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club to begin meetings September 2

Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club will once again feature weekly 12-noon Thursday luncheon meetings at the Elks throughout the school year, beginning Sept. 2.

The organization, designed as a support group for Lincoln High School, Northland Community and Technical College and community programs, is in search of members for the 1999-2000 season. All those interested in sports and activities programs in the community are urged to attend. A special invitation goes out to parents of program participants. Memberships can be obtained at any of the club meetings.

A list of guest speakers who will address the club at the weekly meetings has already been assembled, starting Sept. 2 when Northland athletic director Rick Nelson and School District 564 activities director Jim Sims introduce their fall sports head coaches and preview the upcoming year.

Northland has 74-man squad

■ Pioneers open football season Aug. 28

Dan Willoughby gets two weeks of practice to blend 74 players from programs throughout the country into a football team. The second-year Northland Community and Technical College head coach has to have the squad ready to take on Central Lakes in the 1999 season opener Aug. 28 at Brainerd. Players from six states and one Canadian province, stretching from Pyallup, WA to Crystal City, TX to Coral Springs, FL, assembled in Thief River Falls for the first time Aug. 13.

There are 17 sophomores and 57 freshmen in the group, with 57 of them coming from Minnesota, 12 from North Dakota, and one each from Texas, Iowa, Washington, Florida, and Manitoba, Canada.

"The numbers are good," noted Willoughby. "There is a lot of competition for positions."

Sophomores on hand include quarterback Michael Svojanovski (Minitonas, MB); runningbacks Kelly Fossum (Thief River Falls), Matt Hitchen (Fertile), and Alvin Salazar (Stephen); offensive linemen Kevin Baugher (Roseau), Jason Cummings (Frazee), Ben Hanson (Goodridge), and Pete Mooney (Hillsboro, ND); defensive linemen Matt Benkowski (New Hope) and Matt Kasprowicz (Roseau); linebackers Ryan Broden (Fertile), Jeff Kuehn (Twin Valley), Mike Moore (Minneapolis), and Daryl Wockenfuss (Middle River); along with defensive backs Alex Anderson (Grygla), Mark Besemann (Hibbing), and Jayson Robinson (Thompson, ND).

"Our sophomores are doing a nice job in leadership roles," mentioned Willoughby. "We've got experience back in most skill positions, except quarterback. Mike (Svojanovski) is back, but he didn't play much last year."

Freshmen who will be used on offense include quarterbacks Paul Kazmierczak (Strandquist), Ben Mosack (Motley), and Chad Smith (Frazee); runningbacks Jesse Adelman (Red Lake Falls), Juan Barrios (Crystal City, TX), Jason Eby (Cambridge), Robert Hazuka (Motley), Jeremy Hylton (Isanti), Bob Holzinger (Blackduck), Matt Larson (Pelican Rapids), Scott Olsen (Hillsboro, ND), Devin Pavlacky (Pelican Rapids), and Jon Settingsgard (Edmore, ND); wide receivers Mike Courtright (Twin Valley), Aaron Chirpich (Frazee), Neil Hardy (Embarrass), Erik Monson (Pyallup, WA), Dorian Myers (St. Anthony), Nathan Neil (Detroit Lakes), Matt Olson (Mahnomen), and Adam Smelden (Hillsboro, ND); tight ends Danny Juelson (Hines), Kevin Klevberg (Northwood, ND), and Dan Zubich Jr. (Babbitt); linemen Matt Bjerkiie (Trail), Nick Geray (Mahnomen), Mike Kaiser (Gary), Rick Kraft (Gary), Jason R. Olson (Eden Proirie), Brian Peniata (Robbinsdale), Seth Vettleson (Oklee), and Danny Ystenes (Winger).

First-year players on the other side of the ball include defensive backs Dustin Birch (Ramsey), Jim Howard (Grand Forks, ND), Phil Kazmierczak (Strandquist), Andres Mancini (Bloomington), Andrew McGowan (Center Point, IA), Mike Mirinowski (Breckenridge), Zoda Morgan Jr. (Minot, ND), Scott Safranski (Stephen), Roy Smiley (Coral Springs, FL), and Nick Waldal (Plummer); linebackers Matt Andvik (Wahpeton, ND), Tony Brouse (Baudette), Matt Horgeshimer (Crookston), Scot Nicola (Grand Forks, ND), Derrick Olson (Greenbush), Michael Osowski (Stephen), David Sondreal (Grand Forks, ND), Darren Szczepanski (Argyle), and John Williams Jr. (Crystal); plus linemen Dan Mach (Minnetonka), Jason Olson (Leonard), Kirk Peterson (Pelican Rapids), and Pat Piekarski (Lowry).

Chirpich and freshman Ryan Polziun (Isanti) are listed as kickers.

"We are definitely quicker than we were last year on both sides of the ball," pointed out Willoughby. "We're also bigger than we were last year, but I still don't consider us as a big team."

The Pioneers will be trying to improve upon a three-year string of two-win seasons this fall.

Tennis starts fall sports schedule

Five players who were regulars a year ago headline the 1999 Thief River Falls girls high school tennis team that will open the local fall sports season Wednesday when the Prowlers host Grand Rapids in a 4 p.m. dual at the Engelstad Park courts. That's half a team. The challenge, according to head coach Sylvia Sjoberg, is to fill the other five spots with point-producers.

Seniors Jenny Kimball and Dede Dally, along with sophomores Heather Hanson and Beth Padilla, played regularly in singles last year, while senior Jenni Gonsorowski was a fixture in doubles on a team that went 14-6 in dual meet competition.

"Those five players are all capable of winning," said Thief River Falls coach Sylvia Sjoberg, "but it might not be enough. We need four points to win a match, and not all of those (five) kids are going to win every time. We've got some young kids with talent, but they have to raise that talent to the varsity level."

One of Sjoberg's first moves was to pair Padilla with Gonsorowski to help strengthen the Prowlers' doubles' line-up. That will leave three singles and two doubles positions to fill.

Senior Kara Skiple is another returning letter winner. Rest of the preseason roster includes juniors Karen Christensen, Carisa Hendrickson and Heidi Young; sophomores Jenny Black, Jenessa Blazejewski, Jennifer Blazejewski, Heather Fellman, Amber Gerardy, Cheryl Schob, KayLynn Steiger, Emily Tweet, Kelly Winjum, and Brenda Wood; plus freshmen Kelsey Christensen, Eryn Clow, Rebecca Delmore, Stacia Kalinoski, Layne Kaushagen, Kare Larson, Kate Levinson, Katie Schommer, Erin Steva, Maggie Stock, and Jonelle Swanson.

Troy Hanestad coaches the junior varsity team and Tom Powers will direct the Franklin Middle School tennis program.

The Prowlers will follow their 1999 debut with the annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational Thursday when they will be joined by Grand Rapids, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Bemidji, and Roseau for matches that begin at 9 a.m.

Northland Retired Teachers Association announced winners of their annual essay contest entitled, "My Favorite Grandparent." Wednesday, August 18, the winners were recognized at the annual meeting of the association. Monetary awards were presented to the students by Ruth Austad, chairperson of the event. Pictured from left are: Brianna Reierson, a runner up, Ruth Austed, Janne Dillon, first place tie, and Andy Kalsnes, first place tie. Not pictured is runner-up Tate Sorvig.

Grandparent essay winners announced

Northland Retired Teachers Association essays winners were announced by the Association recently. The theme of this annual event is "My Favorite Grandparent."

This year there was a tie for first place between Jenna Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dillon, and Andy Kalsnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kalsnes. The runner-up winners were Tate Sorvig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Sorvig, and Brianna Reierson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Reierson.

Following are the winning essays:

Grandparents Essay
by Andy Kalsnes

If a person would ask me "Who is important in your life?" I would probably say my parents, but I would like to tell you about a special grandfather. His name is Harold.

Grandpa Harold is a short, stocky man, with a twinkle in his blue eyes. He has a kind smile. His hair is gray which gives him a distinguished look. You could usually find Harold in a pair of blue jeans and a plaid shirt. When looking at his hands, a person could tell he was hard-working.

When I think of words like kind, sensitive, caring, I think of Grandpa Harold. He always had time to listen to what I had to say. His voice sounded calm and reassuring.

One of Grandpa Harold's main interests in life was farming. He farmed for forty years. He was a good farmer. During harvest, I enjoyed the smell of freshly cut grain. I worked on farm machinery with Grandpa Harold and my dad. One time I was looking at one end of a long pipe while Grandpa hammered it. The pipe moved and struck me in the forehead. I still have a lump where it hit me.

We would talk about his trips to Norway, the country his parents came from. He also served in the Korean War but didn't talk about it much.

Whenever my parents took me out to the farm, we would drive around and look for wildlife. Grandpa enjoyed feeding the deer in the winter. They would come into his yard and we could also watch through the window.

Grandpa Harold enjoyed watching me play basketball, and I always seemed to play my best when he was there. Grandpa always visited with his children and grandchildren. He never missed a birthday party, and I have many pictures with him.

My Grandpa Harold will always be a special person in my life, and I miss him as he died after heart surgery in February of 1997.

Grandpa Isaacson
by Jenna Dillon

Do you know a sixty year old man who teaches at Lincoln High School, loves to hunt and fish, is funny, and wears glasses? That's my Grandpa. He is one of the two best Grandpas in the world.

Grandpa has a very neat personality. Finding a fake fly in the refrigerator would not be surprising, because Grandpa loves to play practical jokes. He can always make me laugh because he is very funny. Grandpa also has a serious side. He is smart, caring, and nice. Like all people, he has his days when he can be grumpy and stubborn. Don't get into a bet with him unless you plan to lose, because Grandpa is very competitive.

Now that you know what Grandpa's personality is like this is what he looks like. He is average height and average weight. Grandpa is very tan, because he spends a lot of his time outdoors. He has whitish-grey hair and a beard. He has wrinkles around his friendly blue eyes when he laughs. Grandpa wears glasses, but only to read. At work, he wears khakis and a dress shirt. Once he gets home, comfort is his first priority; he wears jeans and a sweatshirt.

Fishing is probably one of Grandpa's favorite things to do. In the summer, he goes fishing almost every day! Yard work and gardening are also one of his favorites. During hunting season, I barely ever see him because he is always out looking for deer. He likes to build bird houses. He also loves to spend time with his family.

Grandpa and I have a lot of memories of activities we have done and still do together. These are some things we do together. Every year, we go to Winnipeg for a day. In the winter, we always go look at Christmas lights. In the summer we go to a cabin on a lake. We do lots of things together!

My Grandpa is very special to me. Some of the reasons why he is so special is because he always makes time to come to my games and band concerts. He calls to see how school is going every now and then. Also, when I am sick, he comes to visit me.

Now you know why my Grandpa is so special to me. He is one of the best Grandpas a kid could want. I'm really lucky to have a Grandpa like him!

Great Grandma Elsie
by Tate Sorvig

The most special person I know is my Great Grandma Elsie. She has 94 years worth of memories. The average computer would overload with less than half of that data. She is about 5 feet tall, has a loving face, gently wrinkled with age, and bright blue eyes that alertly look at everything behind a pair of silver rimmed bifocals. Her curly, white hair is the perfect topping for her familiar face.

She is always up-to-date with all the current events because she catches the 6 o'clock news every night. She often shakes her head and says, "How things have changed."

One of the rules in her house is there is no rough-housing whatsoever. The reason for this is that rough play makes her nervous and she doesn't like to see anyone hurt in even the most remote way. No one messes with my Grandma Elsie; what she says goes!

Soon after we arrive for a visit at her apartment, she ushers us into the kitchen and sets out so many cookies that she could feed a whole army. We voluntarily gorge ourselves on the vast assortment of chocolate chip, oatmeal raisin, and peanut butter cookies. Whenever we are full, she urges us to have another saying, "Well, how will you get big and fat if you don't eat?"

Before she moved into Riverside Terrace, she lived with her husband, Norman, in St. Hilaire. They were married for 66 years! They had 2 kids, 7 grand kids, and 15 great grand kids! Wow, they sure started something! I remembes how they would go to church every Sunday, and walk back home holding hands. Sometimes I got to walk with them. Now, Grandma goes downstairs for church every Thursday and she reads her old, leather bound Bible every day. (Right now she's on the Book of Luke).

Grandma Elsie makes me feel like a real comedian. She laughs at the simplest quips. Her big belly laugh is strange coming from a woman with almost no belly. Just about every other word she says is a word of encouragement.

On Monday nights, she goes down to the cafeteria and plays Bingo with the other residents. She's pretty lucky and usually wins at least once.

I have known my Great Grandma as long as I can remember. I practically grew up on her excellent rhubarb bars and perfect chocolate chip cookies. There are two possible reasons why the title of my paper about my Great Grandma Elsie included the word great. One of these reasons is my relation to her. If you have read this essay, then you know the other reason.

Milton Julles Reierson
by Brianna Reierson

Do you know a man that is seventy-four years old and his birthday is on St. Patrick's Day? Well, that's my Grandpa, Milton Julies Reierson. If you read on you will find out more about my Grandpa.

My Grandpa is short, has blue eyes, glasses, and has short, gray-ish-white hair. He wears slippers in the house, sweatshirts in the winter, and t-shirts in the summer. He wears dress pants on Sundays, jeans, and when he is sick he wears pajama pants.

The funniest person I know is my Grandpa. He is nice and sometimes yells when my brother Chris, is being mean to me. When I am bored my Grandpa always knows what to do. My Grandpa always asks me if I want a pop when I go over to his house.

My brother and I play Yahtzee almost every time we go to my Grandpa's house. We always have chips and dip while we are playing Yahtzee. Every Christmas Eve we go over to my Grandpa's house to eat and open presents.

My Grandpa, in his spare time, goes to the church and works. He watches football and hockey games on television all of the time. He also reads and goes to the grocery store for my Grandma, Eileen.

The thing I will always remember about my Grandpa is when I was little he always told me that if I sneezed the garage door would open, but he would always push the button to open the door when I sneezed. Sometimes he tickles me and says, "Here comes the tickling machine." When he can, he comes to my basketball games, choir concerts, and the Ice Show for skating. He tries to go to all of my brother's hockey games if he is in town.

Well there's my Grandpa. He is married to Eileen May Froseth (Reierson). They were married on September 14, 1947. They have been married for fifty-one years, going on fifty-two. Grandpa is the best Grandpa in the whole world!

A number of Lakeheed Pipe Line officials and guests observed efforts of Lakeheed Pipe Line employees participating in an emergency spill training exercise held near Plummer on Tuesday. The event simulated a spill of crude oil into the Clearwater river. Employees responding to the emergency exercise deployed a boom in the river.

Silent auction items were among the many things sold and awarded as raffle prizes at the annual Northwest Ducks Unlimited chapter banquet Monday evening, August 16, at the Thief River Golf Club. The event attracted another large crowd and, combined with the DU golf tournament earlier in the day, provided additional funds for waterfowl habitat improvement in the primary production areas of Canada and the United States.

MN police to distribute crime prevention cards

Police officers through the state of Minnesota, including officers of the Thief River Falls Police department, will be distributing Minnesota Crime Prevention Cards in an attempt to build positive relationships with children.

For the seventeenth consecutive year, the Minnesota Vikings Crime Prevention Card program is in operation with more than 350 participating law enforcement agencies distributing 1.6 million "trading cards."

The program, sponsored by General Security Services Corporation, in cooperation with the Minnesota Crime Prevention Association, is designed to develop relationships between young people and law enforcement officers.

The program is eight weeks long, beginning August 29 and continuing through October 17. Each Friday, and continuing throughout the next week, a different card is available to any youngster who asks for one from a member of a participating law enforcement department.

Each weekly card has a four-color picture of a Viking on the front and on the back, biographical information of the player, plus a crime prevention tip.

"This program provides a forum for building positive relationships between police officers and the public," said Charles Rix of the Minnesota Crime Prevention Association. "Since its first year, 1983, we have seen the demand for cards grow at a steady pace, and along with that growth we have experienced development in our rappon with young people."

Over 7,000 officers are carrying the cards in 1999. The distribution schedule and the players featured are as follows: August 29 #1 Randall Cunningham; September 5 #2 Cris Carter; September 12 #3 Robert Smith; September 19 #4 Randy Moss; September 26 #5 Jeff Christy; October 3 #6 John Randle; October 10 #7 Gary Anderson, and October 17 #8 Robert Griffith.

Rural hospitals receive funds for critical access study

Mahnomen and Warren hospitals are among 12 rural hospitals receiving grants to study the feasibility of receiving Critical Access Hospital designation from the state and federal governments. That status enables a hospital to continue offering essential services to the community and remain financially viable.

The hospitals receiving grants are: Arlington Municipal Hospital, Lake Wood Health Center (Baudette), Long Prairie Memorial Hospital, Mahnomen Health Center, Northern Itasca Health Care Center (Big Fork), North Valley Health Center (Warren), Renville County Hospital (Olivia), Swift County-Benson Hospital (*Benson), Tracy Area Medical Services, Westbrook Health Center, Wheaton Community Hospital and Zumbrota Health Care.

A Critical Access Hospital is a limited-service hospital that is eligible for improved Medicare reimbursement. These hospitals will emphasize high quality emergency services and inpatient care, and will have close relationships with larger hospitals in the area.

"The Critical Access Hospital option will support some of our smallest rural hospitals in continuing to provide essential services," said Estelle Brouwer, director of the MDH Office of Rural Health and Primary Care. The office distributes these and other grants to rural hospitals and health care facilities in Minnesota. "They're able to continue serving their communities despite projected Medicare cuts to hospitals and ongoing changes in our health care system."

The MDH Office of Rural Health and Primary Care received the start-up grant money from the federal Office of Rural Health Policy, as a result of a congressional appropriation for the Medicare Rural Hospital Flexibility program.

Culvert installation under Highway 1 at the intersection with Highway 59 was being completed Thursday night. The culvert will divert drainage from the north-south ditch along Barzen Avenue west of the Arctic Cat plant to the west ditch of the two-mile bypass now under construction as an extension of Highway 59 around the west edge of the city. The diverted water will enter the Red Lake river at the same point as from the previously-used ditch. Work on the culvert installation required traffic on Highway 1 to be diverted around the Petro Pumper station, utilizing the station's entrances on Highways 1 and 59. Construction also continues on the bypass which will extend south from the intersection of Highway 59 with Highway 1 and connect with Highway 32 two miles to the south.

Six northwest counties get disaster declared

On Thursday afternoon, August 26, the director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) was informed by the White House that President Bill Clinton had decided to reverse an earlier decision and declare six counties in northwestern Minnesota as "federal disaster areas."

The disaster aid is expected to total $6.77 million with $3.99 million going to Roseau county alone. Aid to other counties include the following: Kittson, $834,000; Marshall, $591,000; Polk, $76,000; Pennington, $81,000; and Red Lake, $60,000.

Seventh District Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes said he was meeting with FEMA Director James Lee Witt in the Washington office of FEMA to press the case for a federal disaster declaration when the call from the White House was received.

Peterson said he had scheduled his meeting with the FEMA director on Thursday to be certain that FEMA had the latest and most detailed damage information from the affected counties.

"Director Witt's willingness to reexamine the facts was very helpful," Congressman Peterson said, "and I think he deserves our thanks, but what made this appeal successful is a lot of hard work from a lot of people out in northwest Minnesota."

Governor Jesse Ventura's initial request to FEMA for a federal disaster declaration for Kittson, Roseau, Pennington, Polk, Marshall and Red Lake counties had been denied. Appeal was based on amount of damage sustained and the fact that North Dakota counties just across the Red River with similar damage had received the declaration.

"For the last several years northwestern Minnesota has faced one disaster after another," Congressman Peterson said, "and the local economies are in bad shape. In the face of this current disaster, and all of the associated costs, I am pleased that the President has seen fit to reverse his earlier decision and grant our appeal.

"Unusually wet weather and associated flooding that began in April has done significant damage in portions of the Seventh District, with the six counties mentioned being especially hard hit. Damage to public and private infrastructure has been substantial," he said.

All 1999 members of the society are invited to the village for the evening. Pie, ice cream and coffee will be served free of charge as long as the supply lasts. Entertainment will also be provided in the evening and the village will be open for touring.

Thief River Falls schools begin classes September 1

Classes in all Thief River Falls public schools will officially start at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, September 1, for the 1999-2000 term. Challenger elementary, Franklin middle school and Lincoln high school will all have a full day's schedule the first day of classes again this year.

St. Bernard's Catholic school and Our Saviour's Christian Academy will also begin classes on Wednesday morning.

Parents of students who will be riding the school district's buses this year should have received mailed notice from the School District 564 transportation department advising them of the bus schedule, according to LeRoy Vigen, transportation supervisor. Those who have students who will ride the bus but have not received notice are asked to call the transportation department at 681-7077.

Full cafeteria service will also be provided on opening day September 1. Cost will be 80 cents for breakfast and $1.35 for lunch in grades K-5, 80 cents for breakfast and $1.50 for lunch in grades 6-12 with a reduced price of 30 cents for breakfast and 40 cents for lunch to those families qualifying. Adults will pay $1.25 for breakfast and $2.35 for lunch. Food service prices have remained the same since the last adjustment made in the 1995-96 school year.

After three days of classes next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, students and staff will have the weekend and the Labor Day holiday Monday, September 6, to recuperate before classes resume on Tuesday, September 7. After that, students don't get a break until the week of October 12-16 when there are no classes due to parent-teacher conferences Monday - Wednesday and the Education Minnesota convention Thursday-Friday.

School District 564 has a 185-day contract for teachers and a 174-day schedule for students. This is the second year classes have begun before the Labor Day holiday since the legislature removed the required post-Labor Day start which was in effect for a number of years.

As noted in the "Back to School" supplement to the Thief River Falls Times on August 18, the trend to large turnover in school staff which began two years ago and increased last year continues to accelerate into this school year. Twenty-seven people had been hired at that time for the 33 vacancies in teaching and administrative positions.

Remaining to be filled were a principal at Lincoln high school; part-time medical careers and German LTS at Lincoln; counselor at Franklin middle school; and Early Childhood/Special Education teacher and EBD at Challenger elementary school.

Dr. Jerry Robicheau, superintendent of schools, estimated that the district had hired more than 50 new teaching and administrative personnel in the past two years.

New faculty members and those experienced in the local school system will be greeted Wednesday by about the same number of students that attended classes here in 1998-1999. At the end of the school year this spring, the district had 2,217 students enrolled, including 154 seniors. Kindergarten class this fall is expected to be about 150, or nearly equal the number of 1999 graduates. In 1998-99, however, the district lost 54 students from the year-end enrollment for 1997-98.

St. Bernard's Catholic school expects an enrollment of 147 this year, which would be up 11 students from the 136 enrolled last year. Our Saviour's Christian Academy looks for a 1999-2000 opening day enrollment of 41.

Loads of rock to be used for stabilization around the ends of the concrete box culvert being installed under Highway 1 on the west edge of Thief River Falls were stockpiled Thursday. This view is toward the south where a bypass is under construction to carry traffic around the west edge of the city and connect with Highway 32 two miles to the south at the intersection where Brodin Sheetmetal is located.

Greenwood Street bridge project to stay in city plan

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Greenwood Street bridge project has been delayed again, but it remains in the city's comprehensive plan following a Thief River Falls City Council meeting Tuesday.

A motion to proceed with plans for the Greenwood Street Bridge failed by a vote of five to three. The motion that was defeated proposed to proceed with the project, address the $294,000 in Federal Highway funds that have been allocated to the project in fiscal year 2000 by making the money available to another eligible city/state project, and delay the Greenwood Street bridge project until the year 2001.

For many years there has been only one voice at the council meetings regularly opposing the plan — that of Jim Burkholder's voice. As discussions about the project became more serious, Burkholder's voice was joined by the combined voices of many of the residents living along Greenwood Street. In a nutshell, they oppose the project because it would direct an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 vehicles past their homes each day, would create safety problems for residents who would have to back out onto the street, and would probably cost city taxpayers more than expected because not all the details have been worked out including a railroad crossing and traffic signals. Another individual attending the meeting Tuesday, said council and staff have seemingly forgotten that there isn't a traffic problem. "There's no problem," he said, "so why are we working on a solution?"

Public Works Director Ron Lindberg has said that the city would not have any out-of-pocket costs. He has also said that the cost of traffic signals, if justified, would be covered by MSA funds.

Another critical issue to this project is the outcome of discussions with CP Railroad regarding a crossing. City staff have indicated that they don't see any problem in obtaining permission for an at-grade crossing. At least two council representatives have publicly stated that without a railroad crossing they won't have a project and that they would prefer that issue addressed before they proceed. Staff have said, CP Railroad is not likely to give its permission until the city has established a firm commitment to the project. But some council representatives would rather have CP Railroad's guarantee before they go any further with the project.

Council representatives have said that at the start of the discussions about the project they were receiving more calls in opposition to the project than in favor of the project. That has now changed. Many have admitted receiving more calls in favor of the project. They have also said that some local business representatives have

For many years there has been only one voice at the council meetings regularly opposing the plan — that of Jim Burkholder's voice. As discussions about the project became more serious, Burkholder's voice was joined by the combined voices of many of the residents living along Greenwood Street. In a nutshell, they oppose the project because it would direct an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 vehicles past their homes each day, would create safety problems for residents who would have to back out onto the street, and would probably cost city taxpayers more than expected because not all the details have been worked out including a railroad crossing and traffic signals. Another individual attending the meeting Tuesday, said council and staff have seemingly forgotten that there isn't a traffic problem. "There's no problem," he said, "so why are we working on a solution?"

Public Works Director Ron Lindberg has said that the city would not have any out-of-pocket costs. He has also said that the cost of traffic signals, if justified, would be covered by MSA funds.

Another critical issue to this project is the outcome of discussions with CP Railroad regarding a crossing. City staff have indicated that they don't see any problem in obtaining permission for an at-grade crossing. At least two council representatives have publicly stated that without a railroad crossing they won't have a project and that they would prefer that issue addressed before they proceed. Staff have said, CP Railroad is not likely to give its permission until the city has established a firm commitment to the project. But some council representatives would rather have CP Railroad's guarantee before they go any further with the project.

Council representatives have said that at the start of the discussions about the project they were receiving more calls in opposition to the project than in favor of the project. That has now changed. Many have admitted receiving more calls in favor of the project. They have also said that some local business representatives have

Why buy new when used will do?

Karlstad - The City of Karlstad likes to get its money's worth out of its vehicles. After finding a 1990 Ford 4x4 pickup with 81,000 miles at a cost of $6,000 from a private party, Sid Germundson said he would like the city to keep the old 1986 model as well to save use on personal vehicles. He said he could fix the holes in the floorboards. North Star News

Employee retires after 35-year career

Clearbrook-Gonvick - Dianne Huseth retired after 35 years as library clerk, receptionist and - since 1978 - bookkeeper for the Clearbrook-Gonvick public schools. During her tenure the district had 10 superintendents and eight principals and went through two consolidations. The Leader Record

Special levy for $200,000 a year will be on ballot

Oklee - A preliminary audit showing the Oklee school district is in deficit spending to the tune of about $90,000 prompted Supt. Salberg to recommend a special levy referendum of $200,000 per year for five years. The board approved the recommendation and the [illegible] The Oklee Herald

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Fresh fruits and vegetables are in season and we should use them as often as possible. Today's recipes use vegetables and fruits in exciting ways.

Here's a great side dish that will use many of those wonderful garden items you can buy or have grown:

POTATO / VEGETABLE DISH
10 small red potatoes
1 pint sour cream
1/2 cup green onions, thinly sliced
1/2 cup fresh tomatoes, cored and chopped
1 cup bite-sized cauliflower flowerets
1 cup carrots, thinly sliced
1 cup bite-sized broccoli flowerets
1 1/2 cups finely shredded cheddar cheese (or other type)

Scrub potatoes and boil in small amount of water to retain skins. To microwave, put a small amount of water in covered casserole dish and steam approximately 15 minutes on high until tender. [illegible] half and arrange in 8x8 inch serving dish with cut sides up.

Combine sour cream, onions and tomatoes. Stir well and pour over hot potatoes.

Lightly steam cauliflower, carrots and broccoli in small amount of water until barely tender. Drain and arrange on top of dressed potatoes.

Sprinkle cheese over all, if desired. Best when served immediately so tomatoes and onions stay cold and other ingredients are still warm.

Try this for a light meal on a cool day:

DUTCH POTATO SOUP
1 medium onion, chopped
6 medium potatoes, sliced
3-4 cups water, to cover
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup small curd cottage cheese
1 tablespoon parsley flakes

Place potatoes, onions and water in soup kettle. Simmer until tender.

Add evaporated milk, bring just to a boil, and gently stir in cottage cheese and parsley flakes. May sprinkle with grated cheese.

The vegetables in this dish give you some ideas, but use any vegetables you like to make this lovely snack tray or accent to a meal – including the delicious dip:

FRESH VEGETABLE PLATTER
1 cup broccoli flowerets
1 cup cauliflower flowerets
1 cup carrot sticks
1 cup celery sticks
1 cup cucumber circles
1 cup radish roses
1 cup cherry tomatoes with stems
10 green onions
Lettuce leaves

Wash vegetables. Peel carrots and cut them and the celery into 4 to 6-inch sticks. Peel cucumber, if desired, and cut into circles. Cut radishes into roses and chill in ice water until crisp and petals open. Remove roots and loose layers from onion and slice into strips, or you may cut thin slices down the green part to make a lacy pattern. Soak them in ice water until ready to serve.

Vegetables may be prepared a day ahead and stored in water and airtight containers in the refrigerator.

Place lettuce leaves on platter and arrange vegetables over lettuce. Serve with Spinach Dip (below).

Spinach Dip
10 ounce package frozen spinach, chopped
1 package vegetable soup mix (or onion soup)
1 1/2 cups sour cream
1 cup mayonnaise
8 ounce can water chestnuts, chopped
3 green onions with tops, chopped

Thaw spinach and squeeze until liquid has drained. Stir together with remaining ingredients.

Cover and refrigerate a minimum of 2 hours before serving. Stir again just before serving.

TOMATO PASTA SAUCE
3 large cans special flavored tomato sauce or approximately 2 quarts canned tomatoes and liquid
3 (6 ounce) cans tomato paste
1 green pepper, chopped
2 teaspoons oregano
2 teaspoons sweet basil
6 garlic cloves, minced or pressed
1 onion, chopped
2 teaspoons onion salt
1 bay leaf
Dash of sugar
Dash of lemon juice

Mix all ingredients together and simmer a minimum of 1 hour or until green pepper is soft. The longer the sauce simmers, the more flavor it will have. You may add mushrooms, if desired.

After simmering, remove bay leaf and serve over cooked pasta.

How simple it is to be fancy when you want to serve a variety of fruits – substitute other fruits as desired.

SPARKLING FRUIT COMPOTE
3 medium peaches
2 cups sliced strawberries
2 cups red seedless grapes
2 cups melon balls
3 medium bananas
1 bottle pink sparkling grape juice, chilled

Slice peaches into bowl. Top slices with strawberries, grapes and melon balls. Cover and refrigerate.

Just before serving, slice bananas into fruit mixture. Pour sparkling grape juice on fruit and lightly toss. Serve immediately.

Use any fruit that is in season to make this delicious, easy dessert. You can even combine fruits if you like. Of course, top with whipped cream or ice cream for a special treat. This one will become a family favorite:

FRUIT COBBLER
1 quart blackberries, peaches, strawberries, peaches, pears, apples or other fruit
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 to 2 cups sugar, divided
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Dash of salt
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, if desired

Wash fruit and drain well.

In large saucepan, combine fruit, water and 1/2 to 1 cup sugar, depending on sweetness of fruit. Cook until mixture is hot and sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat and add lemon juice.

Melt butter in 2 quart baking pan. Combine 1 cup sugar, flour, baking powder and salt in medium mixing bowl. Stir in milk. Add cinnamon, if desired.

Pour batter over melted butter in pan, but do not stir. Spoon fruit mixture over batter and do not stir. (Batter will rise to top to form a crust while baking.)

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Back To School

Late summer, early fall—a time rife with transitions and changeovers. I view all of them with both a little anticipation and a little concern. Cool nights, with temperatures dipping back into the nearly forgotten range of the mid 40s, send the walleye scurrying back toward shallow environs closer to shore.

The period of this migration can be a bit dicey, as any given day will force the fisherman's hand into a number of locations and styles in search of a few fish. The end result, however, a week or two away, will have tightly-bunched schools of walleye beginning a heavy, pre-winter feeding pattern. I look forward to that time.

The cooling weather also triggers the schooling patterns of children, sending them currying back toward a potentially more-educational experience than any of them have had aboard my boat this summer. And after three months of what seems like a steady parade of busy, inquisitive, prying youngsters, I look forward to their schooling time as much as I do the fall schooling of the fish.

September becomes a time of predictability and quietude. As the character of my guests changes from child-ridden family retreats to mature corporate shmoozings, daily concerns about the boat's hardware becomes less of a morning imperative. No longer must I check GPS readings to find out if the navigational waypoints have been fiddled with enough to transform a two-minute run down-river into an 1,100-mile journey to a Toronto suburb.

No longer need I undertake an everyday cleaning of spilled root beer off the marine band radio microphone. No longer necessary is a morning inspection of my on-board coffee mug for the remnants of crawlers and leeches that somehow manage to make their way in there every time there's two or more 13-year-olds on the boat the day before. No longer do I find large numbers of snack food particles blocking the sensitive nature of the bilge pump float mechanism.

As these kids return to the fall classrooms, they bring their overwhelming barrage of questions with them, too. I can comfortably fall into my standard daily dialogue without having to answer incessant inquiries about the biggest, the most, the smelliest or the scariest. I don't have to form an educated opinion on the number of birds in that particular flock of the number of fish in the whole of the lake.

I can fearlessly begin a day knowing I won't have to explain why there are pines on Pine Island but no sables on Sable Island. I don't need to fabricate desperate, wild stories about the celebrities I've guided just to maintain a rapport with the youthful members of my boat. Nor do I need to know how deep it is every 37 seconds.

These lovable little tykes take back to school with them my need for on the water discipline as well. Abandoned each fall are such summertime favorites as "Put that down or you'll put your eye out" and "If you eat that you'll get sick."

Gone is the daily need for phrases like, "No, you can't cast here" (usually followed shortly thereafter by "That's OK, I was going to pierce my ear this November anyway") and "I promise I won't be mad if you untie me right now."

I don't have to practice in the mirror, anymore, those polite, paternal, stern-faced warnings like, "Hey, that's an expensive piece of equipment" or "If you touch the throttle one more time, you little * I'm going to kick your!"

Yes, after a summer's worth of what oftentimes seems like on-the-water daycare, I look forward to the changeover of fall. It's a relaxing, mature time that generally combines tightly schooled fish with an out-of-school crowd. This period usually lasts about a week or so, when it is followed closely by the next standard mid-September transition.

This passage has little to do with fish, but is marked, instead, by the slow realization, on my behalf, that things have become pretty dull without those kids around. The only thing in my coffee mug each morning is coffee. Questions revolve more around what's going into the fish cooler than what's going on around it. The toughest one-liners I get to dish out have to do with observations about the inclement weather.

And, just like it was several decades ago, by the time the end of September rolls around I find myself anxiously looking forward to the last day of school next May.

UMC ranked best college for second year

For the second year the University of Minnesota, Crookston, (UMC) has been ranked as one of the best public regional Universities in the Midwest.

UMC received this significant recognition based on the U.S. News and World Report ranking process which included several measures of excellence. UMC was ranked second in regional public schools - Midwest Regional Liberal Arts Colleges.

Since its beginning, UMC has had different missions first as a high school, then as a two year college, and now as a baccalaureate college. In 1993 UMC became the first college in the nation to issue notebook computers to all full-time students.

"This ranking speaks very well for UMC for the changes we've made, and this year we've moved to the second spot in the region in terms of a ranking," said UMC Chancellor Donald Sargeant.

The indicators that U.S. News and World Report uses to capture the various dimensions of academic quality fall into seven broad categories: academic reputation; retention of students; faculty resources; student selectivity; financial resources; graduation rate performance and alumni giving. UMC was honored out of a group of 400 similar institutions in the United States.

A long night awaited flagmen Steve Reed of Thief River Falls as he alerted traffic to a detour around construction at the intersection of Highways 1 and 59 Thursday. Equipment worked through the night to complete a concrete box culvert installation, and Reed was at his job until after daylight Friday. The job was tedious, but his friend Caleb Crepeau helped him pass the time.

Greenwood Street bridge project remains in the city plan

Haymond disagreed with the statement that there is no problem. Haymond said he has been involved in two near accidents during the time when Digi-Key and Arctic Cat employees leave work. There is a safety problem, he said, and explained that the fastest growing residential part of town is the southeast part of town, and the largest employers are located on the southwest part of town (industrial park). Those areas are expected to continue to grow.

Haymond added that he understands the concerns of residents who live along Greenwood Street and why they don't want the project in their back yard. He said however, that the council must consider the greater good. The residents on Greenwood Street aren't the only residents of the city who have to back out onto a busy street or highway. He added that there are a lot of residents in town who would like to have such a wide, quiet, street in front of their home.

The council finally agreed to a motion to direct city staff to proceed with the bridge plans and address the $294,000 Federal fund problem. This left the bridge still on the city's comprehensive plan. If the city council decides to pursue the bridge project in 2001 the city would still have to hold a public hearing.

■ The city council has directed engineering technical staff to develop a feasibility report for a walkway/bicycle path adjacent to Pennington Avenue from Nora Street to Hickory Road. The recommendation for the report was made after council representatives received "a lot of calls" after a turning lane was marked on Pennington Avenue.

The recommendation sparked some heated exchanges between council representatives that had been building throughout the evening.

Representative Jean Heinrichs, who had prior to this discussion taken some heat from Mayor Mark Borsheim about an Administrative Services recommendation to hire a company to provide safety services, said to Borsheim that when he was so interested in saving $500, this seems frivolous.

Interestingly enough, Heinrichs served on a citizens groups which helped create the Riverwalk project in the city. Heinrichs said she did support walking areas and at the conclusion of the discussion, did support the recommendation.

Borsheim said the city could use MSA funds for the path, and that there were DNR grant funds for such projects. He added that the recommendation was only an authorization to look into a possible project, not an approval.

Representative Milt Burstad asked why they had selected this area alone. He also wondered why pedestrians couldn't use the streets. When he was told by City Attorney Paul Ihle, that the streets were not made for pedestrians, he scoffed saying that his ward (ward one) was in big trouble. Burstad suggested that maybe the city should be looking at the entire city. Burstad also asked why the project would stop at Hickory if it would be used for students attending Challenger Elementary School. He was reminded that the city limit is at Hickory Road.

■ A motion to approve a recommendation to hire MMUA Northwest Safety Compliance Group Services and budget for the year 2000, was tabled after some discussion. Mayor Borsheim wanted to know whether any other avenue was pursued by the committee. Specifically, he wanted to know whether the committee had checked with Northwest Cooperative Services and Northland Community and Technical College, to see if they would provide similar services. Borsheim would rather spend the money locally. (This matter received considerable discussion last year.)

■ A recommendation to approve dropping the class C or SC certification requirement in the wastewater operators salary schedule was approved. Dale Wennberg, council representative, opposed - the recommendation because it didn't address a salary decrease for employees starting without the certification.

■ The Thief River Falls City Council accepted the resignation of Sid Fossan, building inspector. Fossan plans to take a similar position in Morris. The council also agreed to advertise for a replacement.

■ The council approved a recommendation to hire Jeff Joppru to fill the public works maintenance - government buildings position and accept his resignation from the sanitation department.

■ The council approved the internal position for the public works driver/collector's position vacated by Jeff Joppru.

■ Police Chief Ken Froschheiser was re-appointed as Chief of Police for a five-year term effective August 17, 1999.

■ Police Chief Ken Froschheiser presented a draft of the city's emergency management plan.

■ Dredging of the Red Lake river reservoir in Thief River Falls is proceeding. Apparently, they have experienced some delays because of branches on the bottom of the river, and the amount of methane gas in the sediment. The company performing the dredging work has brought in special equipment to deal with the difficulties.

■ A public hearing on the SCDP grant application will be held at 4:45 p.m., September 14, in the Thief River Falls city council chambers.

■ Items approved from the consent agenda include: a reduction of the transfer to the 1999 Revolving Capital Fund for the fire department by $4,500; a progression raise for Charles Lindgren, part-time patrol officer; approval of a Minnesota Department of labor grant for safety equipment in the amount of $3,799.57; a wastewater discharge permit for Swis Corp. to utilize the city's collection system.

Crass? Demeaning? 'The Body' is Still 'The Body'

Those folks outraged by the decision of our state's highest elected official to return to wallow in the shabby aspects of professional wrestling and to have the audacity to claim he was "proud to be here" may be a little more self-righteous posturing than righteous indignation.

We have no quarrel with holding our elected officials to a higher standard of conduct than the average guy or gal on the street. It just makes sense to us that they owe society the courtesy and respect of restraint while in office and show some responsibility in setting a proper example in their positions of trust.

In the case of our illustrious governor, however, we must consider his roots and his base of support. He gained his public recognition by being part and parcel of the sham known as pro rasslin'—not by his brief mayoral service—and everyone who voted for him knew it. We doubt that any of them really expected a person who earned his recognition as Jesse "The Body" Venturo to forsake his past and bow forever to civility and humility.

We recall talking to people who gave their votes to Ventura, and who claimed they felt he was the only honest candidate on the ballot. And we recall reminding them—tongue firmly in cheek—that if you can't trust a professional wrestler to speak the truth, who can you trust? Jesse, despite his self-annointing as "The Mind," is still the same old "Body."

Further, the public critics of the governor's behavior have themselves probably never had to weigh the potential of a personal seven-figure payday against some public disapproval. Venturo is a realist. He never expected to get elected in the first place, he probably doesn't expect to serve more than one term and he wants to ride his four years in the governor's chair for all it's worth. His reverting to the wrestling ring, where public disapproval was carefully cultivated as part of the act, shouldn't be expected to bother him very much. And his joining the show as a "referee" really didn't cause anyone any harm.

Ah, but didn't he use his office as governor for personal profit? Darn right! What governor do you know who hasn't? Wasn't his being a part of a vulgar and crass performance demeaning to his office? We can live with it. Hey, after all, we just waded through a period where the highest office holder in the whole nation sullied himself and his countrymen with gross improprieties within the walls of the houses of government, lied about them under oath and was defended by half the public and media in the country as a result. You want arrogance? You want demeaning? Talk about Bill Clinton.

Venturo did his thing apart from the office of governor. Sure, he wouldn't have had the gig if he was just another washed-up canvas stamper, but he didn't flaunt his office. To the best of our knowledge, he didn't wheel up to the ring in a state car with a trooper escort and sirens wailing and hop out wearing a red blazer proclaiming "The Body Is The Gov." That would have been demeaning to the office.

Venturo is who he is, and public lamenting of his behavior away from the office isn't going to change him. We bought the package when we gave him enough votes to be elected. And quite frankly, we would rather see our governor moonlighting in the public forum of a wrestling ring to earn a little extra fun money than meeting with lobbyists behind closed doors.

And you know what? Most of us guys— ethical as we like to believe we are—if we are really honest with ourselves, probably would have done the same thing if we had the chance. What's that old saying about pots calling kettles black?

34 Days Left:....The Countdown Continues

"How many days left?" is a question we hear more often as many of our acquaintances have learned about our end of September retirement from newspapering. Rarely have we been unable to give an accurate answer. As of today, the number is 34.....and counting.

As we near the final month of a job we have been performing for the past 45 years, there is indeed a feeling of finality that is impossible to shake. Not that it's a bad feeling, necessarily; we would feel worse if we had no emotion about cutting the ties of employment and the relationships with people we come in contact with from day to day. We're sure most retirees have had some of the same uncertainties and apprehensions.

The closer we get to the final work day, however, the more convinced we are that retirement is the right thing to do. It's time to break some old habits, to find and meet some new challenges, to get out of the road.

Pardon us for commenting editorially on this admittedly personal aspect of our life, but we have always considered newspapering sort of a personal thing between ourselves and our readers—especially editorial writing. It's a little like having a one-way family conversation.

We will probably have more to say on the subject later; it would be a surprise if we didn't. But for now, it's 34 days to "R" day....and yes, we are counting.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Over the past several weeks, I have been reading the letters to the editor, reading the editor's comments and listening to the local radio station program "What's Up" discussing the working relationship and trust controversy between the Dakota Clinic and Northwest Medical Center.

Dr. Jim Langland refers to the Dakota Clinic's attempts to "create an effective working relationship and to develop trust" with the NWMC administration. For some reason, his rationale always seems one-sided. Why did the Dakota Clinic have long terms plans to develop a hospital adjoining their new clinic without informing the community or NWMC? They knew at the onset of planning the new clinic there was a moratorium on new licensed hospital beds. What existing community services would be compromised if in fact the Dakota Clinic would, for some "unforeseen" reason, be able to develop their own hospital setting?

The word "trust" is defined as: "belief in and reliance on the integrity of a person or thing; confidence in the expectation of something; a person or thing that is reliable."

Many people do not realize that NWMC currently provides the region with a wide variety of services to include: in-patient hospital care services, emergency services, convalescent care services, physical/occupational therapy services, psychiatric/psychological services, day - night services, community support programs, dietary services, hearing test services, residential homes for the mentally ill and juveniles.

From what I've heard, read and experienced, it seems to me the Dakota Clinic physicians feel it absolutely necessary they be involved in only the aspects of the medical care services they find profitable and convenient.

Does the Dakota Clinic really believe our community's medical services can best be provided by a "for profit" corporation benefitting its shareholders rather than a 'not-for profit" corporation serving the community as a whole?

I agree with Dr. Langland that trust is imperative in any good working relationship. However, I feel it is the Dakota Clinic that needs to regain the trust of the NWMC board of directors and the people of our community.

Sincerely,
Paul Johnson, Administrator

To The Editor:

In his letter to the editor in the August 25 issue of the Thief River Falls Times, Tom Williams refers to Dakota Clinic's new facility on Highway 59 South as "cutting edge" and "cost cutting."

It is true that free-standing ambulatory surgery centers can perform certain surgical procedures at lower cost than hospitals can. But the public should understand why.

The fact of the matter is, it costs less to perform surgery in a facility like Dakota Clinic's that has no blood bank available if something goes wrong. It costs less to perform surgery in a facility that has no Intensive Care Unit if something goes wrong. It costs less to perform surgery in a facility that has fewer nursing staff trained in Advanced Cardiac Life Support than are available at a hospital. It costs less to perform surgery in a facility that is open Monday-Friday versus seven days per week and 24 hours per day. Lastly, it costs less to perform surgery in a facility that is an ambulance trip away from the hospital if something goes wrong.

When it comes to your health, "cost cutting" can mean "service cutting."

Thank you.

Thief River Falls senior Jenni Gonsorowski stretched to reach this return at the net against Grand Rapids Wednesday in season-opening girls high school tennis action at the Engelstad Park courts. Gonsorowski and Beth Padilla produced a No. 1 doubles victory in the Prowlers' 6-1 win over the Thunderhawks.

Thief River Falls is girls tennis winner over Grand Rapids

Thief River Falls handled Grand Rapids 6-1 Wednesday in the 1999 girls high school tennis season opener.

The host Prowlers won three of four singles matches and swept all three doubles encounters against the Thunderhawks.

Thief River Falls singles winners were senior Jenny Kimball, senior Dede Dally and freshman Eryn Clow at No. 2, 3 and 4, respectively.

Cross country debut is Tuesday

New Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country coach Chadwick Persons will watch his teams run their first race Tuesday when the Prowlers open the 1999 season at the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational.

Preseason workouts have gone well, according to Persons, who succeeds Terri Ueland as the Prowlers' coach. "It's been very enjoyable," he said. "The kids have a good work ethic. They've done a great job adapting to a new coach and new philosophies."

Because of the roster sizes, the boys will have an edge over the girls this fall when Thief River Falls' point totals are figured at the end of each race.

"The girls are down in numbers," acknowledged Persons. "Because of that, we'll have to use some younger runners to fill the varsity line-up."

For the boys, a larger turnout should produce a taste of success, according to Persons. "If they all work hard, the boys could be very competitive," he said. "We don't have any first place-type standout, but they all are solid, middle-of-the-pack runners. We'll be a pack-running type of team."

Returning letter winners for the girls are seniors Emily Mugaas and Lisa McKercher, along with sophomores Becky Solem, Jocki Mooney and Janae Harlow.

Rest of the girls' roster includes sophomores Brittany Larson and Ashleigh Anderson, plus seventh grader Nicole Gryskiewicz.

The boys return seven letter winners: seniors Seth Harlow and Zach Bosh; juniors Dewey Worker and Chad Borneman; sophomores Andre Thibodeau and Tanner Bosh; along with eighth grader Jesse Sich.

Bakke Insurance wins trap titles

Bakke Insurance team that included Karl Bjorkman, Luke Novacek, Don Lindquist, Rick Sovde, Fran Johnson, and Al Steinhauer was a double winner Monday on the final night of 1999 shooting in the Thief River Falls Trap League.

Their efforts beat a six-team field that took part in the city championship shoot for qualifiers from the First and Second Half regular season point standings. And they picked up additional honors by being named the total points champion during the year – a combination of First and Second Half shooting.

Bakke Insurance won the post-season city championship 50-bird shoot with a 240, followed by the Eagles at 239, Red Lake Falls 236, Narverud Cleaners 231, The Times 227, and Northwest Grain 225.

New coach familiar with her roster and Prowlers' 1999 foes

Mary Helen Houlihan may be new to the job, but she's very familiar with the surroundings. The first-year Thief River Falls girls high school swim coach directed the USS Tigersharks program during the summer, giving her an opportunity to coach most of the current Prowlers and a providing glimpse of the fall competition.

"I think we'll have a pretty strong team," said Houlihan. "A good portion of the girls swam in the USS state championship meet, and did really well. They swam against enough of the people we will face this fall to know they will be very competitive. I think it will be a really fun year."

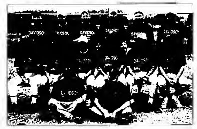
The squad will be led by a returning state champion and a half-dozen senior letter winners back from last year's team that went 5-5 in dual meet competition under the direction of Shan Thompson. That team did not have a senior in the line-up.

Chelsea Haviland won the Minnesota Class A state meet diving title as a freshman last year, and has earned honors at the national level in Junior Olympics diving competition. During the high school season Haviland also competes in swimming events, and her work habits in early practice sessions have helped set the tone for the drills, according to Houlihan.

"We have a state champion and six returning seniors who will be our team leaders," mentioned Houlihan, who said the Prowlers will be able to put quality performers in every event this fall.

The seniors include Andrea Olin, Kristin Noplin, Jenny Sarvig, Andi Sorvig, Lindsay Ehrenstrom, and Julie Chrzanowski. Olin and Chrzanowski are the Prowlers' captains.

Other letter winners on hand include junior Danica Shroeder; sophomore Jenny Lindquist; freshmen Brittany Haviland, Tiffany Sorenson, and Michele Johnson; along with eighth graders Kendra Mooney and Cami Hendrickson.



Rest of the team members reporting for the start of practice include junior Sara Casberg; sophomores Amanda Bottem, Amber Curry, Alliso Holmaas, Kristal Hickey, Stefany Olson; freshmen Frannie Monn, Carrie Dahlin, Jenny Heaton; eighth graders Carli Cota, Tami Dowers, Dani Sorvig; seventh graders Sara Kolinaski, Trista Curry, Kristina Dahle, Jenna Dillon, Ann Ehrenstrom, Kayla Johnson, Ashley Read; plus sixth graders Casey Engelstad, Suzy Rosencrans, Lisa Dowers, and Allyson Helling.

Tony Delaney and Wendy Lindquist are serving as assistant coaches.

The Prowlers will open the season with meets Tuesday at home against Fosston/Bagley-Clearbrook-Gonvick beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the Franklin Middle School pool and Thursday at Fergus Falls starting at 6 p.m.

State title is won by Newfolden ball club

Davidson Well Drilling turned in a title-winning 5-0 showing at the Park Rapids-hosted 1999 Minnesota Class E men's slow pitch softball state tournament.

The Newfolden League regular season and playoff champion finished second to league rival Hobo Haus in the state-qualifying District 7 tournament at Crookston, then pushed its overall season record to 36-11 with the five-game sweep at Park Rapids.

Davidson Well Drilling reached the state tournament finals by beating Monticello 6-3, Fourth Street of Grand Rapids 4-3, Ruck's Meats out of the Twin Cities area 16-4, and Cellular 2000 of Thief River Falls 4-3. Cellular 2000 had a 3-1 lead with two out and nobody on base in the bottom of the seventh when the winners rallied with five straight base hits.

A championship game rematch with Fourth Street produced another Davidson Well Drilling victory, this time by a 10-6 margin.

Jerald Hagen hit .733 (11/15) in the five games and was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Other state championship team members were Todd Brandon, Jason Pilcher, Jeff Anderson, Brian Bengston, Jeff Davidson, Brent Magner, Andy Peterson, Justin Magner, Greg Underdahl, Brett Brandon, Vinnie Miramantes, Steve Boe, and Deon Brondon. Russ Sparby, Greg Graham and Phil Sillanpaa played with the team during the year, but did not make the state tournament trip.

Nine report for NCTC golf

Plans for reinstatement of a golf program at Northland Community and Technical this fall included teams for both men and women, to be operated together by a single coach, Rick Nikunen.

But when the players assembled for the start of practice at the Thief River Golf Club, it was an all-male turnout.

It's a nine-man squad that begins the 1999 season with freshmen listed as the Pioneers' top three golfers – Justin Buhl, Sauk Rapids; Jon Lee, Thief River Falls; and Dominic Ste. Marie, Red Lake Falls.

Rest of the roster includes sophomores Pete Vacha, Fargo, ND; Jared Olofson and Dustin Stewart, Warroad; Jeremy Vocura, Badger; Dave Thompson, Mahnomen; and Charlie Johnson, Middle River.

MCCC state and National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournaments will be held simultaneously Oct. 4-5 in Mankato. Team champion, along with the top five individual finishers in the regional event will qualify for the NJCAA national tournament next June in North Carolina.

2,000 Farmers rally behind call for real reform

by Rep. Jim Tunheim

Nearly 2,000 farmers and rural advocates meet at the Rural Crisis Accountability Day rally Saturday, Aug. 21 in Waconia to call for real reform of federal farm programs and agricultural markets. People from Rural Minnesota, state and federal officials, and organized labor met and agreed on the need for action now to ease the farm crisis. The event at the Carver County Fairgrounds attracted coverage from the major Twin Cities media, which is important in getting the message out. Participants cheered as speakers called for restoring a floor under farm prices - removed as a result of the 1996 "Freedom to Farm" bill - and for other reforms including:

• Mandatory price reporting and an end to secret contracts.

• Limits on "captive supply" and meat packing companies raising their own animals.

• Anti-trust action against mergers and increasing concentration in corporate agribusiness.

Congress gave farmers the "Freedom to Farm Bill" and the Republican Congress is blocking efforts to fix the problems with it. Pressure needs to be put on members of our Congressional delegation to make changes.

Since the farm price crisis began last summer, Minnesota state lawmakers have been working with elected officials from other Midwestern states to shape a response. In the 1999 Legislative Session, the Minnesota House passed a bill for a law requiring livestock buyers to report the prices they pay on a daily basis and to make public copies of production contracts they offer to farmers. While that's important it's only one step because the real problem is prices. No farmer, no matter how efficient, can make his or her operation run on $1.50 corn, $3 wheat or $20 hogs.

Federal legislators attending the rally included U.S. Sen. Paul Wellstone and Minnesota Congressmen David Minge, Bruce Vento and Martin Sabo. About 20 state representatives, and senators were on hand, along with Minnesota Attorney General Mike Hatch.

Hatch brought a group of attorneys from his office along to take statements from farmers about their dealings with major grain and meat packing firms. Hatch is accumulating information for possible legal action. Any farmer wishing to contribute information should send a letter to: Attorney Gen. Mike Hatch, Farm Anti-Trust Investigation, 102 State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155. Be sure to include your name and address and as many specifics as possible.

I welcome additional comments at Box 66, Kennedy, MN, 56733, rep.jim.tunheim@house.leg.state.mn.us or 218-674-4480.

MDA has funds to develop sustainable farming systems

Minnesota Department of Agriculture is now accepting applications for grants from Minnesota farmers, researchers, educators and non-profit organizations who have innovative ideas for sustainable farming systems. The MDA's Energy and Sustainable Agriculture Program has $150,000 to award this year.

Individual grants up to $25,000 are available for three-year projects that benefit the environment, increase farm profits and improve the farm family quality of life. Successful grant projects in the past have included rotational grazing systems, deep litter bedding hog systems, weed control, alternative fertilizers, strip cropping, processing and direct marketing systems, tillage comparisons, composting, cover crops and more.

Projects involving collaborative efforts have the option to use the first year for team development and project planning. This allows for the use of grand funds to support the careful, thoughtful development of a project by a cooperative group.

The program encourages one-year planning grants that can be used to put together a team and design work plans. Individuals or groups may apply for up to $5,000 for a planning grant. After the planning grant is completed, the recipient may apply for a grant to implement the plans.

Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson has praised the program as a way to help farmers diversify and learn more by decreasing risks associated with new endeavors.

"Many farmers are looking for ways to diversify their farms to increase profit potential," Commissioner Hugoson said. "MDA's grant program builds on farmers' learning styles and covers some of the costs and risks associated with trying new and unproven practices."

Since 1989, 174 grants have been awarded to projects throughout the state. A group of dairy farmers in northwestern Minnesota is testing the feasibility of supplementing grazing using automated grain and supplement feeders in pastures. Neal Hansen at the West Central Research and Outreach Center in Morris is testing land application of composted dead animals as a way to improve soil and water quality on farm land. A farmer in Brown county is growing woods-grown ginseng as a way to utilize woodland and take advantage of a strong ginseng market.

Projects must be conducted on farms in Minnesota. Joint applications for watershed projects or farmer groups are encouraged. Matching funds may increase the level of funding available for multi-participant projects. Grant recipients share their experiences by hosting public field days.

Completed applications must be received by 4:30 p.m. on December 15. An independent panel of farmers and agricultural specialists will review applications. For more information or an application form, contact Wayne Monsen, Grant Program Coordinator with the Energy and Sustainable Agriculture Program, at the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107; call 651-282-2261; or use the e-mail address: Wayne.Monsen@state.mn.us

Study shows more farmland being lost to urban uses

Imagine a new Mall of America every day. That's how much farmland in the 13-county Twin Cities metropolitan area is being paved over. To put it on a yearly basis, one 36-square-mile township — about 22,500 acres — is being converted to urban uses.

And the rate of farmland conversion has increased in the past five years, according to a new University of Minnesota study.

The farmland loss rate has been more rapid in the outer fringe counties — Wright and Chisago counties in Minnesota and St. Croix and Pierce counties in Wisconsin. These four counties all had declines of over 30,000 acres from 1982 to 1997, according to Extension Educator Tom Wegner and Extension economist Steve Taff of the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

Population growth appears to be the driving force in the decline of agricultural lands, Wegner and Taff say.

The "agricultural land" definition in their study includes only lands actively pastured or cropped; and therefore is less than traditional measures. The study, based on census of Agriculture data for 1997, measured nearly 23.2 million acres of Minnesota farmland, compared with the traditional measure of just under 26 million acres.

To be counted as "farmers," farm operators had to sell $1,000 worth of agricultural products each year.

Conversion of farmland to urban land is often linked with urban sprawl and concerns about such land-use changes, their report says. "These include the need to keep the region's economy diversified, desirability of maintaining open space, a concern about the livelihood of farmers and a fond wish to control sprawl. Maintenance of farmland is held to be the key to success."

The Census of Agriculture has been conducted every five years for the past several decades. It gets its data from mail surveys, followed by some telephone and personal contacts to fill in any major gaps. The U.S. Department of Agriculture claims an accuracy rate of about two percent.

The report is available at http://agecon.lib.umn.edu/mn.html. Or, write the Waite Library, University of Minnesota, Department of Applied Economics, 232 COB, St. Paul, MN 55108.

SWCD has funds for conservation cost share program

Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District was successful in obtaining funding through the Red Lake Game Fund to set up a cost-share program for Beltrami County residents.

The cost-share program will assist landowners or local units of governments (townships) in two identified areas. The first, covers farmstead windbreaks, wildlife or block plantings (this does not include field windbreaks or plantings on RIM or CRP, etc.) The second, to repair damage due to natural disasters, is to help with roads or crossings that have washed out, gullying or erosion in fields due to excess rain, or other projects needed due to weather related problems.

Cost-share assistance is available on first-come-first-served basis and will pay up to 50 percent of the costs of the project.

This program meets the Red Lake Game Fund objective of "Rehabilitation and Development of Natural Resources." It also gives the SWCD a "contingency fund" of readily available funding for flooding, water damage or other natural disaster related problems.

For more information, contact the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD at 218-294-6144.

Hot weather can add stress, danger to work on the farm

Awareness that hot weather can add danger and stress to farm work is the first step in reducing the problems caused by heat, according to Michelle Schermann, a registered nurse and extension educator in agricultural safety and health with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Heat can cause direct harm if you get so hot your body can't handle it," Schermann says. "And it adds to the stress that can be a big contributor to accidents. That's even more true when you can hardly see because of the sweat dripping into your eyes."

Schermann offers the following ideas for keeping more safe during hot weather:

• Think about safety basics. Make sure all tractors have roll-over protection. Replace missing shields. Maintain and use lights, flashers and reflectors on machines. Replace slow-moving vehicle signs as needed. Keep machinery in good working order. Know and follow confined-space safety rules. Learn basic first aid, CRP and emergency response. Don't give kids jobs they're not ready for.

• Drink plenty of water. In hot weather, that means at least eight large glasses a day and more if you're really working up a sweat. To tell if you're drinking enough, check the color of your urine. If it's dark, drink more water.

• Wear cool clothing. Light-colored, loose-fitting clothes made of natural fibers such as cotton will help you stay cool. (Beware of using loose-fitting clothing while operating equipment.) Socks made of materials such as polypropylene and Thermax will help your feet stay cool and dry. A wide-brimmed hat can also help you stay comfortable.

Take time to cool off. Splash yourself with water occasionally. Take breaks in the shade. Five minutes spent cooling off is less time from work than a run to an emergency room—or months in physical therapy due to a stress-related incident.

Watch for heat exhaustion and heatstroke. Heatstroke is a life-threatening condition in which your body loses its ability to control its own temperature. Your pulse races, you stop sweating, you may get dizzy and your body temperature may soar (104-106 degrees F).

To give first aid to a person with heatstroke, cool the person down with a cold water bath. Call 911 immediately. If a hospital is far away, wrap the person in a cold, wet sheet or wet the person's clothing with cool water while waiting for transportation. Take the person's temperature every 10 minutes and be sure it does not fall below 101 degrees Fahrenheit to avoid converting hyperpyrexia to hypothermia.

• Plan around the heat. Think about the heat forecast as well as the rain forecast. Avoid strenuous work if it's very hot; save it for a cooler day.

• Watch the sweat factor. Sweat helps cool your skin as it evaporates. But it can also make your hands slippery and impede your vision. Be extra careful when performing everyday tasks when you're sweaty.

• Quit while you're ahead. Heat exhaustion occurs when you are low on water and electrolytes. Symptoms are cold, clammy skin and a slowed pulse. If you think you might have heat exhaustion, stop working. If you start to feel dizzy or sick to your stomach, get out of the sun, drink lots of fluids and take it easy the rest of the day. You've had too much.

• Watch your workers. Your help, whether hired workers or family members, may hesitate to slow down or heat because they don't want you to think they're wimps. Give them permission to take care of their health and safety by adjusting their (and your) expectations in hot weather.

Walter Bros. Farm herd tops Red Lake-Pennington DHIA

Walter Bros. Farm at Plummer led the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of June with an average of 70 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat (3.2 test) and 2.1 pounds of protein (3.1 test). Eighty-seven percent of the 254-cow herd was in milk in June.

Second place herd was owned by Morlyn and Debbie Omquist with 84 percent of the 44-cow herd in milk and averaging 70 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat (3.1 test) and 2.1 pounds of protein (2.9 test).

Todd and Kathy Johnston had the third-place herd with 85 percent of the 67-cow herd in production and averaging 69 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of butterfat and 2.1 pounds of protein.

Gary and Polly Bakken's herd of 80 cows, 87 percent of which was in milk, averaged 67 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.0 pounds of protein for fourth place in the association.

Fifth place went to the Wayne Vettleson herd of 173 cows, 84 percent of which was in milk, with average daily production of 65 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat and 1.9 pounds of protein. The Vettleson herd is milked three times a day.

Other herds in the top 15 for the month of June included the following with the number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk and pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively.

Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large cow herd), 41, 90%, 63, 2.3 and 2.1; Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (small cow herd), 67, 88%, 62, 2.1 and 2.0; Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 45, 87%, 59, 2.1 and 1.7; Lowell Smeby, 39, 92%, 59, 1.9 and 1.9; and Wesley Bring, 33, 97%, 58, 1.9 and 1.8.

Also Warren Malwitz Dairy, 125, 86%, 58, 1.9 and 1.7; David Oslund, 254, 90%, 57, 2.0 and 1.8; Greg Zak, 45, 84%, 57, 1.9 and 1.7; Tony Gerardy, 43, 95%, 57, 2.0 and 1.7; Arlan and Barb Weiss, 43, 86%, 57, 1.9 and 1.8 and Tom Willett, 49, 82%, 57, 1.9 and 1.7.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd during the month of testing since averages are based on all cows in the herd to give the dairyman a record of the herd's earning power that month. If a large percentage of the cows are not in production, the average for the entire herd will be low.

Information on the top herds is provided by Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors, through the University of Minnesota Extension Service office in Thief River Falls.

Ethanol industry poised for 21st century growth

American Coalition for Ethanol (ACE) sees a bright future ahead for the ethanol industry in the next century, according to Trevor Guthmiller, its executive director.

"It has really been in the last 20 years that the ethanol industry in the United States has taken off," he said. "We expect this industry to continue to grow even more during the next 20 years."

Currently there is capacity for about 1.8 billion gallons of ethanol production in the United States, creating a market for up to 700 million bushels of corn per year. Guthmiller said the industry is hopeful that can double in the next 10 years or less. He bases his optimism on several possibilities:

• Ethanol replacing MTBE in reformulated gasoline;

• Ethanol being blended with diesel to create oxy-diesel:

• Ethanol being certified in more aviation engines;

• E85 use continuing to grow; and

• Ethanol blending limits being increased above 10 percent.

Currently there is more than twice as much MTBE sold in the country as there is ethanol sold. In California, where no MTBE is to be sold after 2002, it is estimated that about 530 million gallons of ethanol would be needed to replace MTBE. This would create a new market for 212 million bushels of corn.

Blending ethanol with diesel fuel could require another 2.25 billion gallons of ethanol to meet the demand—more than double the current production.

Ethanol fuels are continuing to be certified in aviation engines. Because ethanol is high in octane and low in vapor pressure, it makes an excellent aviation fuel, according to Guthmiller.

The number of places that sell E85—a blend that contains 85 percent ethanol and 15 percent gasoline—continues to expand. Automakers continue to increase the number of vehicles they produce that can run on 85 percent ethanol. Currently the Ford Taurus and Ranger, Chevrolet S-10, GMC Sonoma and many Chrysler minivans come equipped with the ability to run any blend of fuel up to 85 percent ethanol.

Another area that Guthmiller believes holds potential for creating demand for more ethanol is the opportunity to blend more than 10 percent ethanol in gasoline. Federal law currently limits the amount of ethanol that can be blended in gasoline at 10 percent (except for E85 which is considered an alternative fuel). Guthmiller said he believes that almost all vehicles on the road today could easily run on blends of fuel containing up to 40 percent ethanol with no modifications.

If the demand for ethanol does increase as expected, the American Coalition for Ethanol would like to see that demand filled by farmer-owned ethanol plants.

"Any increase in ethanol demand and production will benefit corn producers," he said, "but we would like to see farmers directly benefit through owning the processing facilities themselves."

Strong non-farm economy is important in rural areas

What happens in the non-farm economy is very important in small rural communities, according to Vernon Eidman, head of the department of applied economics at the University of Minnesota.

If a family leaves farming but remains living in the community, the economy of a small town may actually improve, depending on how much non-farm income the family earns, he said.

"Communities need to be doing some planning and thinking about how to retain people if they leave farming," Eidman said. "Some communities are doing this, but many people avoid it because of their own financial situation. However, many people find that everyone else is in the same boat, and this makes it easier to talk.

"If families remain in the community, they're still in Little League, active in the church and on the school board. And most families would like to remain in their communities."

One of the best options for many farmers is to supplement farm income with a non-farm job for awhile, Eidman said. "Unfortunately, this farm crisis won't be over in a few months. We're looking beyond the end of 1999, possibly 2000 or later before things improve substantially.

"History tells us there will be a turnaround—there always is. But at this point we don't see the set of events that will cause it, or when it will occur."

The important thing for farmers and consumers to remember, Eidman says, is that farmers did not cause the problem. He says prices in 1995 and 1996 encouraged farmers worldwide to expand production. They planted more acres and three successive years of relatively favorable weather resulted in large supplies of wheat, coarse grains and oilseeds.

"Export markets declined as the economies of major importing countries—particularly in Asia, Brazil and Russia—went into recession," Eidman adds, "but we need to remember that farmers don't control the world economy or the weather.

"There are no magic answers to the farm crisis," he says. But he encourages farmers to work with the U of M Extension Service or other resources on financial and market planning and on positioning their businesses for the future.

Avoid aerating stored grain during hot weather

Don't aerate stored grain during hot weather. That's the best policy unless a major grain spoilage and heating problem develops, according to Bill Wilcke, engineer with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"The main causes of grain spoilage are mold and insects," says Wilcke. "The ideal temperature for growth and reproduction of many types of stored grain molds and insects is 60-90 degrees Fahrenheit weather is likely to increase spoilage."

Wilcke says there isn't a lot you can do to correct spoilage problems that develop during hot weather. Taking steps before hot weather arrives to reduce the chances of spoilage is the best strategy. Wilcke suggests you:

• Clean bins before harvest to removed old grain and fines that might harbor insects.

• Remove broken kernels and non-grain material from grain before storage.

• Make sure the crop is dry enough for safe storage. The warmer the temperature, the drier the grain needs to be. Corn and small grains should be no wetter than 14 percent moisture and soybeans no wetter than 12 percent moisture during summer storage.

• Aerate grain during late winter or early spring, before hot weather arrives, to make sure you have a uniform grain temperature no warmer than about 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

What if you see mold growth, smell musty or sour odors, or detect grain heating during hot weather? If the problem isn't too bad and cooler weather is on the way, wait until the weather changes, says Wilcke. Then operate aeration fans during the coolest weather available — even if that means just running fans at night. If you have livestock and the grain isn't too moldy to feed, feed it as soon as possible. If spoilage is in an isolated spot, try to remove that spot (perhaps with a vacuum-type grain conveyor) without disturbing the rest of the grain.

"When you work around moldy grain, protect your lungs from mold spores by wearing a respirator," says Wilcke. "Also, familiarize yourself with the suffocation danger associated with bridged or caked moldy grain collapsing."

If removing an isolated area of spoiled grain isn't possible, it may be best to unload the whole bin and sell it, says Wilcke. Or, run it through a grain cleaner as you transfer it to another bin. If you detect grain temperatures above 120 degrees Fahrenheit that are increasing, start the aeration fan to try to keep the grain cool until you can remove it from the bin.

Most who leave the farm do well, psychologist says

About 80 to 85 percent of farmers who leave the farm do very well within about four years, according to Val Farmer, psychologist and newspaper columnist who works with farm families.

"They may not be doing as well financially," Farmer says about people who leave the land, "but they grow in character, develop resiliency and learn some new things about themselves. It takes awhile to find something different that they're good at.

"The first two or three years are usually tough," he adds. "They haven't connected with what they do well. But once they make that connection, they find life is better. They're under less stress and actually have vacations and weekends off."

Speaking at a recent Citizens' Forum on Minnesota's rural crisis, Farmer said a person can start a new, creative cycle at any age. "Farmers—and anyone for that matter—can find something new at age 54 and go with it for another 20 years."

A one-time farmer who has made a transition is Carolyn Weber, who farmed with her husband before they left the farm. She went back to school at the University of Minnesota—Crookston for an agricultural degree.

"We've found we can have hope, and that we can stay in agriculture without farming," she said. "And rural areas aren't the only place you can be happy. I've made some really good friends in the city."

Two additional state Citizens' Forums are scheduled, each followed by locally based citizens' forums. The next will originate from FarmFest near Redwood Falls Thursday, August 5, on the topic "How important is a strong rural economy to Minnesota."

Last in the series will be August 30 and originate from the Fitzgerald Theater in downtown St. Paul. Topic for that session will be "Creating a vision for the future of Minnesota agriculture."

Check with the county office of the University of Minnesota Extension Service for more information on the forums, and on a new website with hundreds of references to help rural families in crisis. MDA offers free water-testing clinic

Minnesota Department of Agriculture, along with the Minnesota Department of Health's Well Management unit, and the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation district will conduct a clinic next month to test drinking water, livestock watering systems and irrigation wells for nitrates in Marshall county and surrounding counties.

The clinic will be held on Friday, September 3, in Fourtown at the Fourtown Store from 10 a.m to noon. The event is part of a statewide series of water-testing clinics being offered throughout 1999.

Nitrates are the most common contaminants in Minnesota's groundwater, and a significant number of the state's wells have high nitrate levels. With that in mind, MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson urges people to take advantage of the free clinics.

"We strongly recommend that people take advantage of this service because studies indicate somewhere between five percent and 25 percent of the private wells in greater Minnesota have nitrate levels above the federal drinking water standard," Commissioner Hugoson said. "Nitrates can be a major problem when they are consumed by infants because they can cause suffocation due to a condition known as 'blue baby' syndrome."

In 1998, 156 clinics were held in 63 counties across the state. Clinics have been offered at county fairs, University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station field days, and as separate events.

In order to participate in the testing, homeowners must bring at least one-half cup of water in either a Whirl-Pak plastic bag or a Ziploc-type bag. In order to get a representative sample, allow the water to run 5 to 10 minutes before filling the bag. Homeowners with water treatment equipment should take two water samples — one before and one after the treatment process. Homeowners with just a water softener need only take one sample, either before or after the water passes through the water softener.

Samples should be taken no more than 24 hours before the testing, and they must be refrigerated. Samples should be cool when arriving at the clinic. To ensure accuracy, homeowners should mark the bags with their name, phone number and a well identification number if more than one well is sampled.

If they wish, homeowners may remain anonymous. In that case they should simply choose another easily recognized number to put on the well samples. It is not necessary to provide information about the wells from which water is taken.

Samples are analyzed on the spot — the process usually takes less than five minutes — and the results are given directly to the homeowner. If the nitrate level in a sample is elevated, MDA/MDH staff can refer the homeowner to certified labs that will retest the water.

MDA/MDH staff will also distribute information to the homeowner describing ways to correct nitrate problems. Minnesota Extension Service bulletins about fertilizer Best Management Practices will be available, as well as information on manure management and crediting nitrate in irrigation water.

The MDA/MDH's nitrate testing clinics are presented in cooperation with County Extension Educators, Soil and Water Conservation Districts and local organizations.

"We were very pleased with the attendance and public interest in past clinics," Commissioner Hugoson said. "In some cases, as many as 500 people brought in water samples for testing. Many people asked that the clinics continue so they can feel more confident that the water they are drinking is safe."

For more information on the clinics, contact MDA Soil Scientist Jerry Floren at 651-297-7082.

Senate Youth program open to applicants

Selection process—in which outstanding ability and leadership qualities weigh heavily—has now begun for the 38th annual United States Senate Youth Program to be conducted March 4-11, 2000.

Two outstanding Minnesota high school students will soon be chosen to spend a week visiting Capitol Hill, the White House, Pentagon, State Department, Supreme Court and other highlights in the nation's capital.

They will also receive $2,000 college scholarships, hear and talk with Senators, Representatives and other government leaders and policy makers.

Each year the 38-year-old program brings two students from each state, the District of Columbia and the Department of Defense schools overseas to Washington, DC, for an intensive week-long government study—fully funded by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

Candidates must be junior or senior elected student officers for the 1999-2000 academic year who reside in the state where they attend school. Selection is coordinated by the chief school officer in each state in cooperation with high school principals.

Names of students selected will be announced December 14, 1999.

Interested students in Minnesota should contact their high school principal or Randal Dietrich, Education Program Coordinator, Minnesota Academic Education Foundation, 1500 Highway 36 West, Roseville, MN 55113-4266, phone 651-582-8476.

State Fair opened Thursday; new gate hours noted

Minnesota State Fair, which runs from August 26 through September 6, is observing new gate hours for 1999. Gates will be open from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m. except for Labor Day, September 6, when gates close at 9 p.m.

The opening time is a change from prior years when the gates opened at 6 a.m. The extra hour of preparation time is needed each day to get the fairgrounds in St. Paul in top shape for visitors.

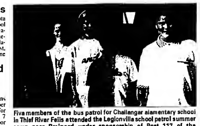
Billed as "The Great Minnesota Get Together," the State Fair offers a multitude of entertainment programs, food items, demonstrations, displays and exhibits. Many area residents make an effort to attend the state fair and many 4-H club members earn trips to the event by their championship placing at their county fairs.

NW Sr. Federation will meet Sept. 9

Northwest Senior Federation of Thief River Falls will hold its delegate assembly Thursday, September 9, at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls, beginning with coffee and registration from 9:30 to 10 a.m.

Tara Giese of Lutheran Social Service will speak on the LSS Respite Care and Caregiver Support program, according to Al Sollom, federation president.

Among items on the agenda for the assembly will be convention reports, Social Security update, discussion of officers for 2000-2001 and reports from county vice presidents. A noon lunch will be served and everyone is welcome to attend.



Watercolor workshop planned September 18-20 in Badger

Artists Unlimited of Lake Bronson will host a three-day watercolor workshop with artist Marilyn Beth Hughes of Billings, MT, September 18-20 at the Badger community center.

Class enrollment quota has been filled, but anyone interested in being placed on a waiting list in case of a cancellation may call Audrey Sandahl at 218-754-2636.

As part of the workshop, Artists Unlimited is sponsoring a supper at 5:30 p.m. and slide show at 7 p.m. Sunday, September 19, at the Twins Cafe in Badger. The only cost to attend is the price of the meal ordered, but reservations must be made by September 15 by calling Frances Karlsson at 218-413-1336, Paulette Christianson at 218-528-3280 or Audrey Sandahl.

The activity is made possible in part by a grant provided by the Northwest Regional Development Commission through funding from the Minnesota State Arts Board and the Minnesota Legislature.

Five members of the bus patrol for Challenger elementary school in Thief River Falls attended the Legionville school patrol summer camp near Brainerd under sponsorship of Post 117 of the American Legion and Auxiliary in Thief River Falls. The students will work as bus patrol members in the coming school year, assisting students crossing streets at the bus stops mornings and afternoons. Those going to the camp were Jacky Mallestad, Jordan Beste, Mandy Thompson, Peter Lofgren and Andrew Blacklance.

Ninth District American Legion band ends season

The Ninth District American Legion band will complete its 70th year by participating in the National American Legion Convention held in Anaheim, CA, starting September 2. This organization is the only district band left in the United States. They are financially supported by voluntary donations from the American Legion posts in the State of Minnesota.

In 1929, during their first district convention in Thief River Falls, the band paraded in bib overalls. Today, they dress in maroon blazers, navy blue slacks, American Legion hats, and in hot weather, wear snappy white and maroon sport shirts.

The band has marched in Indianapolis, Los Angeles, Miami Beach, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Honolulu, Boston, Seattle, Cincinnati, San Antonio, Baltimore, Chicago, Salt Lake City, and twice in both New Orleans and Minneapolis, all former National Convention cities.

The band roster numbers 67 which includes six ladies. Fergus Falls is the southern post, Lake of the Woods, the northern post. Members include 23 retirees from all walks of life as well as 17 band directors from elementary, junior, and senior high schools: four college band directors, one National Guard Post band director, nine businessmen, two surgeons, three attorneys, one CPA, one farmer, one banker, three insurance agents, one barber and one Congressman. Participating band members who have left the area come from Iowa, Texas, Arizona, California, Washington, DC. Herschel Lysaker, the business manager for the past 40 years, is the only member left of the original 1929 members. He reports that enthusiasm remains intact. A rapport has grown among members who have shared their talents, time, and experiences. The band is "one big happy family."

Officers are Jim Amdal, Fergus Falls post, vice-president, Dick Ramsey, Grand Forks post, treasurer, Duane Amess, Fisher post, William Pond of Bemidji, a member of the East Grand Forks post, is the band director. Herschel Lysaker, Crookston post, is the business manager.

New band recruits are welcome. Interested persons should contact the officers or one of the band members.

They will also receive $2,000 college scholarships, hear and talk with Senators, Representatives and other government leaders and policy makers.

Each year the 38-year-old program brings two students from each state, the District of Columbia and the Department of Defense schools overseas to Washington, DC, for an intensive week-long government study—fully funded by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

Candidates must be junior or senior elected student officers for the 1999-2000 academic year who reside in the state where they attend school. Selection is coordinated by the chief school officer in each state in cooperation with high school principals.

Names of students selected will be announced December 14, 1999.

Interested students in Minnesota should contact their high school principal or Randal Dietrich, Education Program Coordinator, Minnesota Academic Education Foundation, 1500 Highway 36 West, Roseville, MN 55113-1266, phone 651-582-8176.

State Fair opened Thursday; new gate hours noted

Minnesota State Fair, which runs from August 26 through September 6, is observing new gate hours for 1999. Gates will be open from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m. except for Labor Day, September 6, when gates close at 9 p.m.

The opening time is a change from prior years when the gates opened at 6 a.m. The extra hour of preparation time is needed each day to get the fairgrounds in St. Paul in top shape for visitors.

Billed as "The Great Minnesota Get Together," the State Fair offers a multitude of entertainment programs, food items, demonstrations, displays and exhibits. Many area residents make an effort to attend the state fair and many 4-H club members earn trips to the event by their championship placing at their county fairs.

NW Sr. Federation will meet Sept. 9

Northwest Senior Federation of Thief River Falls will hold its delegate assembly Thursday, September 9, at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls, beginning with coffee and registration from 9:30 to 10 a.m.

Among items on the agenda for the assembly will be convention reports, Social Security update, discussion of officers for 2000-2001 and reports from county vice presidents. A noon lunch will be served and everyone is welcome to attend.

After 43 yrs., Kaiser works last shift at nursing home

Crookston - After 10,019 shifts, Nona Kaiser punched the time clock for the last time at Villa St. Vincent Nursing Home.

At a party in her honor, staff and residents paid tribute to Kaiser who only had a few tearful words in reply.

While she's looking forward to retirement, Kaiser says she's going to miss the people. However, she adds that there is one thing she won't miss. "I'm not going to miss cutting toenails," she says. "That was a cumbersome job." Crookston Daily Times

Book highlights story of Cal Marvin and Warroad Lakers

Warroad - A recently released book, Cal and the Lakers: Winning Under Two Flags, chronicles the 50-year history of the Warroad Lakers, the most successful senior hockey team in North America, and its legendary leader, Cal Marvin.

The Lakers completed a half-century of continuous operation by advancing to the Allan Cup playoffs six straight times. That run included three straight titles (in 1994, 1995 and 1996), a feat no other team has ever accomplished.

Earlier, the Lakers had their photo in both the U.S. Hockey Hall of Fame and the Canadian Hockey Hall of Fame as the first U.S. team to win the Canadian Intermediate championship.

Marvin, who kept the team flourishing through the years, was still there as manager when the lights were turned off after the 1996-97 season. "You can't separate Cal from the Warroad Lakers," said the book's author, Warren Strandell. Warroad Pioneer

Candidates in NWMC election present their views

Annual meeting of the membership of the Northwest Medical Center Association has been scheduled for the evening of Monday, September 13.

Included in the business to be transacted by the membership at the meeting will be the election of two directors for three-year terms on the association's Board of Directors. Four persons have had their names placed in nomination in accordance with the bylaws of the association.

Candidates for election to the board of directors are Robert Carlson, Dr. Robert Dicken and incumbents Lyle Hanson and Karen Kirkeby.

Only members of the Northwest Medical Center Association, which owns and operates Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls, are eligible to vote in the election. Membership in the association approximately doubled this year when the board accepted 387 new applications for membership at its meeting July 26.

The group of new members includes those whose names were received in a group of 100 submitted in mid-July by Dakota Clinic Ltd. of Thief River Falls and accompanied by a $1,000 check from the clinic to pay the three-year, $10 membership fees.

Following receipt of an attorney's opinion, the check and applications were returned with a letter from Northwest Medical Center President and Chief Executive Officer Richard Spyhalski, noting that individual checks would have to be received for the applications to be considered. Virtually all of the applications were re-submitted with individual checks.

Employees of Northwest Medical Center, their spouses and other relatives and acquaintances, then submitted about 120 applications for membership. The remaining membership applications approved by the board July 26 were received from prior members requesting renewal and from other members of the community.

Nominations for election to the Board of Directors of the association remained open until August 1, at which time the four candidates who will be on the September 13 ballot had met qualifications for nomination. No nominations may be made at the annual meeting and no membership applications will be processed there.

Although only association members will vote at the annual meeting September 13, community interest in the local healthcare situation has been high and positions have been presented in public opinion letters in the Thief River Falls Times and the Northern Watch. Invitations were sent by the Times/Northern Watch to each of the Board of Directors candidates to present their backgrounds and opinions in personally written articles for this issue of the Northern Watch.

Robert Carlson

To the members of Northwest Medical Center Association:

About a month ago I was asked if I would consider being a candidate for a director on the board of Northwest Medical Center, and after talking it over with my family and speaking to many citizens in Thief River Falls, most of whom are members of the Association, I decided to go ahead knowing full well that this would not be an easy task. The next step was to secure the names of five members of the Association who would be willing to place my name in nomination as a candidate. That being done you might say that I am now seeking your support to my being elected to

My wife Connie and I are lifelong residents of Thief River Falls and raised our children here. I am presently an independent ophthalmologist with Northwest Eye Center.

I was asked to run for election to the Board of Directors of Northwest Medical Center by a number of concerned citizens. They feel, as I do, that there should be medical staff representation on the NWMC board. For decades NWMC had two physicians on the Board of Directors, as provided for in the bylaws of NWMC. The present board of directors changed these long-standing bylaws.

Enrollment down at most area schools

Public schools in Northwest Minnesota are all showing a decline in enrollment, according to opening day enrollment figures. All of the figures are preliminary, as some parents have not contacted schools regarding students who have not shown up at school yet.

There are a total of 64 students in the kindergarten through grade 6 school. Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls reported an enrollment decrease of one student from a total of 34 last year to 33 for its kindergarten through grade 12 school this year. St. Bernard's Catholic School in Thief River Falls reported an enrollment increase of between 10 and 12 students over last year. Roseau artist paints (part of) the town

Northern Watch Reporter

Splotches of vibrant color depict historical scenes from early Roseau county as well as the personality of the colorful artist who is in the process of creating an exterior mural on a downtown Roseau building.

Julie Elick is the artist who, through a stroke of fate, was in the right place at the right time and received the commission.

The project is the brain child of Roseau Business Woman Pam Hetteen who decided that the community would benefit from a display of public art. Discovering that grants for such works were available through the Northwest Regional Development, Hetteen did the necessary research and authored the grant application.

Julie Elick happened on the project on the very day that Hetteen was going to mail the application. On a whim, Julie stopped by Hetteen's business, Pam's Pantry. Knowing that Julie was an artist, Pam asked if she knew anyone who painted murals. Julie told her about the murals she had painted in her hometown of Duluth and Tacoma, WA.

Julie went home and returned to the store with a copy of her resume and photographs of the murals she had painted, and Hetteen submitted them with the grant application.

Once the $7,000 grant was awarded, and Julie was commissioned to paint the mural, the process involved the painting of a masonite mock-up for the approval of the Northwest Regional Development Commission as well as the Roseau City Council.

While the model was only an idea of what the actual mural would look like, it received the necessary approval, and the project was a go.

Located at the corner of Second Avenue and Second Street Northeast, the selected building houses the offices of attorney Brian Hardwick, Espe's Barber Shop and Farm Bureau Insurance and is across the street from the library and city auditorium. The finished mural will encompass all four sides of the structure which features a corrugated steel face and stucco sides and back.

Typical of artists, Julie found the mock-up stage of the project difficult. Art, regardless of the medium, is rarely planned but "evolves" she says.

It wasn't until the groundwork was done and the project approved that Julie actually asked herself, "How am I going to do this?"

Once the base coating was done, background scenery typical of Northern Minnesota was painted to three sides of the building. Stately pines surround the lake shore where a canoe awaits the return of its owner. Muted clumps of poplar trees contrast with the bright sky. Wildlife includes wolves, moose, deer, eagles and Canada geese.

Figures in the scenes include voyageurs, a fur trader and Mickineck, an Indian medicine man from the Wannaska area, and it was when pondering the placement of the figures that a light bulb went off in Julie's brain. After outlining the characters in black on a plastic overlay, Julie ventured to the site at night with the overlays and a projector.

Battling mosquitoes, she projected the images onto the sides of the building, and once she had determined that they were in the right place, painted their images in silhouette form.

Julie is very happy with the way that her idea worked, cutting her time tremendously, and says she would not hesitate to use the technique again.

The project has attracted attention from residents of the community as they've stopped by to check on Julie's progress, and she's become accustomed to being greeted by the honking of car horns as she perches on her ladder.

The front or north end of the building is complete, and Julie estimates that it will take about 16 hours to finish the east side. While the west side will be painted onto the stucco, the mural on the south end will be painted on sign board

Roseau county's history is being captured in mural form on one of Roseau's downtown buildings. Julie Elick is the artist who is painting the mural which will encompass the structure. The project was made possible by a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

Only members of the Northwest Medical Center Association, which owns and operates Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls, are eligible to vote in the election. Membership in the association approximately doubled this year when the board accepted 387 new applications for membership at its meeting July 26.

The group of new members includes those whose names were received in a group of 100 submitted in mid-July by Dakota Clinic Ltd. of Thief River Falls and accompanied by a $1,000 check from the clinic to pay the three-year, $10 membership fees.

Following receipt of an attorney's opinion, the check and applications were returned with a letter from Northwest Medical Center President and Chief Executive Officer Richard Spyhalski, noting that individual checks would have to be received for the applications to be considered. Virtually all of the applications were re-submitted with individual checks.

Employees of Northwest Medical Center, their spouses and other relatives and acquaintances, then submitted about 120 applications for membership. The remaining membership applications approved by the board July 26 were received from prior members requesting renewal and from other members of the community.

Nominations for election to the Board of Directors of the association remained open until August 1, at which time the four candidates who will be on the September 13 ballot had met qualifications for nomination. No nominations may be made at the annual meeting and no membership applications will be processed there.

Although only association members will vote at the annual meeting September 13, community interest in the local healthcare situation has been high and positions have been presented in public opinion letters in the Thief River Falls Times and the Northern Watch. Invitations were sent by the Times/Northern Watch to each of the Board of Directors candidates to present their backgrounds and opinions in personally written articles for this issue of the Northern Watch.

Robert Carlson

To the members of Northwest Medical Center Association:

About a month ago I was asked if I would consider being a candidate for a director on the board of Northwest Medical Center, and after talking it over with my family and speaking to many citizens in Thief River Falls, most of whom are members of the Association, I decided to go ahead knowing full well that this would not be an easy task. The next step was to secure the names of five members of the Association who would be willing to place my name in nomination as a candidate. That being done you might say that I am now seeking your support to my being elected to

My wife Connie and I are lifelong residents of Thief River Falls and raised our children here. I am presently an independent ophthalmologist with Northwest Eye Center.

I was asked to run for election to the Board of Directors of Northwest Medical Center by a number of concerned citizens. They feel, as I do, that there should be medical staff representation on the NWMC board. For decades NWMC had two physicians on the Board of Directors, as provided for in the bylaws of NWMC. The present board of directors changed these long-standing bylaws.

Enrollment down at most area schools

Public schools in Northwest Minnesota are all showing a decline in enrollment, according to opening day enrollment figures. All of the figures are preliminary, as some parents have not contacted schools regarding students who have not shown up at school yet.

Parochial schools, however, have remained relatively stable or are showing increases in enrollment. St. Joseph's Parochial school in Red Lake Falls, was down by only two students from last May. There are a total of 64 students in the kindergarten through grade 6 school. Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls reported an enrollment decrease of one student from a total of 34 last year to 33 for its kindergarten through grade 12 school this year. St. Bernard's Catholic School in Thief River Falls reported an enrollment increase of between 10 and 12 students over last year. Their largest class is their pre-kindergarten grade with 29 students. In all they have 143 students attending in grades pre-kindergarten through grade 5. Heritage Christian in Karlstad has also recorded a significant increase in enrollment. Enrollment climbed from 52 last year to 61 this year in the kindergarten through grade 12 school.

Goodridge School District 561, recorded a total of 218 students on opening day, which is down from 225 at the end of last year. By grade the district recorded the following on opening day: kindergarten 13, first 14, second 12, third 16, fourth 14, fifth 18, sixth 18, seventh 14, eighth 17, ninth 21, tenth 19, eleventh 20, and twelfth 21.

Greenbush/Middle River School District 2683 recorded a total of 509 students, down from 540 a year ago. Grygla School District 447, is down slightly. A large graduating class was followed by a smaller kindergarten class this year. They have a total of 205 students, which is about 14 fewer students than last year. By grade the district recorded the following on opening day: Kindergarten 14, first 18, second 11, third 16, fourth 18, fifth 12, sixth 16, seventh 21, eighth 14, ninth, 18, tenth 16, eleventh 17, and twelfth 14.

Newfolden School District 441 recorded a total of 383 students on opening day. At the start of last year, they recorded 393 students. They were, however, close to the start of this year's total with the total at the end of the school year last year. By grade the district recorded the following on opening day: kindergarten 22, first 24, second 18, third 26, fourth 28, fifth 22, sixth 36, seventh 33, eighth 30, ninth 31, tenth 40, eleventh 41, and twelfth 32.

Plummer School District 628 recorded a total of 190 students on opening day, a slight decrease from 193 recorded in May. The total was higher than expectations, however. By grade, the district recorded the following enrollment on opening day: kindergarten 11, first 13, second 11, third 13, fourth 16, fifth 11, sixth 18, seventh 19, eighth 12, ninth 17, tenth 12, eleventh 18, twelfth 19.

Roseau artist paints (part of) the town

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Splotches of vibrant color depict historical scenes from early Roseau county as well as the personality of the colorful artist who is in the process of creating an exterior mural on a downtown Roseau building.

Julie Elick is the artist who, through a stroke of fate, was in the right place at the right time and received the commission.

The project is the brain child of Roseau business woman Pam Hetteen who decided that the community would benefit from a display of public art. Discovering that grants for such works were available through the Northwest Regional Development, Hetteen did the necessary research and authored the grant application.

Julie Elick happened on the project on the very day that Hetteen was going to mail the application. On a whim, Julie stopped by Hetteen's business, Pam's Pantry. Knowing that Julie was an artist, Pam asked if she knew anyone who painted murals. Julie told her about the murals she had painted in her hometown of Duluth and Tacoma, WA.

Julie went home and returned to the store with a copy of her resume and photographs of the murals she had painted, and Hetteen submitted them with the grant application.

Once the $7,000 grant was awarded, and Julie was commissioned to paint the mural, the process involved the painting of a masonite mock-up for the approval of the Northwest Regional Development Commission as well as the Roseau City Council.

While the model was only an idea of what the actual mural would look like, it received the necessary approval, and the project was a go.

Located at the corner of Second Avenue and Second Street Northeast, the selected building houses the offices of attorney Brian Hardwick, Espe's Barber Shop and Farm Bureau Insurance and is across the street from the library and city auditorium. The finished mural will encompass all four sides of the structure which features a corrugated steel face and stucco sides and back.

Typical of artists, Julie found the mock-up stage of the project difficult. Art, regardless of the medium, is rarely planned, but "evolves," she says.

It wasn't until the groundwork was done and the project approved that Julie actually asked herself, "How am I going to do this?"

Once the base coating was done, background scenery typical of Northern Minnesota was painted to three sides of the building. Stately pines surround the lake shore where a canoe awaits the return of its owner. Muted clumps of poplar trees contrast with the bright sky. Wildlife includes wolves, moose, deer, eagles and Canada geese.

Figures in the scenes include voyageurs, a fur trader and Mickinock, an Indian medicine man from the Wannaska area, and it was when pondering the placement of the figures that a light bulb went off in Julie's brain. After outlining the characters in black on a plastic overlay, Julie ventured to the site at night with the overlays and a projector.

Battling mosquitoes, she projected the images onto the sides of the building, and once she had determined that they were in the right place, painted their images in silhouette form.

Julie is very happy with the way that her idea worked, cutting her time tremendously, and says she would not hesitate to use the technique again.

The project has attracted attention from residents of the community as they've stopped by to check on Julie's progress, and she's become accustomed to being greeted by the honking of car horns as she perches on her ladder.

The front or north end of the building is complete, and Julie estimates that it will take about 16 hours to finish the east side. While the west side will be painted onto the stucco, the mural on the south end will be painted on sign board

Roseau county's history is being captured in mural form on one of Roseau's downtown buildings. Julie Elick is the artist who is painting the mural which will encompass the structure. The project was made possible by a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

After 43 yrs., Kaiser works last shift at nursing home

Crookston - After 10,019 shifts, Nona Kaiser punched the time clock for the last time at Villa St. Vincent Nursing Home.

At a party in her honor, staff and residents paid tribute to Kaiser who only had a few tearful words in reply.

While she's looking forward to retirement, Kaiser says she's going to miss the people. However, she adds that there is one thing she won't miss. "I'm not going to miss cutting toenails," she says. "That was a cumbersome job." Crookston Daily Times

Nine file for council position in Bemidji

Bemidji - It's the biggest filing turnout for any seat in a Bemidji or Beltrami county election in at least five years, but no one really knows why a seemingly unprecedented nine people have filed for the Bemidji city council-at-large seat.

In November, only eight people filed for a total of four seats up for reelection on the Bemidji City Council.

While a city councillor believes that the reason is the fact that there is no incumbent, a local businessman thinks that Bemidji's growth and prosperity are the reasons people want to get involved. The Pioneer

Grocers come out of retirement for store anniversary

Bagley - Four former Bagley Hartz Store owners were behind the counters again recently, bagging groceries and visiting with customers, as they participated in the celebration of the 26th anniversary of Kubiak's Foods in Bagley.

The history of the store goes back to 1938 when Melvin "Red" Offerdahl opened the L.B. Hartz Store. Farmers Independent

Book highlights story of Cal Marvin and Warroad Lakers

Warroad - A recently released book, Cal and the Lakers: Winning Under Two Flags, chronicles the 50-year history of the Warroad Lakers the most successful senior hockey team in North America, and its legendary leader, Cal Marvin.

The Lakers completed its half century of continuous operation by advancing to the Allan Cup playoffs six straight times. That run include three straight titles (in 1994, 1995 and 1996), a feat no other team has ever accomplished.

Earlier, the Lakers had its photo in both the U.S. Hockey Hall of Fame and the Canadian Hockey Hall of Fame as the first U.S. team to win the Canadian Intermediate championship.

Marvin, who kept the team flourishing through the years, was still there as manager when the lights were turned off after the 1996-97 season. "You can't separate Cal from the Warroad Lakers," said the book's author, Warren Strandel. Warroad Pioneer

New FMS band students invited to meeting Sept. 7

A special meeting for all new Franklin Middle School band students and their parents will be held 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 7, in the band room at Franklin Middle School. Basic information about the band program will be given, and Kezar Music will have instruments available for students to try.

The goal for the evening is to help students select the instrument they would like to study this year. We recommend attending this event even if your child already has a good idea what instrument they would like to play because students are asked to select a first, second and third choice.

Mrs. Buckley, the Franklin Middle School band teacher, and Mr. Christianson, the LHS band teacher, will both be present for this meeting. They will be team teaching the sixth grade band program this year and are eager to start the year on a high note.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaFoursiere

I don't care who says it isn't fall yet – I feel like it is, especially in the evenings. I love it. So here are some more fall-like recipes for you. I'd much rather cook in cooler weather, wouldn't you?

Let's have an old-fashioned boiled dinner with some of those wonderful vegetables available now:

NEW ENGLAND BOILED DINNER

1 corned beef brisket (salt beef) 4 to 4 1/2 pounds
12 small carrots, peeled
6 small turnips, peeled (15 ounces)
6 potatoes, peeled
8 small beets (about 1 1/4 pounds), trimmed but not peeled
1 small head cabbage (1 1/4 pounds), chopped (8 cups)
1 1/2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 tablespoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1/2 cup dairy sour cream, at room temperature
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Rinse brisket with cold water and place in large, heavy pot or Dutch oven. Cover with cold water and bring to boiling. Skim surface as needed. Lower heat and simmer, covered, for 2 1/2 hours.

Add carrots, turnips and potatoes to pot. Simmer, covered, about 30 minutes longer. Remove 1 1/2 cups of cooking liquid and add cabbage and cook 10 minutes longer.

Meanwhile, place beets in saucepan and cover with cold water. Bring to boiling and then lower heat and simmer, uncovered, until tender, about 30 minutes. Rinse quickly under cold running water. Peel and transfer to heat proof bowl and keep warm in slow oven.

Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Stir in flour and both mustards. Cook, stirring constantly, for 3 minutes. Whisk in 1 1/2 cups of beef liquid and the vinegar. Bring to boiling and boil until slightly thickened, about 4 minutes. Remove from heat and whisk in sour cream. Add salt and pepper.

Remove beef from pot and slice. Place beef and vegetables on platter and pass sauce.

Oh yes, soup time is coming – this one is hearty and healthy too:

BLACK BEAN SOUP

1 pound dried black turtle beans
1/3 cup diced salt pork or bacon
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 cup diced smoked ham
2 large onions, finely chopped (2 cups)
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
8 cups beef broth
8 cups water
1 large bay leaf
1 small onion, peeled and studded with 2 whole cloves
Pinch of leaf oregano, crumbled
Pinch of ground hot red pepper
2 teaspoons red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons dry sherry
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
Garnishes:
1/4 cup finely chopped smoked ham
1 large green onion, finely chopped
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
1 lime, thinly sliced

Soak beans overnight in cold water to cover. In the alternative, place in large saucepan, cover with cold water, bring to boiling and boil for 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Let stand, covered, 1 hour. Drain.

Cook salt pork in boiling water for 5 minutes. Drain and pat dry with paper towels.

Heat oil in large heavy pot or Dutch oven over medium heat. Add salt pork and ham. Cook, stirring, for 8 minutes. Add onion and garlic and cook 5 minutes.

Add beans to pot, stirring well. Add all broth, 4 cups of the water, bay leaf, onion studded with cloves and oregano. Bring to boil, then lower heat and gently simmer, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until beans are tender, about 1 1/2 hours. Add remaining water as liquid cooks off.

Discard whole onion and bay leaf. Remove more than half the beans with slotted spoon and puree, adding soup liquid as needed to make smooth. Put puree back in soup. Add hot pepper, vinegar, sherry and pepper. Continue to cook until soup becomes quite thick, 20-30 minutes. Garnish with any of the garnishes you desire.

What to serve with those hearty dishes? Here's an idea:

HERB-CHEDDAR LOAF

1 envelope dry yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup very warm water
1/2 cup milk
1/3 cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs plus 1 yolk (reserve white)
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon leaf marjoram, crumbled
1 teaspoon leaf thyme, crumbled
3 1/2 to 3 3/4 cups flour
1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese

Generously grease 2 quart souffle dish or glass casserole

Sprinkle yeast and sugar over very warm water in 1 cup measure. Stir to dissolve yeast. Let stand until bubbly, about 10 minutes.

Heat milk and butter in small saucepan until bubbles appear around edge and butter is melted. Combine milk mixture and salt in large bowl. Cool to room temperature.

Add yeast mixture, eggs, parsley, marjoram, thyme and 2 cups flour and beat with mixer on high for 2 minutes. Gradually stir in remaining flour and cheese by hand until well blended (mixture will be stiff-dry). Place dough in prepared pan and cover with buttered waxed paper and towel. Let rise in warm place, away from drafts, until doubled, about 60 minutes.

When ready to bake, preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat reserved egg white slightly in small bowl and brush over top of bread.

Bake for 35 minutes or until bread sounds hollow when tapped. Remove from pan and cool on rack.

Enough hearty dishes – let's have something sweet – another old favorite:

PEACH UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

4 peaches (6 ounces each)
1/2 cup sliced almonds
1 cup butter, room temperature
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup orange juice
Whipping cream and/or sour cream

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Peel peaches. If desired, blanch peaches in boiling water for 1-2 mintues to loosen skins. Drain and remove skins. Cut into 1/4 inch thick slices Spread almonds on baking sheet and toast in oven until brown, about 10 minutes.

Melt 1/4 cup of the butter in small saucepan. Pour into 9 inch round (nonstick, if possible) cake pan. Tilt pan to coat bottom and sides. Sprinkle bottom and sides with 3/4 cup of the brown sugar. Spread half the almonds over bottom. Arrange peach slices over bottom and around sides in decorative pattern. Sprinkle with remaining brown sugar and almonds. Let stand in cool place.

Beat remaining butter and white sugar in large bowl until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Beat in vanilla.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt onto sheet of waxed paper. Combine cream and orange juice in small measuring cup. Beat flour mixture and cream mixture into butter mixture alternately in 3 parts, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Spoon batter carefully over peaches in pan.

Bake 35-40 minutes until cake tester comes out clean. Let cool in pan on wire rack for 10 minutes before inverting onto serving plate. Serve with whipped cream or sour cream, if you wish.

Bi-CAP receives $30,000 grant for family program

Northwest Minnesota Foundation has awarded a grant for $30,000 to Bi-County Community Action Programs, Inc. (Bi-CAP), located in Bemidji. The funds will be used to implement the Family Assets for Independence in Minnesota (FAIM) program, a collaboration between 31 non-profit and government agencies across the state, all of which serve low income families. FAIM's purpose is to demonstrate the effectiveness of asset-building as a strategy for increasing the economic independence of low-wage earners. The counties served by this grant include Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, Norman and Cass.

Bi-CAP is the lead agency for four Community Action Programs that will be involved with implementing Individual Development Account (IDA) programs in their respective agencies. IDAs are savings accounts matched by public and private sources. The use of the accounts is restricted to high return investments such as a college education, starting a business or buying a first home. IDAs are a sound investment yielding positive social and economic returns, such as increased home ownership, increased small business enterprises, and a more highly trained and educated work force. IDAs are a means for low-income households to save, using asset-building tools that are more readily accessible to people who are not poor.

Most of the grant funds will be used for program services, primarily for hiring financial coaches for each of the four agencies. These coaches help the program recipients set financial goals, create savings plans and gain access to needed support services, such as affordable child care. Once the goals and conditions for saving are met, total funds accumulated will be matched using a combination of federal, state and private grants. Bi-CAP's goal is to serve 60 households over the next four years.

According to NMF Executive Director Ruth Edevold, the local CAP agencies have always shown a remarkable capacity to implement innovative programming, both individually and collaboratively. "The project fits well with welfare-to-work programs we've already supported," Edevold said. "It would seem FAIM is a logical response to the growing numbers of working poor. It also complements our interest in housing issues, since IDAs can be used to make down payments or home repairs."

Strange But True

This fishing game cannot be considered a one-dimensional encounter. There are far greater forces at work on the lake each day than simply sharp hooks and swimming fish. To accept every episode at face-value, reducing it to the level of our own primitive logic and dismissing all we don't understand to dumb luck, is a foolish, uninformed act.

For instance, it is not a random notion that has a green shirt out-fishing a red shirt. Bait goes in a blue bucket. Similarly, not drinking coffee until the first fish is in the cooler is not a stab at good luck, but an acknowledgement that some larger power needs to be appeased.

So last week, when Fred Fallon, an avid bird-watcher from Washington, DC, spotted an American White Pelican way out east floating across the Potomac River, it seems wise to consider all the implications of such a timely and heavy-handed omen.

First of all, American White Pelicans are not a common sight on the Potomac. Fallon claims he could find no written account of anyone ever having seen one of the big birds out there ever before. Chances are good that his research is correct, for in the late sixties the only two natural nesting areas for the White Pelicans were Lake of the Woods and Spirit Lake, IA.

And if one had accidentally strayed that far east, it's highly unlikely it wouldn't be noticed—the bright white of the battleship-sized body is about as easy to hide as teenage acne. Someone would have seen it. So why, then, does it appear on the 24th of August in 1999?

We could write off the incident to the random, post-nesting wanderings of an adventurous male pelican. This is Fallon's expert explanation, which sounds reasonable until we realize that all of Fallon's pelican experience revolves around this recent, singular encounter. In short, it's the only American White Pelican he has ever seen and we're going to accept his judgment on the situation?! Heck, then I'm a moon-walk expert!. No, I think old Freddie-boy is missing the potential for a bigger picture.

My ego would like to establish some obvious connection between the pelican's arrival in Washington and my recently published discussions about the birds on Lake of the Woods. It would certainly look good for my cause if this bird had landed on the Potomac, gobbled up the silver dollar that George Washington attempted (unsuccessfully) to toss across that river, and then flew back to Lake of the Woods having set the entirety of early history on its ear. Our little bird problem would get addressed then, and quickly!

Unfortunately, that's a bit of a stretch, for it would have to have been a Cormorant doing the gobbling and it was the Delaware River where the coin toss allegedly and successfully took place. Perhaps some future Washington migration will involve a Grawduck with false wooden teeth gnawing down a cherry tree and then lying about it. We can only hope.

But it does seem too coincidental that the rare Washington arrival of an American White Pelican, a bird with such direct and undeniable ties to Lake of the Woods, should occur on exactly the same day that U.S. and Canadian representatives sit down to discuss resolutions to our present border situation. Such far-fetched connections are the recipe for Hollywood success.

Were the participants in that International dialogue even aware of the bird's arrival? Probably not. Even if they were, it's highly unlikely, given their superficial knowledge of the Lake of the Woods region, that they'd understand the potential significance of the sighting.

I am oddly comforted, however, by the pelican's presence in Washington. It's reassuring to know that a bona-fide local is on the scene and I can't help but view the whole situation as something more than chance.

Is this putting too much emphasis on a seemingly random event? Perhaps. But I'm still putting my worms in a blue bucket tomorrow.

the board of directors of the Association.

I point out to members of the Association, and they must understand that I represent no self-interest group or groups, and my concerns would be for a better working relationship between Northwest Medical Center, Dakota Clinic Ltd., Altru Health Systems, and Mr. Richard Spyhalski, Chief Executive Officer. With the hospital that we now have in Thief River Falls, and the two major clinics we have a golden opportunity to be a much stronger medical center for all of Northwest Minnesota. Let us not pass up that opportunity by not being willing to bend and till work together. Other concerns of mine would be for the well-being of the employees of Northwest Medical Center, to maintain a good working relationship to see that we are in line with wage scales in all categories of hospital employees, and most important of all, the needs for the citizens of Northwest Minnesota who would be using our hospital and both clinics. I must point out to all members of the Association that if you are unable to spend the time to attend the full Association meeting on Monday, September 13th at the Best Western in Thief River Falls you can come for the purpose of casting your ballot for your candidate and do not have to stay for the Association meeting. I strongly encourage you to do either one.

I would now like to submit to you a brief background of myself. I am a life-time resident of the City of Thief River Falls. My wife Vivian and I have two children: Rod of Sioux Falls, SD, and daughter Lori Carpenter of Thief River Falls, who with her husband, are owners of Lori's Hallmark store in Thief River Falls. I am a veteran of World War II serving in the U.S. Navy from August 1943 to April 1946. I served in both theaters of war, the south Pacific and Europe. I have had the honor of serving the Citizens of the City of Thief River Falls as a councilman of the first ward and as a councilman at large from 1954 to 1973, and as the Mayor of the City of Thief River Falls from January 1974 through December 1991. In my years as president of the City Council and Mayor of the City I had the opportunity to work very closely with the late Norm Peterson and the hospital board during all three phases of expansion for what is now Northwest Medical Center in our City. I hold membership in the Elks Lodge, VFW, and my wife and I are members of Zion Lutheran church. I also was elected to the board of Pennington County Commissioners in 1994 and am now serving as chairman of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners. In closing I ask you, the members of Northwest Medical Center Association as you cast your ballot, that you consider me as your candidate. I feel I would be best qualified to serve you and the Association as we work together for a stronger and better medical family. My thanks to the editor and staff of The Times and Northern Watch for the opportunity afforded me in this article.

Robert A. Dicken, M.D.

northern Minnesota have one or more physicians as full voting members on their boards. The complexity of issues in healthcare and in the practice of modern medicine requires physician representation. The current environment makes such representation even more important.

In the past five years I have been chief of the medical staff at NWMC twice. I am currently the chairman of the surgical committee, the credentials committee, the utilization review committee and the peer review committee at NWMC. These responsibilities and my experience as a primary care and a specialty physician give me the qualifications to serve as a physician member of the NWMC Board of Directors.

One year ago Northwest Eye Center moved to our new clinic in the Dakota Clinic facility on Highway 59 South and I began to practice in the outpatient surgery center. This expansion of our office was clearly in the best interests of our patients and our employees. These should always be the priorities when decisions involving healthcare are made: patients first, employees second.

Are the policies of the NWMC Board of Directors in the best interests of patients and employees of NWMC? Is the desire of the present Board of Directors to have no physician representation on the Board in the best interests of the patients and employees of NWMC?

I am deeply concerned that the inability of NWMC, Dakota Clinic and all other health care providers to cooperate is a risk to the quality of patient care, our ultimate responsibility. I ask people in general, and NWMC association members in particular, to please think about these complex issues carefully. Think about them with reason rather than emotion. The decisions we make today will affect the healthcare of our community for years to come.

If elected to the Board of Directors of Northwest Medical Center, I pledge to work for what is in the best interests of: No. 1, the patients we serve and, No. 2, the employees of NWMC.

Karen Kirkehy

I have been active in the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and I am a past chairperson for the Ambassadors and Retail Business Association. I have been active in Zion Lutheran church and I served on the Zion church council and as Sunday school superintendent. I have also served on the Parent Teacher Advisory Committee at Franklin middle school.

My husband David is the general manager of Cenex/Farmer's Union and we have two adult daughters who both live in Fargo, ND.

I believe the expansion of services through the Altru Clinic in Thief River Falls will help the community meet its healthcare needs as close to home as possible while also strengthening our community hospital and ensuring NWMC's future.

I will greatly appreciate your vote, as a member of the Northwest Medical Center Association, for my reelection to the NWMC Board at the annual meeting on Monday, September 13.

Lyle Hanson

that I will bring to the NWMC Board.

I was appointed to the NWMC Board to fill the unexpired term of Charles Richards who resigned due to poor health. While on the NWMC Board of Directors I have served on the Finance and Strategic Planning committees and I have attended board orientations and continuing education seminars.

I have a strong dedication to Thief River Falls, northwest Minnesota and to Northwest Medical Center and its not-for-profit service mission. I believe that during this challenging period in healthcare in our region, it is essential that the Northwest Medical Center Board maintain its focus on meeting the community's needs well into the future.

My wife, Gabriel, is employed by School District 564 and we have three children: Gretchen, 18; Molly, 15; and Tyler, 14.

Your vote for my election to a full three-year term on the Board of Directors of Northwest Medical Center on September 13 will be appreciated.

Passing A Law To Enforce A Law

Legislators at all levels really don't like dedicated funds very much. They have a preference for dumping all available revenue into a pot and dipping out the amounts they want for the purposes they want. They don't care for the inconvenience of setting aside specified portions of the contents of that pot where they can't be used for other purposes.

It is well-known that the U.S. Social Security system would not be facing the critical problems it has if Congress would keep its collective hands off the money in the Social Security trust fund. In any level of finance, IOUs do not carry the ability of cash to generate additional investment income.

Minnesotans had to pass a Constitutional Amendment to save a portion of the state's lottery proceeds for a specific purpose and protect them from being lost in the state's General Fund.

Again on the federal level, taxes levied on airline tickets were included in law passed to create an aviation trust fund that would be used to maintain and improve aviation's infrastructure. Most people accept the idea of reasonable "user fees" such as the ticket tax because those fees spread the lood of paying for vital needs.

The problem comes when governments decide that they can better use the money for projects or programs other than those for which the law was enacted. In the case of the aviation trust fund, politicians again diverted money to fund other programs that may have nothing to do with flying. How to solve the problem? Use the accepted Washington way—pass a second law that requires the government to obey first the law. Congress did it last year, passing a bill that requires all funds raised from gas taxes and other road user fees are spent only to build and improve roads, bridges and other highway infrastructure.

Aviation is an Industry which demands a constant updating of equipment and training to maintain the highest standard of customer safety. Ask anyone who boards a commercial airliner today, and he or she will tell you the safety of that plane and that flight is foremost in their mind. They wouldn't think too kindly of someone who "borrowed" the funds needed for air traffic control to use for some personal project in their home district.

In the past five years, domestic air travel has grown by 27 percent to 655 million passengers annually. Aviation trust fund revenue was expected to reach about $11 billion this year—an amount which could make significant Improvements in air safety if used entirely for that purpose. And the need for improvement is there.

Sixty-five percent of all airline delays and cancellations are the result of an over-worked and outdated air traffic control system. In 1998 the FAA experienced 101 significant system outages of more than 10 minutes, in which air traffic controllers lost some or all of the primary systems that help them track aircraft location and flight information. Forty-three of the outages lasted more than an hour and one lasted for five days.

Air traffic controllers serve a vital purpose and the aviation industry should have all of its user fees available to improve systems, including updated air traffic control equipment. It shouldn't require a separate law to enforce the first law, but if that's what it takes, it should be done as soon as possible.

We Change Our Words, Not Our Ways

In the Kansas legislature recently, Joe Wright offered a prayer which pointed out some of the shortcomings of our generation.

"We know your Word says, 'Woe to those who call evil good,'" the prayer says, "but that's exactly what we've done. We have lost our spiritual equilibrium and inverted our values." He then cited some of these activities as follows:

"We confess that we have ridiculed the absolute truth of your Word and called it moral pluralism.

"We have worshiped other gods and called It multi-culturalism.

"We have endorsed perversion and called it an alternative lifestyle.

"We have exploited the poor and called it the lottery.

"We have neglected the needy and called It self-preservation.

"We have rewarded laziness and called it welfare.

"We have killed our unborn and called it choice.

"We have shot abortionists and called it justifiable.

"We have neglected to discipline our children and called It building self-esteem.

"We have abused power and called it political savvy.

"We have coveted our neighbors' possessions and called it ambition.

"We have polluted the air with profanity and pornography and called it freedom of expression.

"We have ridiculed the time-honored values of our fore-fathers and called It enlightenment."

Joe Wright is right. It is easier for us to change our words than to change our ways.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt appreciation to the good people of Thief River Falls. Our reception has been a very positive experience and our interaction with a lot of townsfolk speaks very well of who and what makes up Thief River Falls.

Your response to our phone survey and mailings has been and continues to be very upbeat and polite (you don't find that much any more).

There may be some concern that New Beginnings Baptist Fellowship is a group of folks who have parted ways with some other church or affiliation. Let me put your mind and heart at rest and reassure you that is not the case. We are a brand new church start, doing our best to serve God and this community.

New Beginnings Baptist Fellowship is an autonomous Baptist work affiliated with the Minnesota/Wisconsin Baptist Convention (state level) and the Southern Baptist Convention (national level). We have come to Thief River Falls to add to, not take away from, the evangelical efforts that are a part of this community. Our mission statement says in part, "....We exist to proclaim the UNCHANGING MESSAGE in an EVERCHANGING WORLD...."

Once again, I'd like to truly thank the people of Thief River Falls for their openness and acceptance. If at any time you have questions or comments, please feel free to contact us at: New Beginnings, P.O. Box 5, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, phone 218-681-0688.

Thank you!
Pastor Dan Andrus

and attached to the building.

While she anticipates having the project done in October, Julie is, of course, currently waiting for some suitable weather. In the meanwhile, she's busy with a number of other things to say the least. All told, Julie figures she has about nine jobs.

At Roseau's Occupational Development Center, Julie works in job placement services and coordinates the JobWrap, or Welfare to Work, program. She is also working with the Focus program of REM-Roseau, Inc. in helping the residents to develop marketable art products.

For the past two years, Julie has taught painting to people with disabilities. The rewarding community education class involves mentors who attend the classes with participants, helping them clean their brushes and do the other things they are unable to do. Julie extends her appreciation to the ODC for lending its facility for the classes.

"I love being a pastor's wife," she adds. Her husband, Joe, is the pastor of the Evangelical Free Church. Joe is supportive of all of her endeavors, and Julie adds that she is "grateful for the graciousness of the congregation" that allows her to be herself. A long-time violinist, Julie recently began playing the viola and enjoys performing for weddings and other events.

Until recently, her artwork was displayed in a local restaurant. Currently, it has found a home in her office at the GDC. She participates in Roseau's annual craft show, Art in the Park, and also sells her work from a booth at the Roseau County Fair. Having built a reputation, she receives commission work. "I get a lot of wallpaper borders and fabric swatches," she says and creates paintings to coordinate with her clients' homes.

Time has very little meaning to the woman who jump starts herself every morning with a latte" from her beloved cappuccino maker. Prior to coming to Roseau "about" ten years ago, the Elicks lived in Chicago where Joe attended seminary for three years, and Julie worked in a bookstore. The couple had previously worked with the Youth for Christ program in Guluth for 14 years and then Tacoma, WA for eight years.

Their adult daughter, Londa, lives in Roseau and working at four jobs shares her mother's ambition and artistic interests.

Julie has been painting for "about" 30 years, and her start was unusual. While living in Duluth, she became so infatuated with television that the couple sold their set. Without the television to occupy her time, a friend suggested that he purchase a canvas and some paints and that she paint a picture for him to give as a wedding gift. A few days later, he showed up with the materials, and Julie, using a slide of a bridge in Guluth as a guide, mixed the oils to create the desired color palette and painted the landscape.

An aunt, a painter from California who was visiting Duluth, saw Julie's painting and was impressed, and the pair spent every evening of the aunt's two-week visit working on Julie's painting technique.

Desiring professional art lessons but unable to afford them, Julie offered her clerical skills at the Lake Superior Art Center in exchange for them. At the time a much protested freeway was being planned for Duluth, and she typed the many petitions that the organization circulated. While the freeway was built, Julie received her bartered-for lessons and learned to paint.

After working with oils for 15 years or so, Julie spent 10 years refining a signature collage technique that combines tissue paper and burlap with water colors or acrylics.

Moving on to other mediums, she has sandblasted designs on glass and is now combining that technique with stained glass. She creates Ukrainian eggs and recently participated in a week-long ClayWorks workshop in Red Lake Falls. She's taken up woodcarving and attended this year's woodcarvers festival in Blackduck. She's also discussed her desire to learn to weld with a Roseau high school instructor and plans to give metal sculpture a try.

When Julie discusses her plans, she isn't talking about some day, but now. She doesn't sit still long, and it's a trait that tends to make others a little crazy, especially her boss who, as Julie says, sometimes finds it necessary to "rein me in."

During a recent vacation, Julie reflected on the time she sometimes spends fretting about her various projects and responsibilities and deemed that the time spent worrying is unproductive.

With everything she's involved in of importance to her, she's returned to work attempting to narrow her energy into one situation at a time and organizing her time in 15-minute segments. Like many who are creative by nature, she thrives under pressure and admits to actually enjoying it.

Julie will undoubtedly complete the mural project this fall, providing Roseau's citizens and visitors with an enjoyable view of the county's history in art form with it's vivid colors reflecting the energetic, eclectic and yes, eccentric spirit of its creator as well.

Roseau Artist Julie Elick was commissioned to paint a outdoor mural depicting Roseau county history. The almost complete mural is located on a building at the corner of Second Street and Second Avenue Northeast in downtown Roseau. More of Julie's paintings and artwork can be found in her office at the Occupational Development Center in Warren.

Counties conduct feedlot inventory to aid planning

Boards of county commissioners in Pennington and Marshall counties are working together to create an inventory of feedlot properties in the two counties, according to Danni Halvorson, coordinator/technician for the Marshall County Water and Land Plan Office in Warren.

Troy Schroeder, resource planner from the Northwest Regional Development Commission has been assigned to carry out this project.

"The boards of county commissioners support this effort and ask that feedlot owners participate and cooperate when Schroeder visits their property," Halvorson said.

"The inventory is to be used for county land use inventory, resource and planning purposes only. In view of past state actions," Halvorson noted, "the commissioners feel that having the county conduct this inventory will halt any notions by the state to interfere with county processes."

Persons who have questions or comments regarding this information gathering project are encouraged to contact a member of the board of county commissioners or Danni Halvorson at 218-745-4217.

Girl Scouts take new registration

Thief River Falls Girl Scout organization will conduct a fall registration for the 1999-2000 scout year on Thursday, September 9, from 6 to 7 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran church. At least one parent or guardian for each youngster to be enrolled should attend.

School Night for Scouting slated for September 9

Cub Scout Packs 59 and 199 invite boys in first through fifth grades and their parents to participate in the School Night for Scouting Thursday, September 9, at 7 p.m. in the Challenger elementary school cafeteria.

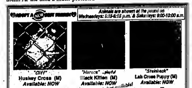
Information on the Cub Scout and Boy Scout programs will be provided by local volunteers and boys will be given the opportunity to sign up for the program for the coming year.

First graders can enroll in the Tiger program which is intended to involve the boy and his parents. Boys in the older grades will enroll in either Pack 59 at Zion Lutheran Church or Pack 199 at St. John Lutheran Church and begin working on their Bobcat badge which is received when the boy has learned basics including the Boy Scout Oath, sign, law of the pack and other required knowledge.

After earning the Bobcat badge, boys are assigned to their appropriate age groups—Wolf, Bear and Webelos—to begin working on their other badges.

Packs meet about once a month and dens—smaller groups in which the boys themselves participate—meet two to three times a month during the school year. Adult volunteers are also needed in the program, either in leadership roles or for short term projects. The scout program emphasizes family, nature and camping good citizenship.

Persons with questions can contact either Jodie Olson at 681-8323 for Pack 59 or Jay and Florence Nelson at 681-8303 for Pack 199.



"Join Cub Scouts," urges Scoutmaster Jodie Olson, "because too much fun is never enough."

Eight seniors leading RLCC volleyball team

Eight seniors headline the 1999 Red Lake County Central volleyball roster.

Heather Schiefert, Kelsey Lundeen, Sylvia Hilgeman, Emily Brostad, and Tracy Rosten lead the upperclassmen who returned from a 20-8 team. Amanda Spong, Becky Reinbold and Katie Halvorson round out the senior group.

Brostad takes over the full-time setter job this fall, where she will be looking for hitters like Rosten in the middle, Lundeen on the outside and Spong, who drew attention with a strong showing in early-season drills.

"We should be okay," said Mustangs coach Nancy Bray. "We've got pretty good size. We have some kids who can hit."

Quickness is not a Red Lake County Central strong point, warned Bray, and the jury is still out on the Mustangs' serving. "Serving will be the key," she said.

Blue Devils look for major improvement

Second-year Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke head high school football coach John Wilebski is looking for a dramatic improvement in the Blue Devils won loss record in 1999. Coming off an 0-8 season there is only one direction to go, and that's up. But Wilebski is confident there will be more than just a token increase in the win column.

"I think we're going to do pretty well," he said. "We have a lot of players back from last year, and our skill positions are all filled by kids with lots of speed."

Senior Alex Holte, slated to open the 1998 season as the Blue Devils' quarterback, broke a bone in his foot and missed the first five games. He's healthy now and will run the offense.

Juniors Marshall Tanner and Austin Marquis, along with senior Nathan Sletten, will be the top runningbacks.

"We're pretty set in the backfield," noted Wilebski, "but we have to slap a line together. We're missing kids there."

Senior Kylan Hagen, along with juniors Clifton Johnsrud and Chad Johnson, figure to anchor the offensive line. Adam Cwikla, a 5-10, 240-pound senior, is expected to be one of the leaders on defense.

An early win or two would do wonders for the Blue Devils' confidence, according to Wilebski, and could help propel his team into contending status in the Top of the State Conference and Nine-Man Section 8. "I think we can be in the top three," he said. "Stephen-Argyle will be tough, again, but the rest of us are going to be pretty even."

First, Wilebski had to face the prospects of playing the first two games without the services of three projected starters due to rules violations or grades.

RLCC football team two-time defending sectional champion

There are enough pieces back from last year's 10-1 team to make Red Lake County Central competitive again in the 1999 high school football season. But rest of the puzzle still has to be completed if the two-time defending Nine-Man Section 7 champion Mustangs are to make another post-season run.

"We'll definitely be competitive," said Gary Brantl, who is in his 29th year as head coach. "We've got enough nucleus back to provide leadership, and we've got a number of young men who are working hard."

Red Lake County Central, after a 7-4 Section 7 championship season in 1997 won 10 straight games and another sectional title last fall before losing to Stephen-Argyle in the Nine-Man state quarterfinals.

Senior runningbacks Wade Westlake, Matt Hruby and Andy Gustafson were all regulars a year go, but five of the six starting linemen and quarterback Mark Lorenson were lost to graduation.

"We face same challenges replacing those people," acknowledged Brantl.

Sophomore Carl Dugstad takes over at quarterback. Heath Rosten and Benji Kvasager, a pair of seniors, both have experience at the wide receiver spots.

Defensively, Kvasager returns in the secondary; Hruby and Westlake are experienced linebackers; Rosten and junior Chris Nelson, have both started at end.

Wolverines have new players in '99 line-up

A year ago Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke enjoyed a 20-win high school volleyball season. But graduation took most of that team, leaving only OaNae Wiseth.

Wiseth, a strong hitter, and Alyssa Hoffman are the only seniors in a starting line-up that also includes three sophomores and a freshman.

"We're a lot younger, but we've got a lot of girls who are working hard," said Wolverines coach Jean Schulz. "We'll just keep working at it and look for steady improvement."

Schultz likes the Wolverines' long-range potential, and isn't selling the 1999 team short. "I think we can be competitive," she said. "Roseau and Lake of the Woods will be tough, but I think we can play with most of the others."

Chelsey Aamodt, 7, daughter of Randy and Shelley Aamodt, poses with her new bike and Police Officer Deni Winskowski. During the summer, the police department, the Pathfinder Bike Shop, Northern Lights and Northwest Medical Center sponsored a bicycle safety program that awarded youth who were found wearing bike helmets and following bicycle safety rules by giving them a coupon for free ice cream from the Northern Lights ice cream wagon or bicycle accessories from the Pathfinder Bike Shop. At the conclusion of the summer program, the names of children who received the coupons were placed in a drawing and the winner, Chelsey Aamodt, won a bike.

Thief River Falls bike safety promotion

Beginning in July Police in Thief River Falls began handing out ice cream coupons to children they observed wearing helmets while riding bikes or skating in the community.

The bike safety promotion was the idea of Dan Olson of Northwest Medical Center. Olson said, however, that it's a program supported by Northwest Medical Center, Pathfinders, Northern Lights and Law Enforcement.

Harold Peterson of Pathfinders has been placed in charge of the promotion. Peterson said in addition to promoting safety, the program also served to help or maintain the relationship between law enforcement and community youth - a goal which police are also glad to see.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said "it's something we would like to encourage everyone to do." Everyone should use bike helmets, and abide by all of the safety rules, such as using hand singles, keeping both hands on the handlebars, and riding on the correct side of the road, he added.

Police Officer Deni Winskowski, who handed out many of the coupons, said she heard many complimentary comments about the program from parents and relatives.

The children liked it too. Officer Winskowski said there were times when children waved her down by pointing to their helmets.

A total of 47 coupons were issued since its inception in July. The coupons allow the recipient to obtain ice cream from the Northern Lights ice cream wagon or a bike accessory from the Pathfinders Bicycle Shop. The names of those who have received coupons were placed into a drawing for a bike from the Pathfinders Bike Shop. Peterson said the hospital is supplying the money for the bike. Winner of the bike was Chelsey Aamodt, seven-year-old daughter of Randy and Shelley Aamodt.

Swedish Heritage Society to serve supper Sept. 16

Yellow pea soup and dessert pancakes! Serving these foods together in Sweden is their traditional Thursday night meal.

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society is introducing this traditional Swedish meal Thursday, September 16, at 6 p.m. in Warren at First Lutheran Church.

Former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland of Roseau will speak on the historic Lewis and Clark discovery exploration of the Louisiana Purchase in 1804-1806. Bergland's interest in history led him to read the Lewis and Clark journals years ago. More recently he and his wife Helen have joined the Lewis and Clark Association which meets yearly.

This year's conference was recently held in Bismarck, ND, with tours of the Mandan Indian village and mounds where the Corp of Discovery spent their first winter. From there, the Berglands continued west to Astoria, OR, to visit Fort Clatsop at the mouth of the Columbia River. From here Lewis and Clark first viewed the Pacific Ocean, the climax of the arduous journey. Bergland will also show his video and display his Lewis and Clark material.

Warren ASHS women under the leadership of Doris Johnson will prepare the yellow pea soup. Viking members will make the dessert pancakes following Earl Erickson's recipe which won him first prize in the Swedish pancake contest last February at the ASHS luncheon meeting in Crookston. Homemade Swedish rye bread will also be served. A freewill donation will be received.

Everyone is welcome, whether or not of Swedish descent, according to ASHS President Matthew Edman of Alvarado. Anyone desiring to hear Bergland speak after the meal is invited to come at about 7 p.m.

First Lutheran church is located on South Sixth Street, just off Highway 1 in Warren.

For more information and details regarding the Pennington County DFL board of directors, contact Rick Nelson at 681-6543 or 689-6674. Eagles to host blood drive September 8

Thief River Falls' next blood drive will be held on Wednesday, September 8 from noon until 6 p.m. at the Eagles Club.

"Since our blood drive is being held right after Labor Day weekend, it is a very important time," says Eagles blood drive coordinator Rod Sletten. "Because United Blood Services' blood drive schedule is often reduced over a long holiday weekend, an additional supply of blood is needed to meet patient needs.

Providing blood in this agricultural region is very difficult during the summer months because of the pressing seasonal work, and it becomes even more difficult around major holidays.

You can make a difference by donating blood on Wednesday, September 8. To schedule an appointment, contact Rod or Sandy at 681-2406.

Construction on Hwy. 89 resumed

Minnesota Department of Transportation warns motorists that construction work on Highway 89 north of the junction of Highway 2 to the Red Lake Reservation boundary has resumed.

According to Roger Bachmann, Mn/DOT project supervisor, the project to replace the bituminous surface of the highway actually began in late June with crews working for about three weeks to mill up the old surface and recycle it. The completion of the work which is expected to last through the month of September will consist of applying a new bituminous overlay and striping.

Motorists will encounter alternating lane closures which will cause some minor delays. Flag persons will be on site so drivers should be extremely alert and follow all signing instructions.

State fairgoers asked to support petition drive

People attending the Minnesota State Fair will have a chance to lend their support to the drive for fair farm prices, according to state Rep. Ted Winter.

Winter, in cooperation with the Minnesota Farmers Union, is circulating a "Fair Farm Prices Now" petition at Farmers Union and DFL Party booths at the State Fair. The petition calls for 11 actions by the federal government to end the ongoing rural economic crisis.

"With thousands of signatures, we hope this petition will be a powerful message to Congress that Minnesotans want and need action," Winter (DFL-Fulda) said. "We are not asking for one-time bailouts - we are asking for the real, long-term reforms that will put farms on track to prosperity."

The petition calls upon Congress to enact legislation:

- Providing higher market loan rates and extending crop loan periods from nine to 18 months;
- Providing a mechanism for inventory management to reduce overproduction such as a short-term set-aside or expanded CRP, and creating a farmer-owned grain reserve.
- Providing for mandatory price reporting for livestock and banning secret production contracts;
- Requiring all meat products to carry a label showing their country of origin;
- Barring food corporations from owning livestock on feed or establishing captive supplies;
- Authorizing anti-trust investigation, litigation and prosecution in the livestock and grain markets;
- Enforcing the Packers & Stockyards Act and other laws to preserve competitive, open markets.

Winter said people who would like to circulate the petition in southwestern Minnesota should contact him for copies. They can reach Winter at home in Fulda at (507) 425-2664 or at his Capitol office at (651) 296-5505.

Workshop urges women to join in political process

Women and girls in the northwest region of Minnesota will have an opportunity to attend a workshop specifically intended to build enthusiasm for women's participation in the elective process and how it can effect changes, how women get elected and what happens once they are in office.

The Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund is sponsoring and organizing the event, which will take place on September 25, 1999, at the Evergreen Eating Emporium in Thief River Falls from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The cost is $15 per person, $5 for students. The Women's Fund is providing $10 scholarships for the students who choose to attend. Speakers along with panel and group discussions are on the agenda. Lunch will be served.

Keynote speaker will be Mary Kiffmeyer, Minnesota Secretary of State, followed by a panel discussion by Beverly Hewitt, Barbara Jauquet Kalinoski, Gale Skare and Erma Vizenor. Each of these women has served in a variety of elected positions. They will give their views about the elective process and share their experiences. A question and answer session will follow. After the meal, groups will discuss current issues, areas of concern and items on ballots this fall.

The event will be of considerable interest to: women who are interested in seeing northwest Minnesota become a region where women and girls are motivated, encouraged and welcomed to be leaders at home, in school, at work and in their communities; women who are thinking about running for office; women who wish to take an active role in supporting a candidate or furthering a particular issue; and women who want to make a difference through the elective process.

"Get Passionate About Politics". This series of workshops is a way in which the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund can further its vision, mission and goals. One of the purposes of the Women's Fund is to focus on ways to respond to current and future challenges — a way to do that is to inform the public about critical issues that affect women and girls.

The Women's Fund works to make a difference in communities and families; to promote and encourage individual growth; to build confidence and develop leadership; and to encourage women to be philanthropists.

This forum with networking opportunities around topics of great interest — understanding and working within the political system, and running for public and private elected positions — is a vehicle to drive confidence building and develop leadership, improving the quality of life for women and girls.

For more information, or to register, please contact Rebecca Weir, program coordinator, 218-759-2057, or 1-800-659-7859, or write Northwest Minnesota Foundation, 4225 Technology Drive, Bemidji, MN 56601.

NWMC meeting election Monday

Annual meeting of Northwest Medical Center Association has been officially set for 7 p.m. Monday, September 13, in the Summit Room of the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Primary business to be transacted at the meeting will be the election of two directors to serve three-year terms on the association's board. Four candidates - two incumbents nominated by the board for reelection and two nominated by members through the association's nomination process - are on the ballot this year.

Candidates are incumbents Lyle Hanson and Karen Kirkeby and nominees Bob Carlson and Dr. Robert A. Dicken.

Registration for the meeting will be conducted in the corridor adjacent to the Summit Room beginning at approximately 5:30 p.m. The polling booths will open at 5:30 p.m. and close on or about 7:15 p.m., according to the meeting notice mailed to association members. Only members may vote, and they must vote in person at the meeting. No absentee balloting is allowed.

Due to the anticipated large attendance expected for the annual meeting, a free cholesterol screening which had tentatively been planned for the annual meeting will be conducted separately later in September.

Robert Flynn, secretary of the Northwest Medical Center Association board, stated in the meeting notice that the medical center hopes to distribute its annual report in the mail prior to the September 13 meeting.

Association president Tom Kays will preside at the annual meeting, beginning with a call to order at 7 p.m. Secretary Flynn will read the proof of notice of the meeting and review minutes of the 1998 annual meeting which will be presented for correction or approval.

Reports of officers and committees will be called for by Kays, who will also appoint election judges. Nominating committee report will be given by Larry McDowell.

Reports will be given by James Langland, M.D., chief of the medical staff, Tom Kays, board chairman; and Dick Spyhalski, chief executive officer. Spyhalski will also give an educational presentation on Northwest Medical Center Today and Into the Future. The association is planning a $6.2 million renovation and addition project for the medical center and attached medical office building, construction on which is expected to begin within the next couple of weeks.

Announcement of the result of the election of directors will be made and other business called for prior to adjournment of the meeting by the chairman.

The meeting notice mailed to members includes a brief biographical sketch of each of the board candidates, a sample ballot, meeting agenda, minutes of the 1998 annual meeting and a summary of the medical center's renovation and building plans.

A number of new buildings have been constructed behind RV Sports and Westside Motors in Thief River Falls during the past couple of years. This year, construction took on a more ambitious project, a 94 by 100 square foot building, which will house the Pennington County Highway department. County Engineer Delton Schultz said he expects to be able to move into the building in November. It is the first phase in the realization of a goal to combine several offices of the county, state and city at one location. Offices of the Minnesota Department of Transportation, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, the Minnesota State Patrol and City of Thief River Falls will eventually be built at this location, as well. The county's share of the project cost amounted to about $985,000. When completed, the entire project will have a price tag of around $6.5 million. The county plans to continue to use the shop building in North township for cold storage.

Best Management Practices loan funds now available

Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District still has substantial funding available to qualified applicants for projects that qualify through the agricultural Best Management Practices (BMP) revolving loan program.

The agricultural BMP loan program provides low interest (3.5%) loans for projects such as erosion control, conservation tillage (machinery), Individual sewage treatment systems, agricultural waste systems (this can also include waste handling equipment such as pumps, honey wagons, injectors, spreaders, loaders, etc.) and an "other" category which could include projects such as well-head protection, ring dikes, etc. This funding could be used to finance the landowner's portion of a project using other cost-share funding.

Funding for the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD is available in two different ways, based on the applicable funds and programs in the two counties.

Marshall county funding is on an individual county basis. Funds totaling $150,000 for 1998 are available to Marshall county residents through the end of September and include the following:

Ag waste systems, $57,000; erosion control, $73,500; individual sewage treatment systems, $15,000; and "other," $4,500.

Under the 1999 program, a total of $79,000 is available and includes $19,000 for agricultural waste systems and $60,000 for conservation tillage.

Marshall county residents can contact the American State Bank in Grygla; Danni Halvorson, Marshall county water plan coordinator at 218-745-4217 in Warren or the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District at 218-294-6144 in Grygla for more information.

The Beltrami county portion of the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD is included in a joint application by the Northwestern Minnesota Joint Powers Board. Funds for 1998 still available through the end of September total $746,660 and include conservation tillage, $50,860; agricultural waste systems, $373,300; individual sewage treatment systems, $82,500; erosion control, $70,000; and "other," $170,000.

Loan funds available with 1999 funding total $55,958 and include conservation tillage, $14,000; agricultural waste systems, $22,792; individual sewage treatment systems, $7,500; erosion control, $1,667; and "other," $10,000.

The figures listed for 1999 could increase in the future if other counties in the joint application are unable to use all of their funding. In addition, $27,766 is available in the revolving fund, which could be used for any of the above practices.

Northwestern Beltrami county residents can contact the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD in Grygla at the number listed above or their local Farm Credit Services representative for more information.

Larsons open home and hearts to children

For more than 25 years, Orville and Yvonne Larson of rural Holt have served as foster parents for children in Marshall and nearby counties. They estimate that, through the years, they have cared for 25 to 30 different children. Currently, they are sharing their home with an infant.

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

For more than forty years, a high chair has occupied a corner of the dining area in Orville and Yvonne Larson's home at rural Holt.

The retired rural mail carrier and his homemaker wife purchased it for their first child, and while, at first glance, one would think that the chair was waiting for the occasional visit of a grandchild, that isn't the case. The old high chair, painted bright yellow, is used several times a day, because Orville and Yvonne are foster parents.

The Larsons don't speak in specifics. They don't remember exactly when or why they decided to take in foster children, and due to privacy issues, they don't discuss specific children or the situation that brought the youngsters to their home.

To the best of their recollection, it was 25 to 30 years ago and their own three children were in grade school or perhaps junior high when they began their role of foster parents, and in that time frame, they estimate that they have cared for 25 to 30 children from Marshall and other nearby counties.

Preferring younger children, Orville and Yvonne have taken in newborns and children up to 10 years of age for periods as short as two or three days and for as long as nearly three years.

They never know, when accepting a child, how long he or she will be with them, and sometimes they aren't told what family problem has led to a child being placed in their care. Those things don't matter to the Larsons. "We just love them," says Yvonne.

The couple does admit that the longer a child remains in their home, the harder it is to say goodbye. "You get tough after a while," Orville says and added that giving them up is particularly difficult if they believe that the little one is going back into a less than ideal situation.

A telephone call from a social worker precedes the placement of a new child in their home, and Orville and Yvonne always have the option of saying yes or no. Usually, that call comes several days in advance, but sometimes they have only a few hours warning.

Most of the children in their care have contact with their parents, and while some of those visits take place in the Larson home, others are supervised at the Umbrella Tree in Thief River Falls. Every situation is different.

The most children the Larsons have cared for at once is five, three siblings and two others, and that was only for about a week. Young children, they say, adapt quickly to their new surroundings, usually within a week's time. "They have to find out what they can get by with," Yvonne says.

While many of the children they have cared for are so young that they don't remember being with the Larsons, the couple has maintained some type of contact with many of them.

When it comes to the licensing procedure, many years have passed and neither Orville nor Yvonne recall exactly what it initially entailed except that it involved a home study by a social worker and a background check. The license is renewed every two years, a procedure they deem simple with a visiting social worker checking their home for safety.

Believing that there is always a need for more foster parents, the Larsons encourage others who are interested in taking in foster children to contact their county social service office.

The high chair isn't the only sign of children in the Larson home. The crib has a permanent place, and there's also a potty chair and "enough toys to open a toy store," Orville says.

A swing set has a prominent place in the couple's huge yard, and a large old tractor tire serves as a sand box.

The Larson's children are long grown up. Their two sons and their families live in Crookston and Waverly, and their daughter lives with her family in Portland, OR. Orville and Yvonne's nine grandchildren are between the ages of 14 and 21.

With their own family grown up, the glaring question is why a pair of retirees would continue to choose to share their home and their time with foster children.

To that question, Yvonne responds with her first very specific answer. "I don't have anything to do that is more important than giving some little one some love and security," she says as she cradles the wide-eyed infant that is currently in their care.

NWMC meeting election Monday

Annual meeting of Northwest Medical Center Association has been officially set for 7 p.m. Monday, September 13, in the Summit Room of the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Primary business to be transacted at the meeting will be the election of two directors to serve three-year terms on the association's board. Four candidates - two incumbents nominated by the board for reelection and two nominated by members through the association's nomination process - are on the ballot this year.

Candidates are incumbents Lyle Hanson and Karen Kirkeby and nominees Bob Carlson and Dr. Robert A. Decker.

Registration for the meeting will be conducted in the corridor adjacent to the Summit Room beginning at approximately 5:30 p.m. The polling booths will open at 5:30 p.m. and close on or about 7:15 p.m., according to the meeting notice mailed to association members. Only members may vote, and they must vote in person at the meeting. No absentee balloting is allowed.

Due to the anticipated large attendance expected for the annual meeting, a free cholesterol screening which had tentatively been planned for the annual meeting will be conducted separately later in September.

Robert Flynn, secretary of the Northwest Medical Center Association board, stated in the meeting notice that the medical center hopes to distribute its annual report in the mail prior to the September 13 meeting.

Association president Tom Kays will preside at the annual meeting, beginning with a call to order at 7 p.m. Secretary Flynn will read the proof of notice of the meeting and review minutes of the 1998 annual meeting which will be presented for correction or approval.

First woman to serve on elevator board

Clearbrook - Carol Kleppe was recently named as the first woman to serve on the Clearbrook Co-op Elevator Association board. Board members are elected from members who do business with the elevator.

Kleppe and her husband, Arne, have been farming together for 15 years. They are primarily in the dairy business and raise crops of hay and corn.

Prior to deciding to work with her husband on a full time basis, Kleppe was a farm business management instructor at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls. The Leader-Record

Vandalism disappoints students and staff

Bagley - Students and staff from Bagley Elementary school were deeply disappointed by the damage done by vandals to the Forest Learning Center over the summer.

On September 2, six students went to the center to access the damage and report back to the rest of the classes. All but one of the center's windows had been smashed. The door was damaged, and the inside of the building was a mess. Broken beer bottles were everywhere, and a fire had been started inside the building.

Many hours of volunteer time had gone into building the center with funds from a small grant, proceeds from school forest timber harvests and donations of materials and time from community members and businesses. Farmers Independent

Strandquist family loses everything in house fire

Strandquist - What fire didn't destroy, smoke did at the Strandquist home of Pete and Shelly Lefrooth on Friday, September 3.

The family was returning from Karlstad when they saw the smoke from the fire that had started in the living room and went up through the stairs, severely damaging the bedrooms. The Karlstad Fire Department responded to the call. North Star News

Acorn squash dominate garden

Crookston - Corn, carrots, peas and tomatoes were supposed to grow in Troy Brownlee's garden this summer, along with four acorn squash plants.

The squash plants took over the garden, however, leaving Brownlee with over 250 pounds of acorn squash. While an average size squash weighs two to three pounds, Brownlee has several that weigh over 20 pounds, two that weigh over 30 pounds and one that tips the scales at 31 pounds. Only one is "normal" sized.

His neighbors jokingly accuse him of having applied massive amounts of Miracle Gro to his squash plants, but the farm worker who calls himself neither a novice nor an expert gardener insists that he only applied nitrogen. "All this came from four Northrup King seeds that I bought at Pamida," Brownlee said. Crookston Daily Times

For more than forty years, a high chair has occupied a corner of the dining area in Orville and Yvonne Larson's home at rural Holt.

The retired rural mail carrier and his homemaker wife purchased it for their first child, and while at first glance, one would think that the chair was waiting for the occasional visit of a grandchild, that isn't the case. The old high chair, painted bright yellow, is used several times a day, because Orville and Yvonne are foster parents.

The Larsons don't speak in specifics. They don't remember exactly when or why they decided to take in foster children, and due to privacy issues, they don't discuss specific children or the situation that brought the youngsters to their home.

To the best of their recollection, it was 25 to 30 years ago and their own three children were in grade school or perhaps junior high when they began their role of foster parents, and in that time frame, they estimate that they have cared for 25 to 30 children from Marshall and other nearby counties.

Preferring younger children, Orville and Yvonne have taken in newborns and children up to 10 years of age for periods as short as two or three days and for as long as nearly three years.

They never know, when accepting a child, how long he or she will be with them, and sometimes they aren't told what family problem has led to a child being placed in their care. Those things don't matter to the Larsons. "We just love them," says Yvonne.

The couple does admit that the longer a child remains in their home, the harder it is to say goodbye. "You get tough after a while," Orville says and added that giving them up is particularly difficult if they believe that the little one is going back into a less than ideal situation.

A telephone call from a social worker precedes the placement of a new child in their home, and Orville and Yvonne always have the option of saying yes or no. Usually, that call comes several days in advance, but sometimes they have only a few hours warning.

Most of the children in their care have contact with their parents, and while some of those visits take place in the Larson home, others are supervised at the Umbrella Tree in Thief River Falls. Every situation is different.

The most children the Larson have cared for at once is five, three siblings and two others and that was only for about a week. Young children, they say, adapt quickly to their new surroundings, usually within a week's time. "They have to find out what they can get by with," Yvonne says.

While many of the children they have cared for are so young that they don't remember being with the Larsons, the couple has maintained some type of contact with many of them.

When it comes to the licensing procedure, many years have passed and neither Orville nor Yvonne recall exactly what it initially entailed except that it involved a home study by a social worker and a background check. The license is renewed every two years, a procedure they deem simple with a visiting social worker checking their home for safety.

Believing that there is always a need for more foster parents, the Larsons encourage others who are interested in taking in foster children to contact their county social service office.

The high chair isn't the only sign of children in the Larson home. The crib has a permanent place, and there's also a potty chair and "enough toys to open a toy store," Orville says.

A swing set has a prominent place in the couple's huge yard, and a large old tractor tire serves as a sand box.

The Larson's children are long grown up. Their two sons and their families live in Crookston and Waverly, and their daughter lives with her family in Portland, OR. Orville and Yvonne's nine grandchildren are between the ages of 14 and 21.

With their own family grown up, the glaring question is why a pair of retirees would continue to choose to share their home and their time with foster children.

To that question, Yvonne responds with her first very specific answer. "I don't have anything to do that is more important than giving some little one some love and security," she says as she cradles the wide-eyed infant that is currently in their care.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

These desserts are delicious and just great for those larger evening meals you're serving now that the weather is cooler and school has started.

Here's a crustless pumpkin pie made without fussing – top with whipped cream or ice cream for a special treat:

PUMPKIN CRUNCH CUSTARD

Custard:
3 large eggs
1 (16 ounce) can solid pack pumpkin
1 (12 ounce) can evaporated skim milk (not condensed milk)
3/4 cup packed brown sugar or 1/3 cup each of packed brown sugar and light molasses
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice or 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon each of allspice and ginger
1 teaspoon vanilla

Crunch Topping:
3 tablespoons packed brown sugar
2 tablespoon flour
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
4 teaspoons cold butter, cut in small pieces
1/3 cup pecans

Heat oven to 325 degrees.

Whisk eggs in large bowl to blend. Whisk in remaining custard ingredients until well blended. Pour into ungreased 2 quart baking dish or soufflé dish. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or until sides of custard start to set.

Meanwhile, mix sugar, flour and cinnamon in small bowl. With pastry blender or fork, cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in pecans.

Remove custard from oven and sprinkle with topping. Bake 35 to 40 minutes longer until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Center may still jiggle but will become firm after standing.

Remove to wire rock to cool. Serve warm or at room temperature. Refrigerate leftovers. May refrigerate up to 5 days.

(Recipe serves 8. Each serving contains 239 calories, 7 g protein, 38 g carb, 7 g fat, 87 mg chol using butter and 72 mg chol with margarine, 111 mg sodium.)

Use those plentiful fall apples in this simple dessert. Adjust sugar and lemon juice in the filling if you use more tart and tangy apples than Delicious. (I love MacIntosh for desserts like this, but there are many wonderful, tasty apples available now):

APPLE COBBLER

Filling:
9 medium Golden Delicious apples, quartered, cored and cut into 1/4 inch thick slices
1/3 cup packed brown sugar (more if apples are tart)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons lemon juice (less if apples are tart)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Biscuit Dough:
1 1/2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 stick cold butter, cut into small chunks
1/2 cup milk

Heat oven to 400 degrees.

Mix apples with other filling ingredients in ungreased 2 quart shallow baking dish. Cover tightly with foil and bake 20 minutes or until apples are almost tender.

Meanwhile, prepare dough by mixing flour, sugar and baking powder in medium bowl. Cut in butter with pastry blender or fork until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Pour milk over top and toss lightly with fork until soft dough forms (do not overmix).

Drop dough in 8 mounds over hot apples. Bake, uncovered, 25-30 minutes until biscuits are golden. Underside, when lifted with spatula, should look moist from the apples but not undercooked, wet or doughy.

Remove dish to wire rack to cool. Serve warm, at room temperature or chilled. Naturally top with whipped cream or ice cream if you wish.

(Recipe serves 8. Each serving contains 339 calories, 3 g protein, 55 g carb, 13 g fat, 33 mg chol with butter and 2 mg chol with margarine [with no whipped cream or ice cream].)

This is an old favorite dessert, great to top off a large meal. The recipe only serves 4, so double it if you want a little for later. I have put the doubled amounts in parentheses, because who doesn't want a little for later:

LEMON SPONGE PUDDING

1 tablespoon flour (2 tablespoons)
1/2 cup sugar (1 cup)
2 tablespoons lemon juice (4 tablespoons)
Grated peel of 1 lemon (1 tablespoonful)
2 eggs, separated (4 eggs, separated)
1 cup milk (2 cups)

In small ovenproof casserole (remember to use larger if you double the recipe), combine flour, sugar, lemon juice and peel, mixing well.

Beat egg yolks until lemon colored and then add to milk. Add egg mixture to flour mixture, stirring until well blended.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into custard mixture.

Place casserole in pan of hot water and bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 35-40 minutes or until nicely browned. Serve warm or cold.

How about a tasty banana dessert – this recipe originally came from the old curly vanilla wafer boxes, but it will always be a favorite:

BANANA PUDDING

4 eggs
3/4 cup sugar, divided
3 tablespoons flour
Dash of salt
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Vanilla Wafers
5 to 6 medium bananas, peeled and sliced

Separate 3 of the eggs. In top of double boiler, combine 1/2 cup of the sugar and the flour and salt. Mix in 1 whole egg and 3 egg yolks. Stir in milk. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla.

Spread small amount of custard in bottom of 1 1/2 quart casserole. Cover with a layer of vanilla wafers and top with a layer of sliced bananas. Pour about 1/3 of the custard over the bananas. Continue layering wafers, bananas and custard to make 3 layers of each, ending with custard.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually add remaining 1/4 cup sugar and beat to soft peaks. Pile meringue on pudding, being careful to cover the entire surface. Bake in preheated 425 degree oven for about 5 minutes, or until delicately browned. Serve warm or chilled.

Try an old (remember Glorified Rice) church supper favorite, but make it with honey and call it something else:

PINEAPPLE HONEY RICE

3 cups cooked long-grain rice (about 1 cup of uncooked)
1 (15 1/2 ounce) can crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 cup honey
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Cook rice. While it is hot, stir in drained pineapple and honey. Cool to room temperature, then fold in whipped cream. Chill overnight, if possible, or several hours. Serve in pretty bowl.

Birthday Wishes

It's Izaac Walton's 406th birthday this week. He's dead, of course. Had he lived to be 406 that would probably be a record of some sort. However, as the publicly accepted dean of all modern fishing, it's appropriate to acknowledge the date.

In his 17th century classic The Compleat Angler, Walton offers insight and information about fishing that remain on the cutting edge of modern day efforts. (We can only assume he was better at angling than he was at spelling.) A testament to his abilities with a pen is the fact that the book, despite being written nearly four centuries ago in an old English dialogue fashion, is actually readable. From the strong-armed basics of salmon fishing to the subtle intricacies of fly-tying, he's humorous and enlightening. Kind of like Shakespeare with a "jig-n-pig."

What makes the book even more appealing is the fact that Izaac Walton, a "rags to riches" story himself, wrote The Compleat Angler in an effort to bring the joys of fishing to the common man. Until that time, and several centuries beyond, sportfishing was a pastime reserved only for the wealthy. Land rights, material costs and a distinct social order made it virtually impossible for anyone without a title to wet a line.

And while Walton's efforts might not have changed the tenor of the times dramatically (you've got to remember that in addition to being poor the "common man" was also highly uneducated, making a reading of the book a most certain impossibility), he did provide some momentum for eventually bringing the angling experience to common folk like you and me.

For example, in 17th century England, fishing was a two-man proposition. One guy (the big-wig) fished and another guy (the lackey servant) tended his line. Reels were still a ways off on the distant horizon and drag systems were, obviously, decades beyond that. Poles were simply willowy, switch-like things with silk or cotton tied to the end.

A leader of unbraided horse hair affixed bait to line, making presentations to the fish as unnoticeable as possible. Horse hair will stretch some 30 percent more than monofilament of equal diameter, giving a little cushion against hard fighting fish, but possesses nowhere near the strength of today's man-made materials.

In short, a trout bigger than three pounds was available only through use of a nimble-fingered line tender. His job, after the fish was hooked, was to hold loops of line in reserve for the inevitable deep, strong runs the fish would make. A well-coordinated team of nobleman and servant, taking in and paying out line, could expect to catch bigger fish than the individual angler, without running the risk of losing precious terminal tackle.

Izaac Walton, however, offered a solution to those who couldn't afford to take a hired man fishing. If Walton managed to hook a sizable trout, one that would most certainly test the tensile limits of his horse-hair leader, he'd simply throw his pole in the water. The fish would eventually tire from dragging the floating rod around the river, whereupon Walton would retrieve it and claim his catch.

Fortunately, twentieth century drag systems have come a long way. No longer is it necessary to heave your fishing pole into the lake each time a large fish is hooked. Fortunately, twentieth century line has come a long way as well. No longer is it necessary to pluck your leader from the dangerous end of a large horse each time the urge strikes you for a shore lunch.

But even after 406 years, Izaac Walton's notions about fishing and the out-of-doors and their ability to improve the quality of life for all class levels still make a lot of sense. Ideas like that never become outdated.

Happy Birthday, Izaac.

Let's Hear It For Congressman Ron Paul!

If we had a few extra dollars to donate to a political campaign, we would be tempted to send them all the way to Texas to help Congressman Ron Paul stay in office. We like his attitude on how government should—or shouldn't—be involved in the lives of private citizens.

Congressman Paul has introduced "The Freedom and Privacy Restoration Act of 1999" which would forbid the federal government from establishing any identifiers for the purpose of investigating, monitoring, overseeing or regulating private transactions between American citizens.

"This legislation," he adds, "also explicitly repeals those sections of the 1996 Immigration Act that established federal standards for the state drivers' licenses and those sections of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 that require the Department of Health and Human Services to establish a uniform standard health identifier."

According to Congressman Paul, he introduced his bill to stop "the greatest threat to liberty today: the growth of the surveillance state. Unless Congress stops authorizing the federal bureaucracy to stamp and number the American people, federal officials will soon have the power to arbitrarily prevent citizens from opening a bank account, getting a job, traveling or even seeking medical treatment unless their 'papers are in order,'" he says.

We like Congressman Paul's vigilance and his recognition of what has been taking place in the federal government during the past few years of the computer age. With recent examples of how commonplace it is for our President and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to tell lies and disdain any regard for credibility or trust, the individual American is well advised to seek whatever protection is available under the law and to guard against having the heavy hand of government placed on his or her shoulder."

Under Congressman Paul's proposed legislation, use of the Social Security number as an identifier would be prohibited. The federal government would also be forbidden from using the withholding of federal funds to blackmail states into adopting uniform standard identifiers.

"One of the most onerous practices of Congress," Paul contends, "is the use of federal funds illegitimately taken from the American people to bribe states into obeying federal dictates."

When it is claimed that the federal government needs such powers to protect against fraud or other criminal activities, Paul disagrees.

"Monitoring the transactions of every American in order to catch those few who are involved in some sort of illegal activity turns one of the great bulwarks of our liberty, the presumption of innocence, on its head," he says. "The federal government has no right to treat all Americans as criminals by spying on their relationship with their doctors, employers or bankers. In fact, criminal law enforcement is reserved to the states and local government by the Constitution's 10th Amendment. In a constitutional republic, the people are never asked to sacrifice their liberties to make the job of government officials a little bit easier."

Let's hear it for Congressman Ron Paul! Here is one politician who has his head on straight on this topic and he should be loudly applauded for his efforts. Hip hip hooray! Hip hip hooray! Hip hip hooray!

Hope Of The Future Now A Voice Of The Past

For all the comments and expressions we have heard in the last few years regarding the plight of family farmers and the fear of losing a treasured way of life in America, none has hit home quite like one we heard a short time ago.

An auctioneer who had cried more farm auctions than he ever wanted to had just completed another one when the farmer's young son walked up to him.

"You sold my Daddy's tractor, didn't you?" the youngster asked quietly.

"Yes, son, I did," the auctioneer replied.

"You know," the lad said, resignedly turning to walk away, "I wanted to learn how to drive that tractor when I got bigger."

How could a story be told any more plainly or simply than that?

The Price Of Victory Paid By Innocent

While supporters of President Bill Clinton sing his praises in the "victory" over the Serbs in Kosovo, Jeffrey Rubin of the Conservative Book Club claims that Clinton isn't the military genius his followers claim.

"....there are sometimes military advantages go be gained when you wage war without honor or mercy," Rubin says, adding that "NATO defeated the Serbs using tactics that calculated the life of each NATO combatant as immeasurably more valuable than the lives of any number of innocent Serb noncombatants—a total....departure from the norms governing warfare among civilized nations. Raining bombs from 15,000 feet, and missiles from miles away, so as to reduce the risk to NATO pilots to near-zero, all but guaranteed the countless 'mistakes' and alarmingly high incidence of 'collateral damage' that resulted in thousands of civilian deaths."

Rubin suggests that far from being unintentional, the "collateral damage" had the express purpose of terrorizing civilians to erode support for Milosevic. "Whether the high number of civilian casualties was intended, or simply the result of NATO's determination to minimize the risk to its pilots," he says, "Clinton's 'victory' came at the expense not only of thousands of noncombatants' lives, but of American honor."

Rubin makes a proper point when he says, "If Americans weren't willing to tolerate casualties in fighting this war—as Clinton and his fellow NATO war criminals clearly, and correctly, took for granted—then we shouldn't have been fighting it. A cause not worth dying for is not worth killing for."

Hearings set on solid waste management policy proposal

Minnesota Office of Environmental Assistance (OEA) has scheduled five regional public meetings September 13-17 to give citizens an opportunity to offer feedback on proposed solid waste management policies.

The proposed policies are discussed in Waste Management in Minnesota: A Transition to 21st Century, Policy Discussion and Proposals. Meeting closest to this area will be at the Otter Tail county courthouse in Fergus Falls Friday, September 17, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Other sessions are September 13 in Marshall, September 14 in Rochester, September 15 in St. Paul and September 16 in Duluth.

Minnesota is considered a leader with its integrated solid waste system which recycles and recovers—by creating products such as energy or compost—over 70 percent of the state's five million tons of municipal solid waste. Most notable challenge to the future of this system is that Minnesota households and businesses are generating more waste every year, at a rate much faster than population growth.

If the waste growth continues, Minnesotans will triple the amount of waste currently generated in the next 20 years. According to the OEA, production of waste represents inefficiency, lost resources and a long-term economic burden for everyone.

Proposed policies and strategies are based on the principle that more value can be added to the economy if waste is thought of as a resource.

Final policy recommendations will be included in the 1999 Solid Waste Policy Report which the OEA is charged to prepare every two years for the Minnesota Legislature. The final report is due December 1.

Copies of the proposed policies are available from the OEA's environmental clearinghouse by calling 1-800-877-6300 or on the Internet at www.moea.state.mn.us. Comments will be taken until October 15. Questions may be directed to Paul Smith, OEA senior policy analyst, at 651-215-0207.

The Ottosons, who have traveled throughout the United States, Canada and the Philippines to present their programs, will also give a special children's time presentation during the 10:30 a.m. worship service. An all-church potluck picnic will be held at Lions Park at 12 noon. The public is invited to share in the Sunday events.

Rally Day Sunday at Faith Lutheran Brethren Church

First day of Sunday school for the current school year will begin Sunday, September 12, at 9:45 a.m. at Faith Lutheran Brethren Church in Thief River Falls, according to Verna Rood, superintendent.

A special program including puppets will be presented and registration and a get-acquainted time will also take place. Classes are held for all ages and everyone is welcome.

Morning worship at 11 a.m. will follow Sunday school and everyone is invited to stay for the fellowship dinner in the church basement at 12 noon. Confirmation classes will meet Tuesdays at 7 p.m.

Blue Devils' search for a win is on hold due to an open date

For a team anxious to break into the win column a Week 2 open date is not a particularly welcome item, according to Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke head high school football coach John Wilebski.

Winless a year ago, the Blue Devils lost a 14-8 overtime decision to Ulen-Hitterdal in their 1999 debut Friday. They are idle this week, returning to action Sept. 17 against Kittson Central in Hallock.

Played in the rain on a water-logged field at Goodridge, the opener was a stalemate until the Spartans scored on a fourth-and-inches snap in overtime.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke had an edge through most of regulation time, grabbing an 8-0 lead early in the second quarter on a 39-yard Dustin Marquis touchdown run and an Alex Holte-to-Clifton Johnsrud conversion pass.

That lead stood up until the final moments of the fourth quarter when the Blue Devils mishandled a punt that was recovered by the Spartans in with two minutes to play.

That led to a Cody Jacobson touchdown pass to Joe Wasfaret and a Wasfaret conversion run.

Jacobson scored the winning touchdown on the Spartans' final snap of overtime.

The Blue Devils came back to score on their third play of the extra series, only to have the touchdown erased by an illegal procedure penalty. Moments later another potential score slipped away when a pass went through the arms of a receiver in the end zone.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke lost five fumbles – three of them coming on scrimmage plays and two on punts.

"We just made too many mistakes," said Wilebski. "Defensively we did an excellent job, but we fumbled the ball away on offense. It was pretty hard to take. We need to pick up a win someplace."

The Blue Devils' ground game included 18 carries apiece for Marquis, who netted 89 yards, and Tanner Marshall, who finished with 84. Goodridge/ Grygla-Gatzke wound up with 200 yards on 45 running plays. Ulen-Hitterdal netted 111 yards on 50 carries.

Defensively, Wilebski said Clifton Hanson and Adam Cwikla stood out in the line, and Holte played well at strong safety.

The ball went into the net as Itasca hitter Lisa Elijah (10) tied to get by Northland defender Shelli Eriksen during Wednesday's Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball match in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers edged the Vikings 3-2.

Northland volleyball team has a 4-1 start

One week into the 1999 season and the Northland Community and Technical College volleyball team has already doubled its win total of all 1998.

The Pioneers, who were 2-19 a year ago, are off to a 4-1 start this fall following a 3-2 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division win over Itasca Wednesday in Thief River Falls.

And they did it without playing at the top of their game, pointed out second-year Northland coach Mike Zachow. "I was happy with the way we hung in there and came out with a win," he said, "but I thought we were a little flat."

The Pioneers won the see-saw contest 11-15, 15-11, 13-15, 15-7, 16-14, with rally-point scoring deciding Game 5.

Northland started the year with a 3-1 loss to the North Dakota State College of Science in Wahpeton a week earlier, then two days later beat Lake Region 2-1, Hibbing 2-0 and Minot State University-Bottineau 2-1 in the Pioneers' Pepsi Quadrangular.

"Last Wednesday, it looked like we were playing our first match of the year – and we were," noted Zachow. "Friday, we played outstanding. But tonight we took a step backward. I think we played down to the competition. Itasca played really well; they did enough things well enough to win. We didn't play so well. Fortunately we stepped it up when we needed to."

Itasca started the match with a 6-2 lead, held off a Northland rally and finished off Game 1 on a kill by Lisa Elijah, a freshman from Detroit Lakes.

The Pioneers had a 13-8 advantage in Game 2 and closed down the Vikings' comeback try when a spike attempt by Annie Kotrba, a sophomore from Goodridge, crawled over the net and was not picked up cleanly.

Itasca trailed 7-2 in the third game, but rallied to take the lead for good at 13-12 and finished in the same manner as Northland did in the second game when Lisa Wochen's net-tipping spike fell in for the final point.

Biggest scoreboard run of the night produced a 7-0 Northland head start in Game 4. Itasca closed the gap to 7-6, but Sandy Brekke, a freshman from Trail, ended it with a point-producing block to tie the match 2-2.

The Pioneers grabbed an early 4-0 lead in the point-a-serve rally scoring finale, fell behind 10-8, then went up 14-11 on an errant Itasca serve.

However, a kill by the Vikings' Carissa Cochran and back-to-back Northland net violations produced a 14-14 tie and stretched the match past regulation scoring.

Another Itasca serving error was followed by a Kotrba ace for the win.

"Annie Kotrba played very well," mentioned Zachow. "We expect good things from her because she's a sophomore, and she came through."

Wolverines lose to Warroad

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz wasn't real happy with what she saw on the scoreboard or on the court Tuesday in a 3-0 high school volleyball loss to Warroad in a match played at Grygla.

The 15-12, 15-13, 15-11 setback dropped the Wolverines to 1-2.

"We didn't play very well," said Schulz. "We were flat."

The Wolverines' home opener was preceded by a first-week split that included a 3-1 loss to Marshall County Central and a 3-0 win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"We started strong against Newfolden," mentioned Schulz. "I was very pleased with our play against B/G-MR. We were moving. That's something we didn't do against Warroad."

Highlights

■ Kills - (G/G-G) Natalee Holte 10, DeNae Wiseth 4; (Warroad) Gayle Harren 8, Bethany Hontvet 3.

■ Ace serves - (Warroad) Sheena Eastling 9; Randi Gryskiewicz 4.

■ Ace blocks - (Warroad) Rachel Orvis 4.

Northland back earns MCCC football award second straight week

Scott Olson's reign as the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division Offensive Player of the Week was extended when the Northland Community and Technical College freshman fullback won the honors a second time for his efforts in the Pioneers' 16-8 Week 2 win over Fergus Falls.

Olson rushed for 180 yards, scored two touchdowns and caught four passes. He also won the award after rushing for 295 yards as the Pioneers opened the 1999 season with a 28-26 victory over Central Lakes.

It was repeat selection for Northern Division Defensive Player of the Week honors as well as Mesabi Range free safety DuWayne Walters came up with seven unassisted tackles, seven assisted stops and a fumble recovery in a 20-14 loss to Central Lakes.

Elsewhere last week, Minnesota West shut out Hibbing 35-0, Ridgewater blanked Vermilion 20-0, and Rochester belted Itasca 62-13.

The MCCC schedule today (Saturday) finds Northland (2-0) at Ridgewater (2-0), Hibbing (0-2) at Rochester (2-0), Itasca (0-2) at Central Lakes (1-1), Mesabi Range (0-2) at Minnesota West (2-0), and Vermilion (0-2) at Fergus Falls (1-1).

Saturday tennis rained out

Wet weather washed out a Saturday (Sept. 4) girls high school tennis double-dual outing in Fergus Falls that was to have included the Otters, Detroit Lakes and Thief River Falls.

TRF is 3-1 winner over RLCC

Becky Bray had 23 kills and Ayla Donlin collected 40 assists Tuesday to spark a come-from-behind 7-15, 15-13, 16-14, 15-11 Thief River Falls win over Red Lake County Central in a high school volleyball match played at Plummer.

It was the second loss in as many starts for the Mustangs, who fell to Fosston 3-2 in the 1999 opener. The Prowlers, meanwhile, improved to 2-1 after losing to Crookston and beating Stephen-Argyle in a pair of 3-0 first-week matches.

"We started out well, but then we fell apart," said Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray. The problems began, she noted, with 72 percent second-game serving – well off the 90-to-95 percent figure that you would normally look for. "We had chances to win almost every game, but our serving and our passing just wasn't very good."

It was a back-and-forth affair that ended with the Prowlers overcoming a 10-4 fourth-game deficit behind nine service points from Bray.

"The games were very close," confirmed Thief River Falls co-head coach Amy Roche. "Neither team ever gave up. It was very exciting. We were very happy to get out of there with a win."

Roche was more than happy with the Prowlers' play. "We were great," she said. "Becky played exceptionally well, and Ayla had an outstanding match."

After struggling in the season-opening loss to Crookston, the Prowlers' play improved in the 18-16, 15-12, 15-4 Thursday (Sept. 2) victory over Stephen-Argyle and the win over Red Lake County Central, according to Roche. "We were shaky, at best, against Crookston," she said. "We had a very difficult time receiving serves. We started to pick up some steam against Stephen-Argyle. We have a lot of new players on the varsity this year, and it's going to take a while to get used to working together on the court."

Red Lake County Central, led by Heather Schiefert and Amanda Spong with 16 and 11 kills, respectively, played without the services of Kelsey Lundeen, who suffered a knee injury in practice last week.

Highlights

■ Kills - (TRF) Becky Bray 23, Rachel Mathson 9, (RLCC) Heather Schiefert 16, Amanda Spong 11.

■ Assists - (TRF) Ayla Donlin 40, (RLCC) Emily Brustad 28.

■ Ace serves - (TRF) Becky Bray 5, (RLCC) Becky Reinbold 2.

Girls high school swimming quadrangular...

Prowlers win Crookston meet

A strong showing produced a Tuesday win for the Thief River Falls girls at the Crookston Quadrangular high school swim meet.

The field featured the Prowlers with 177 points, Detroit Lakes 149, Crookston 79, and Perham 58.

It was the third outing of the year for the Prowlers and first-year head coach Mary Helen Houlihan. They beat Fosston/Bagley/Clearbrook-Gonvick and lost to Fergus Falls in earlier dual meet competition.

"Things are going very well," reported Houlihan. "Last year the team had 12 girls qualify for the section meet. We already have 19 qualifiers this year. We have our sights set on the state meet. They have the talent, the energy and the drive to do it."

Houlian is particularly enthused by the Prowlers' strong group of divers, led by defending Class A state champion Chelsea Haviland. Amber Curry and Carrie Dahlin have also started the season strong on the diving board, and Naomi Olson is scheduled to rejoin the program this week.

"Our divers have been great," said Houlihan. "They all have a lot of poise. With Olson joining us, we'll have the strongest set of divers in the area."

Haviland was the meet winner in diving and 200 individual medley. Teammates joining her in the winner's circle were Andrea Olin, 200 freestyle; Julie Chrzanowski, 100 butterfly; and Tiffany Sorenson, 100 breaststroke.

The Prowlers also won two relay races – Kristin Naplin, Haviland, Sorenson, Andi Sorvig in the 200 medley; Andi Sorvig, Naplin, Cami Hendrickson, Haviland in the 400 freestyle. The Crookston pool measures in meters instead of yards that is used at most sites.

In Tuesday's junior varsity scoring, Thief River Falls collected 163 points, Detroit Lakes 107, Crookston 54, and Perham 14.

MCC volleyball roster has familiar look to it

Mark Jorgenson has rescinded his resignation as the Marshall County Central High School volleyball coach more than once in recent years. A reward may be in the offing this fall with a veteran line-up that could vault from the .500 level to contending status.

Six seniors and two juniors return from last year's 12-13 team. It's a group headed by three-year starter and two-year All-North Border Conference senior Kristi Kilen, and junior Tera Davidson, another top-of-the-line front row player.

Seniors Holly Augustine, Mandi Blawat, Christa Hagen, and Emily Kragness, Emily Kragness, along with sophomore Alicia Halvorson, have all been in the starting line-up.

Jill Anderson and Jenny Hufnagle are two more seniors adding to the Nordics' depth, although Hufnagle is currently fighting an injury.

"We have a number of kids who are two or three-year starters," noted Jorgenson. "We have some depth. There's some competition for jobs. With the experience we have, I think we can be competitive in every match we play. We shouldn't have to spend all of our time working on fundamentals."

The Nordics started the year with 3-1 wins over Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke and Stephen-Argyle – the second one coming Tuesday in Newfolden when Kilen had 14 kills and Davidson finished with eight.

However, it wasn't a sharp performance, admitted Jorgenson. "At this point, we've got to do a better job of passing. The girls promised me they would do a better job passing this year, so far I really haven't seen it. But it's early. There's an need to hit the panic button yet."

B/G-MR volleyball team swept by Roseau

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River put together a second-game challenge, but it wasn't nearly enough to stave off a 15-4, 15-13, 15-0 high school volleyball loss at the hands of a strong Roseau team Tuesday in Greenbush.

Reason for the defeat was simple, according to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian, who said, "our serving and defense wasn't as good as their serving and defense."

It was the third straight 3-0 match for the Gators, who beat Tri-County and lost to Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke in Week 1. "We played pretty well the first match, and the second one was close," mentioned Adrian.

TRF swimmers beat Panthers

Tone of the match was set in the first two races Thursday as Thief River Falls swimmers came from behind to win the 200 medley relay and the 200 freestyle, igniting a 106-80 girls high school dual meet victory over Park Rapids Area at the Franklin Middle School pool.

A strong freestyle anchor leg by Jenny Lindquist was the key in the meet-opening 200 medley relay win. Danica Schroeder, Julie Chrzanowski and Lindsey Ehrenstram preceded Lindquist on the blocks.

Next race was a down-to-the-wire affair that found Chrzanowski touching out the Panthers' Tavia Schumacher for the 200 freestyle win and an early 21-9 Thief River Falls scoreboard lead.

It was the second win in three dual meet starts for the Prowlers.

Park Rapids Area finished with an 89-79 edge in the junior varsity scoring.

Prowlers are part of Roseau Invitational

International Falls girls and Warroad boys won team titles, while East Grand Forks runners swept the individual crowns Thursday in the Roseau Invitational high school cross country meet. Overcast skies and a soggy course greeted the runners – the second meet of the year for most teams.

Adam Kluzak and Christa Pribula of the Green Wave were the individual champions.

Thief River Falls boys had a fourth place finish in a seven-team field. The Prowlers did not field a complete girls team.

"The girls competed to the best of their abilities," pointed out first-year Thief River Falls coach Chad Persons. Injuries and illness cut into the girls' numbers, he explained.

"I was pleased with the varsity and junior varsity boys efforts," added Persons. "They showed me we can compete. I see the potential of the JV guys pushing the varsity runners to do better."

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke drops three close games against strong LOW team

Underdog Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke played Lake of the Woods on near-even terms Thursday, despite a 3-0 final in a high school volleyball match played at Goodridge.

The Bears won 15-8, 15-10, 15-11.

"I was happy with my players," said Wolverines coach Jean Schulz. "I didn't think we'd do that well. They surprised me. Our serve receiving really improved. We've still got to work on our blocking."

The loss dropped Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke to 1-3.

Nordics win third match

Marshall County Central swept Tri-County 15-1, 16-14, 15-3 Thursday in a high school volleyball match at Karlstad that put the Nordics at 3-0 for the year.

"We didn't have the slow start we usually do," noted Marshall County Central coach Mark Jorgenson, "but we didn't stay focused on the job at hand in the second game. We missed some serves and some passes."

The Wildcats had a 14-13 second game edge, but couldn't pick up the winning point, and couldn't duplicate that effort in Game 3.

"We settled down in the last game and played pretty well," added Jorgenson.

Christa Hagen directed the Nordics' offense by picking up eight ace assists while playing in two of the three games. Tera Davidson played well at the net, according to Jorgenson, who also praised the effort by Jill Anderson off the bench.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

Season-opening match for the Franklin Middle School eighth grade volleyball program produced wins for three teams against Crookston Thursday – 15-2, 10-15, 15-13; 7-15, 15-6, 15-7; and 15-13, 15-10.

Younger citizen task force will advise on voting

Minnesota Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer will soon be appointing a Younger Citizen Advisory Task Force to assist her office with developing effective voter and citizenship materials for use among Minnesotans under the age of 25.

Kiffmeyer said the task force will include 15 members, with at least 13 being between 16 and 24 years of age. All must be Minnesota residents or attending school full-time in Minnesota.

Young citizens interested in serving on the task force, which will meet four times a year, are invited to call 651-297-5845 or write to the Office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155. Appointments will be made beginning October 1.

"It is important to engage young people in citizenship activities so that the American tradition of civic responsibility is fostered and perpetuated into the future," Kiffmeyer said.

"The Younger Citizen Advisory Task Force is designed to help my office with developing strategies to reach out to young people with the message that citizenship activities like voting and election judging are worthwhile and rewarding.

"It is my aim," she added, "to be sure that younger people embrace citizenship opportunities with the same enthusiasm as older generations have done. I believe young people themselves will have the best ideas for making that happen, and that is why I am asking that their voices be heard through this task force."

Profit strategies seminar in Fargo has market insight

Profit strategies seminar for farm crop producers will take place Wednesday and Thursday, September 15 and 16, at the Doublewood Inn of Fargo, ND. Attendance is free but reservations must be made by calling 1-800-242-6118 before Monday, September 13.

Sessions on September 15 will run from 5 to 8 p.m. and on September 16 will run from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Topic will be Defensive Farm Strategies for Today, Offensive Strategies for 2001 and Beyond and speaker will be Dan Manternach, president of Professional Farmers of America.

Manternach will detail ways producers can play "defense" through the current crisis in prices; the smart use of LDPs, storage, the basis and other key hedging strategies. He will explain how to maximize assistance from various government programs and discuss what he calls a "vastly under-utilized advantage" producers have over speculators in selling call options to raise extra revenue per bushel at low risk.

He will also detail why the current crisis is part of a "metamorphosis" in agriculture that will radically change the whole structure of farming and how farmers see themselves: an evolution from "producers of commodities" to "highly skilled service providers," as the global paradigm for agriculture changes from production-driven markets to market-driven production.

The sessions are sponsored by the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, North Dakota Grain Growers Association, Minnesota Soybean Growers Association, Minnesota Corn Growers Association and Risk Management Agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Farm field tour to demonstrate interseeding in row crops

If you have thought about reducing crops input costs, putting legumes in your rotation, or organic cropping options, you may be interested in these practices to be shown during a field plot bus tour on Monday, September 13.

The Vetch Tour will start at 3:00 p.m. at the "Eats-N-Antiques" Cafe in Fertile on Highway 32. The results of interseeding vetch in row crops from previous years will be shared. We will visit a field where hairy vetch was interseeded in sunflower, a plot where hairy vetch was interseeded into wheat and our last stop will be a site where vetch was interseeded in corn.

We will travel by bus from the cafe to the plots and return to the cafe for refreshments. The legume seeded is called "hairy vetch."

The sunflowers and corn are a commonly grown variety and hybrid. The plot will demonstrate how a legume crop can be grown during the same season as the sunflowers or corn without reducing the cash crop yield. While this practice is not new, some recent work has shown it to be beneficial because the legume can fix nitrogen from the air while adding more residue and organic matter to the soil.

The plot tour is organized by the University of Minnesota Extension Service and is open and free to the public. The Minnesota Department of Agriculture (Sustainable Agricultural Grants) provided funding for the trial plots and tour. Call Hans Kandel, Red Lake County Extension Educator at 1-800-770-1244 if you plan to participate in this tour.

Thief River Falls also won the junior varsity portion of the meet 77-57.

GAME, FISH & ENFORCEMENT

by Mike Ramstorf
MN Conservation Officer

The Mission Statement for the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Enforcement is.... "We are committed to serve the people of Minnesota by protecting natural resources, the environment, and public safety through quality education and law enforcement."

The term "Mission Statement" is a fairly new one. This is just one example on how the job of Conservation Officer has changed. Days back, the job consisted mostly of checking hunting, fishing and trapping licenses. Now, it has become much more involved.

Education, namely safety education is becoming a bigger and bigger part of our work load.

In 1998, the Division of Enforcement, with the help of many great volunteer instructors held 856 firearms safety classes certifying 20,536 students. Again with the help of volunteers, 11,962 students were certified in the Snowmobile Safety program.

In 1997, one fatal hunting accident was reported along with 30 non-fatal accidents. Considering that approximately 800,000 hunting licenses were purchased, it's becoming a relatively safe sport.

Snowmobiling on the other hand needs some work, with 205,000 registered snowmobiles in the state, the 1997-98 season had 19 fatalities, and 275 injuries reported with many more injuries going unreported.

These numbers have alarmed many and prompted an Adult Snowmobile Safety course being started. As of October 1998 anyone born after 12/31/79 must be in possession of a snowmobile safety certificate to operate a snowmobile in the state. Either a youth or adult certificate qualifies. The new Adult course is a four-hour class completed in one day. I am planning on having a class in Thief River Falls in mid November. Date and time to be announced. Even those who don't need the class by law are encouraged to attend.

Goose hunt. The weekend proved tricky for most goose hunters. Trying to find a dry spot to sit was tough. Hunting success varied greatly. Most who did some scouting did well. The early season lasts through September 15th. Again to clarify, flooding in normally dry fields caused by recent rains does not qualify as standing water so the 100 yard rule does not apply. The 100 yard rule was created in an effort to help stop local ducks from being chased out of our area before the regular season starts.

DNR Wildlife reminds hunters, if you would like to participate in the early goose study to visit drop off sites located throughout the area. Please complete the registration card. There are drawings for two wildlife prints, a dozen decoys and a shotgun for those who participate. For more information contact the DNR Wildlife office in TRF at 681-0946 or Thief Lake WMA at 222-3747.

Parents Forever course to be offered in Sept.

The next session of Parents Forever, a course for divorcing parents, is scheduled for three consecutive Thursdays on September 16, 23 and 30. The first class on the 16th will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and the second and third classes will be held from 6 to 10 p.m. All classes will be held at the Northwest Service Cooperative, 114 West First Street, Thief River Falls.

When parents divorce, it is a major change for all members of a family, impacting each member's emotional, psychological, physical and financial well being. Children are often affected for years to come by decisions made by their parents during the divorce process. The course provides divorcing couples, or those contemplating divorce, with information which will help them make decisions that minimize the stress of this transitional time.

Class topics include: Impact of Divorce on Adults, Impact of Divorce on Children, Money Issues in Divorce, Legal Issues and the Role of Mediation and Pathways to a New Life.

The cost of the course is $45 which includes the books. This course provides the requirements for divorcing couples as mandated by the state court system.

For more information, or to register for the course, call Glenice Johnson at the Pennington County Extension Office, 681-7030.

The program is free to the public, and more information can be obtained by calling Riverview's Pulmonary Rehab at (218) 281-9411 and asking for Joan.

Because course size is limited, preregistration is necessary and can be accomplished by calling (218) 281-9405.

Larsons open home & hearts

Finishing a bottle of formula, the little one sits up and flashes Orville a two-tooth grin that would melt the heart of a snowman. "We'd miss out on so much more if we didn't take them in," he said as he went on to tell about how their current charge entertains the folks in the pew behind them at church. As Yvonne plays the organ at Nazareth Lutheran Church, Orville cares for the baby, providing, to the little one's delight, an ample supply of Cheerios.

As for the travel that is enjoyed by many of the Larsons' peers, the couple would like to make a trip to see their daughter and her family in Portland. Other than that, Yvonne says, "We'll travel when we're old."

For now, they have more important things to do, opening their home and hearts and providing love and security to the children who need them.

Skanson to perform in Fertile

Fertile Area Arts Council announces the upcoming concert of Darren Skanson on Tuesday, September 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Knutson Community Center.

Called a "guitar virtuoso" by Denver Westward magazine, Skanson combines overtones of classical, Spanish, flamenco and new acoustics to create a new category called light classical.

After graduating from Fertile-Beltrami High School, Darren went on to an outstanding college career, a tour of Spain, private teaching, and a composing award with his music on television and radio. During the past three years, he has produced four solo recordings.

Admission for the September 14 concert at the Knutson Community Center is $5 for adults and $3 for students.

Family and Friends support group to meet

Family and Friends support group will meet on Monday, September 13 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in the community room at Summerfield Apartments in Warren.

The meeting is open to family members and friends who provide care and/or support to elderly persons. Many members have loved ones who have been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease or another related disorder.

This field once produced crops. Recent heavy rains transformed the field into a lake. It's located near Kretke bridge in Pennington county. According to Chuck Fritz of the Red Lake Watershed District, the Red Lake River rose about one foot as a result of rainfall last Friday. The Clearwater River in Red Lake Falls rose four feet during the same period of time.

TRF City Council to set levy for 2000

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls City Council met last week to review budget figures and options last week. On Tuesday, September 14, they are expected to set the levy for the Year 2000, adopt a preliminary governmental budget for the Year 2000, and set the date for the "Truth in Taxation" hearing.

Left with an estimated budget deficit of $599,573, it seems like there's a long way to go before the city sees a balanced budget. However, more than half of that, $298,720 is the operating deficit claimed by operators of the Summerfield and Student Housing project. The city is under a "moral" obligation to pay the operating deficit, but not a legal obligation, according to the city. Currently, the city is in the midst of a legal battle over the matter with Multi-County HRA.

Legally, the city is required to set the maximum tax levy for the Year 2000 by September 15. Once it has been set, the levy can only be reduced and not increased prior to the final certification in December. Last Tuesday, the council reviewed several tax levy options. According to Roger DeLap, the staff offered a preliminary recommendation for a tax levy increase of 5 percent. A tax levy increase of 5 percent would raise an additional $62,794 over last year's tax levy (roughly $12,500 for every one percent). The levy would itself, raise an estimated $1,318,682. Other options looked at by the council and staff included no increase in the tax levy, a decrease of .4 percent, a two percent increase, and a 13.4 percent increase. The option of a 13.4 percent increase is using the city's state mandated levy limit.

At this point in the budget review process, the city council is down to examining transfers from enterprise funds (programs or funds that generate revenue, such as the electric utility and liquor store), operating cost of government (providing services), use of reserves, capital revolving loan fund use, and capital outlays for nearly every request or proposal.

"Each year the city's budget balancing process becomes more difficult, and with a pending legislative review of all government aid in 2000 by the legislature and Governor Ventura, along with their apparent dislike and distrust for City Government, I would expect a trend to reduce our Local Government Aid in future years," said Roger DeLap, city administrator.

DeLap has proposed to the council that they consider scheduling the City's Truth in Taxation hearing for 5 p.m. on Tuesday, December 7.

The annual Truth in Taxation hearings allows citizens to question city council representatives on aspects of city budgets (use of taxpayer dollars).

The opportunity to challenge property valuations is provided taxpayers in the spring of every year during the Board of Review.

The next meeting of the City Council has been scheduled for 5 p.m. on Tuesday, September 14.

St. Hilaire woman's death ruled accidental

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby said Friday, September 10, that all indications are that Jamie Marie Lukesh, 22, St. Hilaire, died as a result of an accident.

On August 31, Lukesh fell 90-feet from a catwalk in St. Hilaire and died as a result of her injuries. Following her death the sheriff's department and Bureau of Criminal Apprehension conducted an investigation into the circumstances surrounding her death.

Parents Forever course to be offered in Sept.

The next session of Parents Forever, a course for divorcing parents, is scheduled for three consecutive Thursdays on September 16, 23 and 30. The first class on the 16th will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and the second and third classes will be held from 6 to 10 p.m. All classes will be held at the Northwest Service Cooperative, 114 West First Street, Thief River Falls.

When parents divorce, it is a major change for all members of a family, impacting each member's emotional, psychological, physical and financial well being. Children are often affected for years to come by decisions made by their parents during the divorce process. The course provides divorcing couples, or those contemplating divorce, with information which will help them make decisions that minimize the stress of this transitional time.

Class topics include: Impact of Divorce on Adults, Impact of Divorce on Children, Money Issues in Divorce, Legal Issues and the Role of Mediation and Pathways to a New Life.

For more information, or to register for the course, call Glenice Johnson at the Pennington County Extension Office, 681-7030.

Finishing a bottle of formula, the little one sits up and flashes Orville a two-tooth grin that would melt the heart of a snow man. "We'd miss out on so much more if we didn't take them in," he said as he went on to tell about how their current charge entertains the folks in the pew behind them at church. As Yvonne plays the organ at Nazareth Lutheran Church, Orville cares for the baby, providing, to the little one's delight, an ample supply of Cheerios.

As for the travel that is enjoyed by many of the Larsons' peers, the couple would like to make a trip to see their daughter and her family in Portland. Other than that, Yvonne says, "We'll travel when we're old."

For now, they have more important things to do, opening their home and hearts and providing love and security to the children who need them.

TRF City Council to set levy for 2000

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls City Council met last week to review budget figures and options last week. On Tuesday, September 14, they are expected to set the levy for the Year 2000, adopt a preliminary governmental budget for the Year 2000, and set the date for the "Truth in Taxation" hearing.

Left with an estimated budget deficit of $599,573, it seems like there's a long way to go before the city sees a balanced budget. However, more than half of that, $298,720 is the operating deficit claimed by operators of the Summerfield and Student Housing project. The city is under a "moral" obligation to pay the operating deficit, but not a legal obligation, according to the city. Currently, the city is in the midst of a legal battle over the matter with Multi-County HRA.

Legally, the city is required to set the maximum tax levy for the Year 2000 by September 15. Once it has been set, the levy can only be reduced and not increased prior to the final certification in December. Last Tuesday, the council reviewed several tax levy options. According to Roger DeLap, the staff offered a preliminary recommendation for a tax levy increase of 5 percent. A tax levy increase of 5 percent would raise an additional $62,794 over last year's tax levy (roughly $12,500 for every one percent). The levy would itself, raise an estimated $1,318,682. Other options looked at by the council and staff included no increase in the tax levy, a decrease of .4 percent, a two percent increase, and a 13.4 percent increase. The option of a 13.4 percent increase is using the city's state mandated levy limit.

At this point in the budget review process, the city council is down to examining transfers from enterprise funds (programs or funds that generate revenue, such as the electric utility and liquor store), operating cost of government (providing services), use of reserves, capital revolving loan fund use, and capital outlays for nearly every request or proposal.

"Each year the city's budget balancing process becomes more difficult, and with a pending legislative review of all government aid in 2000 by the legislature and Governor Ventura along with their apparent dislike and distrust for City Government, I would expect a trend to reduce our Local Government Aid in future years," said Roger DeLap, city administrator.

DeLap has proposed to the council that they consider scheduling the City's Truth in Taxation hearing for 5 p.m. on Tuesday, December 7.

The annual Truth in Taxation hearings allows citizens to question city council representatives on aspects of city budgets (use of taxpayer dollars).

The opportunity to challenge property valuations is provided taxpayers in the spring of every year during the Board of Review.

The next meeting of the City Council has been scheduled for 5 p.m. on Tuesday, September 14.

LOW county plans new courthouse

Baudette - Lake of the Woods county has taken its first steps toward a new courthouse with its board of commissioners recently signing a contract for architectural services. The county's current courthouse was built in 1909 as a school and has seen many changes over the years. It does not meet the current needs of the county and is deficient in many areas including handicapped accessibility, technology and safety codes. A new government facility is scheduled to be built in the year 2000 and will house all county offices, court services and possibly a few other public services. The Baudette Region

Minnesota Commissioner of the Department of Finance in Minnesota, Pamela Wheelock (right), visited Northland Community and Technical College last week to review construction plans at the college. Pictured from left are: Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Patti Walsh, an assistant to Wheelock, Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of Northland Community and Technical College, and Wheelock. At this point in the tour, they were reviewing a chemistry lab which has become hopelessly out of date.

Pamela Wheelock, commissioner of the Department of Finance in Minnesota, visited Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Tuesday. Wheelock was at the college to review the college's plans for Phase II of its Academic Consolidation plan.

Wheelock was co-chair of newly elected Governor Ventura's transition team directed to develop the state's $33 billion budget in less than two months. Prior to that Wheelock was appointed by Mayor Norm Coleman as director of the Department of Planning and Economic Development for the City of St. Paul and served as executive director of the city's Housing and Redevelopment Authority. She has negotiated a number of high-profile development projects, and also served as lead negotiator for the city in a successful bid to return the National Hockey League to Minnesota. Currently, she supervises 180 employees and oversees the financial affairs of the state.

Wheelock's responsibilities include coordinating the development of the Governor's operating and capital budgets, providing professional assistance to all state agencies in managing their financial activities and managing the state's general obligation debt.

Tuesday, Commissioner Wheelock was in Thief River Falls to review the request of Northland Community and Technical College to complete Phase II of a two-phase proposal to complete consolidation of Northland Community College, and what was at one time, the Thief River Falls campus of Northwest Technical College. Also visiting the college was Wheelock's assistant, Patti Walsh, Senator LeRoy Stumpf, and Paul

NCTC enrollment grows 8% for full-time students

Full-time student enrollment at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls increased eight percent for the fall semester of the 1999-2000 school year. A one percent increase in part-time student enrollment was also recorded.

Dennis Bendickson, dean of student services, said that enrollment has reached 867 students—an increase of 68 from the number enrolled last fall. A total of 392 students are enrolled on a part-time basis. Total head count enrollment increased from 1,272 to 1,357 and full-time equivalency grew from 1,208 to 1,315.

"The increase in student enrollment is a direct result of our commitment to marketing this college and its fine programs," stated Dr. Orley Gunderson, NCTC president. "The numbers are in line with our [illegible] the strength and growth of the college."

Liberal arts had the largest overall enrollment increase, gaining 66 students from 340 a year ago to 406 this year. Broadcasting had the largest percentage increase (61%) in growing from 11 students last year to 18 this year while cosmetology increased 71 percent from 28 last year to 48 this year.

Additional departments showing enrollment increases were accounting, architectural technology, aviation maintenance technology, auto body technology, criminal justice, electronics technology, associate degree nursing, sales and marketing and welding technology.

Decreased enrollment was noted in administrative support, automotive technology, legal assistant and licensed practical nursing. (See the accompanying chart for enrollment comparisons.)

An increase from 133 to 139 also was noted in the number of students enrolled from area high schools under the post-secondary options program. This program allows high school students to participate in college courses when approved by the high school, parents and college.

Deadline near for CRP plan signatures

Landowners who had acreage accepted into the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) during the 18th sign-up are reminded that they have only until September 30 to have a conservation plan completed and signed.

Landowners who have received their plan in the mail are urged to sign and return it to the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office in their county as soon as possible prior to the September 30 deadline.

Those who had acreage accepted but have not received their plan in the mail or who have questions about it should contact their county NRCS office immediately.

Stated penalty for failure to have the CRP plan completed and signed by the deadline date is termination of the contract without liquidated damages.

USDA declares disaster in nine NW counties

U.S. Department of Agriculture has declared a disaster in nine counties of northwest Minnesota, making farmers in the designated counties eligible to be considered for low interest emergency loans from the Farm Service Agency.

Designated as primary natural disaster areas are the counties of Beltrami, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Red Lake, Pennington, Polk and Roseau. Farmers in the contiguous counties of Cass, Clearwater, Hubbard, St. Louis, Norman, Mahnomen and Itasca are also eligible for assistance.

In announcing the declaration, Congressman Collin Peterson said he had spoken with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman at an agriculture committee hearing on Wednesday and asked him to move quickly on the disaster declaration request.

"I was very pleased to see the designation come through today," the Congressman said on Thursday.

Senator Rod Grams also issued a release to announce the declaration, said he wrote to the Secretary of Agriculture in August in support of Gov. Jesse Ventura's request for the Secretarial disaster declaration.

"Farmers in northern Minnesota have had to endure a record snowfall, ice storms and heavy rains, and to make matters worse, commodity prices are at or near record lows," Sen. Grams said. "Having met with many farmers over the last year and seen the weather damage firsthand, I know that this declaration comes as welcome news."

Sen. Grams said FSA will accept the loan applications and consider each one by taking into account the extent of losses, security available, repayment ability and other eligibility requirements.

"I will keep working in the Senate to provide our family farmers with both the short-term assistance needed to weather the current agricultural crisis and the long-term solutions needed to keep our family farms a strong and viable part of Minnesota's future."

Applications are taken for Operation Round Up funds

Organizations involved in community projects and charities are encouraged to apply for funds from Red Lake Electric Cooperative Trust's Operation Round Up program, according to Ron Kennedy, manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative in Red Lake Falls.

Funds will be donated primarily to nonprofit organizations to help fund their specific projects or programs. Red Lake Electric Trust board of directors determines contributions, with money to be donated for betterment of the community within the service area boundaries of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Organizations wishing to apply for funds should contact the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office in Red Lake Falls at 218-253-2168 or 1-800-245-6068. A short application form must be completed and submitted along with an organization finance statement. The next semi-annual meeting to determine contributions will be held in late October. Grant applications are due October 15.

Operation Round Up is a program adopted by Red Lake Electric Cooperative whereby customers voluntarily choose to "round up" their monthly electric bill to the next highest even dollar amount. The difference in amount is pooled to create the Operation Round Up fund.

Nearly 3,400 Red Lake Electric Cooperative customers are choosing to contribute in this manner each month to help enhance their communities. Since the program began in 1993, $120,605 has been granted through the fund to community organizations and charities.

For more information about Operation Round Up, contact Ron Kennedy at the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office in Red Lake Falls.

Women in politics will be topic of meeting

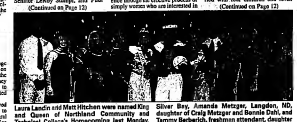
If you're a woman in northwestern Minnesota who has an interest in the political process, you will have the unique opportunity to learn more on Saturday, September 25 at a workshop entitled "Elected Women in the Political Process: Get Passionate About Politics."



The workshop, sponsored by the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund, will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Evergreen Eating Emporium in Thief River Falls for the purpose of introducing women to the political process and to women who are or have been involved in the process. The workshop will also address some of the current issues pertinent to our area that will appear on the ballots in the upcoming November election.

Workshop organizers hope to attract women who are interested in running for an elective office, women who wish to take an active role in supporting a candidate, women who seek to make a difference through the elective process or simply women who are interested in seeing northwest Minnesota become an area where women of all ages are motivated, encouraged and welcomed as leaders in their homes, schools, work places and communities.

Minnesota is one of eleven states where, in 1999, at least one-half of statewide elective executive posts are held by women.

The workshop's keynote speaker is one of those women. Mary Kiffmeyer is Minnesota's Secretary of State. Prior to being elected to her post in 1998, Mary established a widely known reputation as a political volunteer and activist in campaigns and key legislative initiatives. She has participated as a delegate to political conventions on local and national levels, serving on numerous convention committees. Other experiences in the elective process include judging elections, training election judges, coordinating and supervising a statewide presidential straw ballot and overseeing two statewide precinct caucuses. Secretary Kiffmeyer is married with four children and seven Minnesota Commissioner of the Department of Finance in Minnesota, Pamela Wheelock (right), visited Northland Community and Technical College last week to review construction plans at the college. The college is planning for a second phase of construction that would complete consolidation started years ago between Northland Community College and the Thief River Falls Campus of Northwest Technical College. Pictured from left are: Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Patti Walsh, an assistant to Wheelock, Dr. Orlay Gunderson, president of Northland Community and Technical College, and Wheelock. At this point in the tour, they were reviewing a chemistry lab which has become hopelessly out of date.

Pamela Wheelock, commissioner of the Department of Finance in Minnesota, visited Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Tuesday. Wheelock was at the college to review the college's plans for Phase II of its Academic Consolidation plan.

Wheelock was co-chair of newly elected Governor Ventura's transition team directed to develop the state's $33 billion budget in less than two months. Prior to that Wheelock was appointed by Mayor Norm Coleman as director of the Department of Planning and Economic Development for the City of St. Paul and served as executive director of the city's Housing and Redevelopment Authority. She has negotiated a number of high-profile development projects, and also served as lead negotiator for the city in a successful bid to return the National Hockey League to Minnesota. Currently, she supervises 180 employees and oversees the financial affairs of the state.

Wheelock's responsibilities include coordinating the development of the Governor's operating and capital budgets, providing professional assistance to all state agencies in managing their financial activities and managing the state's general obligation debt.

Tuesday, Commissioner Wheelock was in Thief River Falls to review the request of Northland Community and Technical College to complete Phase II of a two-phase proposal to complete consolidation of Northland Community College, and what was at one time, the Thief River Falls campus of Northwest Technical College. Also visiting the college was Wheelock's assistant, Patti Walsh, Senator LeRoy Stumpf, and Paul

Full-time student enrollment at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls increased eight percent for the fall semester of the 1999-2000 school year. A one percent increase in part-time student enrollment was also recorded.

LOW county plans new courthouse

Baudette - Lake of the Woods county has taken its first steps toward a new courthouse with its board of commissioners recently signing a contract for architectural services.

The county's current courthouse was built in 1909 as a school and has seen many changes over the years. It does not meet the current needs of the county and is deficient in many areas including handicapped accessibility, technology and safety codes.

A new government facility is scheduled to be built in the year 2000 and will house all county offices, court services and possibly a few other public services. The Baudette Region

Melroe Co. purchases Erskine Manufacturing

Erskine - Melroe Co. of Fargo has recently purchased Erskine Manufacturing Co. Inc. from owners, Wayne and Arlene Gustafson of McIntosh.

Since the early 1950s, Erskine Manufacturing has been a supplier of snowblower attachment parts for utility and farm markets. Under the Gustafsons' ownership, the company expanded to include hydraulically driven snowblowers for skid-steer loaders. More recently, a line of dump truck buckets that are particularly useful in loading large dump trucks were added to the line.

Erskine Manufacturing will continue to operate in Erskine under its current management. The plant employs approximately 50 people. The McIntosh Times

Local SWCD gets engineering support grant

Citizens of the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) will benefit from a grant recently given to eight SWCD's in Area I to provide conservation engineering assistance.

The grant, provided through the state Non-point Engineering Assistance Program (NPEA), provides funding for engineering and technician teams to design practices such as manure storage structures, clean water diversions, streambank and lakeshore erosion control practices and water and sediment control basins.

"These engineers and technicians provide a key service to landowners in these SWCD's," said Grant Satre, chairman of the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD, which manages the program locally. "We can't expect landowners to manage resources wisely without access to engineering assistance."

Statewide, the NPEA supports 11 engineering teams, each of which serve an eight to 11 SWCD area. The Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources administers the program at the state level. The program began in 1994 when the Minnesota legislature approved funding to provide low-interest loans to landowners and local governments for water quality purposes, and recognized that additional engineering assistance would be needed to design the practices funded by the loans.

Statewide funding for the program is about $1.3 million per year. The BWSR approved the grants at its August meeting.

GAME, FISH & ENFORCEMENT

by Mike Ramstorf
MN Conservation Officer

Fall is in the air. As the temperature cools, people are getting ready for the upcoming seasons. My phone has been busy with people needing questions answered as they plan for upcoming hunts.

One item I hear a lot of comments on is the that hunters are only allowed to tag one deer this year. The two deer area where hunters were allowed to tag one deer with a firearms deer license and one with an archery license was not re-authorized by the Minnesota Legislature and has been discontinued. This will not effect management or intensive harvest tags.

I have already heard "grumbling" about hunters buying their spouses archery licenses to tag their deer with. Just a reminder, to party hunt deer, people must be "afield" together and participating in the hunt in order to tag an animal.

Another big game violation that has been brought to my attention is people have been buying both regular firearms and muzzle loader licenses in the same year. You can only participate in one or the other hunts.

On a sad note..... Night poaching violations are starting early this fall. I am asking for your help. If you see a violation or hear shots after dark, call me! I can be reached thru the dispatchers at the Minnesota State Patrol, 681-0942 or thru the TIP Hotline 1-800-652-9093. After September 1st it is illegal to shine after 10 p.m. or anytime while in possession of a weapon capable of taking big game.

Saturday, September 18th is the youth waterfowl hunt. If you're reading this Saturday morning its not too late to go. Grab your son or daughter, niece or nephew, grandson or granddaughter and head for the country.

On this day, the kids get to hunt. Any adult with or without a license can take a child 15 years old and younger waterfowl hunting. The only change from regular season is the adults don't get to shoot.

Take advantage of an opportunity to start a duck hunter.

Saturday is also opening day for small game and archery deer. I've jumped numerous coveys of ruffed grouse while checking bear baits. The leaves are heavy, but with the birds still bunched up, you can still be successful.

Remember while hunting small game, you need to wear an article of blaze orange, a hat or vest counts. Also, you must be 20 feet from a motor vehicle, and have the engine shut off before attempting to take small game. This law includes all motor vehicles, including ATV's.

October 2nd marks the waterfowl opener. Not much has changed this year. The scaup (bluebill) limit has been reduced to 3 statewide. This change stems from shrinking numbers in the birds. This change will make it necessary for all of us to brush up on our duck identification. Scaup and Ring necks are very similar. Remember, when in doubt, hold your shot.

The Dark goose season on the Northwest zone has also been lengthened and will last from October 2nd thru November 10th. The limit remains at one Canada goose per day.

Have a safe weekend

I know chicken is good for me, but I am so sick of the same old baked chicken. I've been looking for some speed-up, interesting chicken recipes to share with you. Here are some - I hope they appeal to you. Not all of them are for those who are watching their weight, but they surely do sound good anyway.

Here is a crock pot recipe that cooks 3 or 4 hours – just right for putting on at your lunch break. Serve it over rice with your favorite salad – broccoli/cauliflower would be good, or even tender-crisp cooked Chinese-type veggies:

LEMON CHICKEN
2 1/2 to 3 pound cut up chicken
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons oil
6 ounce can frozen lemonade
3 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons ketchup
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons cold water
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Combine flour with salt. Coat chicken with mixture and brown in oil. Transfer to slow cooker.

Stir together lemonade, sugar, ketchup and vinegar and pour over chicken. Cover and cook on high 3-4 hours.

Remove chicken and pour liquid into saucepan. Skim off fat. Blend cold water and cornstarch and pour into hot liquid. Cook and stir until thickened.

All right, I don't suppose this one is low fat, but wouldn't it taste good with potato salad and other picnic foods:

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN
2 chickens
Water
1 teaspoon rosemary
2 teaspoons salt
Batter:
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon oil
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 cup milk
Cooking oil

Cut up chickens and boil in water with rosemary and salt until pieces are tender.

To make batter, beat all ingredients together with mixer. If too thick, add a little milk. Mixture should resemble thick cream.

Dip chicken pieces in batter and deep fry in 2 inches of hot oil until golden brown.

This sounds like a delicate, tasty dish, and really easy to prepare. Serve with rice, noodles or potatoes:

SOUR CREAM AND DILL CHICKEN
1 cup sour cream
1 package dry onion soup mix
6 boneless chicken breasts
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
2 teaspoon dill weed

Place chicken in buttered baking dish.

Combine remaining ingredients and pour over chicken. Bake at 350 degrees 1 to 1 1/2 hours, depending on size of breasts.

This recipe is very simple, but not for dieters:

BAKED CHICKEN PIECES
1 chicken, cut into pieces
1/2 cup butter, melted
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon garlic
1/2 to 1 cup Parmesan cheese

Mix dry ingredients, using as much Parmesan as desired. Dip chicken in butter and then roll in dry ingredients. Bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour or until done.

This sounds like a good one for those of you who are watching your weight – or a very delicious dinner for anyone:

STIR FRY CHINESE CHICKEN AND MUSHROOMS
2 whole chicken breasts, sliced thin
2 tablespoons sherry wine
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup onions, sliced
1 cup pea pods
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 or 3 tablespoons oil for pan or wok

Cube chicken breasts. Slice mushrooms and onions. Fry chicken in oil and stir until done or pink color leaves.

Add mushrooms, peas and onion and stir fry until cooked tender crisp.

Mix remaining ingredients together for sauce. Add and cook until thick. Serve over rice. (Double the sauce ingredients if you like lots of sauce.)

Here's one more delicious recipe where you can utilize any cooked chicken (or turkey – save this recipe for after Thanksgiving too) leftovers – all in one – how easy:

CHICKEN CRESCENT ALMANDINE
3 cups cooked, cubed chicken or turkey
1 can cream of chicken soup
4 ounce can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
4 ounce can mushrooms, drained and sliced
2/3 cup Miracle Whip
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup sour cream
8 ounce can crescent rolls
2/3 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1/2 cup slivered almonds
2 to 4 tablespoons melted butter

Combine chicken or turkey, soup, water chestnuts, mushrooms, Miracle Whip, celery, onion and green pepper. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan.

Separate crescent rolls into 2 rectangles and place on top of chicken mixture.

Combine cheese, almonds and butter. Pour over dough.

Cook in 375 degree oven for 20-25 minutes until a deep brown. (Recipe serves 6-8 people).

Quit Whining

A fellow from somewhere in the Dakotas climbed aboard my boat the other day and, before our relationship was five minutes old, declared to me that a smallish lake near his home was producing "limits of two to five-pound walleyes with only an hour or two of effort."

I absorbed this obvious challenge by calmly looking him in the eye and quietly explaining that only an absolute idiot would walk away fram that kind of fishing and that I was certainly not going to be caught on this lake with that kind of fool aboard my launch. Raising my voice several notches, I kicked his butt out onto the dock, hurling as many animaginative insults his way as I could concoct in the 30 seconds it took for him to scurry to the insulated safety of his car parked in the adjoining lot. I thumbed my nose at him for good measure as he sped back onto the highway and home to whatever quality of fishing might actually exist back there.

Actually, that's a bit of an exaggeration. All I really did was nod my head in envious belief and ask him what they were using back home to generate such success. We went on to fish together for a couple of days and, a shore lunch and a hard-fought limit of fish later, parted company as friends.

I still resent being put in the position of having to defend Lake of the Woods, however, and am frustrated when the fickle limitations of weather or fish patterns cause once a year anglers to make sweeping generalizations about the lake as a whole. Even at our worst, we're better than most.

Case in point: This past week witnessed one of those classic fall fronts. Lots of wind, lots of rain, lots of tough fishing. Exactly how tough is tough? Well, let's be specific. Here's the blow by blow fram last weekend's group of three. On Thursday the wind was bad enough to keep us off the lake until 3 p.m. We sneaked out for an hour or two and kept four walleyes. Friday was less windy and considerably wetter, but six soggy hours of angling managed to put nine walleyes and 14 saugers in the cooler. Saturday was wet, windy and cold and offered up another 23 "keeper" mix of fish. No bragging, no apologies, just the facts.

Now let's look at the recent Professional Walleye Trail event that occurred in Madison, WI, over—coincidentally—the exact same three-day period. No, I'm not even going to attempt to draw a parallel between my abilities and those of a professional tournament angler. I'm more than willing to acknowledge that the PWT demands a level of finesse that seems to have eluded my heavy-handed grasp.

But let's try to compare "apples to apples" on a lake basis anyway. These guys (the very best the walleye world has to offer) fished a prominent Wisconsin walleye lake (possibly the best that the state has to offer) in exactly the same weather conditions that had me wishing I'd gone into the priesthood this past weekend. Of course they struggled in the face of such adversity; who wouldn't have?

Yet, with all the level of expertise that these 42 talented fishermen brought to bear on the Madison Chain of Lakes, they were able to boat only 187 walleyes in that three-day period. That works out to about four fish per man per tournament or about 1.3 fish per man per 10-hour day. In short, the .13 fish per hour reflects the toughness of the conditions.

Meanwhile, back on Lake of the Woods, a very average guide and his trio of inexperienced anglers managed to bump and slosh their way to about 50 fish during what may have amounted to 16 hours of fishing in the exact same weather system. Those may not be great numbers for this fishery, but that works out to .78 fish per man per hour or about six times the success rate of the Wisconsin tournament.

Of course a tournament angler would have performed even better here; that's not open to debate. And, of course, there's going to be success stories on any local Dakota lake that rival the legendary quality of this body of water even on its finest days. I can accept that. But given the inconsistent patterns of nature, both on a fish and a weather basis, I'll take Lake of the Woods in both the good days and the bad.

Lakehead observes 50 years as oil pipeline

Lakehead Pipeline Company, Inc., observed 50 years in the oil transportation business Thursday, September 16, with a noon dinner and open house at its building in Thief River Falls.

Lakehead was the company that first made it possible for product from the oil fields of the Canadian province of Alberta to reach markets in the United States and eastern Canada in the 1940s.

According to former employees in attendance at the dinner, the original pipeline fram Edmonton to the eastern United States was built in 150 days with many construction companies working simultaneously on various sections of the line. The pumping station at Viking was constructed the same year as the pipeline while the Thief River Falls office, in the former Thomas Motors building on the west edge of the city, was acquired only a few years ago.

Today the company created in 1949 operates the world's longest crude oil and petroleum products pipeline system and moves more than two million barrels of product a day for more than 60 different suppliers. The pipeline crosses one territory, five provinces and seven states.

"It all began with a group of people and a dream," stated John W. Hays of Bemidji, district manager for Lakehead. "Fifty years is an incredible milestone for any company, and our dedicated employees over the years have helped lay the foundation for many more years of success."

A number of former employees joined present employees and a number of invited guests from the community and area at the dinner and open house Thursday.

Farm Safety Important In Any Kind Of Weather

National Farm Safety and Health Week September 19-25 is a reminder once again that one of the nation's most hazardous occupations requires special attention to care and caution. Theme of the special week this year is Protecting Agriculture Into the Next Century.

In this area of Minnesota this year the normal "hum" of the fall harvest season is more of a splash and a squish. What had already been a terrible crop year has been made substantially worse by a cold and wet fall season. Those few crops which were planted and survived a hostile summer growing season now seem destined to be abandoned to wet fields and poor quality that makes them unprofitable to harvest.

While a busy harvest season often leads to long hours that cause fatigue and to a work rush that results in farmers taking chances to save time, such is not the case this year. Attitudinal hazards this year result from frustration and a myriad of concerns that take the mind off the danger of the tasks at hand. Making do with old equipment that may be lacking in safety shields and other protections because there is no money to update machinery may present additional hazards.

Many fatalities and personal injury accidents also happen due to failure to follow safety rules.

"Farmers, parents, children and the American public need to understand that anyone other than the operator on a farm tractor that is not equipped with a manufacturer-approved second seat is at great risk to be seriously injured or killed," reminds Terry Wilkinson, manager of the agricultural division of the National Safety Council.

"No riders, no injured riders. It can't get any simpler than that," Wilkinson says.

Farm and ranch families and people who visit farms and ranches are devastated every year by serious and fatal injuries that occur when children and workers fall off operating tractors on which they were riding and are run over by the tractor or trailing equipment.

The National Safety Council's 1999 edition of Injury Facts reports that "an estimated 255 tractor-related deaths happened nationwide during 1997, with 66, or 26 percent, the result of tractor runovers." The rate for tractor runovers is 1.7 deaths per 100,000 tractors.

Bystanders standing near a tractor are the second major cause of tractor runover deaths. These most commonly occur when the operator bypasses the tractor starter with a metal conductor when the tractor is in gear.

The fatalities and serious injuries occur despite many safety education and training programs which have existed across the nation for years in farm organizations, 4-H, FFA, cooperative extension services and curriculum and activities of agricultural educators, Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, manufacturers, the insurance industry and others. And the tractor runover situation is just one of many injury or risk areas addressed by these programs.

We can understand the desire of farmers and ranchers to have their children with them for rides on their tractors and other self-propelled equipment. Most farm parents don't consider the hazard involved. But it is important for tractor operators to understand that the risk of carrying riders is a risk that is not worth taking— especially the risk of carrying children. The National Safety Council advises parents to voluntarily prohibit children from being on tractors as riders.

The few extra seconds or minutes it takes to do a task safely are nothing compared with the time and financial loss due to injury, loss of limbs or loss of life. In farming as in other dangerous occupations, safety must come first. Think about it.

Electric Industry Restructuring Coming?

If one would believe the words of Minnesota Commerce Commissioner Steve Minn, "electric restructuring is coming to Minnesota. The days of having only one choice of a utility to provide your electricity will soon be in the past."

Commissioner Minn has a high opinion of his department's ability to convince the state legislature that the task should be accomplished. "The Minnesota Department of Commerce is developing a restructuring plan that will be presented to the legislature in 2001," he said. "Its goal will be to open electric generation to competition, at the same time preserving reliability and other strengths of the present system."

"The Ventura administration believes strongly that in the long run, competition can provide all Minnesotans with a greater variety of generation services at lower costs," the commissioner added. "Competition is a powerful tool for promoting innovation and responding to customers' needs. Experiences in other industries have repeatedly demonstrated the benefits of competition."

Commissioner Minn said that the regulated, monopoly system has served the public well for the better part of this century, but dynamic changes in the economy and technology compel the move to competition.

"Lower energy prices are critical to the ability of Minnesota and U.S. companies to compete globally," Minn said. "Business will not be the only beneficiary, however. Competition should bring lower prices for all consumers. Even more important, competition should help create markets for new generation technologies, including those that are more efficient and less polluting."

"One of the legitimate concerns about electric restructuring is that the "leveling effect" of lowering rates for large users will result in price hikes for residential and other small customers! In this part of the state, for instance, we have enjoyed low electrical rates from rural electric cooperatives for many years. That could change with restructuring.

Commissioner Minn says that to ensure that all customers benefit, restructuring must be done right. That means observing some basic principles as well as including all interested persons and groups in the process. As it develops its plan, the Department of Commerce will observe the following principles, he said:

• Ensure competitive fairness; all players must be assured of a "level playing field," which means tax laws and other regulations affecting fairness must be examined and revised;

• Ensure reliability by participating in federal and regional proceedings to develop new ways to ensure adequacy of supplies and transmission;

• Provide for protection of the environment through conservation and development of renewable energy resources;

• Address the need for everyone, including the low income, to have access to electric service.

Following meetings now being held with representatives of various utilities, consumer and environmental groups, potential marketers, government agencies and others, a plan will be drafted for presentation to the public next summer. Public comment will be received and a final plan prepared for the 2001 session of the legislature.

We're probably old-fashioned, but we aren't eager to see change in a system which seems to be working well. "Restructuring" in the airline and telephone industries has caused more than its share of problems, despite claims of "success."

Senior housing workshop to be held in TRF

An overview of senior housing models including licensure, funding and marketing workshop will be held September 30 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. The registration fee is $10. The registration deadline is September 27.

Jay Anderson, SAIL Housing Resource Specialist from the Arrowhead Area Agency on Aging will be presenting a review of board and lodging with special service settings, family and corporate adult foster care (Homes Plus), and assisted living. Slides will be used of different housing settings that illustrate the housing options and a continuum of residential care.

He will discuss licensure past and present as well as how the new Assisted Living Home Care Rule will impact providers.

A presentation highlighting the development of assisted living in public housing (Hibbing Housing and Redevelopment Authority Seventh Avenue Apartments) will be presented. "Helen's Story", a senior who resides in a Duluth HRA highrise, will be used to familiarize the attendees with the benefits of assisted living in public housing for frail seniors and the questions, "Why should I provide this service?" and "How do I do it?" will be addressed.

Anderson currently has a contract with the Arrowhead Regional Development Commission to develop housing with service models in the seven-county Arrowhead Region through a SAIL (Seniors Agenda for Independent Living) grant. He retired from the St. Louis County Social Service Department in 1997 after 36 years, the last eight administering elderly services in the Duluth area. For the past 10 years, Anderson has been actively involved in senior housing service funding issues for low income seniors, and has served on many Department of Human Services committees and work groups. His experiences administering assisted living services in two public housing buildings in Duluth has guided him in the development of similar programs in Hibbing and Ely, which opened in February and June of this year.

This workshop is sponsored by the Northwest Area Agency on Aging, a program of the Northwest Regional Development Commission. For more information or to register for the workshop contact the Northwest Area Agency on Aging at 1-800-333-2433. Senior Linkage Line or 218-745-6733.

No appointments are necessary. Walk-ins are welcome. The flu vaccine is a yearly immunization to protect against flu virus strains present that year. The pneumonia vaccine is to prevent the most common type of bacteria-pneumonia. It is safe, and most people need this vaccine only once in a life-time. Both vaccines are recommended for persons 65 years or older or have chronic illnesses such as heart or lung disease, diabetes or weak immune systems. If you have questions regarding eligibility, call (701) 239-3700, extension 3915.

In addition, the Gulf War Illness Clinic will be available to conduct eligibility screenings and/or provide additional information about the Exercise and Behavioral Therapy treatment study. To participate in this study, veterans must have served in the Gulf War between August 1990 and August 1991 and must currently be suffering from at least two of three otherwise unexplained symptoms: a) fatigue, b) muscle and/or joint pain, and/or c) memory and thinking problems. The symptoms must have been present for more than six months. At the conclusion of the study, volunteers will be paid $150.

Water workshop on tile drainage in Oklee Sept. 23

A water management meeting with a focus on the drainage will be conducted in Oklee, 1-5 p.m. at the Oklee Community Center on Thursday, September 23.

Poor drainage is the number one yield limiting factor in many parts of Northwest Minnesota. And, low yields are the number one cause of poor profitability in the region. Poor drainage contributes directly and indirectly to many production problems, including:

* Decreased timeliness of field operations - delayed planting, pest management, and harvest;
* Decreased plant stand;
* Decreased productivity of surviving plants;
* Poor weed control;
* Soil compaction.

The existing drainage system is primarily surface drainage. There is very little subsurface (tile) drainage in the area. Research indicates that optimum yields are obtained using a combination of surface and subsurface drainage. Tile drainage holds considerable promise, however, there are many misconceptions about the suitability of tile drainage for the region. The objective of the meeting is to help farmers develop a strategy regarding drainage management and the suitability of tile drainage for their farm. Farmers, lenders, and others interested in agricultural water management and tile drainage are encouraged to attend. The meeting is sponsored by the University of Minnesota Extension Service. These are the speakers and topics that will be discussed:

* Precision Agriculture and Water Management: Gary Wagner, Farmer and Precision Agriculture Pioneer;
* Precision Drainage Management: Jeff Nesbit, Precision Partners;
* Topography and Drainage: Greg Krieger, Central Crop Consulting;
* Technical Issues Regarding Tile Drainage Systems: Basic Design Issues, Common Questions and Concerns, Do It Yourself and Contractor Installed Tile. Gary Sands, University of Minnesota Extension Agricultural Engineer.
* Tile Drainage Economics - Yield Responses and Other Benefits, ROI. Zach Fore, University of Minnesota Cropping Systems Specialist.
* Regulatory/Compliance Issues: Shawnn Balstad, Red Lake County NRCS.
* Tour - Tile Drained Sites, Lift Station, Tiling Machines (Farmer and Commercial), Rotary Ditcher. Information will be available on Farmer Tiling Equipment and Tile Vendors - How to Contact, Prices, Literature, etc. Contact Zach Fore.

Green Wave wins marathon volleyball match...

EGF comeback beats TRF 3-2

Up 2-0 in the match and ahead 6-1 in Game 3, Thief River Falls appeared headed to a Tuesday high school volleyball sweep over East Grand Forks. But the Prowlers couldn't finish the job, and the Green Wave rallied for a marathon 15-17, 6-15, 15-12, 18-16, 15-12 victory.

"Very disappointing," was the way Thief River Falls co-head coach Amy Roche described the results. "We lost our intensity. We were on a high after the first two games, but we kind of fell into a hole and we couldn't climb out."

Thief River Falls managed to overcome serve receiving problems to win at the start of the night, but couldn't get by with trouble at the service line down the stretch, pointed out Roche. "We couldn't pick up the serves early in the match," she said. "We managed to get through that, but then our serving fell apart. It seems like when you fix one thing, something else goes wrong."

East Grand Forks turned a 14-7 Game 1 deficit into a 15-14 lead with an eight-point run that included four aces. But a spike by Ayla Donlin tied it, an ace by Katy Hook put the Prowlers ahead and a rotation violation called against the Green Wave produced the final point.

The Prowlers carried the second game that ended with a kill by Kylle Rogalla and an ace by Hook, and the momentum carried over at the start of Game 3.

Brittany Hanson's play at the net ignited an East Grand Forks comeback that produced a tie at 11 and the first Green Wave lead at 13-12 on a drive by Karisa Kovar. Hanson got the final two points on a kill and a block.

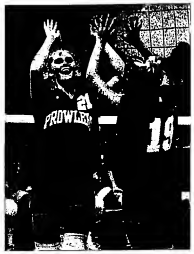
Game 4 featured a Thief River Falls rally from an 11-2 deficit to a 15-14 lead on an ace by Mathson. But Hanson came up with a kill block and the Prowlers sent the next volley into the net to put the Green Wave up 16-15.

Becky Bray kept the game going with a corner kill for a 16-16 tie, only to see the Prowlers give up the final two points on a back row error and on a serve that was not picked up cleanly.

Thief River Falls had the upper hand with an 11-6 lead in the match-deciding fifth game, but Kim Gorman tied it on an ace and Hanson put the Green Wave ahead for the first time, 12-11, on a block.

The Prowlers mishandled another serve by Gorman and watched Hanson deliver an ace for a 14-12 East Grand Forks lead.

Mathson came through with a side-out kill that was followed by her point-producing drive through a double-block for a 14-12 game. However, a missed serve put the ball back in the Green Wave court, and Thief River Falls hit the next volley out of bounds, ending the 2 1/2-hour contest.



"We're two very evenly matched teams," noted Roche. "We have a lot of similarities."

Impressive numbers were turned in by Bray, Mathson and Donlin. The two hitters combined for 53 kills, with Bray putting down 28 and Mathson 25. Donlin did her job as setter with an eye-popping 50 assists.

Hanson and Lisa Kouba led the Green Wave with 18 and 15 kills, respectively. Gorman finished with 37 assists and six of the 15 aces served by the winners.

East Grand Forks remained unbeaten at 4-0. Thief River Falls fell to 4-5.

Thief River Falls won the junior varsity match 15-8, 17-15 and took the C squad contest 16-14, 8-15, 15-10.

Becky Bray (left) got a high-five from Thief River Falls teammate Kelly Bendickson after a third game kill during Tuesday's high school volleyball match against East Grand Forks. Bray finished with a match-leading 28 kills, but the Prowlers lost a 3-2 decision to the Green Wave.

Pioneers host Minnesota West

A 12-noon kickoff is scheduled today (Saturday) as Northland plays host to Minnesota West in a Minnesota Community College Conference football match-up at Prowler Field in Thief River Falls.

Northland is 2-1 with wins over Central Lakes 28-26 and Fergus Falls 16-8, followed by a 31-7 loss at the hands of Ridgewater last week. Minnesota West remains unbeaten with wins over Itasca 31-12, Hibbing 35-0 and Mesabi Range 27-13.

The Minnesota West attack is led by sophomore quarterback Jesse Berg, who has completed 24 of 48 pass attempts for 314 yards and eight touchdowns. He has been intercepted once. His leading receiver is Brian Whitacre with 9 catches for 172 yards (19.1 average) and five touchdown. The ground game features Ben Backer, who has rushed for 335 yards (5.2 average) and five touchdowns.

Northland centers its offense around freshman fullback Scott Olson, who has rushed for 522 yards (6.8 average) and scored five touchdowns. Freshman quarterback Ben Mosack is 18-for-40 passing for 180 yards and one touchdown. He has not been intercepted. Olson is also the Pioneers' leading receiver with eight catches for 55 yards.

Minnesota West will be the final Southern Division foe Northland will face this fall. The Pioneers will finish the regular season against Northern Division opponents Itasca, Vermillion, Hibbing, and Mesabi Range.

RLCC sweeps Ponies

Red Lake County Central shut out Warren-Alvarado-Oslo in the first game and went on to sweep the Ponies 15-0, 15-7, 15-5 in a Tuesday high school volleyball match at Warren.

Heather Schiefert came up with 11 kills for the Mustangs, who improved to 5-3, while Amanda Spong had 8 and Jessica Spong finished with 7. Emily Brastad collected 29 assists.

"We played really well," reported Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray. "We only missed two serves all night, and our passing and setting was there. We played well for three games; we didn't let up like we sometimes do."

Nordics top Eagles 3-1

It's hard to knock the results, but Marshall County Central High School volleyball coach Mark Jorgenson has been less than satisfied with the Nordics' play while they won their first four 1999 starts.

"It's good to get the wins, but we can play better," said Jorgenson following an 11-15, 15-10, 15-11, 15-3 Tuesday victory at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The Nordics had trouble serving, missing 14 attempts through the first three games. "It's all mental," said Jorgenson. "It's maddening."

Mandi Blawat came off the bench to help solve the Marshall County Central problems at the service line, where she had a hand in 21 of the Nordics' 51 points.

"Mandi came in and did a nice job for us," mentioned Jorgenson. "She got us going."

Kristi Kilen had a 13-kill match for the winners, and Holly Augustine came up with 11 assists.

"Sacred Heart did a nice job keeping the ball in play with their defense," pointed out Jorgenson, "but they didn't have a go-to person on offense to get the points."

NCTC golf scores drop

Third meet of the year produced the best scores to date for members of the 1999 Northland Community and Technical College golf team Wednesday at the Ridgewater Invitational played in Hutchinson.

Bethany led the 10-team field with a 318, followed by Riverland with a 327, Minnesota West 328, Central Lakes 331, Northland 337, Minneapolis 340, Rochester 344, Fergus Falls 349, and Ridgewater 359.

Nate Kruger of Bethany was meet medalist with a 75. The Pioneers' scores included Dominic Ste. Marie with an 81, Pete Vacha 82, Jon Lee 85, Justin Buhl 89, and Jared Olafson 94.

Changes in the schedule for the Rick Nikunen-coached Pioneers will find them playing at the Lake Region Invitational Monday in Devils Lake, ND, and the Central Lakes Invitational Wednesday in Brainerd.

Sept. 25 LHS, NCTC football twinbill will feature 2-for-1 ticket

■ Slight change made in game times

A Saturday, Sept. 25, football doubleheader featuring Northland Community and Technical College and Lincoln High School that was originally designed as a dedication to the new Multi-Events Center facility will go on as scheduled, but at Prowler Field.

It was announced earlier that the playing surface at the new field would not ready for the Pioneers and Prowlers this fall. The Sept. 25 twinbill was already in the books, however, and officials from both schools have elected to go ahead with the original one-day, two-game concept at the old site.

Northland will play Hibbing at 11:30 a.m. that day and Lincoln will take on Virginia at 3 p.m. Those game times, posted this week, differ slightly from the 11:45 a.m. and 2 p.m. kickoffs listed on the schedules. It was figured that the original time frame wasn't realistic to complete the college game and begin the high school contest.

In addition, it was announced that it will be a 2-for-1 day at Prowler Field. For a single ticket price, fans can attend both games. The usual high school ticket price will be in effect – $4 for adults; $2 for students K-through12, college students showing a school I.D., and senior citizens with their School District 564 card.

Football captains named

Seniors Adam Haviland, Brad Bulger and Brett Johnson have been named captains of Thief River Falls' 1999 high school football team, it was announced by Prowlers head coach Jeff Mumm.

Bears sweep Gators in Thursday contest

All four season-opening high school volleyball matches played by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River have been sweeps. Unfortunately for the Gators, they've lost the last three after starting the year with a win over Tri-County.

Thursday, Lake of the Woods beat Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 15-4, 15-7, 15-8 at Baudette.

"We started out a little slow," acknowledged Gators coach Christine Adrian. "We were more consistent, and pretty much played even with them in the second and third games."

A 16-kill match by Heather Hanson sparked the Bears' attack. "We needed to do a better job blocking on her," noted Adrian.

Sarah Peterson came up with seven assists for the Gators.

Badger/Grenbush-Middle River is playing in the Roseau Invitational today (Saturday). The Gators will be at Warroad Monday, at Marshall County Central Tuesday and at the Thief River Falls Northern Lites Invitational Saturday.

RLCC is 3-0 winner over Green Wave

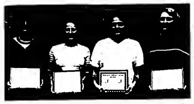
A balanced attack carried Red Lake County Central past host East Grand Forks 15-12, 15-6, 15-7 Thursday in high school volleyball.

Jessica Spong and Heather Schiefert had 9 kills each for the winners, while Tracy Rosten and Amanda Spong both had 8. Emily Brustad finished with 31 assists.

"We played well," said Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray. "We had a good, all-around match. We didn't let up. Our serving, passing, setting and hitting was all there, and we were picking up their tips."

The win improved the Mustangs' record to 6-3.

Red Lake County Central will face East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Tuesday at Plummer, visit Red Lake Falls Thursday and play in the Thief River Falls Northern Lites Invitational Saturday.



Nordics' undefeated status ends with 3-2 setback vs. Warroad

Season-opening Marshall County Central winning streak ended at four matches Thursday when the Nordics lost a 3-2 high school volleyball decision at home against Warroad.

The Nordics, who had not been playing up to their potential even while winning, according to head coach Mark Jorgenson, watched Warroad overcome a 2-0 deficit en route to a 3-15, 7-15, 15-13, 15-17, 15-12 victory. "We had started to become a good team playing at a mediocre level," explained Jorgenson. "You hope you learn from these situations."

Kristi Kilen had 21 kills and Christa Hagen turned in a strong performance as a setter and server, mentioned Jorgenson. "Warroad played well," he said. "We started out okay, but then we fell apart. We were playing not to lose instead of playing to win; we were not very aggressive."

Marshall County Central hosts Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Tuesday and will play in the Thief River Falls Northern Lites Invitational Saturday.

Four players who will be returning to the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team for their sophomore year this winter were recently announced as recipients of Minnesota Community College Conference academic all-conference awards for the 1998-99 season. The group includes, from left, Miki Waterworth, Viking; Rachel Blazejewski, Strandquist; Jessica Johnson, Warroad; and Shanna Keskitalo, New York Mills. All four had a minimum of a 3.0 grade-point average needed for the honor, led by Waterworth with a perfect 4.0 mark.

Sons of Lincoln High School grad...

J.J., Bennie Joppru playing D-I football

Sheldon Joppru, a 1969 Lincoln High School graduate who went on to play football at the University of North Dakota and also in the old World Football League, currently has a pair of sons playing college football at the NCAA Division I level.

J.J. Joppru is a defensive end at the University of Arizona, where he is a fifth-year senior. A transfer student from Fullerton (CA) College in 1996, the 6-6, 274-pound J.J. missed the entire 1997 season after undergoing knee surgery following an injury in spring practice that year.

Bennie Joppru is a 6-4, 251-pound freshman tight end at the University of Michigan.

Both J.J. and Bennie are Minnetonka High School graduates. Sheldon is a car dealer in the Twin Cities area.

Final relay results lift TRF swimmers past Detroit Lakes

A 1-3 finish in the final race of the meet, the 400 freestyle relay, produced enough points to lift Thief River Falls past Detroit Lakes 48-46 in girls high school swimming Thursday. The Prowlers' time also netted a one-sided 76-16 win over Perham in the double-dual hosted by the Lakers.

Detroit Lakes had a 43-41 scoreboard edge when swimmers stepped to the blocks for the start of the final relay. Andi Sorvig, Kristin Naplin, Julie Chrzanowski, and Chelsea Haviland won it by a 4:00.11 to 4:01.53 margin over the Lakers' top team, while Andrea Olin, Brittany Haviland, Danica Schroeder, and Cami Hendrickson placed third to clinch it. A Thief River Falls win and a 2-3 Detroit Lakes finish would have resulted in a 47-47 tie.

"It was a great meet for us," said Thief River Falls coach Mary Helen Houlihan. "An excellent team effort."

Thief River Falls performances included a section-qualifing effort by eighth grader Carli Cota in the 100 butterfly. There was no diving competition.

The two wins put the Prowlers' dual meet record at 4-1.

Junior varsity portion of the meet was a dual affair, with Thief River Falls beating Detroit Lakes 59-35.

SEPTEMBER 19TH - 25TH

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK

Play It Safe On The Farm—Follow The Safety Rules:

• Make accident prevention a goal. Be aware of hazards on the farm such as fires, vehicle accidents, electrical shocks, chemical exposures and injuries caused by livestock.

• Most farm accidents involve machinery, with tractor accidents responsible for the most fatalities. Inspect your machinery to determine problems. Provide rollover protection for tractors and use seat belts. Don't allow extra riders. Follow the "no seat, no rider" rule.

• Teach children the correct way to turn off machinery. Supervise them closely.

• Teach children to recognize the poison symbol and keep them away from pesticide, herbicides and fertilizer containers.

• Take the necessary precautions to prevent entrapment and suffocation caused by unstable surfaces in storage bins, silos and hoppers. Never let children play in the back of grain trucks, whether the grain is flowing or not.

• Methane, carbon dioxide, ammonia and other gases can build up in unventilated silos or manure pits and can cause asphyxiation or explosion.

• Read and follow operator's or owner's manuals for equipment. Follow product labels for the proper handling, use and storage of products, equipment and chemicals.

• Don't let children have unsupervised access to ponds, and keep them away from septic tanks, old wells or other bodies of water.

If approved by the legislature during the discussion over the Fiscal Year 2000-2005 capital budget request, Phase II construction at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls would consolidate the developmental learning center, multi-media classrooms, computer labs, remodel the science labs, provide ADA upgrades, and add classrooms which were lost due to relocation of the one-stop center for 20 Workforce Center employees, and an upgrading of the HVAC and electrical systems. The estimated cost of Phase II is $5 million. Pamela Wheelock, commissioner of the Department of Finance in Minnesota, visited the college on Tuesday and toured the area being considered for Phase II construction.

Women in politics we be topic of meeting grandchildren. She and her husband reside in Big Lake township near Monticello.

In addition to addressing workshop participants, Kiffmeyer will participate in a panel discussion with four other women, all from northwestern Minnesota, who will talk about their experiences in the elective process. A question and answer session will follow the discussion.

Joining Kiffmeyer will be Erma Vizenor, Ph.D., Gail Skare, Beverly Hewitt and Barb Jauquet Kalinoski.

Erma Vizenor currently holds the position of secretary/treasurer for the White Earth Tribal Council, first appointed to the position and then elected in a landslide victory. An educator with degrees from Harvard, Erma is a Bush Leadership Fellow who, as a political activist for White Earth and other tribal members, has reached across borders to a diverse population. As a member of numerous councils, commissions, and boards, she has worked hard for constitutional reform on the reservation and to build a strong reservation infrastructure. She is a recent widow whose family includes two daughters and a granddaughter, and she resides near Round Lake.

Gail Skare's political experience includes two years as a state representative for District 4A, serving southern Beltrami and northern Hubbard counties. Her dossier also includes three years as clerk of Northern township and ten years as a Beltrami County Commissioner. Gail grew up in Bagley and lives in Bemidji with her husband and five children.

For 35 years, Beverly Hewitt has lived on a cattle and horse ranch in Kittson county where she currently serves as a county commissioner. She serves on numerous boards and committees with involvement in the League of Women Voters and World Affairs Council and interest in voters' service, town government, Common Market and the United Nations.

Barb Jauquet Kalinoski lives in Thief River Falls with her husband and their four children. She is currently the director of the Northwest Regional Library and is an elected member of the School District 564 board of education. She is also very active in other community and professional boards and councils.

For women who are interested in politics, the time is now with record numbers of women serving in elected offices on a statewide and national level.

Sixty-five women currently serve in the 106th United States Congress with a record nine women serving in the Senate and 56 women, also an all-time high, serving in the House. Those numbers represent 12.1 percent of the 535 congressional seats.

In individual states, those statistics climb higher. In 1999, Mary Kiffmeyer joins 88 other women who serve in statewide elective executive offices across the country. Those women hold 27.6 percent of the 323 available positions. Among these women, 45 are Democrats, 41 are Republicans, one represents the Reform party and two were elected in nonpartisan races.

Also in 1999, 1,652 or 22.3 percent of the 7,424 state legislators in the United States are women. This number has increased five-fold in the last 30 years since 1969 when only 301 or four percent of all state legislators were women.

Since 1922, when women became eligible to vote and run for election to the Minnesota Legislature, a total of 127 women have served as legislators, 35 in the Minnesota Senate and 99 in the Minnesota House with seven of these women having served in both the House and Senate.

Today, Minnesota exceeds the national average with 57 women serving in the Minnesota Legislature in 1999, comprising 28 percent of its 201 members. They represent 26 percent of the 134 House seats and 33 percent of the 67 Senate seats. Of these women 34 are Democrats and 23 are Republicans.

As evidenced in a number of elections with surprising results, the political climate in the state and nation is rapidly changing, and now, more than ever, women have the opportunity to play an important and pronounced role in the political arena.

While the workshop will provide invaluable information for those interested in seeking political office, women do not have to have political aspirations to benefit from the event.

Knowledge is empowering, and an understanding of the political process will help us make informed and sound decisions when supporting and voting for others.

Cost of the workshop on September 25 is $15 per person or $5 per student and includes lunch and materials. Registrations may be sent to Rebecca Weir, Northwest Minnesota Foundation, 4225 Technology Drive NW, Bemidji, MN 56601.

For more information about the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund, a component fund of the Northwest Minnesota Foundation, contact Carolyn Eeg, chairperson, at (218) 782-2268 or Joy Johnson, vice-chair, at (218) 281-5591.

The completion of a new chapel/dining hall at Lake of the Woods Bible Camp will be celebrated with an open house and pork roast at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 19. The public is invited to attend. The Pathways camp is located five miles west of Baudette.

Open house to celebrate LOW Bible Camp building project

The completion of Pathways' new chapel/dining hall at Lake of the Woods Bible Camp will be celebrated with an open house and pork roast on Sunday, September 19 at 3 p.m.

The bright and cheery new dining hall features cathedral ceilings, new furnishings and a wonderful view of the Rainy River. The tables and chairs can be folded and stacked to allow space for special events. The spacious, dry basement will provide a safe haven for campers in the event of a bad storm. Camp offices are also located in the new building.

The kitchen and rest rooms were put into service this summer. Each rest room includes a shower.

The new building is part of a long-term project to upgrade the camp facilities. Three of the cabins have also been completely renovated and can be used in the spring, summer and fall. A new dock provides more spots for boats to be tied, and a ropes challenge course through the woods is under construction.

While problems have forced the closing of the pool, campers are taken to the pool in Baudette or the beach at Zippel Bay State Park three times a week. Both locations are within minutes of the camp.

With its recent improvements, Pathways is hoping that people from the surrounding area will make use of the camp during the time that it is not being used by summer campers, from late August through May.

For a modest fee the facility is available to groups for such events as church youth group activities, men's and women's retreats and family reunions. The chapel/dining room has electric heat. The large stone fireplace place can be used throughout the winter, and the building has ample room for overnight users to spread out sleeping bags.

Anxious to show everyone what has been accomplished and thank those whose time and financial support made the project possible, Pathways welcomes the public to attend Sunday's open house and pork roast.

Lake of the Woods Bible Camp is located five miles west of Baudette. From Warroad, follow Hwy. 11 east of Pitt, north on County Road 6 and east on County Road 172 to signs for Lake of the Woods Bible Camp.

For more information about the camp, call Pathways' main office at (218) 751-4208.

NCTC Phase II

Sorum, the college's architect from Trichwasser, Helenske and Associates.

The $4 million Phase I project which will centralize and consolidate the student services area for admissions, counseling, financial aid, computer operations center, business office, bookstore, placement, receptionist, commons, front entrance, shipping/receiving, and storage for maintenance areas, began last spring.

If approved by the legislature during the discussion over the Fiscal Year 2000-2005 capital budget request, Phase II would consolidate the developmental learning center, multi-media classrooms, computer labs, remodel the science labs, provide ADA upgrades, and add classrooms which were lost due to relocation of one-stop center for 20 Workforce Center employees, and an upgrading of the HVAC and electrical systems. The estimated cost of Phase II is $5 million.

Much has changed at the college in the last five years. Many of those changes began when in 1994, Northland Community College and the Thief River Falls campus of Northwest Technical College, volunteered to consolidate, with the understanding that the two colleges would be supported in the Capital Budget Request that would provide funds to accomplish two things: centralize support service areas; and remodel classroom and science labs, make HVAC improvements to the Development Learning Center, and remodel and expand the learning resources and computer technology labs.

In an effort to achieve these goals, the college has submitted and received approval on some of its bonding requests. The most recent request, was for $4 million in 1998 for Phase I.

Completion of Phase II will complete the consolidation process and provide the contemporary academic facilities needed for Northland to fulfill its mission as a comprehensive two-year college.

School board to hold Inservice

Board of School District 564 will hold a special inservice session Tuesday, September 21, at 6 p.m. in the school district service center to discuss initiatives for the 1999-2000 school year and other business.

Kiffmeyer will address town meeting Thurs.

Minnesota Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer will discuss new initiatives from her office relevant to townships at the district meeting of the Minnesota Association of Townships Thursday, September 23, at the Newfolden community center. The address is scheduled from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

According to Kiffmeyer, there are several topics of importance to greater Minnesota that will be of interest to township officials:

• A state contract, negotiated by the Secretary of State's office, that is making automated precinct ballot counters more affordable for local governments choosing to purchase them. This technology will help to ensure that every vote is counted.

• New training for local election officials to give them the tools they need to conduct elections confidently and efficiently.

• The need for more election judges. There are shortages statewide, and it is the responsibility of the political parties to provide names of potential judges to local election officials.

Viking elevator demolished

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The eighty-five foot tall Viking elevator which dominated the skyline around the small town of same name came tumbling down last Friday. For about 100 years it stood up to proirie winds and winter blasts, and for a while Friday looked like it would stand up to the demolition efforts of Wright Construction.

Dave Johnson of Thief River Falls who witnessed the demolition said a tractor pulled out supports on one side while two backhoes pushed on the other side. Worried backhoe operators watched the elevator promptly sit down on the side where the supports had been removed and refuse to fall. After about 15 tense minutes, it finally dropped into the 60-foot square by 25-foot deep pit where it was torn apart and burned by the Viking volunteer fire department.

Wayne Peters, mayor of Viking, population just under 100, said it seemed like another example of the way small towns are going. Peters said the town has been trying to hold its own, but over the years has been losing. Recently Viking's grocery store and cafe closed. Peters thought the cafe had been owned by three different owners in the past three years. It has been a struggle, he said.

Viking's gas station has been gone for about 20 years. About as many years ago, the old Viking depot was purchased and moved to Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls.

Peters said the last time the elevator was used was probably in the early 1980s. He guessed that the building was about 100 years old, and was the last of the three elevators that at one time, existed in Viking. The elevator torn down last Friday hadn't been in use for about 20 years.

The town hasn't disappeared from state maps. It still has a community center, a post office, a kindergarten through grade three school, two churches and a beauty salon.

Newfolden Co-Op Elevator Association purchased the elevator a couple of years ago. By then the office and much of the elevator had been salvaged. The elevator owns the quonset and storage bins still on the site. A representative of Newfolden Co-Op said they purchased the site because quite a few cars can be loaded on the siding. Last year all of the buildings and the quonset building were filled with grain. This year will not be a profitable year at the site. There's very little grain.

The elevator was torn down this year because it wasn't going to be used in the future, and the Co-Op believed it was a liability risk. No major plans have been proposed for the site.

Wright Construction of Thief River Falls demolished the elevator. The backhoe operators were Randy Wright and Darrel Comstock of Thief River Falls. The est operatar was Bob Wagner of Oully. Other individuals assisting included Matt Scholin and Brian Benitt of Holt.

Northland college fair next Tuesday

Representatives from 60 educational institutions, military services and other organizations will participate in the annual college fair for continued education to be hosted Tuesday, September 28, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. The event is free and open to the public.

"The college fair gives high school students, their parents and anyone interested in pursuing higher education an opportunity to explore the options for continued schooling and skill development," states Don Howe, organizer of the college fair.

Structured like a trade show, the fair allows visitors to ask questions and receive information directly from the representatives staffing the booths. High school students and others considering higher education or military service can make a number of contacts in one location in a short period of time.

Northland's college fair has had substantial growth and continues to grow.

"We have more than 1,000 high school students scheduled to participate," Howe said. "This is the first year we have reached that number since Northland began organizing and hosting a college fair. It offers an excellent chance for high school students to begin planning for life after graduation."

The event is sponsored by the Minnesota Association for College Admission Counseling (MACAC), the same group that hosts the successful National College Fair each fall in Minneapolis.

A list of participants includes the following:

Auker's Business College, Alexandria Technical College, Augsburg College, Bemidji State University, Bethel College, Brown Institute, Central Lakes College, College of St. Benedict, College of St. Catherine, Concordia College (Moorhead), Concordia College (St. Paul), Dunwoody Institute, Gustavus Adolphus College and Hamline University;

Also Hibbing Community College, Huron University, Jamestown College, Lakehead University, Mayville State University, Michigan Tech University, Minnesota State University (Mankato), Model College of Hair Design, Moorhead State University, NEI College of Technology, Normandale Community College and North Dakota State College of Science;

Also North Dakota State University, Northern Michigan

Ginny Armstrong named Farm Woman of the Year

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

"I haven't gotten very far in life," says Ginny Armstrong. The daughter of the late Martin and Julia Finstad, Ginny grew up on the farm in Rocksbury township that she now shares and works with her husband Joe.

Ginny was recently chosen as Pennington county's Farm Woman of the Year by Minnesota Agri-Women. On October 29, the Red River Valley Farm Woman of the Year will be named from a field of nine women from Minnesota counties and six women representing counties in North Dakota at the 17th annital Harvest of Knowledge Agri-Women's Conference in Grand Forks.

Although it wasn't for long, Ginny has experienced life in other places. After her marriage to Joe in 1963, the couple spent two years in California and a year in Florida where Joe worked as a produce inspectar. "Muggy and buggy" is how Ginny describes Florida, and she was only too glad to get back to Minnesota and battle mosquitoes.

Since their return, Ginny and Joe have farmed the family farm in a side-by-side operation, and while she says there are a few things that she "can't" or "won't" do, Ginny is well versed in operating a tractor or combine or driving a truck. Equipped with a program designed specifically for farming, Ginny takes care of the bookkeeping on a computer, and together, the couple makes marketing decisions. Describing marketing as the "hardest part" of farming, Ginny says that she and Joe are in agreement "most of the time."

While the Armstrongs raised registered polled Herefords "way back when," theirs is a diversified grain operation that includes a variety of crops.

In previous years, those crops have included wheat, barley, soybeans, sunflowers and canola on 2,000 acres of owned and rented acreage. Due to this year's wet conditions, the vast majority of that land is idle. Of the crops that were planted, Ginny says that the canola "wasn't too bad," but the wheat was poor, and 70 acres remained to be harvested as of Wednesday. Had they been able to get their crops in, soybeans would have been among this year's yield.

Like their neighbors, Ginny says they have been "playing in the mud" for so many years that she hardly remembers a dry year. Weather, however, isn't the only discouraging thing about farming. There are the high input costs and low commodity prices to consider, and Ginny is distressed by the fact that there doesn't seem to be any young farmers around anymore.

As frustrating as the current agricultural situation is, Ginny, when asked if she had a son would want him to farm, easily replies, "Yeah." Farming, for Ginny, is more than a way to make a living. It's a desirable way of life.

That way of life also appeals to the Armstrongs' daughters. Oldest daughter, Lynell, is married to Bob

It won't be long before Ginny Armstrong is back in her deer stand for this year's hunt. Deer hunting is among the outdoor activities that she enjoys. Ginny, who farms with husband Joe southeast of Thief River Falls, was recently named Minnesota Agri-Woman's Farm Woman of the Year for Pennington county.

Dave Johnson of Thief River Falls who witnessed the demolition said a tractor pulled out supports on one side while two backhoes pushed on the other side. Worried backhoe operators watched the elevator promptly sit down on the side where the supports had been removed and refuse to fall. After about 15 tense minutes, it finally dropped into the 60-foot square by 25-foot deep pit where it was torn apart and burned by the Viking volunteer fire department.

Wayne Peters, mayor of Viking, population just under 100, said it seemed like another example of the way small towns are going. Peters said the town has been trying to hold its own but over the years has been losing. Recently Viking's grocery store and cafe closed. Peters thought the cafe had been owned by three different owners in the past three years. It has been a struggle, he said.

Viking's gas station has been gone for about 20 years. About as many years ago, the old Viking depot was purchased and moved to Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls.

Peters said the last time the elevator was used was probably in the early 1980s. He guessed that the building was about 100 years old, and was the last of the three elevators that at one time, existed in Viking. The elevator torn down last Friday hadn't been in use for about 20 years.

The town hasn't disappeared from state maps. It still has a community center, a post office, a kindergarten through grade three school, two churches and a beauty salon.

Newfolden Co-Op Elevator Association purchased the elevator a couple of years ago. By then the office and much of the elevator had been salvaged. The elevator owns the quonset and storage bins still on the site. A representative of Newfolden Co-Op said they purchased the site because quite a few cars can be loaded on the siding. Last year all of the buildings and the quonset building were filled with grain. This year will not be a profitable year at the site. There's very little grain.

The elevator was torn down this year because it wasn't going to be used in the future, and the Co-Op believed it was a liability risk. No major plans have been proposed for the site.

Wright Construction of Thief River Falls demolished the elevator. The backhoe operators were Randy Wright and Darrel Comstock of Thief River Falls. The cat operator was Bob Wagner of Gully. Other individuals assisting included Matt Scholin and Brian Benitt of Holt.

Take a Gander at the 25th annual M.R. Goose Festival

You're invited to "Come Take a Gander at the 25th Annual Goose Festival," in Middle River on October 1, 2 and 3. Since it's the festival's silver anniversary, this year's event schedule is chock-full of new and fun events for all ages.

Miss Middle River

There's a new look to the Miss Middle River Pageant this year. Because this is the special 25th anniversary, the pageant is being held Friday, October 1, which is the first day of the Goose Festival.

By holding the event on Friday, organizers hope this will allow more former Miss Middle Rivers to attend both festivities and add more excitement to the already packed Festival weekend.

Current Miss Middle River, Melissa Smith, will crown her successor at the Middle River gym with the pageant beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Four contestants are vying for the title of Miss Middle River 1999:

• Stacie Chaplinski, daughter of Glenda and Wally Chaplinski, is sponsored by Chanlin Inc.

• Nikki Holmestad, daughter of Diane Peterson and Tim Holmestad, is sponsored by First National Bank and Middle River Agency.

• Trudy Klegstad, daughter of Bev and Dean Klegstad, is sponsored by Wagner Lock and Key.

• Tara Severts, daughter of Karen and Daryl Severts, is sponsored by Rex Cafe.

The four contestants "on track" to becoming the next Miss Middle River from left are, Nikki Holmestad, Stacie Chaplinski, Tara Severts, and Trudy Klegstad.

Emcees for the event will be Mark Allen and Krissi Super. Special entertainment and highlights of the past 25 years are being planned. Don't miss this entertaining evening of elegance and excitement.

Goose Festival

Family participation was the main focus during planning this year's festival, as many of the events can be enjoyed by a variety of ages. New events include the paint ball target competition, which is sure to be a hit and can be enjoyed by those under 18 accompanied by an adult. Compete in the goose call competition or sit back and watch the goose call demonstration by the Minnesota Duck and Goose Association's very own John Molnbar. Get a taste of the wildlife or cook your goose at the wild goose cook off, a culinary contest and taste bud tantalizing treat. Individuals interested in participating can call Ryan Johnson to register at 449-2161.

Gather all the information you need on the Goose Festival at the new Information Booth that will be on Main Street during the festivities. Here Goose Fest goers will be able to obtain event schedules, first aid, lost and found services and official Goose Fest memorabilia along with numerous other goodies.

Festivities officially start on Friday with the pancake dinner, Legion Auxiliary supper, Jaycee Beer Garden, 40 and over volleyball bash and Bingo. Friday is also your chance to witness the crowning of the new Miss Middle River. Then dance the night away to Bonzi at The Wheel and Saddle Tramp at the American Legion.

Saturday hosts a large variety of activities including the craft and flea market, mixed sandpit volleyball tournament, youth games and competitions, best pet contest, parades, and horse show. If that doesn't keep you busy check out the chicken and egg show, lefse sale and demonstration, arm wrestling contest, scarecrow and

Representatives from 60 educational institutions, military services and other organizations will participate in the annual college fair for continued education to be hosted Tuesday, September 28, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. The event is free and open to the public.

"The college fair gives high school students, their parents and anyone interested in pursuing higher education an opportunity to explore the options for continued schooling and skill development," states Don Howe, organizer of the college fair.

Structured like a trade show, the fair allows visitors to ask questions and receive information directly from the representatives staffing the booths. High school students and others considering higher education or military service can make a number of contacts in one location in a short period of time.

Northland's college fair has had substantial growth and continues to grow.

"We have more than 1,000 high school students scheduled to participate," Howe said. "This is the first year we have reached that number since Northland began organizing and hosting a college fair. It offers an excellent chance for high school students to begin planning for life after graduation."

The event is sponsored by the Minnesota Association for College Admission Counseling (MACAC), the same group that hosts the successful National College Fair each fall in Minneapolis.

A list of participants includes the following:

Aaker's Business College, Alexandria Technical College, Augsburg College, Bemidji State University, Bethel College, Brown Institute, Central Lakes College, College of St. Benedict, College of St. Catherine, Concordia College (Moorhead), Concordia College (St. Paul), Dunwoody Institute, Gustavus Adolphus College and Hamline University.

Also Hibbing Community College, Huron University, Jamestown College, Lakehead University, Mayville State University, Michigan Tech University, Minnesota State University (Mankato), Model College of Hair Design, Moorhead State University, NEI College of Technology, Normandale Community College and North Dakota State College of Science.

Also North Dakota State University, Northern Michigan

Ginny Armstrong named Farm Woman of the Year

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

"I haven't gotten very far in life," says Ginny Armstrong. The daughter of the late Martin and Julia Finstad, Ginny grew up on the farm in Rocksbury township that she now shares and works with her husband Joe.

Ginny was recently chosen as Pennington county's Farm Woman of the Year by Minnesota Agri-Women. On October 29, the Red River Valley Farm Woman of the Year will be named from a field of nine women from Minnesota counties and six women representing counties in North Dakota at the 17th annual Harvest of Knowledge Agri-Women's Conference in Grand Forks.

Although it wasn't for long, Ginny has experienced life in other places. After her marriage to Joe in 1963, the couple spent two years in California and a year in Florida where Joe worked as a produce inspector. "Muggy and buggy" is how Ginny describes Florida, and she was only too glad to get back to Minnesota and battle mosquitoes.

Since their return, Ginny and Joe have farmed the family farm in a side-by-side operation, and while she says there are a few things that she "can't" or "won't" do, Ginny is well versed in operating a tractor or combine or driving a truck. Equipped with a program designed specifically for farming, Ginny takes care of the bookkeeping on a computer, and together, the couple makes marketing decisions. Describing marketing as the "hardest part" of farming, Ginny says that she and Joe are in agreement "most of the time."

While the Armstrongs raised registered polled Herefords "way back when," theirs is a diversified grain operation that includes a variety of crops.

In previous years, those crops have included wheat, barley, soybeans, sunflowers and canola on 2,000 acres of owned and rented acreage. Due to this year's wet conditions, the vast majority of that land is idle. Of the crops that were planted, Ginny says that the canola "wasn't too bad," but the wheat was poor, and 70 acres remained to be harvested as of Wednesday. Had they been able to get their crops in, soybeans would have been among this year's yield.

Like their neighbors, Ginny says they have been "playing in the mud" for so many years that she hardly remembers a dry year. Weather, however, isn't the only discouraging thing about farming. There are the high input costs and low commodity prices to consider, and Ginny is distressed by the fact that there doesn't seem to be any young farmers around anymore.

As frustrating as the current agricultural situation is, Ginny, when asked if she had a son would want him to farm, easily replies, "Yeah." Farming, for Ginny, is more than a way to make a living. It's a desirable way of life.

That way of life also appeals to the Armstrongs' daughters. Oldest daughter, Lynell, is married to Bob

It won't be long before Ginny Armstrong is back in her deer stand for this year's hunt. Deer hunting is among the outdoor activities that she enjoys. Ginny, who farms with husband Joe southeast of Thief River Falls, was recently named Minnesota Agri-Woman's Farm Woman of the Year for Pennington county.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

It's always nice to have quick and hearty meal ideas now that school has begun.

Baseball, football, or any other after-school activity, this is a quick supper for those busy evenings:

BASEBALL DINNER
1 1/2 pounds hamburger
1 small onion, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 (15 ounce) can chili beans
1 can vegetable beef soup
1 small can tomato sauce
2 cups cooked noodles, drained

Brown meat and onion. Add salt and pepper, chili powder and celery salt, mixing well. Drain.

Add chili beans, vegetable soup and tomato sauce. Mix well and let simmer 5 minutes.

Fold in egg noodles and heat through.

I love the idea of just throwing this into the oven and not worrying about it for the rest of the day except to stir once in a while – try it next time you're extra busy:

OVEN STEW
2 pounds stew meat
1 can drained mushrooms
Carrots
1 can green beans with juice
Onion to taste
1/4 cup minute tapioca
1 can tomatoes with juice
Potatoes, cut into small pieces
4 teaspoons salt (or less)
1 small green pepper

Mix all ingredients in large ovenproof pot or Dutch oven and cover. Bake at 250 degrees for 5-6 hours, stirring occasionally.

Doesn't this sound like a heavenly meal for a cool fall day:

HAMBURGER STEW AND DUMPLINGS
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 pound lean hamburger
2 cans vegetable soup
1 tablespoon salt
3 cups water
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Brown hamburger in butter. Drain. Heat remaining ingredients in large saucepan, bring to a boil and then add hamburger.

Dumplings
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk (or more)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon shortening

Mix shortening and dry ingredients like piecrust. Add milk. Drop by teaspoonfuls into simmering stew. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Now is the time for fresh cabbage and here is the taste of cabbage rolls without the fuss:

CABBAGE HAMBURGER CASSEROLE
1/2 head cabbage, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 green pepper, chopped
1 pound lean ground beef
1/2 onion, chopped
1 can nacho cheese soup

Brown ground beef, onion, salt and pepper. Chop cabbage.

Layer half of the cabbage in 8x12-inch casserole. Then layer half of the meat mixture and repeat layers. Cover with undiluted soup.

Bake 45 minutes, covered, at 325 degrees, and uncovered for 20 minutes longer.

Beans and potatoes make this a really hearty casserole:

CHILI KIDNEY BEAN HOTDISH
2 cups diced raw potatoes
1 cup diced celery
1 pound ground beef, browned
1 can tomato soup
1 can red kidney beans
3/4 cup ketchup
Salt and pepper
Chili powder
Worcestershire sauce

Parboil potatoes until partially tender. Drain liquid (but reserving it for later if needed) and place potatoes in buttered casserole.

Add remaining ingredients, including salt, pepper, chili powder and Worcestershire to taste. Bake at 325 degrees for about 45 minutes, keeping moist with reserved potato water

What's the Scoop for Fall?

There's a chain of ice cream distributors somewhere out there who lure potential customers into their shop doors with nothing more than a promise of variety. I think the claim is somewhere around "31 Flavors". There is nu assertion made as to taste or texture or overall quality, simply the pronouncement of sheer variety. With such an overwhelming number of choices available, the stores readily acknowledge the average customer's quandary concerning the decision-making process by actually encouraging clients to sample two or three potential candidate flavors.

A smallish, bite-sized chunk of Orange-Mocha or Mayonnaise-Peach is scraped onto a disposable wooden spoon and thrust invitingly across the countertop. The samples were, as I remember, all more than acceptable in taste and never quite satisfactory in volume (Actually, I never did develop a liking for Rum-Raisin).

Such, I suppose, is the nature of good marketing. Give the customer a taste of everything, but leave him wanting more.

The Rainy River, hawking an enticing hodge-podge of fall flavors, comes across like a big old muddy ice cream parlor this time of year. The lake has gone flat (figuratively, anyway) and the experienced Lake of the Woods angler is moving his efforts toward the current edges where the shiners have started to run. He can certainly claim, as he drops his jig over the side of the boat into the Chocolaty Swirl of stained river water, the Walleyes are the target species, but what is eventually scooped out will be anybody's guess.

Not only has the river started to fill with transient predators looking for the easy, pre-winter fat of a tasty shiner binge, but the painfully slow "anchor-and-jig" approach of fall fishing opens up the potential for hooking the slow-moving bottom-feeders that have resided there all year.

Here is an actual two-day species tally sheet offered to me by a local angler who has been pursuing walleyes recently. All these fish were caught in roughly the same 3,000 sq. ft. area that the shifting winds and thirty feet of anchor rope scope would allow...

Walleye-there's just enough in the river now to make them the featured "Flavor of the Month" though they should get as consistently run-of-the-mill as Vanilla in the weeks ahead.

Sauger-on the smallish side, but at least they'll bite during the mid-day.

Northern-a welcome aggressive hit in the midst of all the mild biting going on out there.

Perch-bad-mouth them if you must, but they keep the action steady during the lulls.

Sturgeon-as big a freshwater as most of us will ever hope to catch, plus they're always good for an "Omigod" or two.

Smallmouth Bass-not common in the river, but a pleasant surprise that'll give you a chance to tell your "biggest Bass story".

Crappie-actually more common than Smallmouth, if you've tied your anchor rope to the right dock-post.

Tullibee-and you thought you had to have ice under you to catch them.

Mooneye-looks and smells like a Tullibee.

Eelpout-a sure sign that the water is cooling down and January is not far away.

Suckers-these guys can be big and exciting, at least until you get them in the net and realize it's not the Walleye of your dreams.

Bullhead-no Iowa jokes, please, though the boating of one of these (and you can catch a lot if you want to) invariable inspires humor along those lines. We'll just call them the Rum-Raisin of the bunch.

That's an honest sampler (may I find a fly in my next help of Chocolate Chip if I'm lying) of a recent two day dip into the Rainy's tub.

And while the tale began with some disgruntled references to the number of Walleyes that came from that mix, an undeniable smile developed across the teller's face as he recounted the overwhelming diversity of species he had boated in that short period. There's something to be said for variety.

Of course I don't think a steady diet of Sturgeon and Bullhead would keep the shop doors open year-round. I'll take the predictable, Vanilla-like quality of Walleye fishing most of the time, but a small taste of Tutti-Frutti or Rocky Road each fall is an enticing change.

Successful CRP bidders could lose AMTA acres

Agricultural producers have until September 30 to request farm combinations that might be needed to protect the Agriculture Marketing Transition Act (AMTA) contract acres in their farm operations, according to Karen Fredrickson, district director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency (FSA).

"Many producers successfully bid land into the Conservation Reserve Program during the last CRP sign-up," Fredrickson said, "and most of these new CRP contracts will become effective on October 1, 1999. If the total of the AMTA acreage and the CRP acreage exceeds the total cropland acreage for the farm, it will be necessary to reduce the AMTA acreage once the CRP contract becomes effective."

Some producers may be able to save some or all of the contract acreage by combining other land they will operate for fiscal year 2000 if the combined land meets the definition of a farm, Fredrickson said.

"If a producer will be operator on a farm that is going into CRP," she said, "and will also be the operator on other land next year, it may be possible to combine all of the land into one farm so the AMTA contract acres can be moved to another tract and not lost to the farming operation."

Primary requirements for these combinations are:

(1) Producers must provide the FSA county committee with adequate documentation to allow the committee to make proper determination as to who the operator is.

(2) A copy of a lease covering a period of at least one year must be provided.

(3) Farms with AMTA contracts may be combined only with other farms that have AMTA contracts.

(4) All signatures required must be signed by September 30, 1999.

Situations where producers bid whole farms into CRP would only qualify to be combined, Fredrickson said, if the combination involved other land the CRP contract owner was going to operate.

For more specific information, contact the local Farm Service Agency office.

The Year's Best Month Begins Next Friday

If nothing is so rare as a day in June, as the poets would have us believe, then nothing can be better than the month of October. Then, if ever, come perfect days.

For all of Minnesota's reputation as a state where the climate offers nine months of winter and three months of tough sledding, October is the aberration that makes the other 11 months tolerable.

Most of the time the frost has been hard enough by early October to banish just about all of the irritating little insects like gnats and mosquitoes and yellowjackets; has crisped the cursed and ever-growing lawn; contributed to the golden glow of poplars and flaming fire of maples; and halted the profuse proliferation of weeds in the garden and flower beds.

The year's young of huntable birds of all species—waterfowl and upland alike—are mature enough in October to be considered adult and the populations are at their year-long high. Thunder of summer's storms is echoed by ruffed grouse flushing from the carpet of fresh-fallen leaves and all the colors of the rainbow are repeated in the plumage of the ringnecked pheasant rooster, only defined and buffed and polished and embellished to much more radiant hues.

Warmth of the sun can toast the back of your neck at the same time the north breeze brings a flush to your cheeks. October is the reason God made the outdoors.

There is no other time of the year that harbors the smells of October. Soggy springtime with its wimpy April and reluctant May wafts from earth the odor of death left by winter and the mold and the mud and the mess. October heightens the olfactory senses, stimulates the nasal passages, clears the lungs and lets a person draw deep inside his or her body in long breaths the full fragrance of fall—the distinct and unmistakable scents of mossy woodlands, wet dogs, burnt powder, outboard motor exhaust, marsh muck, rubber boots, gun oil, ham sandwiches and vacuum-bottled coffee.

One need not be a hunter to appreciate October, but it helps. Laws say it is legal to hunt in this 10th month of the year, but hunters know by instinct that the time is right without looking at a calendar or checking books of regulations. All it takes for identification is one of those days when you walk out the door and the morning air smacks you in the nostrils and the sky is entirely different from the wey it was the day before. The scents have been laundered and hung in the sun and breeze to dry. This is October air, the wey air was meant to be.

We all know that November lurks around the corner, waiting to drag us down into the depths of another bitter and snow-covered December and January and February and March and...., but that is then and this is October and we want to hold it in our mouth and savor it to the fullest before we swallow.

Our Creator gave us only one October a year to make us realize that imperfection is the rule and perfection is rare—in people as it is in months of the year. Give thanks for the Octobers you have known in your life; the ones that make you forget the imperfection of November through September. Treasure each one as you would a most precious gift from someone who loves you.

Because, you know, it really is just that.

Countdown Nears Zero; Come Join The Party

by Marvin Lundin, Editor

Days that go by like minutes are ticking off toward Thursday, September 30, the last day on the job for this editor who will voluntarily join the ranks of the unemployed at the end of that day. Long awaited and anticipated, retirement will officially begin Friday, October 1.

One more issue each of The Times and the Northern Watch remain for editorial comment, the latter publication to be printed after "R"-Day has passed. I want to exercise a little editorial license here and extend a personal invitation to a retirement gathering.

My wife Jan; our children Lori, Jeri and Mark; their respective spouses Steve Schwartz, Arne Espeseth and Janelle Lundin; and probably the older among the seven grandkids are hosting a social get-together for anyone who wants to drop by on Friday, October 1, from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church at the corner of Fourth Street and Horace Avenue. The location has everything to do with available space and comfort and nothing to do with religious affiliation in this situation, and no one should feel intimidated or uncomfortable because of the site.

I understand an invitation advertisement is being prepared for this issue of the Northern Watch and next Wednesday's edition of The Times, although I haven't seen it yet myself. This editorial is just a personal invitation to stop for a minute if you feel so inclined and let me shake hands and say thanks to you for having been a part of our newspaper reader family and/or a helpful news source.

We're not leaving town or anything like that and I expect to see many of you around from time to time, but my writing to you in the papers will stop and I will have less reason to see you as frequently as I did on a news contact basis. And if you don't already know any or all of them, I wouldn't mind for you to meet the family.

By the way, I think it's really pretty darn decent of them to put themselves out like this and I would be a little embarrassed if nobody shows up to eat cake and drink punch and coffee. As we're so fond of saying up here among the Scandinavians in northwestern Minnesota, "Y'all come on down, hear?"

MS Society to visit Bemidji

National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Minnesota Chapter invites people with MS, their families and friends to participate in two programs scheduled for October 2 in Bemidji.

A newly diagnosed education session and "MS Society on Tour" will both be presented at the Bemidji Public Library. These programs are free, but registration is required.

The newly diagnosed education program, which runs from 9:30 to 11 a.m., offers an overview of multiple sclerosis. Topics include: diagnosis, symptoms and treatment options.

"MS Society on Tour," which starts at 11:30 a.m., is an excellent learning opportunity that highlights the more than 50 programs offered by the chapter.

People who attend the "MS Society on Tour" program will meet Chapter President Maureen Reeder, as well as other Minnesota Chapter staff members. The staff will share information on the programs the chapter offers to people with MS, their families and friends. Attendees may get to personally meet a staff member they've talked with on the phone.

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic, often disabling disease of the central nervous system. Symptoms may be mild, such as numbness in the limbs, or severe, such as paralysis or loss of vision.

Most people with MS are diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 40, but the unpredictable physical and emotional effects can be lifelong. The progress, severity and specific symptoms of MS in any one person cannot yet be predicted, but advances in research and treatment are giving hope to those affected by the disease.

If you would like to register for either of these programs, call 1-888-820-4334. To find out how someone with MS can register with the MS Society, call the Minnesota Chapter at 612-335-7900 or 1-800-582-5296 (v/tdd), or visit www.mssociety.com on the Internet.

Bomb threat at Red Lake Co. Courthouse

Red Lake County Sheriff's department, the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and the United States Postal Inspector are conducting an investigation into a bomb threat received through the United States mail at the Red Lake County Courthouse on Tuesday, September 21.

As a result of the bomb threat, anyone entering the Red Lake County Courthouse will be subject to search.

Red Lake County Sheriff Allan Morken would not get into the specifics of the letter, but did say that it did not target any specific person.

Court was not in session Tuesday. When the letter was received at about 10:30 a.m. the courthouse was evacuated and the U.S. Air Force bomb squad and bomb sniffing dogs were called in. They did not find anything in the courthouse.

Sheriff Morken said he would appreciate any information the public could provide regarding this investigation.

Raiders overcome first-game loss to beat Pioneers 3-1

Northland started in impressive fashion, but couldn't carry that effort through an entire match Wednesday, losing a 3-1 Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball decision to Central Lakes at Brainerd.

The Raiders won 5-15, 15-7, 15-11, 15-1.

Northland, after winning the first game, watched a 7-3 lead disappear in Game 2 and let a 10-1 advantage slip away in Game 3.

"It was a long ride home," noted Northland coach Mike Zachow. "We started out great, but just like we did against Mesabi and Vermilion (back-to-back 3-1 losses the previous weekend), we fell apart. It seems like when one player does well, everybody plays well. But if just one player starts having trouble, everybody else has trouble, too. It's a real team effort."

Northland carried a 6-5 overall record into the Itasca Invitational today (Saturday) in Grand Rapids. The Pioneers are 3-3 in Minnesota Community College Conference-counting matches, with all three Northern Division losses coming at the hands of teams ranked among the top ten in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III poll.

Northland golf team is triangular winner on Brainerd course

First win for the new Northland Community and Technical College golf program was recorded Wednesday when the Pioneers beat Central Lakes and Ridgewater in a triangular on The Classic course at Madden's Resort near Brainerd.

Northland, led by medalist Justin Buhl, finished with a 354, while host Central Lakes shot a 357 and Ridgewater came in at 388.

"It was a beautiful day, but a very challenging course," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Our kids did a nice job, although the scores, because of the difficulty of the course, might not show it."

Buhl, a freshman from Sauk Rapids, shot an 84. Rest of the Pioneers' scores included an 85 by Dominic Ste. Marie, a freshman from Red Lake Falls; a 92 by Jared Olafson, a sophomore from Warroad; a 93 by Jon Lee, a freshman from Thief River Falls; and a 113 by Dustin Stewart, a sophomore from Warroad.

Final two regular season stops on the Pioneers' 1999 schedule will find Northland back in Brainerd for another Central Lakes-hosted meet Wednesday and at the Fergus Falls Invitational Thursday. The combination Minnesota Community College Conference state and NJCAA Region 13 tournaments will be played Oct. 4-5 in Mankato.

Prowlers' Haviland sets pool diving mark during Park Rapids Invitational

A pool record in diving by sophomore Chelsea highlighted Thief River Falls' showing at the Park Rapids Invitational girls high school swim meet Saturday (Sept. 18).

Haviland accumulated 276.70 points in winning on the one-meter board.

"It was a pretty good meet for us, but not our best," said Thief River Falls coach Mary Helen Houlihan.

Brainerd edged Bemidji 352-350 for team honors, followed by Fergus Falls with 275 1/2 points, Park Rapids Area 248, Fosston/Bagley/ Clearbrook-Gonvick 190, Thief River Falls 179, Detroit Lakes 160, Minnewaska Area 133, Roseau 131 1/2, Sauk Centre 97, Staples-Motley/Verndale/Wadena-Deer Creek 89, and Perham 40.

A pool record in the 500 freestyle held by Thief River Falls' Theresa Ginuque (5:33.58) was broken by Bemidji's Kari Flathers with a 5:30.50.

Haviland was nearly a double-winner in the meet, finishing second to Bemidji's Lisa Ballon in the 200 individual medley, 2:22 67 to 2:23.94.

Prowler Field football twinbill today...

Northland, Hibbing freshmen honored

Latest Northern Division offensive and defensive Player of the Week award winners will be on Prowler Field today (Saturday) when Northland and Hibbing meet in an 11:30 a.m. Minnesota Community College Conference football game.

Those honors, announced Wednesday, went to Northland defensive back Nick Waldal and Hibbing runningback Keenan Wells. Waldal, a freshman from Plummer, blocked a fourth quarter punt that led to a tie-breaking touchdown in the Pioneers' 21-14 win over Minnesota West. He also had four unassisted tackles and knocked down five passes.

Wells, a freshman from Waukegan, IL, rushed for 258 yards and two touchdowns in the Cardinals' 24-23 loss to Itasca.

Northland's Scott Olsen, a freshman from Hillsboro, ND, who won back-to-back Offensive Player of the Week honors after the first two games this fall, and Wells rank 1-2 on the Northern Division rushing list with 660 and 424 yards, respectively. Olsen averages 6.3 yards per carry; Wells 6.6.

The Northland-Hibbing contest kicks off a Saturday doubleheader at Prowler Field that will also include a high school game matching Thief River Falls and Virginia at 3 p.m.

Fans can attend both games with the purchase of a single ticket - $4 for adults, $2 for students K-12 and senior citizens with their School District 564 card. Northland students will be admitted free of charge by showing their school I.D. card.

Red Lake Co. Central sweeps Sacred Heart in Tuesday volleyball

Red Lake County Central handled East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 15-1, 15-0, 15-5 in a Tuesday high school volleyball match at Plummer.

"We played pretty well, again," said Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray. "We didn't let up."

With Becky Reinbold serving the first 10 points, the Mustangs went through just three service rotations in the Game 1 win.

Heather Schlefert led the winners with 14 kills. Jessica Spong had 7. Emily Brustad collected 22 assists as the Mustangs improved to 7-3.

Bagley/Fosston cross country meet...

Bemidji boys, girls win Tuesday races

Third meet of the 1999 season for the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country teams found the Prowlers struggling with last place finishes in both races at the Bagley/Fosston Invitational Tuesday on the Twin Pines Golf Course in Bagley.

Bemidji took both titles. The Lumberjacks won the boy's title by a 72-89 margin over second place Bagley/Fosston. They finished with a 67-80 edge over runner-up Deer River/Northland in the girl's race. The meet drew 15 boys and 12 girls teams, with over 100 runners competing in both races.

First-year Thief River Falls head coach Chad Persons would like to see a stronger showing by the girls. The boys were fighting a battle with illness.

"The girls need to step out and get ahead of some of the middle-of-the-pack runners," noted Persons. "The boys were struggling, with two of the top four runners not finishing and a couple of others feeling sick."

Racing Association plans appreciation cookout

Members of the Thief River Falls Racing Association will host a fan and sponsor appreciation cookout Saturday, Oct. 9, at Floyd B. Olson Park. Association drivers and crews will be on hand to serve lunch, sign autographs and hand out 1999 race pictures from noon to 2:30 p.m. Parents and their children are encouraged to attend.

Twelve members of the Thief River Falls Racing Association competed on a weekly basis during the recently-completed 1999 season at the Greenbush Race Park, where five classes of cars are run. Nine of them were top-ten finishers in the track's final point standings.

Those top-ten finishers included (Mini-Sprints) Robbie Peterson, third; Shawn Bugge, fifth; (Super Sports) Dave Meyer, second; Rod Peterson, third; Amber Holtan, eighth; (Super Stock) Dean Forst, second; Carl Rieke, seventh; (Outlaw Streets) Sheldon Peterson, eighth; (Modifieds) Terry Blacklance, tenth.

Most Thief River Falls drivers have wrapped up their 1999 race season, although a few association members are still competing at some fall events around the area.

The Thief River Falls Race Association holds a number of different activities during the year. The group encourages those who enjoy any type of motorsport to join the organization and take part in the upcoming programs. Information about the association and membership forms will be available at the Oct. 9 cookout.

Marshall Co. Central winner over B/G-MR

■ Nordics sweep Tuesday match

Strong starts propelled Marshall County Central past Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 15-10, 15-11, 15-11 Tuesday in high school volleyball at Newfolden.

The Nordics began the match with an 11-3 first-game lead, and started the second game with a 9-0 run.

"We started out strong the first two games," said Marshall County Central coach Mark Jorgenson. "Things went well at the start, but then we made it tough on ourselves by letting them back in it. We have to learn to finish strong, too."

Kristi Kilen had 22 kills and Tera Davidson 12 for the Nordics, who improved their record to 5-1. Christa Hagen and Missy Jorgenson both reached double figures in assists with 17 and 10, respectively.

Allison Johnson picked up 6 kills, while Sarah Peterson and Larissa Holm had 5 each for the Gators. Kelly Everson finished with 9 assists.

"It was a pretty good match with some long volleys," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian, whose 4-6 team was coming off a 3-1 Monday win at Warroad.

Back-to-back matches might have taken a toll on the Gators, mentioned Adrian. "We were not as intense as we were the night before," she said. "I don't know if we were tired or what. It seemed like they (Nordies) wanted to win more than we did."

Fall Classic played at Thief River Golf Club

A foursome of Mike and Sandy Parker and Tom and Diane Kays turned in the top score at the 1999 Thief River Golf Club Fall Classic Saturday (Sept. 18). They shot a 165.

Rick Nordhagen, Bruce Saustad, Davis Holthusen, and Scooter Blankenfeld turned in a third place 178.

Jeff Liden, Dave Onkka, Jim Hellie, and Bob Bendickson finished fourth with a 179.

Tips given for start of '99 waterfowl season

Most duck hunters are in the latter stages of packing their gear for the Oct. 2 Minnesota opener. The boat has been repainted, missing decoy anchors replaced and a faint bouquet of Hoppe's Number 9 wafts from the basement.

"I wonder how many hunters have forgotten to pack their life jackets," mused Tim Smalley, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources boating safety specialist and life-long duck hunter. "Ever since 1988 when life jackets were first required on board duck boats, DNR conservation officers say that lack of flotation devices is one of the most common law violations they find while checking waterfowlers."

DNR records indicate that although some hunters still forget to carry life vests, the law is working. In the 11 years since life jackets were first required, two hunters have drowned in boating accidents. "That's certainly two too many, but in the bad old days before duck hunters were required to have life jackets, sometimes six or eight would drown in boating accidents in a single year," Smalley noted.

The law requires that there be a readily accessible U.S. Coast Guard approved wearable life vest for every person on board duckboats. For boats 16 feet and longer, there also has to be one U.S. Coast Guard approved throwable device in the boat. Seat cushions are no longer approved as primary flotation devices.

And of course, having a life jacket doesn't do any good if its stuffed under the boat seat when the accident happens. "Trying to put on a life jacket during a boating accident would be like trying to buckle a seat belt during a car crash. You just don't have any warning that a boat accident is going to happen, so the smart thing to do is wear a life vest on the way to and from the blind," Smalley said.

Most common fatal duck boating accident is a capsizing or fall overboard from a small overloaded boat. The DNR advises hunters to avoid cutting across large expanses of open water and to take several trips to and from the blind, rather than overloading the boat.

"If you are closer to shore and you do capsize, you have a much better chance of being seen by potential rescuers," Smalley said. "There is a saying in water safety that you only have a 50-50 chance of being able to swim 50 yards in 50 degree water," he noted. "Just try holding your hand in a bucket of ice water for three minutes. It just about can't be done. Now imagine having your whole body immersed in water that cold."

Minnesota DNR offers these tips to help make a duck hunting trip safe and successful:

* Wear a life jacket to and from the blind.
* Don't overload the boat.
* Learn how to float in waders and hip boats.
* Stay near the shore and avoid crossing large expanses of open water.
* Let someone know where you are going and when to expect your return.

To learn more about duck hunting boat safety, the DNR has a free publication about waterfowl hunting boat safety called "Prescription for Duckhunters." It is available by calling the DNR Information Center toll free, 1-888-MINNDNR.

DNR features web site for tracking fall colors

It isn't only the trees that put on a colorful fall show in Minnesota. Prairie grasses, flowers, vines and shrubs – even the sky itself when the northern lights appear – mark the change of seasons with hues ranging from subtle to splashy.

For clues on where to go and what to see during this season of change, check out the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' web site. The color reports are gathered from information provided by color observers in state parks across Minnesota. This year, in addition to leaf color, the reports also include information about the changing fall colors among the native grasses and wildflowers, what berries, nuts and fruits are ripe, what "critters" are migrating or preparing for winter, and what events are taking place in neighboring communities. The fall color information appears in the "Current Conditions" listing on the DNR Home Page The color report for individual state parks can be found by locating the state parks pages listed on the DNR web site. Color reports will be updated each week on Thursdays (or more frequently as color changes occur) throughout the fall color season.

Those without Internet access may call the Minnesota Office of Tourism for a taped fall color status report. The Tourism leaf hotline number is 1-800-657-3700 (toll free). For reports on the Internet, the address for the DNR website is www.dnr.state.mn.us.

TRF runners part of Detroit Lakes event

Thief River Falls didn't climb that far in the team standings, but head coach Chad Persons nevertheless saw improvement as he watched the Prowlers run in the Detroit Lakes Invitational high school cross country meet Thursday.

Tuesday, Thief River Falls trailed the field in both varsity races at the Bagley/Fosston Invitational. The girls again wound up last at Detroit Lakes and the boys finished tenth in a 13-team field. But Persons noticed a difference in the Prowlers' efforts.

"Everyone ran well," said Persons. "It was the first time in three years of watching our cross country program that I saw our kids attack the hills on the course. It says a lot about the work they've done this year."

It was the fourth race of the year for the Prowlers. "The boys were without a top-three runner, but they did well as a team," mentioned Persons. "Our girls still need to push themselves a little more."

Thief River Falls will run in meets at Crookston Monday and East Grand Forks Thursday. The annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational will be held Monday, Oct. 4, at the Thief River Golf Club.

Blue Devils win 3-0 match vs. Warroad

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke turned in a strong performance Thursday en route to a 15-10, 15-9, 15-8 high school volleyball win at Warroad.

"We played really well," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz. "It was a good match for us."

The Blue Devils' efforts featured a strong night at the service line, where Heather Sunsdahl had 7 aces. Ashley Holthusen and Natalee Holte had 2 aces each.

Holte and DaNae Wiseth led the winners with 9 and 8 kills, respectively. Kelsey Johnsrud came up with 22 assists.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke is 4-6 for the year. "We're improving," noted Schulz. "We're doing a better job covering the floor, and our blockers are getting up there. We still need to do a better job blocking, and sometimes we have trouble with serve receiving."

The Blue Devils' improvement showed up on the court as they turned the tables on a Warroad team that had beaten them 16-14, 15-11 in the first round of the Roseau Invitational the previous Saturday. They came back with a 15-13, 15-8 win over Blackduck, but East Grand Forks emerged with a 15-9, 12-15, 17-15 rally-point victory over the Blue Devils to close out the pool play portion of the tournament. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke beat Kittson County North 15-5, 15-4 in the fifth place match.

It was the second trip to Roseau in three days for the Blue Devils, who were swept by the Rams 15-5, 15-4, 15-8 in a Thursday (Sept. 16) regular season match.

The Blue Devils will be at Tri-County Tuesday and will face Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Thursday in Grygla.

New state park vehicle permits will go on sale in Minnesota on Oct. 1

When you catch a glimpse of the new Minnesota State Park vehicle permit for the year 2000, you'll want to visit the place. A cedar canoe floats on a tranquil, crystal-blue lake, with tall stands of golden tamarack reflecting on the water.

The scene, reminiscent of Scenic, Bear Head or George Crosby Manitou state parks' crystal blue lakes, is the classic scene of Minnesota. The annual vehicle permit for the year 2000 goes on sale Oct. 1 at all state parks and the DNR Information Center. The regular permit will sell for $20. For people with more than one car, second permits are available for $15 each.

Special permits for Minnesota residents with disabilities are available for $12 each, with a valid handicapped parking sticker.

"The good news for our visitors is the permit price has stayed the same for four years and it allows endless visits to all of Minnesota State Parks through Dec. 31, 2000," said Bill Morrissey, director of Minnesota State Parks. He added that all state parks are opened 365 days of the year for day use. Camping availability varies at state parks from Labor Day to Memorial Day.

What will come as a surprise to some is that the vehicle permit scene is not in a state park. "With nearly 70 state parks to choose from - all with their own unique beauty, natural resources and history - we decided to go with a quintessential photograph of Minnesota," said Morrissey. The photograph, taken by Minnesota's renowned photographer Jim Brandenburg, is a scene from the Ely area near Bear Head Lake State Park.

The permit's theme is "Leaving Boundaries Behind."

"For the year 2000", Morrissey said, "we wanted to look beyond our state park boundaries to convey a critical message: We need to work together to preserve and protect all of the public lands in Minnesota that contain outstanding and beautiful natural, cultural and recreational resources as a legacy for future generations."

The permit image will also be featured on merchandise, including a mug and the calendar for the year 2000. These items and other merchandise will be available at Minnesota State Park Nature Stores.

To obtain the annual vehicle permit for the year 2000, stop by any Minnesota State Park starting on Oct. 1, or call the DNR Information Center toll-free at 1-888-MINND-NR.

Wayne, and both are employed by School District 564. Bob is the assistant principal at Franklin Middle School, and Lynell works with young mothers who are completing their educations at the Alternative Learning Center. The couple also spends a lot of time helping out on the farm.

To Ginny and Joe's delight, Lynell and Bob have provided them with two granddaughters. Erica, who is nine, loves to help grandma make jelly, and almost four-year-old Erin paints colorful pictures for grandpa. Like many other grandparents, Ginny thoroughly enjoys "spoiling 'em and sending 'em home."

The son of Gerald and Dorothy Wayne, son-in-law Bob is from Goodridge, and the Armstrongs' second son-in-law is from Thief River Falls. Two years ago, their daughter, Nicole, married Chris Ellison whose parents are Clair and Susie Elleson.

Currently, Nicole and Chris reside in Fargo where Nicole is employed as a supervisor at Community Bio-Resources, Inc., and Chris works in the computer industry. Eventually, the young couple would like to return home to Thief River Falls.

That would be fine with Ginny who shares a number of interests with her daughters, including Girl Scout activities. Ginny and Nicole, along with another leader, planned the annual Girl Scout Camporee which was held last weekend at Turtle River State Park in North Dakota.

Ginny was a Girl Scout, and her mother was a leader. When Lynell was in the fourth grade, Ginny became a leader, and she's been scouting ever since.

While both of the Armstrong girls were involved in scouting through their senior year in high school, Ginny says that more opportunities were available to Nicole who received the Gold Award, Girl Scouts' highest honor. Ginny was Nicole's leader throughout her scouting career.

Daughter Lynell is Erica's scout leader with Erica being the fourth generation of Ginny's family to be involved in the Girl Scout program.

When asked what her current scouting involvement is, Ginny says, "I know I'll miss some," and off the top of her head lists her duties of service unit chair, Camp MGE committee, council assessment committee, scholarship committee, and co-director for Fall Camporees. She probably missed some. In Thief River Falls and throughout the Pine to Prairie council, Ginny Armstrong's name is synonymous with Girl Scouts.

For more years than she can remember, Ginny and Joe have taken care of Camp MGE, the Girl Scout camp located just down the road from their farm. When a former scout executive thought that the camp should be sold, Ginny, along with others, fought hard to keep it and won. With outdoor activities and camping her favorite part of scouting, Ginny has a particular fondness for the primitive and beautiful camp.

In addition to scouting, Ginny is an active member of Zion Lutheran Church, currently serving on its public relations committee.

Her love for the outdoors extends beyond farming and scouting to include passions for camping, fishing and deer hunting. Ginny's four-star deer stand with its spiral staircase was built especially for her by Wally Etter and is conveniently located across the road from the Armstrongs' house.

Ginny and Joe's farm yard is large with the grassy areas requiring five to six hours of mowing. There are also two big gardens that, because of the rains, didn't get planted this year. Ginny did, however, have a few raspberries that she made into jam and jelly, and her grapes from a single vine were "nice this year" and have yielded 20 quarts of juice and more that she plans to make into jelly with granddaughter Erica's help.

The jelly will be made in Ginny's spacious kitchen in the large, comfortable home that she and Joe built in 1980.

While most of the activities she enjoys take place outdoors, Ginny likes to spend time looking things up on the internet, so much that she's sometimes hard to reach on the telephone. If she has problems with her computer, she's amazed that she can call nine-year-old Erica for advice. Its module having been hit by lightning, Ginny's computer is currently in Fargo being repaired, and while she's missing it, she is easier to reach these days unless she's in the field or working outside.

While Ginny continues to live on the same farm on which she grew up, she hasn't spent her life spinning her wheels in a rut. As a wife, mother, grandmother, farm partner, community volunteer and now, Agri-Women's Pennington County Woman of the Year, Ginny Armstrong has gone a very long way in life.

Ginny Armstrong and granddaughters Erin (left) and Erica Wayne check out Wednesday's edition of The Times, viewing pictures of last week's Girl Scout fall kickoff at Camp MGE. Ginny has been involved in the scouting program for many years, an activity she now shares with her daughters and granddaughters. Recently, Ginny was named Pennington county's Farm Women of the Year by Minnesota Agri-Women.

Fall Home Improvement

Supplement To The Northern Watch – Saturday, September 25, 1999

Updating a Home's Exterior Pays off at Resale Time

The spring home-buying season may seem far off, however, homeowners who are serious about selling should take action now. Making improvements or plans during the fall or winter months will help your home sell faster in the spring.

Many home sales are decided by potential buyers at the curb, often within just a few minutes. And, since home buying largely is an emotional decision, there are several improvements you can make to strengthen the impression that your house makes.

Buyers often look for homes that they can enjoy immediately, so remodeling the exterior can give you an advantage over other sellers. And, because the exterior appearance of a house can impact the final selling price, a wise investment now will pay off at resale time.

According to Robert Johnson, executive director of the National Association of Real Estate Appraisers, replacing a worn roof or damaged siding can earn more than a 100-percent return on your investment. Landscaping makes a strong first impression on potential buyers and also can bring a full return. So, paying attention to a mix of both small touches and larger projects with high resale value is critical.

Cost-Effective Touches

Here are a few tips from building-materials leader Owens Corning on how you can update the exterior of your home to enhance its value and make it easier to sell.

• For starters, keep in mind that a home's exterior begins at the curb, not at the front door. Pay attention to worn fences, mailboxes and lampposts, all of which can turn buyers away before they even reach your doorstep. Drive around your neighborhood to see what gives other homes in your area their appeal.

"We've been taught not to judge a book by its cover, but the truth is, we all do," says Johnson. "A home with curb appeal can make people stop and take notice — and it makes a much stronger impact than an interior feature, like a great kitchen or fireplace."

• Grease or oil spots on driveways and walkways also can draw unwanted attention. Make sure that you remove these spots, as well as all debris, like fallen tree branches and leaves, to create a clean, unobstructed view of your home.

• Light makes your home more inviting. Make sure your porch light is working and consider adding low-voltage outdoor lighting and finishing touches, like a new doormat and flowering plants.

• Simple architectural accents can give a plain-looking home instant charm. Shutters, decorative millwork, window trim, and scallops or shakes easily change appearances for a relatively small investment.

Bigger Investments, Bigger Payoff

While paying attention to small details can improve curb appeal and draw potential buyers to your residence, larger renovation projects dramatically add to your home's appearance and, at the same time, may increase its resale value.

Replacing or updating your roof, vinyl siding or windows makes your home look as though it's in prime move-in condition — a big plus in the eyes of potential buyers. Keep in mind that if your project requires a contractor, you should hire one now for next spring.

Consider the outside of your home as a complete system of complementary products that includes roofing, siding, windows, trim and accent pieces. Develop a unique design theme for your home's exterior. For example, Owens Corning offers design collections that group the company's products together in complementary colors to create different looks and styles. These collections offer the look that reflects your personal lifestyle and tastes while taking the guesswork out of choosing the right products and colors.

You also may want to ask your contractor for help in choosing the most appropriate colors. Owens Corning has a network of Preferred Contractors who use its exclusive Exterior FXTM PRO design-visualization software. The software allows you to see how various colors and style combinations of siding, roofing, brick, doors and trim would look on a sample home or on a digital image of your own home. You can try a sample version of the software by visiting the company's Web site at www.owenscorning.com.

Whether you choose to make small changes or major renovations, taking the time now to improve the exterior of your home will save you money and effort next spring — and increase your chances of a quicker sale.

Exterior renovations dramatically can increase a home's resale value.

Gardening Guide Helps Young Gardeners Add Life to the Home

Imagine a windowsill brimming with lush green plants and an array of colorful flowers all year-round. Or, a window box filled with fragrant home-grown herbs to spruce up the kitchen or add flavor to home-cooked dishes.

Looking beautiful wherever they are grown, plants and flowers can be an easy, affordable way to decorate the home — or simply add a breath of fresh air to any room. And, because they require tender love and care in order to grow to their fullest potential, plants and flowers can be good educational tools for children; not to mention a great way to get youngsters involved in home-improvement projects.

Providing a garden of information on how to cultivate a wide variety of easy-to-grow houseplants, "My Indoor Garden" (Morrow Junior Books), by Carol Lerner, can be enjoyed by youngsters of all ages, whether or not they have a green thumb.

A beginning gardening guide, the book is packed with practical advice and helpful tips on how to select the right plants for specific growing conditions; how to choose a growing site; basic plant care; and how to handle insect pests and other plant problems.

The author's detailed illustrations make the book appealing even to younger "gardeners," while the book's enlarged print describes everything from the amount of sunlight needed to humidity and temperature to essential gardening equipment to the differences between clay and plastic pots.

The book also includes step-by-step instructions for working with composts and fertilizers, "pinching" techniques to maintain good plant hygiene, as well as the procedure for repotting plants — even those that are difficult to handle, like a spiny cactus. Leaving no seeds of information unsown, the book even explains how to prepare plants before going away on vacation.

Once the beginning gardener has raised his or her first plant, the book describes how to increase the stock of houseplants through cuttings, divisions and other propagating methods. In time, he or she will have a whole garden to tend — and that much more "life" to add to the home.

However young or old the gardener, there always is potential to learn and "grow." So, why not start with an indoor garden — and a beautiful, lush green houseplant that is sure to breathe new life into home décor.

Create a Striking Entrance

Whether constructing a new home or adding a face-lift to an existing house, homeowners can personalize their home and add instant curb appeal by paying special attention to the front entry system.

By specifying the door windows for the entry, along with the trim work around the door, homeowners can make their entrance appear welcoming and elegant. A unique entry, with decorative glass in attractive patterns, creates a focal point for the home.

"Homeowners should remember that there are many options for door windows in their front entry," says Scott Spence at ODL. "Etched, grooved, beveled, silk-screened and colored glass can all be used in different combinations to create a stunning front entrance.

"Sunlight can enhance many glass designs bringing color and light into the home. Yet, there are a wide variety of obscure and textured glass pieces used in door windows. These pieces protect homeowner privacy and prevent people from looking directly inside the home."

Once an entry system has been selected, the ideal way to frame the entrance is with decorative urethane millwork trim. Pilasters can be used to flank the sides of the door, with pediments overhead to add height and detail to the entry. Durable and easy-to-maintain, urethane millwork products resist decay and insect damage.

"Urethane pieces are a crowning touch for a front entry system," says Steve Roth at Style-Mark, manufacturer of Architectural Accents pieces. "There are dozens of combinations and styles to select from to personalize a home. Each entrance trim piece installs quickly and adds lasting beauty to the home."

For product information and ideas on designing a home's front entrance, call ODL at 1-800-253-3900 or visit www.odl.com on the Internet.

Insulating Systems Save Dollars And Make Environmental Sense

The pollution created by your home is emitted by more sources than just your chimney. Each year, Americans are allowing millions of tons of carbon dioxide and pollutants to soar into the atmosphere because of under-insulated and poorly ventilated attics.

Unlike chimneys, the pollution from a home with an inefficient insulating system literally isn't escaping through the roof. Instead, it is emitted by power plants supplying extra energy to fuel the home's heating and cooling systems. According to Owens Corning, 40 percent of a home's heated or cooled air eventually escapes through the ceiling.

"Most Americans realize that an adequately insulated home saves money and is more comfortable, however, very few realize its positive impact on the environment," says Tim Grether, technical services manager at Owens Corning. "Making simple energy-efficiency improvements to your home can yield the same results as eliminating the annual emissions of two automobiles."

According to the Department of Energy (DOE), improving your home's insulating system is one of the fastest and most cost-effective ways to reduce energy consumption and, in turn, improve the environment.

Do you Need More Attic Insulation?

Before you climb into the attic, ask yourself the following questions. If you answer "yes" to just one question, says Grether, you should re-examine the amount of insulation in your attic.

• Was your home built before 1980? In a recent survey, only 20 percent of homes built before 1980 were well insulated.

• Do you pay excessive energy bills? According to the DOE, you can reduce your heating and cooling needs by up to 30 percent by investing just a few hundred dollars in proper insulation and weatherization products.

• Are you uncomfortably cold in the winter or hot in the summer? Adding insulation creates a more uniform temperature and increases comfort.

How Much Do you Need?

Several factors, like your climate, building design, and the type and amount of existing insulation, will dictate how much insulation you will need to add to your attic.

"As a general rule, you should add an additional layer of insulation if you currently have less than 12 inches of insulation in your attic," says Grether.

For a comprehensive analysis, visit Owens Corning's new "R-Value Calculator" at www.owenscorning. com/owens/around/insulation to determine which type of insulation you will need to install based on the DOE's new R-value recommendations.

Once you've determined the type of insulation, the site can help you calculate how much insulation you need to complete your project based on the area's dimensions. In seconds, you also will know how many packages of insulation you need and the closest place to buy it.

A good insulating system combines the right products and installation procedures to provide optimum thermal performance, air-infiltration protection and moisture control.

"Before you install the new insulation, you'll need to seal any air leaks near plumbing, air ducts and wiring with an expandable foam sealant," says Grether. "Look for dirty spots in your existing insulation, which often indicates where air penetrates the living area."

Moisture buildup lessens the effectiveness of insulation and needs to be controlled. Attic-rafter vents assist in the constant flow of fresh air to a home's roof or ridge vents, creating a well-ventilated attic that helps reduce moisture buildup year-round.

"By making some minor improvements to your insulating system, you'll reduce your energy bills and improve the comfort of your home," says Grether. "However, more importantly, you'll help reduce the amount of greenhouse gas emissions and preserve the planet's natural resources for future generations."

For additional tips on how to improve your insulation system, call Owens Corning at (800) GET-PINK or visit the company's Web site at www.owenscorning.com.

Cordless Cleanup: It's a Natural

If you're like me, trimming back the bushes is a big part of your fall yard-cleanup ritual. And, if there ever is a product that cries out to be cordless, it's the hedge trimmer. Here are some things to look for when buying a cordless hedge trimmer.

• Long-running — You don't want to stop in the middle of a job to recharge. Make sure it has a continuous run-time of at least 25 minutes. Toro has a trimmer that's powered by a nickel roetal hydride (NiMH) battery, as opposed to nickel cadmium. NiMH batteries are lighter and pack more power.

• Lightweight — If you are going to be carrying a trimmer around for a half-hour or more, you want it light. Less than 6 pounds is ideal.

• Comfortable grip — You'll have better control and less fatigue.

• Dual-action blade — It means the trimmer runs smoothly and cuts cleanly.

Book Is a Helpful Tool

Get a clean sweep under the harshest of conditions snowthrowers.

Believe It or Not, It's Time to Think Snow

If those gray skies above make you think "snowstorm," and you're sick of shoveling the white stuff year after year, you're ready to consider a snowthrower. Here are some quick tips on how to pick out one that best fits your needs.

• Pick the right-sized machine for your property. If your driveway has the dimensions of a small-access road (with a steep incline thrown in for good measure), you need a larger, more powerful two-stage snowthrower. Two-stage snowthrowers get rid of snow in two stages. First, an auger drum breaks up heavy or packed snow. Then, an impeller blade behind the auger throws the snow, sometimes as much as 40 feet. These heavy-duty machines tend to be more powerful —with 8 horsepower or higher engines, and are self-propelled with reversing transmissions. Expect to pay from $600 to $1,200.

• If your driveway is a manageable two car-lengths, stick with a smaller yet powerful single-stage snowthrower. A single-stage thrower has a rotor system that scoops up the snow and throws it at the same time. These snowthrowers in the past tended to have smaller engines. However, recently the horsepower has been increasing, many up to 6.5. A higher-end single-stage snowthrower comes close to matching a two-stage unit, both in performance and in throwing distance. Prices range from $300 to $850.

• Find one that is easy to start. You don't want to be stuck yanking on a cord in the freezing cold. To help you keep your snowthrower running smoothly, follow these tips.

• Fill it only with fresh gas and oil. At the end of the season, drain the tank or add some fuel stabilizer.

• Put in a brand-new spark plug at the start of every season.

• Coat rotor and chute with a nonstick oil cooking spray before every use. This will keep the snow from sticking, and help protect from corrosion.

• Keep a broom handle handy for clearing the chute. Make sure that the engine has stopped running and knock the snow loose with the handle. Never use your hand to clear the rotors or chute.

Offering the timeless beauty of a stamped metal ceiling at a fraction of the cost, new TinTile ceiling tiles from Armstrong have no visible grid system and can be painted to duplicate nearly any metallic finish.

Get the Look of a Tin Ceiling at a Fraction of the Cost Homeowners who want to add the artistry, charm and timeless beauty of a tin ceiling to any room in their house now can do so in a matter of hours.

The reason: the introduction of a new ceiling tile that provides the look of a stamped metal ceiling, but at a much more affordable cost.

The new tile, which is manufactured by Armstrong Ceilings, is called TinTile. It measures 12 inches by 12 inches in size and features a ceiling pattern that was popular in the late 19th and early 20th century.

The new tiles have no visible grid system, which makes them a popular choice to cover plain or unattractive drywall or plaster ceilings. They also absorb a portion of the sound that strikes them to help reduce noise levels in the room, and easily are cleaned just like authentic tin ceilings.

Installation is easy because the tiles have a beveled edge, tongue-and-groove design that helps assure proper alignment, a level surface and a smooth fit. An average-size room can be completed in a weekend.

Do-it-yourself installation is easiest done with the help of a metal track-and-clip system included in Armstrong Ceiling Tile Installation Kits. Each kit contains all the materials needed to install 40 square feet of ceiling. Wood furring strips or adhesives also can be used.

Painting the tiles is just as easy. In fact, TinTile ceiling tiles can be painted copper, silver, pewter, bronze or gold to duplicate nearly any metallic finish. The patina that develops on tin ceilings as a result of age even can be duplicated.

No special technique is required to paint the ceiling one overall color. Simply apply two coats of paint using a roller with a 1/4-inch nap, waiting 24 hours between coats. It is preferable to paint a tile ceiling after it has been installed rather than before.

To create a patina effect, sponge paint the base coat with shades of green or blue. Vary the placement of the paint and the texture of the sponge to create an authentic look. The end result: a ceiling that makes an ordinary room extraordinary.

For more information on these and other ceilings, visit www.ceilings.com on the Internet, or call 1-800-233-3823 and ask for a free copy of "Ceiling Solutions For Your Home."

Bathrooms: The Most Redecorated Rooms in the House

A charming bathroom decorated with a seashell theme has a unique personality all its own. Seashore wallpaper and border are the perfect choices for the slanting walls, and provide a nice contrast to the beadboard wainscoting. Checked fabric softens the pedestal sink and creates a highly decorative swag, a nice complement to the wooden shutters which give privacy and light control. Carefully chosen accessories, like the bamboo stand and chair and the seashells, provide the finishing touches.

If you're eager to take on a decorating project but don't have the time, energy or money for a major overhaul, consider the bathroom. Bathrooms are the most popular redecoration projects in the home — you can create a dramatically different look for a minimal outlay of time and cash.

Waverly, the leading home furnishings brand, offers a range of fabric, wallpaper and ready-made accessories that are perfect for decorating bathrooms. Here are some tips from the Waverly design experts on giving your bathroom a fresh new look.

- To make decorating a bathroom easier, decide on a theme or particular look, then carry it out through the choice of wallpaper, fabric, surface materials and accessories. For example, if your theme is a garden, a lovely floral wallpaper and/or fabrics look great with pretty floral accessories like framed botanical prints, a floral-patterned bath rug, a wicker or rattan bench or table, and floral decorated bath accessories.
- To change a look easily or set a mood, wallpaper is the best tool in your arsenal. Choose a bold, dominant pattern, perhaps one that you wouldn't use in a larger room, that instantly will give the room its own personality. For example, graphic stripes make a bathroom look crisp and contemporary, while a distinctive floral print can be opulent and luxurious.
- Combine more than one wallpaper for even more interest. Use complementary patterns on different walls, or combine wallpaper and a border above a tiled half-wall. Another idea is to use a patterned wallpaper on the ceiling, coordinating it with a complementary stripe, texture or geometric design on the walls.
- For an unusual look, try one of the new ultra-wide borders that emulate a scene. These are especially effective when applied from the floor to mid-wall. Some of the choices from Waverly resemble a picket fence with flowers, a jungle scene with whimsical animals, or a garden in full bloom. These can be combined with paint or a complementary wallpaper.
- If your bathroom has slanted ceilings or dormer windows, choose a wallpaper with an overall design rather than a stripe to camouflage walls that are not perfectly straight.
- Decorate your bathroom as carefully as you would any other room in the house. Choose accessories that complement the wallpaper and fabrics, and that are compatible in mood. For example, if you have opted for a seaside theme, accessories in seashell motifs or in natural materials like pale wood, wicker or bamboo are especially effective.
- Choose window treatments that enhance your decorating scheme. First, decide on how much light and privacy you need. A decorative window treatment that complements your decorating style can be practical on its own, or be combined with a hard window treatment, like shutters, wooden blinds, frosted glass or shades, that will ensure privacy and light control.

This Winter, Give Your Attic a Breath of Fresh Air

While people know it's important to seal drafts in the living area of their home for winter comfort, many don't know it's just as important to keep their attic breathing freely to keep the home warm. A poorly ventilated attic can create numerous wintertime problems that can reduce the effectiveness of insulation, cause roof damage, and create rotting in roof trusses and other timbers. Good attic ventilation is as important as enough insulation.

Although winter may seem cold and dry, unseen moisture constantly is escaping from your home's living spaces. This moisture can condense in your attic insulation, reducing the ability of the insulation to keep heat in the home, where it belongs. Venting the moist air out of the attic keeps the insulation dry and the home warm.

If an attic is not properly vented, heat escaping from the home is trapped and can increase the air temperature in the attic to begin melting snow on the roof. This melting snow will refreeze again when it reaches the eaves, causing ice dams. These ice dams, if severe enough, may cause this melting snow to back up under the shingles. Many times, so much water backs up that it drips through the roof deck into the attic insulation. Enough moisture buildup in the insulation eventually will damage interior ceiling and wall surfaces. In addition, moisture from condensation and ice dams can accelerate damage to the structural wood materials in the roof and walls.

Improving your attic ventilation is as easy as 1-2-3.

1. Install continuous ridge venting along the roof peak. This is where the hot air is exhausted from the attic. The ridge vent should be durable and weather-resistant. If it's impractical to install ridge vents, several traditional roof vents (roof louvers) should be installed as near to the ridge as possible.
2. Install continuous soffit-ventilation strips under the eaves. These soffit vents allow fresh, cooler air to enter the attic. Because air will be drawn into the vents, make sure they have a fine mesh screen to prevent insects from entering. Soffit vents should be made of aluminum or plastic to prevent rusting.
3. From inside the attic, install attic-ventilation channels between the rafters to maintain an unobstructed air channel over the insulation. Without these ventilation channels, a good flow of air up and out the ridge vent won't occur. These vents also prevent wind-blown insulation from plugging or blocking the airflow from the soffits. Ventilation channels traditionally have been made of cardboard or foam, but are being replaced by more durable and easily installed rigid plastic products. Made from black recycled plastic, ProVents, from ADO Products in Minn., cost less than $2 each.

Improving a home's attic-ventilation system, particularly in homes older than 10 years, is one of the simplest and most important tasks a homeowner can do to optimize energy efficiency of the home and prevent long-term moisture problems. Ask your local building-material retailer for more information on ventilation and insulation products. For information on ProVents from ADO Products, call 1-800-666-8191.

Proper attic ventilation is just as important as enough insulation in keeping your home comfortable during winter.

Tips on Treating Windows and Doors

For many homeowners, choosing the perfect window treatments for their home's windows and doors can be a real challenge. To help ease decorating dilemmas, following are some practical solutions to common window- and door-treatment problems.

Question: We have sliding glass doors in our family room that lead to the back patio. We use the doors almost daily, especially in the summer. We need window treatments that will give us privacy, but also allow us to use the door. What do you recommend?

Answer: Full-length window treatments like tab curtains, panels with rings or pole-top draperies easily can be closed to allow for privacy and light control, adding a decorative look without sacrificing the functionality of the doors.

Other suggestions include valances, which can be mounted above full-length window treatments for a layered look while allowing accessibility to the doors; vertical blinds; and throw swags on a fluted wood pole mounted above the doors.

Question: There are French doors leading to the deck off our bedroom. What window treatments can we use that will allow us to maintain the classic look of French doors without inhibiting us from using them?

Answer: Treat the French doors like a conventional window with either pole-top draperies, panels with rings, or tab curtains mounted above or outside the door frame. Add balloon shades mounted on the doors for more privacy while maintaining the classic look of French doors.

Other suggestions include Roman shades, which can be mounted the same way as balloon shades and have the same benefits while lending a more casual tailored look; window treatments mounted above the doors that match or complement other windows in the room; and mini blinds mounted underneath a valance, which can be lowered for privacy or raised out of sight as needed.

Summary Judgement granted to R. L. Watershed

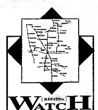
Red Lake Watershed district's request for summary judgement in a lawsuit over whether the Department of Natural Resources should pay maintenance or repair assessments benefitting consolidated conservation lands was granted by District Court Judge Dennis Murphy on September 23.

The lawsuit stems from a petition by landowners to clean State Ditch 83, which comprises about 22 miles of the Thief River. An engineer's report estimated the cost of dredging 14 miles of the ditch at a cost of about $1.8 million.

The issue involved is a dispute over interpretation of the commissioner's authority over con-con lands and its relationship with the drainage code. The Red Lake Watershed district argued that they have full authority to issue the repair order under the drainage code. The DNR maintained that the assessments and benefits can only be established with the commissioner's approval.

The time to appeal a redetermination of benefits that occurred in 1986, passed and no appeal was made by the commissioner. In addition, state law and statutes remained relatively unchanged.

According to the order for summary judgement issued September 23, "If the court were to accept the commissioner's contention that he need not pay his assessments, each private landowner's assessments would be increased. The landowners would be left without a remedy, because their statutory appeal time has expired. The legislature could not have intended such an absurd result."



The judgement also notes that since there are no case precedents pertaining directly to the contested statute, the general rules for drainage are important to show the intent of the legislature. "'Once a drainage system is established, the owners of the land who have been assessed for benefits for its construction have a vested property right in maintaining it in the same condition as it was originally established, and such right cannot be divested without due process of law.'"

Regarding "drainage" legislation and authority, a case in point required the state to pay an assessment. The summary judgement states again, "While this case does not involve con-con lands, it is instructive by analogy.

"The key points of the case are that the drainage authority has a duty to maintain the system and the state must pay the assessments on state owned land. The appointed viewers are specifically charged with the duty of determining the benefits or damages to state-owned lands. When a meandering lake or public waters is involved, there is 'no intent on the part of the legislature to permit the commissioner to attach a condition (on a permit) that would preclude a county board or district court from assessing benefits to state-owned lands.' Reading the drainage code in conjunction with the permit requirement section, it is clear the legislature did not intend to give the commissioner the power to evade paying assessments for benefits to state lands by permit conditions."

The summary judgement also states, "If the State were allowed to decide which assessments it would pay, ditches would never get repaired or improved. If the state decides not to pay, every other landowner's assessments would increase on a pro rata basis. The higher assessment for the landowners would make it harder for them to turn a profit. Locker search conducted at TRF schools

School District 564 staff conducted a search of lockers utilizing a specially trained dog last week. The searches did not result in any illegal substances being found in the school.

Searches of school lockers in Thief River Falls have been conducted unannounced to staff and students for about three years now.

Tom Hunt, principal at Lincoln High School, said he would be the first to protect students' rights. He said all students are informed every year that the lockers are school property and there will be searches at unannounced times. In addition, searches of school lockers are protected by state statute.

Hunt believes the school board and community are behind their efforts to keep illegal substances out of the school.

The Wednesday, September 29, search at Lincoln High School did not result in any illegal substances being found. It does not mean, however, that Magnum, Pennington county's canine officer, didn't "hit" on any of the lockers. In fact he "hit" on several lockers and searches were conducted of those lockers.

Officers explained that the smell of illegal substances can linger on clothing, books and other items for a long period of time. The fact that the dog did "hit" on the lockers, however, does not mean there's a presumption of guilt. It does not mean the student uses illegal substances, but only that the smell got on the objects.

Marshall County Historical Society seeks information

Information on the harvest of cattails in northwestern Minnesota for use in life preservers during World War II is being sought by the Marshall County Historical Society, according to Ethel Thorlacius of Stephen, curator of the society's Settlers Square museum in Warren.

"The reason for harvesting cattails during the four years of the war was the inavailability of kapok for use in flotation devices for the navy," Thorlacius said. "Cattails and milkweed made good substitutes and so were harvested throughout the wetlands of northwestern Minnesota and shipped by train to points where it was used for the war effort."

The cattail material used for the life preservers was called typha. One of the pieces of equipment in storage at Settlers Square is a typha baler, made by a foundry in Thief River Falls and operated in a previously unused lumber yard in Holt.

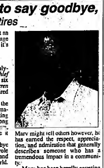
Thorlacius said the historical society is very interested in obtaining any information and/or artifacts that pertain to this historic project. Pictures of people from the area picking the plants, or of the vehicles used for transportation, are needed to complete the story. Any details of the work, stories of hardships or happenings, even letters from servicemen who told of the use of these devices would be appreciated, she said.

Information on the transportation by rail and hopefully the manufacture of the life preservers is needed as well, the curator added.

"It is important to complete the account of this one-of-a-kind artifact before memories dim and information is lost," Thorlacius said. Any information can be sent to Ethel Thorlacius, P.O. Box 199, Stephen, MN 56757.

The historical society is closing its doors at Settlers Square for the winter season and putting its items safely into storage. After celebrating the 20th anniversary year of the collected buildings and artifacts at Settlers Square with a birthday party and promotional events, the society believes that 1999 has been a very good year for the organization and its museum.

Other unique artifacts stored at Settlers Square are the Marshall County Sheriff's Department car believed to have been struck by an Unidentified Flying Object (UFO) and a cook car used during the steam threshing era of local farming history.



"Staff members from the Minnesota Historical Society in St. Paul claim that the cook car at Settlers Square is the only one of its kind in a museum in the state," Thorlacius said. "They must have been indigenous to the Red River Valley and the plains of North Dakota as they do not seem to have been used elsewhere."

Persons who have questions about the museum or its artifacts or information which could be added to the collection of knowledge about the items discussed are encouraged to contact Thorlacius at the address listed above.

Never easy to say goodbye, Marv Lundin retires

(Editor's note: It's rare that an editorial appears on the front page of this newspaper, but I hope it's acceptable this one time.)

by David Hill
Editor

After 38 years of highly-respected leadership at The Thief River Falls Times, and another six years prior to that at the Warren Sheaf, Marv Lundin has retired from the newspaper business.

Among representatives of the media, there's a certain camaraderie that comes from working together, sitting through long meetings, and working long hours, but a thick skin doesn't make it easier to say goodbye.

It's still difficult to say goodbye to those people who have been role models, mentors, friends and guides in this complicated world. Marv has been all of that.

When Marv told me about his retirement plans, I realized my workload was about to dramatically increase, and the role I would soon be expected to fill — immense. Descriptions like "hard act to follow," and impossibly "large shoes to fill," came to mind. More importantly, Marv who has helped me through some difficult work-related challenges in the past, wouldn't be as readily available in the future. I hope you're not surprised that the thought of vanishing without a trace crossed my mind.

Yes, it's true, when someone has a story to share with the public, they think of Marv as much or more so than they think of The Times. Marv will bote this description because he has never sought public recognition or attention; rather shunned it would be more accurate, and all he ever aspired to be was just Marv. Despite what Marv might tell others however, he has earned the respect, appreciation, and admiration that generally describes someone who has a tremendous impact in a community.

Marv has been happily counting the days and hours to retirement, and I'm pleased he's happy, but I'm worried that we're losing a great deal by his retirement. Marv's experience and knowledge of newspapering extends beyond the lifetime experiences of many of us. That's a lot of history that's leaving this newspaper office. It's true, by all outward appearances, he didn't change much over the years. His hair style certainly didn't change, and piles of paper still teeter precariously on his desk, but he rolled with the changes — from manual typewriter and linotype machine to computerized pagination. Throughout those changes, while many would lose composure, he maintained a sense of dignity, respect and humor. We're losing all that knowledge and history, and unless we're very careful, respect. Let me assure you, we plan to work hard to make sure that

Friendship takes Storhaug and Bergland from the hockey rink to the roof tops

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Friendship is something that can make a working relationship a whole lot more pleasant.

In a few days, the Great Northern depot at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village will be sporting a new roof. The work is being done by a pair of young men from the Fergus Falls area who have Thief River Falls roots and a history of friendship that spans nearly 30 years.

Three months ago, Tim Bergland joined his friend, Jeff Storhaug, in the construction business. Jeff had been doing various types of contracting work for about five years, and Tim, as many know, recently retired from a 12-year professional hockey career.

The 34-year-olds are 1983 graduates of Lincoln High School, and their friendship, they say, began on the skating rink before they started kindergarten.

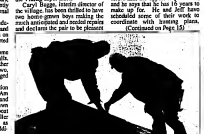
Tim and his wife live in a home on Pickerel Lake near Fergus Falls. They have two children and another on the way. Jeff, the father of two, lives in Fergus Falls and is engaged to be married.

They operate the construction business under two names, "I Am the Guy" and "Cabin Keepers," and jobs include a lot of roofing, lawn care, installing and removing boat lifts and docks as well as smaller general contracting jobs such as building garages and small additions.

Jeff and Tim will do the smaller job that is often difficult to find another contractor to do, and in doing so, they report that they are "very busy." With regard to starting small, Jeff says, "Ralph Engelstad started small, and look where he ended up."

The work, of course, is hard but something they say they both enjoy. They like to be outside, and appreciate the independence that self employment affords them.

The one problem that they have faced is one they share with the many other businesses who are feeling Minnesota's current labor crunch. Good help, they say, is almost impossible to find.



While Jeff and Tim's business, for the most part, is conducted in the Fergus Falls area, they provided the low bid for the roofing job on the Great Northern depot at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village. Earlier in the season, they replaced the roof on the Viking depot there.

Caryl Bugge, interim director of the village, has been thrilled to have two home-grown boys making the much anticipated and needed repairs and declares the pair to be pleasant to have around and very dependable.

While working in their hometown, Tim and Jeff are enjoying a little pampering. They are staying with their families. Jeff is the son of Fancha Storhaug and the late Roy Storhaug, and while working here, he has the added bonus of being able to spend extra time with his young daughter who lives in Thief River Falls. Tim is staying with his dad, Richard Bergland, and his mother, Gail Bergland, can be counted on to provide the men with a hearty lunch every day.

Tim's hockey career did not afford him the opportunity to hunt, and he says that he has 16 years to make up for. He and Jeff have scheduled some of their work to coordinate with hunting plans,

Bathrooms: The Most Redecorated Rooms in the House

A charming bathroom decorated with a seashell theme has a unique personality all its own. Seashore wallpaper and border are the perfect choices for the slanting walls, and provide a nice contrast to the beadboard wainscoting. Checked fabric softens the pedestal sink and creates a highly decorative swag, a nice complement to the wooden shutters which give privacy and light control. Carefully chosen accessories, like the bamboo stand and chair and the seashells, provide the finishing touches.

If you're ready to take on a decorating project but don't have the time, energy or money for a major overhaul, consider the bathroom. Bathrooms are the most popular redecoration projects in the home — you can create a dramatically different look for a minimal outlay of time and cash.

Waverly, the leading home furnishings brand, offers a range of fabric, wallpaper and ready-made accessories that are perfect for decorating bathrooms. Here are some tips from the Waverly design experts on giving your bathroom a fresh new look.

• To make decorating a bathroom easier, decide on a theme or particular look, then carry it out through the choice of wallpaper, fabric, surface materials and accessories. For example, if your theme is a garden, a lovely floral wallpaper and/or fabrics look great with pretty floral accessories like framed botanical prints, a floral-patterned bath rug, a wicker or rattan bench or table, and floral decorated bath accessories.

• To change a look easily or set a mood, wallpaper is the best tool in your arsenal. Choose a bold, dominant pattern, perhaps one that you wouldn't use in a larger room, that instantly will give the room its own personality. For example, graphic stripes make a bathroom look crisp and contemporary, while a distinctive floral print can be opulent and luxurious.

• Combine more than one wallpaper for even more interest. Use complementary patterns on different walls, or combine wallpaper and a border above a tiled half-wall. Another idea is to use a patterned wallpaper on the ceiling, coordinating it with a complementary stripe, texture or geometric design on the walls.

• For an unusual look, try one of the new ultra-wide borders that emulate a scene. These are especially effective when applied from the floor to mid-wall. Some of the choices from Waverly resemble a picket fence with flowers, a jungle scene with whimsical animals, or a garden in full bloom. These can be combined with paint or a complementary wallpaper.

• If your bathroom has slanted ceilings or dormer windows, choose a wallpaper with an overall design rather than a stripe to camouflage walls that are not perfectly straight.

• Decorate your bathroom as carefully as you would any other room in the house. Choose accessories that complement the wallpaper and fabrics, and that are compatible in mood. For example, if you have opted for a seaside theme, accessories in seashell motifs or in natural materials like pale wood, wicker or bamboo are especially effective.

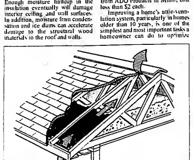
• Choose window treatments that enhance your decorating scheme. First, decide on how much light and privacy you need. A decorative window treatment that complements your decorating style can be practical on its own, or be combined with a hard window treatment, like shutters, wooden blinds, frosted glass or shades, that will ensure privacy and light control.

This Winter, Give Your Attic a Breath of Fresh Air

While people know it's important to seal drafts in the living area of their home for winter comfort, many don't know it's just as important to keep their attic breathing freely to keep the home warm. A poorly ventilated attic can create numerous wintertime problems that can reduce the effectiveness of insulation, cause roof damage, and create rotting in roof trusses and other timbers. Good attic ventilation is as important as enough insulation.

Although winter may seem cold and dry, unseen moisture constantly is escaping from your home's living spaces. This moisture can condense in your attic insulation, reducing the ability of the insulation to keep heat in the home, where it belongs. Venting the moist air out of the attic keeps the insulation dry and the home warm.

If an attic is not properly vented, heat escaping from the home is trapped and can increase the air temperature in the attic to begin melting snow on the roof. This melting snow will refreeze again when it reaches the eaves, causing ice dams. These ice dams, if severe enough, may cause this melting snow to back up under the shingles. Many times, so much water backs up that it drips through the roof deck into the attic insulation. Enough moisture buildup in the insulation eventually will damage interior ceiling and wall surfaces. In addition, moisture from condensation and ice dams can accelerate damage to the structural wood materials in the roof and walls.



Improving your attic ventilation is as easy as 1-2-3.

1. Install continuous ridge venting along the roof peak. This is where the hot air is exhausted from the attic. The ridge vent should be durable and weather-resistant. If it's impractical to install ridge vents, several traditional roof vents (roof louvers) should be installed as near to the ridge as possible.

2. Install continuous soffit-ventilation strips under the eaves. These soffit vents allow fresh, cooler air to enter the attic. Because air will be drawn into the vents, make sure they have a fine mesh screen to prevent insects from entering. Soffit vents should be made of aluminum or plastic to prevent rusting.

3. From inside the attic, install attic-ventilation channels between the rafters to maintain an unobstructed air channel over the insulation. Without these ventilation channels, a good flow of air up and out the ridge vent won't occur. These vents also prevent wind-blown insulation from plugging or blocking the airflow from the soffits. Ventilation channels traditionally have been made of cardboard or foam, but are being replaced by more durable and easily installed rigid plastic products. Made from black recycled plastic, ProVents, from ADO Products in Minn., cost less than $2 each.

Improving a home's attic-ventilation system, particularly in homes older than 10 years, is one of the simplest and most important tasks a homeowner can do to optimize energy efficiency of the home and prevent long-term moisture problems. Ask your local building-material retailer for more information on ventilation and insulation products. For information on ProVents from ADO Products, call 1-800-666-8191.

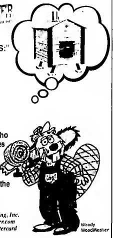
Proper attic ventilation is just as important as enough insulation in keeping your home comfortable during winter.

Tips on Treating Windows and Doors

For many homeowners, choosing the perfect window treatments for their home's windows and doors can be a real challenge. To help ease decorating dilemmas, following are some practical solutions to common window- and door-treatment problems.

Question: We have sliding glass doors in our family room that lead to the back patio. We use the doors almost daily, especially in the summer. We need window treatments that will give us privacy, but also allow us to use the door. What do you recommend?

Answer: Full-length window treatments like tab curtains, panels with rings or pole-top draperies easily can be closed to allow for privacy and light control, adding a decorative look without sacrificing the functionality of the doors.



Other suggestions include valances, which can be mounted above full-length window treatments for a layered look while allowing accessibility to the doors; vertical blinds; and throw swags on a fluted wood pole mounted above the doors.

Question: There are French doors leading to the deck off our bedroom. What window treatments can we use that will allow us to maintain the classic look of French doors without inhibiting us from using them?

Answer: Treat the French doors like a conventional window with either pole-top draperies, panels with rings, or tab curtains mounted above or outside the door frame. Add balloon shades mounted on the doors for more privacy while maintaining the classic look of French doors.

Other suggestions include Roman shades, which can be mounted the same way as balloon shades and have the same benefits while lending a more casual tailored look; window treatments mounted above the doors that match or complement other windows in the room; and mini blinds mounted underneath a valance, which can be lowered for privacy or raised out of sight as needed.

Summary Judgement granted to R. L. Watershed

Red Lake Watershed district's request for summary judgement in a lawsuit over whether the Department of Natural Resources should pay maintenance or repair assessments benefitting consolidated conservation lands was granted by District Court Judge Dennis Murphy on September 23.

The lawsuit stems from a petition by landowners to clean State Ditch 83, which comprises about 22 miles of the Thief River. An engineer's report estimated the cost of dredging 14 miles of the ditch at a cost of about $1.8 million.

The issue involved is a dispute over interpretation of the commissioner's authority over con-con lands and its relationship with the drainage code. The Red Lake Watershed district argued that they have full authority to issue the repair order under the drainage code. The DNR maintained that the assessments and benefits can only be established with the commissioner's approval.

The time to appeal a redetermination of benefits that occurred in 1986 passed and no appeal was made by the commissioner. In addition, state law and statute remained relatively unchanged.

According to the order for summary judgement issued September 23, "If the court were to accept the commissioner's contention that he need not pay his assessments, each private landowner's assessments would be increased. The landowners would be left without a remedy, because their statutory appeal time has expired. The legislature could not have intended such an absurd result."

The judgement also notes that since there are no case precedents pertaining directly to the contested statute, the general rules for drainage are important to show the intent of the legislature. "Once a drainage system is established, the owners of the land who have been assessed for benefits for its construction have a vested property right in maintaining it in the same condition as it was originally established, and such right cannot be divested without due process of law."

After celebrating the 20th anniversary year of the collected buildings and artifacts at Settlers Square with a birthday party and promotional events, the society believes that 1999 has been a very good year for the organization and its museum.

Other unique artifacts stored at Settlers Square are the Marshall County Sheriff's Department car believed to have been struck by an Unidentified Flying Object (UFO) and a cook car used during the steam threshing era of local farming history.

"Staff members from the Minnesota Historical Society in St. Paul claim that the cook car at Settlers Square is the only one of its kind in a museum in the state," Thorlacius said. "They must have been indigenous to the Red River Valley and the plains of North Dakota as they do not seem to have been used elsewhere."

Persons who have questions about the museum or its artifacts or information which could be added to the collection of knowledge about the items discussed are encouraged to contact Thorlacius at the address listed above.

Never easy to say goodbye,

Marv Lundin retires

(Editor's note: It's rare that an editorial appears on the front page of this newspaper, but I hope it's acceptable this one time.)

by David Hill
Editor

After 38 years of highly-respected leadership at The Thief River Falls Times, and another six years prior to that at the Warren Sheaf, Marv Lundin has retired from the newspaper business.

Among representatives of the media, there's a certain camaraderie that comes from working together, sitting through long meetings, and working long hours, but a thick skin doesn't make it easier to say goodbye.

It's still difficult to say goodbye to those people who have been role models, mentors, friends and guides in this complicated world. Marv has been all of that.

When Marv told me about his retirement plans, I realized my workload was about to dramatically increase, and the role I would soon be expected to fill — immense. Descriptions like "hard act to follow," and impossibly "large shoes to fill," came to mind. More importantly, Marv who has helped me through some difficult work-related challenges in the past, wouldn't be as readily available in the future. I hope you're not surprised that the thought of vanishing without a trace crossed my mind.

Yes, it's true, when someone has a story to share with the public, they think of Marv as much or more so than they think of The Times. Marv will hate this description because he has never sought public recognition or attention, rather shunned it would be more accurate, and all he ever aspired to be was just Marv. Despite what Marv might tell others however, he has earned the respect, appreciation, and admiration that generally describes someone who has a tremendous impact in a community.

Marv has been happily counting the days and hours to retirement, and I'm pleased he's happy, but I'm worried that we're losing a great deal by his retirement. Marv's experience and knowledge of newspapering extends beyond the lifetime experiences of many of us. That's a lot of history that's leaving this newspaper office. It's true, by all outward appearances, he didn't change much over the years. His hair style certainly didn't change, and piles of paper still teeter precariously on his desk, but he rolled with the changes — from manual typewriter and linotype machine to computerized pagination. Throughout those changes, while many would lose composure, he maintained a sense of dignity, respect and humor. We're losing all that knowledge and history, and unless we're very careful, respect. Let me assure you, we plan to work hard to make sure that

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Friendship is something that can make a working relationship a whole lot more pleasant.

In a few days, the Great Northern depot at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village will be sporting a new roof. The work is being done by a pair of young men from the Fergus Falls area who have Thief River Falls roots and a history of friendship that spans nearly 30 years.

Three months ago, Tim Bergland joined his friend, Jeff Storhaug, in the construction business. Jeff had been doing various types of contracting work for about five years, and Tim, as many know, recently retired from a 12-year professional hockey career.

The 34-year-olds are 1983 graduates of Lincoln High School, and their friendship, they say, began on the skating rink before they started kindergarten.

Tim and his wife live in a home on Pickerel Lake near Fergus Falls. They have two children and another on the way. Jeff, the father of two, lives in Fergus Falls and is engaged to be married.

They operate the construction business under two names, "I Am the Guy" and "Cabin Keepers," and jobs include a lot of roofing, lawn care, installing and removing boat lifts and docks as well as smaller general contracting jobs such as building garages and small additions.

Jeff and Tim will do the smaller job that is often difficult to find another contractor to do, and in doing so, they report that they are "very busy." With regard to starting small, Jeff says "Ralph Engelstad started small and look where he ended up."

The work, of course, is hard but something they say they both enjoy. They like to be outside, and appreciate the independence that self employment affords them.

The one problem that they have faced is one they share with the many other businesses who are feeling Minnesota's current labor crunch. Good help, they say, is almost impossible to find.

While Jeff and Tim's business, for the most part, is conducted in the Fergus Falls area, they provided the low bid for the roofing job on the Great Northern depot at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village. Earlier in the season, they replaced the roof on the Viking depot there.

Caryl Bagge, interim director of the village, has been thrilled to have two home-grown boys making the much anticipated and needed repairs and declares the pair to be pleasant to have around and very dependable.

While working in their hometown, Tim and Jeff are enjoying a little pampering. They are staying with their families. Jeff is the son of Fancha Storhaug and the late Roy Storhaug, and while working here, he has the added bonus of being able to spend extra time with his young daughter who lives in Thief River Falls. Tim is staying with his dad, Richard Bergland, and his mother, Gail Bergland, can be counted on to provide the men with a hearty lunch every day.

Tim's hockey career did not afford him the opportunity to hunt, and he says that he has 16 years to make up for. He and Jeff have scheduled some of their work to coordinate with hunting plans.

Open forum on scheduling at LHS planned

Lincoln High School will change its scheduling format for the 1999-2000 school year. The present six periods in a day format will be changed to a new, but yet undetermined format in the fall of 2000. A public meeting to discuss the changes will be held on Thursday, October 7, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria.

The Lincoln High School faculty and Alternate Schedule committee has recommended a change to a four-period/modified block format. A presentation on the basics of the modified block schedule has been made to Lincoln High School students presently in grades 9-11. Parents have been sent basic information in the mail on the proposed changes. On September 9, as part of Lincoln High School's open house, an information meeting was held for interested students and parents.

Lincoln High School's faculty and administration are interested in hearing from students, parents and concerned citizens. Questions and thoughts about the type of scheduling format that should be implemented for the 2000-2001 school year are welcome. The open forum scheduled for Thursday, October 7, will allow students, parents and concerned citizens an opportunity to ask those questions and express their comments. The Lincoln High School Alternate Schedule committee will be present to listen and respond to questions and comments.

Anyone unable to attend the meeting is encouraged to call Tom Hunt, acting principal, at 681-7432 or Bill Stock, counselor at 681-8672 with questions and comments.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere – [illegible]

Soup has always been a favorite of mine. I love any recipe that starts with "in a large pot..." When I was little there were lovely leaves, pebbles, little seeds and the neighbor's peony buds (like little cabbages) just waiting to be made into "soup" for my dollies. When I was older with a houseful of children, there were leftovers that were perfect for homemade soup. Now that I am older, the most nutritious things can be put into soup and taste wonderful. Here are soup recipes to tickle your taste buds and make you strong and healthy.

Speaking of hearty soup – this one will get you jumping around in no time – it's a hit like borsch without the beets, but oh so good for you – bet you could put in some beets too if you're inclined:

RUSSIAN CABBAGE SOUP
1 1/2 pounds lean rump or chuck roast, cut into 1 inch cubes
2 cups cooked, chopped tomatoes
1 large onion, chopped
1 bay leaf
1 clove garlic
3 quarts cold water
1 medium head green cabbage, shredded
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons white vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
Low fat sour cream for garnish

In large pot, cover beef, tomatoes, onion, bay leaf and garlic with water. Let stand for 1 hour. Simmer, covered, for 2-3 hours.

Remove bay leaf and add cabbage, sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper. Simmer 15 minutes, or until cabbage is tender.

Before serving, add lemon juice and garnish of sour cream.

Bean soup is one of the most hearty of soups, and it takes a wonderfully long time to cook so you can anticipate and enjoy the aroma all day – bake some wonderful dark bread to dip into it too:

OLD FASHIONED NEW ENGLAND BEAN SOUP
2 cups dried Great Northern beans
6 cups cold water
1/4 pound lean bacon, cooked and cut into 1 inch pieces
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1 medium carrot, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste

In large pot, soak beans overnight in water to cover.

Drain beans and add 6 cups water, bacon, celery, onion and carrot. Simmer, covered, for 2 1/2 to 3 hours or until beans are tender.

Add salt and pepper and serve.

Another bean soup, this one made with dried kidney beans and with just a slight Mexican flavor:

KIDNEY BEAN SOUP
1 cup dried kidney beans
4 cups cold water
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1/2 cup fresh parsley, chopped
1/4 cup fresh celery, chopped
1 small carrot, chopped
4 tablespoons soft margarine
2 tablespoons flour
3 cups tomato juice or puree
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
Dash of cayenne pepper

In large pot, soak beans overnight in water to cover.

Drain beans and add 4 cups water, onions, parsley, celery and carrot. Simmer for 2 to 2 1/2 hours or until beans are tender.

Puree beans and vegetables in blender or food processor or force through colander or food mill. Return to pot.

In medium saucepan, melt margarine and blend in flour. Gradually stir in tomato juice and Worcestershire sauce and cook until slightly thickened, stirring frequently. Add tomato juice mixture to soup pot and stir well. Add pepper and cayenne pepper.

What better soup for this time of year than this – make it in less than an hour:

AUTUMN VEGETABLE SOUP
1/2 pound ground beef
3 cups hot water
1 beef bouillon cube
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1/2 cup each of potatoes celery carrots
cabbage
1 medium onion
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Brown ground beef and onion. Add hot water and vegetables. Bring to boil, simmering 15 minutes.

Add bouillon cube and tomato sauce and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 15 minutes more.

And here's something to go with one of those soups – home made crackers – can you believe it?

HOMEMADE CRACKERS
3 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup margarine, soft
1 cup low fat cottage cheese

In large bowl, mix flour and salt. Cut in margarine and cottage cheese until mixture forms a dough. Wrap dough in wax paper and chill for at least 1 hour.

Roll dough 1/8 inch thick on flour surface. Cut into shapes with knife or cutter and place on greased baking sheet. Pierce each cracker several times with a fork.

Bake at 450 degrees for 12-15 minutes or until lightly browned.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Thanks Marv for a lifetime of service

by Neil Mattson

Once upon a time there was a Warren High School graduate with a flair for writing who was wondering what to do with his life. Now 45 years later, Marvin Lundin has stepped down as editor of the Thief River Falls Times and the Northern Watch after working that length of time for two strands of the Mattson newspaper family.

My son, John P. Mattson, my cousins, Robert Mattson and the late Clarence Mattson, and myself express our appreciation and thanks to this legendary editor who more than adequately filled the shoes of the late William Dahlquist and the late Norman Holen at The Times.

My dad, the late Edgar N. Mattson, my uncle, the late O.M. (Cy) Mattson, and myself hired Marv in September 1954, not even realizing he was such a proficient writer. But write he did, sometimes doing stories in verse. He was a quick learner in the seven years he was at the Warren Sheaf and then in the 38 years he was at The Times. He filled the editorial duties in a competent, professional; fluent and honest way.

His dedication to the job made The Times a "Lundin newspaper" but we are proud to say he did it in the "Mattson tradition" started by my grandfather John P. Mattson in 1886 at the then six-year-old Warren Sheaf.

Again Marv, we say a heartfelt thanks for serving our family and Thief River Falls so ably for a lifetime. Now you can spend the rest of your life on your own schedule.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Two years ago the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout Council was considering disposing of properties, including Camp M.O.E. located south of Thief River Falls. During the annual meeting in April of 1998, the delegates voted overwhelmingly to keep all properties.

Since that time, the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout Council has committed itself to improving and expanding the usage of Camp M.O.E. The council has plans to expand the nature trail and identify the plant and tree species along the trail. This summer Camp M.O.E. has been used for troop meetings, service unit meetings, adult outdoor training, day camp and overnight camping. Girls from as far away as Fargo, ND, have used the facilities.

Recently, the morning Kiwanis club members volunteered their time and talents to replace the ceiling and light fixtures in the lodge. Donations for this project came from a disbanded local troop. Fisher Electric, Les's Sanitation and Home Lumber company also contributed their services to complete this project. Thank you to everyone for your volunteer service to Camp M.O.E.

We would also like to express our appreciation to Marv Lundin for his many years of support and encouragement to the Girl Scout program in Thief River Falls.

Sincerely,
Ginny Armstrong

To The Editor:

Place our trust fund into a TRUST!

Social Security is a pay-as-you-go program funded by taxpayers to pay benefits to recipients. The defect in the structure of Social Security requires that the ratio of taxpayers to people receiving benefits remain large to prevent the program from failing.

All this hoop-la about saving Social Security is the result of the retirement bulge that will start forming in 2008 when the first of the baby boomers become 62. The good thing about the boomer bulge is that they are in the prime of their careers when their income is highest, allowing a build-up of money in the Trust Fund to create the current $650 billion surplus.

Unfortunately, many believe that the Trust Fund which is the intended recipient of the taxes is believed to be as impregnable as Fort Knox. Not so. Since the founding of Social Security during the Great Depression, politicians have used Trust Fund surpluses to fund pork-barrel projects to gain reelection.

This occurs because Congress co-mingles the Trust Fund contributions with income and other taxes in formulating the federal budget. For example, the 1998 $70 billion budget surplus existed only because Congress included the 1998 $99 billion Social Security surplus when the actual budget showed a deficit.

In order to prevent Congress from embezzling the Trust Fund, it must be removed from control of the politicians and made into an autonomous agency like the Federal Reserve, having a charter to collect, invest and distribute the trust money in a prudent manner. Allow me to propose that the new agency be called the United States Social Security Trust.

Sincerely,
Robert A. Dahlquist

PBR bull ride at Hibbing arena October 9 and 10

Professional Bull Riders Association (PBR) Touring Pro Division bull ride will be held Saturday and Sunday, October 9 and 10, at the Memorial Building in Hibbing. Starting times are 7 p.m. on Saturday and 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Since there are only two PBR bull rides in the country that weekend—the other in Columbus, OH—a field of top-20 riders is expected among the more than 100 bull rides over the two-day event. Four-time PRCA world champion bull rider Tuff Hedeman is slated to do the color announcing.

Bulls or the ride will come from contractor Dell Hall of Rafter H Rodeo Company of Tahlequah, OK. Hall's animals are 18-time winners of the PRCA's highest bucking bull and bucking brane awards. An added attraction will be the Hibbing Chrysler Bullfights—an American style bullfighting event.

Jokela ProWest Productions of Park Rapids is producing the event and may be contacted for tickets and other information at 1-800-565-3521.

Bob Hope Said It Best: Thanks for the Memories

by Mervin Lundin

For just a few years short of half a century, I have been privileged to have a forum to express my thoughts through a personal column or the editorials—first at the Warren Sheaf, for the past 38 years at the Thief River Falls Times and, since its inception a few years ago, for the Northern Watch. Today's editorial marks the end of that association with the public as my retirement from newspaper work became effective at the end of the day Thursday, September 30.

Forty-five years in the business is a long time to spend at one career, and we suspect that many people in the future will not have the opportunity to remain in one area of work for a lifetime career. For all that stability, however, one could not avoid changes and the transition required to meet those changes. For the most part change was good, making the tasks easier and the end product better for the customer.

Nearly all of that change came in the area of newspaper production, not in the practice of journalism. Reporting news, creating features, expressing editorial opinion all remain much the same now as they were at mid-century. Facts are still facts, readers still expect their paper on schedule, integrity is still respected and people still differ in opinion. Wage scale is still well below most professions, but better than the $35 per week for a 55 to 60-hour week that I earned as starting pay. Local papers still fill a necessary role in communities despite advancements of television and the Internet and we expect them to continue well into the future.

Production techniques, on the other hand, are entirely different. In 1954, when I joined the Sheaf staff in the fall after graduating from high school that spring, newspaper type was set in lines of hot metal on a Linotype machine. These ingenious contraptions had thousands of moving parts, all of which could malfunction and often did, usually at the most inopportune time. The operators were almost always prone to profanity —stimulated by the balky machines at which they labored—and more often than not were addicted to strong drink, which sometimes contributed to the mechanical malfunctions.

We have two vivid recollections of Linotype operators. One is of Ed Mattson—one of my employers then and grandfather of present employer John P. Mattson—his ink-covered stub of a cigar smoldering in an equally ink-covered ashtray at his side, exhaling expletives and pounding the keyboard with his fist in frustration at the machine's failure to respond, and thereby causing the brass matrix forms to cascade from the magazine and scatter on the floor.

The other is of an extremely talented operator who spent half a day disassembling his machine while under the influence of the afore-mentioned strong drink, then taking two days and a night of more sober reflection to put it back together and get it operating again.

Our news copy was written on manual typewriters with well-worn ribbons, using squares cut from newsprint (the paper newspapers are printed on) as copy paper. Two or three of the flimsy sheets were usually inserted to cushion the rubber roller against impact from the keys— especially the extra impact of strike-overs to cover typographical errors. When electric typewriters came along they were hailed as the end to all improvements in writing equipment. The copy prepared by writers, however, still had to be re-typed by technicians before it could be printed.

Photographs for the Sheaf were taken with a Polaroid one-minute camera, mailed on the Winnipeg Flyer by 11 p.m. Monday evening to LaCrosse, WI, and the engravings made there were received in the mail for publication Wednesday morning, virtually without fail. In the 1960s at The Times, photos were taken with a 4x5 Graflex camera, negatives developed and prints made in the darkroom and engravings made in the shop on a rotary engraver. This primitive process was the high tech of the era.

Introduction of offset printing, whereby light metal plates with chemically developed images replaced the 120-pound solid metal page forms of the past, revolutionized the industry. Quality of the printed image was vastly improved, steps in the process were refined or eliminated and speed of production was dramatically increased.

We moved eagerly forward from the 4x5 camera, which utilized two sheets of film in a cumbersome holder, to size 120 roll film cameras and then to 35mm cameras. Smaller film sizes permitted less cumbersome cameras and additional exposures. We are now in the infancy of using digital camera equipment which uses no film at all.

As writers we presently prepare our stories on computers in column format, ready for reproduction and printing, and computer programs in the shop permit common use in advertising of type sizes, styles and illustrations which would have been looked upon as science fiction by compositors only a few years ago.

While changes in production continue to advance, a constant in journalism is still the people. Abilities of members of the staff make the paper what it is. I have been fortunate to work with some talented people over the years, but in total the present immediate news staff is as good as it gets.

Kathi Carlson, although she has no formal training in journalism and is relatively new to the staff, is an accomplished writer with an uncanny ability to recognize, draw out and describe the small but amazingly significant things about people and situations. If I asked her to do a feature on lime Jell-O she would do it and make it interesting. Only once in a very great while does someone come along who has the selfless compassion for people to observe and to write as she does. I will continue to read her stories for personal enjoyment—and try to condition myself not to look for something to edit.

Sports editor Mike Lundgren joined the staff fresh out of the radio announcing program at the local technical college. For more than a couple of decades he has been the consummate professional, requiring no supervision and sincerely dedicated to getting the job done well and in a timely manner. Sports coverage is a big part of our papers, and to be able to put it out of mind and know it will be done is a huge relief. His sense of humor and impromptu quips at morning coffee have given light starts to many days and lifted spirits beyond his realization.

Associate Editor Dave Hill, who has now assumed the duties of editor, will have his hands and his calendar full in an expanded role, especially until new reporter (and new mother) Liz Ott arrives on the job to help out. Dave is no stranger to deadlines and pressure and has proved he can stand up to both. For years he has done more than his share without complaint (well, with very little complaint) and has accepted increased responsibilities. He has paid his dues and deserves his shot at editing. Watch for some fresh looks in front page design and lay-out.

Kathi, Mike and Dave comprise a news staff that has made this job as easy as I could expect it to be. I think we have been a team whose members know their roles and pull their own weight. Only rarely have we held brief meetings to coordinate coverage of special events. Otherwise, we do our work and the paper comes out and we start over again on the next issue. Like most people, I don't say thank-you often enough. I want them to know that the lack of repetition is made up for by the volume of sincerity in my thanks for what they have done. And I wish them well as they continue to provide Times and Northern Watch readers with quality papers that people eagerly want to read.

There are many other employees in the office and shop who have also been a pleasure to be associated with for some time, and I expect to drop in frequently to keep in touch. After a 45-year addiction to the press, there are sure to be withdrawal symptoms that need treatment. A return visit with these people, who are friends as well as co-workers, probably will be the best possible prescription.

Back on the farm in my youth we used to gather around the battery radio as a family after chores on Sunday nights and listen to comedian Bob Hope. He always concluded his program with a catchy little song that had some special messages, but the main theme was one I would like to borrow to conclude this final editorial.

"Thanks for the memories."

NCTC volleyball team has impressive showing in win over Spartans

Mike Zachow didn't hold back on this one. The Northland Community and Technical College volleyball coach was elated with the Pioneers' showing in a 12-15, 15-13, 15-8, 17-15 Wednesday win at Fergus Falls and he wanted people to know about it.

"Outstanding," was his one-word description of the Pioneers' play "Once again, it was a total team effort. We played really well in every aspect of the game. It was probably the best overall match we've played all year."

The win lifted the Pioneers' overall record to 10-6. They are 4-3 in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division.

"I told the girls earlier in the season they were playing well, but that there was still room for improvement. Well, I think we made that improvement in this one. It was nice to get a conference road win – our first one."

Members of the Northland team include sophomores Erica McGeary, Sarah Hagen and Karie Johanning of Thief River Falls; Amie Kotrba and Kristin Halvorson, Goodridge; Jessica Johnson, Warroad; and Janne Schwarz, Silver Bay; along with freshmen Tammy Berbench, Brooks; Tami Johnson, Fosston; Sandy Brekke, Trail; Shelli Eriksen, Thief River Falls; Karis Flom, Orr; and Beth Burger, St. Thomas, ND.

Kathy Hinschle and Rhonda Lofberg serve as Zachow's assistant coaches.

Northland had weekend matches scheduled Friday at Hibbing and today (Saturday) at Rainy River. The Pioneers will be at home next weekend when they play Vermilion Friday at 6:30 p.m. before joining Mesabi Range and Providence College of Canada in the Northland Pepsi Triangular Saturday starting at 12-noon.

The Pioneers will finish their regular season road schedule with matches at Itasca (Oct. 13) and Providence College (Oct. 15), before ending with home matches vs. Fergus Falls (Oct. 18) and Central Lakes (Oct. 2).

Player of the Week award presented to Goodridge native Chris Grabowska

Chris Grabowska of Goodridge, a junior defensive lineman for the Northwestern College football team in St. Paul, was named the National Christian College Athletic Association Player of the Week for his efforts in a Sept. 18 game against Trinity College.

Grabowska had a career day with four sacks (for a minus-30 yards) and 14 tackles (eight of them for losses). He also forced a fumble late in the game that helped seal the Eagles' 21-14 win. With Grabowska leading the way, Northwestern held the Lions' rushing attack to a minus-17 yards for the day.

Three with Thief River Falls connections skate in fourth North Shore Inline Marathon

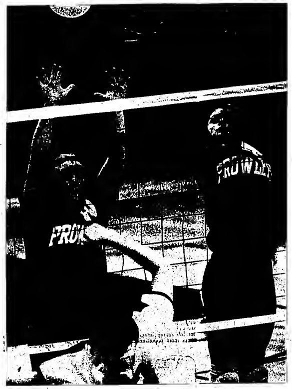
Three current or former Thief River Falls residents competed in the fourth annual North Shore Inline Marathon Saturday, Sept. 18.

The event covers the same course as Grandma's Marathon, 26.2 miles from Two Harbors to Duluth. A field of 3,036 skaters competed in pro, advanced, fitness and recreational divisions.

Troy Hanestad of Thief River Falls, along with former Thief River Falls residents Aaron Tofte and Todd Bergland, both now living in the Twin Cities area, competed in the Fitness Division.

Hanestad was clocked in 1:31:29 to finish 48th; Bergland came in at 1:38:04 to finish 184th; and Tofte had a 1:42:01 to finish 231st.

Volleyball tournament is scheduled at Newfolden



A six-team field is in place for the Marshall County Central Invitational high school volleyball tournament today (Saturday) in Newfolden.

Moorhead hitter Alisha Wendt got the ball past Thief River Falls defenders Teri Krogstad (left) and Kylie Rogalla on this play at the net during Tuesday's high school volleyball match in the Lincoln gym. The Spuds swept the Prowlers 15-5, 15-6, 15-5.

Moorhead rolls past Thief River Falls 3-0

Moorhead showed that records can be deceiving. The Spuds, just 5-5 heading into a Tuesday high school volleyball match against Thief River Falls, looked anything but a .500 team while sweeping the host Prowlers 15-5, 15-6, 15-5.

The Spuds' early-season split began with a 3-0 win over Fergus Falls that was followed by losses to Perham 3-0 and Sauk Rapids 3-2. They came back to beat Detroit Lakes 3-0 and posted impressive back-to-back 3-1 wins over Burnsville and Chaska. The trip to Thief River Falls was preceded by an appearance in the Apple Valley Invitational – recognized as the top regular season volleyball tournament in the state – where Moorhead lost successive matches to Eagan 2-0, Chaska 2-1 and Bloomington Jefferson 2-1 before beating Burnsville 2-0.

That's a lot of top-quality volleyball to start the year.

"They're a very, very good passing team," pointed out Thief River Falls co-head coach Bruce Jean. "When a team passes as well as they do, you know their hitters are going to get plenty of chances."

All three games in the Tuesday match were similar, with early sparring giving way to Moorhead runs.

Down 3-0 at the start of Game 1, Thief River Falls drew within 6-5 before being out-scored 9-0 the rest of the way. Lisa Petry found a hole in the middle of the Prowlers' defense for the 14th point, and a Thief River Falls spike that went into the net finished it.

Another fast start put Moorhead up 7-0 in Game 2. Again, Thief River Falls put together a brief comeback, with an ace by Ayla Donlin and a drive by Kylie Rogalla pulling the Prowlers within 7-5. But it was 13-5 before they got back on the board. The Spuds closed it out on a kill by Angie Erdmann and a block by Jennifer Lymburner.

Only Thief River Falls lead of the night came after the Prowlers spotted Moorhead a 2-0 head start in Game 3. Becky Bray drove the ball through a double-block for a 2-2 tie and Rogalla served an ace for a 3-2 edge. But a string of service points by Amber Abraham staked Moorhead to a 12-3 lead. A Kelli Wallace spike found the floor for a 14-3 game and a tap-back at the net by Jamie Jones ended play.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 9-8-1. "We made a lot of mental errors, especially in the back row, and our net play wasn't as good as it normally is," said Jean.

Bray led the Prowlers with 8 kills. Rachel Mathson had 5. Donlin picked up 11 assists.

"We played right with them the first two games," mentioned Jean, "but they got on a roll, and I think we had a letdown, mentally."

It was a sweep for the Spuds, who also won the junior varsity match 15-12, 16-14 and took the C squad contest 12-15, 15-4, 15-3.

Wolverines beat Wildcats

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke started strong, and held off Tri-County the rest of the night in winning a 15-7, 15-11, 16-14 Tuesday high school volleyball match at Karlstad.

"We came out strong in the first game," said Wolverines coach Jean Schulz, "but we didn't stay focused on volleyball."

It was a balanced attack that produced the win, with DaNae Wiseth and Natalee Holte both registering 6 kills and Heather Sunsdahl picking up 4. Kelsey Johnsrud finished with 17 assists.

Serving helped put points on the scoreboard for the winners, with Sunsdahl (5), Anna Anderson (5), Ashley Holthusen (4), and Mary Jensen (4) combining for 14 aces.

The win boosted the Wolverines to 5-6 heading into a Thursday match against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Detroit Lakes beats TRF freshman 38-8 Tuesday

Detroit Lakes was a 38-8 winner over Thief River Falls in freshman high school football Monday.

Darrin Momerak scored the touchdown and added the conversion run for the Thief River Falls points.

Pioneers finish regular season at Fergus Falls golf meet on Thursday

Northland wrapped up its regular season schedule Thursday with an appearance at the chilly Fergus Falls Community College Invitational golf tournament. A scheduled meet at Brainerd was weathered out Wednesday.

Central Lakes won the Fergus Falls meet with a 343, followed by Bismarck State at 355, Rochester 357, Northland 359, and Fergus Falls 372.

Barrett Gange of Bismarck was meet medalist with an 80. The Pioneers' scores included Justin Bahl with an 84, Pete Vachs 85, Jon Lee 92, and Jared Olafson 98.

The combination Minnesota Community College Conference and NJCAA national-qualifying Region 13 tournament will be played Monday and Tuesday at Mankato.

RLCC starts strong in a 3-0 sweep over Waubun

It was a 3-0 win, but outside of the first game, it wasn't a performance that pleased head coach Nancy Bray as Red Lake County Central beat Waubun 15-0, 15-13, 15-12 Thursday in Oklee.

"We played pretty well at the start, then we got sloppy," reported Bray, whose team followed the Game 1 shutout with a 12-4 second-game deficit before rallying for the win.

Amanda Spong had 11 kills and 15 service points for the Mustangs. She served nine points in the first game. Emily Brustad wound up with 20 assists.

The Mustangs are 12-5.

TRF Invitational to be run on Monday

Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational boys and girls high school cross country meet will be held Monday at the Thief River Golf Club.

The public is invited to watch meet, which will feature five races. It starts with the junior high girls at 4:30 p.m., followed in order by the junior high boys, junior varsity boys, varsity girls (at approximately 5:15 p.m.), and varsity boys.

Thief River Falls ran Thursday at the East Grand Forks Invitational, where the Prowlers were unable to field a complete girls team, but did come up with a middle-of-the-pack finish in the eight-team boys race.

The Prowlers had two top-20 finishes from the girls in Ashley Anderson and Janae Harlow, and had five boys grouped from 12th-to-22nd place – Seth Harlow, Dewey Worker, Brady Anderson, Zach Bosh, Jesse Sieh.

"I was pleased with everyone's effort," said Thief River Falls coach Chad Persons. "The girls' attitudes are exceptional considering not having our No. 1 runner (illness) and not being able to put a complete team together. Janae Harlow gave a great effort at the end."

Persons also had post-race praise for the other half of the Thief River Falls team. "I saw great improvement by the boys," he said. "On Monday (at Crookston), Badger/Greenbush-Middle River/Marshall County Central/Tri-County beat us by 15. Today we got them back by 5. Give a lot of credit to Brady Anderson, Zach Bosh and Jesse Sieh, who pack-ran, and moved up in the race. We also had strong performances from Seth Harlow and Dewey Worker."

The Wolverines won 15-7, 9-15, 16-14, 15-13.

"It was a pretty good match," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz. "We're two evenly-matched team. It was a good win for us."

Allison Johnson and Larissa Holm had 15 and 10 kills, respectively, for the Gators. Jessica Smith was a force on defense for the visitors with 7 blocks.

"It was a pretty close match," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian, "but I've been bragging about our serving lately, and then we come out and serve 78 percent!"

The Gators, pointed out Adrian, missed 10 serves in Game 4.

Sarah Peterson (13), Angie Reese (11) and Kelly Everson (10) all had a double-figure assist night for the Gators.

Both teams are at .500 for the year – 6-6 for the Wolverines; 8-8 for the Gators.

MCC vs. RLF

A first-game blow-out turned into a battle down the stretch Thursday as Marshall County Central beat Red Lake Falls 15-1, 12-15, 15-11, 15-9 at Newfolden.

"We did all the things we were supposed to do in the first game, but then we went into a sleep mode and never did wake up," said Marshall County Central coach Mark Jorgenson.

Kristi Kilen did have a big night for the Nordics with 29 kills and 8 ace blocks. "Kristi did a nice job for us," acknowledged Jorgenson.

Tera Davidson joined her in double figures in the kill department with 16. The two hitters benefitted from strong setting performances from Christa Hagen, Holly Augustine and Missy Jorgenson.

"We'll take a win any time, but we need to develop more consistency," mentioned Jorgenson, whose team is 9-3.

TRF sophomores split

Thief River Falls lost a 48-0 Monday game to Detroit Lakes, but beat Roseau 22-6 Thursday in sophomore high school football.

Mustangs turn tables on Nordics

First two games ended in identical 15-1 fashion Tuesday as Red Lake County Central squared off with Marshall County Central in a high school volleyball match played at Plummer. A blowout in the works? Not hardly. Instead of producing a 2-0 advantage, the one-sided scores wound up as a scoreboard split.

The unusual turnaround led to a 3-1 win for the host Mustangs, who took Game 3 by a 15-8 margin and overcame an 11-9 deficit to finish with a 15-11 victory.

"The first two games were carbon copies of each other," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Mark Jorgenson. "We started the first game with a kill from our middle hitter, then an ace, and they did the same thing in the second game. It was just amazing."

Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray was at a loss to explain the about-face. "I really don't know what happened," she said. "Kristi Kilen killed us with her hitting in the first game, so we moved our blockers in. That seemed to help, and we came alive. We seemed to pick up a little, and they started having same trouble."

Results put the Mustangs at 11-5 and the Nordics at 8-3 heading into Thursday matches for both teams.

"We did a few things right, but we could have reacted a little better when it came to facing adversity," explained Jorgenson. "Both teams were hitting well, but they did a better job setting things up. It gave them more opportunities to make the plays."

Kilen led the Nordics' attack at the net, and Alicia Halvorson came off the bench to pick up the Marshall County Central defense, according to Jorgenson.

Kelsey Lundeen had 10 kills to lead a balanced Red Lake County Central attack that also featured Heather Schiefert with 7 kills, Sylvia Hilgeman and Amanda Spong with 6 each. Emily Brustad wound up with 17 assists.

Serving was also a strong part of the Mustangs' efforts, noted Bray. Hilgeman and Becky Reinbold had four aces each, with Reinbold collecting 14 service points for the night.

NCTC team earns honors

An announcement was made recently that the 1998-99 women's basketball team at Northland Community and Technical College has been honored for its academic achievements by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association.

Northland was named to the WBCA honor roll, designed to recognize the nation's top 25 team grade point averages.

The Pioneers achieved the fifth highest grade point average from among all junior and community college women's basketball programs in the nation last winter, with their 3.332 GPA topping all Minnesota schools.

Members of the Northland squad included sophomores Jenny Johnson of Goodridge and Becky Perreault of Red Lake Falls, along with freshmen Katie Block, Baudette; Amber Carpenter and Jessica Johnson, Warroad; Miki Waterworth, Viking; Rachel Blazejewski, Strandquist; and Shanna Keskitalo, New York Mills.

"I am very proud of the academic and athletic achievements of this team," said Northland head coach Mike Zachow. "We set high standards for our student-athletes, and it's great to seem them receive such hard-earned recognition."

Individually, Johnson and Perreault were named academic all-state during the off-season. They will be presented with their awards during a Northland home game this winter.

Frank Phillips College of Borger, TX, led the national team GPA listing with a 3.439 figure, followed by Miles Community College of Miles City, MT, 3.390; San Joaquin Delta Community College of Stockton, CA, 3.380; and Salt Lake Community College of Salt Lake City, UT, 3.366.

THE LYON'S SHARE by Tim Lyon

No Place Like Home

The twister invaded the serenity of the Kansas plain with an abruptness that surprised even the most seasoned of flatland dwellers. Dorothy and her dust mop companion of a dog, Toto, absorbed in the heat of competition in the Mid-American Largemouth Bass Classic, failed to heed even the most basic of warning signs.

As she reached back to fire her tandem spinner blade bait deep into another patch of lily pads, the funnel sucked the pair up, bass boat and all. Whirling and gyrating higher and higher into the angry vortex, Dorothy was struck on the head by the spinning blades of her now airborne five-bladed stainless steel propeller.

Confused thoughts of her childhood mixed with fantasies of tournament fishing success as the young angler lost consciousness and crumpled into the bottom of her boat, exploding the styrofoam cooler that had doubled as a lunch bucket and tackle box. The girl lay still amongst the tangle of bucktails and plastic worms.

The twister, unrelenting in its intensity, continued to bore northward for miles and miles, transporting Dorothy and her embarrassingly small dog far away from the enjoyable simplicity of their Midwestern fishing derby. When the pair finally plunked down with a rude splash, it was in a land as wonderful and strange as Dorothy had ever imagined.

"Where are we, Toto?" Dorothy asked as she struggled to regain her footing and clear her clouded head. "This is one of the most beautiful places I've ever seen. I don't think we're in Kansas any more, Toto."

Toto yipped annoyingly and agreeably (a quality that only owners of small lap dogs seem to appreciate) as Dorothy gathered a clearer picture of the vista around her, a vista filled with water and wildlife. Innumerable ducks and geese flew overhead, deer wandered the shorelines and fish rolled through the calm surface waters on a seemingly constant basis.

People in a cluster of boats fishing a far shoreline drew the curiosity of the young angler. She dropped down the electric bow mount and trolled her way into their midst. One of them was dressed like a scarecrow and smiled agreeably as the Kansas pair passed, inviting conversation.

"Where are we and what are you doing?" she inquired politely.

"You're in the middle of the Rainy River and we're fishing in the first annual Rainy River Walleye Tournament," responded the Scarecrow with an imbecilic nod of his head, causing a large fluff of straw to fall out of his ear and drift northward on the current.

"Darn!" he remarked as the fodder floated beyond reach of his net. "There goes my next fishing spot."

"I'm a good fisherman," offered the girl, "how 'bout if I pick the spots for you? That steep bank across the way looks good. Why not try there?"

"I'd love to," responded Hay-Brain, "but that's the American side and we can only fish on this shore. Unless, of course, we possess a license for that side and an I-68 to cross to there on a remote basis, then we could fish both sides. Of course, we would then need to purchase an RABC to re-enter this half of the river to weigh in our fish at the end of the day."

The Scarecrow illustrated his point by crossing his arms and pointing his fingers to the opposing banks.

"So, if someone had the money to purchase these things," suggested Dorothy, "they would have the advantage of fishing the entire river and therefore stand a better chance of winning the tournament?"

"Well, not really. You see, if a participant stays in Canada, he's not obliged to purchase the Crown Camping Permit that enables him to keep two fish on this side. That's a savings of almost $25 per man."

"I see," said Dorothy, "but how do you actually know where the boundary is and how far into either side you can cast?"

Just then, as if in answer to her quandry, an Ontario Provincial Police boat sped by, its occupants busily throwing out bread crumbs in an effort to mark the center line of the Rainy.

"I think they've got the wrong story," suggested Dorothy. "Shouldn't they be doing Hansel and Gretel?"

"Well, it was the only biologically sound method of marking the international border during this tournament. The seagulls love it. Those guys are throwing crumbs into this river at the rate of about 237 loaves per hour!"

"So, as you said a moment ago, the goal is to catch the two biggest walleyes, right?" asked an increasingly confused Dorothy.

"Oh, no; that's only if you have a camping permit which entitles each two-man team to four fish while the rest of the Canadian based teams can get five fish apiece. The American teams have to sneak over to the U.S. half of the river and catch one extra fish, making sure that it is under 18 inches, unless of course they have not yet caught their two over 18 in which case they can take another big one. Then they bring the five fish back to the landing on the Canadian side where they weigh in and everyone looks the other way as if no Lacey Act violation had just occurred. You see?"

"What's with this length limit thing again?" whined a now thoroughly perplexed Dorothy.

"Simple," replied the Scarecrow. "Each contestant can only have one fish over 18 inches, which is not to be confused with the Minnesota law of only one over 19 inches. Then the quest is for the three fish closest to, but not exceeding, 18 inches."

"Let me get this straight," blurted out an exasperated Dorothy. "You pay all this cash, jump through all these bureaucratic hoops, and try to digest a set of laws so complex that the average fisherman wouldn't be able to read them, much less understand them—all that to participate in a contest that, essentially, challenges the finest walleye anglers in the world to catch the most average fish possible?"

"Yup," nodded the agreeable Scarecrow, dislodging another chunk of his quickly disappearing straw brain. "It all makes perfect sense to me."

"Now I know we're not in Kansas any more, Toto. Let's go find a balloon."

GAME, FISH & ENFORCEMENT

by Mike Ramstorf
MN Conservation Officer

by Michael Ramstorf

Fall is here, which is the time of year every hunter waits for. Time is spent cleaning guns, training dogs, building stands, and breaking out the camo or blaze orange clothes. But how much time is spent on finding out who owns what, when it comes to hunting land? Each fall, thousands of hunters take to the woods, fields, and waters in pursuit of wild game. Some hunters have private land, while others hunt on public lands, but it's still amazing the amount of trespass calls that come in each fall.

Trespass is the most frequent complaint landowners have against hunters. Not only is trespassing illegal, but it can ruin the reputation of hunters and jeopardize the future of hunting.

It's not only hunters, any "Outdoor Recreation" activity can lead to trespassing.

Here's some problems I've seen in the field:

- People entering legally posted land, saying "I didn't see the signs" trespassing on agricultural land—remember, ag land does not need to be posted, that includes pastures, CRP, and meadows
- People staying on private land, after being asked to leave by the owner
- Hunters shooting within 500 feet of an occupied dwelling or livestock corral—this is clearly a safety issue and makes hunters look really "trigger happy"

I would also like to point out, that land can be legally posted without having signs visible. Let me give you an example: Landowner John Doe posts his 80 acre woods on August 1st, 1999. Hunter Billy B. Rotten tears down the signs on September 20th, 1999. Then, hunter C.Z. Buck attempts to hunt the land in November of 1999 and is legally trespassing even though the signs are gone. Private property only needs to be posted once each year, which in the above scenario, leaves John Doe's land legally posted until August 1st, 2000. If you don't know, don't go!!

Page 9-11 of the 1999 Hunting and Trapping Regulations explains in more detail.

Tips to avoid trespassing:

1) Buy a plat book—saves a lot of time and guesswork.

2) Just Ask!! You may get "turned down", but it's better than "turned in"

3) Present yourself as a responsible and ethical hunter when asking to hunt.

4) Plan your hunt, hunt your plan—don't be rushed or in a hurry.

5) Don't Road Hunt—There's a lot of good public areas, get off the roads and find them.

6) Apologize and leave, If a landowner asks you to. Their land, their right.

Not all landowners are hunters, but most of them vote—Let's make a good impression!!

Q: If my son or daughter has a youth antlerless permit, can he/she still party hunt?

A: Yes, they can party hunt. However, no one else can shoot their antlerless deer for them.

The tag is designed to increase the odds for a young hunter to bag a deer, not to fill the hunting party's freezers.

Summary Judgement granted

con-con lands."

The summary judgement concludes that "The DNR's attempt to not pay their assessment based upon their interpretation of this section will interfere with the operation of Ditch 83. The DNR's assessment constitutes a majority of the $1.8 million total cost. Without this money the repair to Ditch 83 cannot occur as each landowner's share will be increased pro rata by the amount originally assessed by the DNR. Most if not all landowners will be incapable of paying this amount."

Comments

Chuck Fritz, Red Lake Watershed Administrator, said he wasn't really surprised by the decision. When he said he read the law, he said it sounded straight forward.

Fritz said the DNR has 60 days to appeal the matter. If they appeal, he said, the board will have to decide whether to keep spending money or find an alternative.

Fritz was referring to a mediation process already in the works. He explained that the state was looking at each permit request individually, but as a result of a perception that there was a cumulative impact by these projects, a moratorium was placed on all flood reduction efforts. The state was sued by the Red River Basin Watershed, and as a result a new agreement was created. That agreement, entitled the Red River Basin Flood Damage Reduction Work Group Agreement, was signed in December of 1998. This created several work groups to address problems. Fritz said the premise was to include all of the involved parties in the work groups and once an agreement was reached, permits would be a forgone conclusion.

On May 12 a work group was established to look at the Thief River. Their objective is to reach a consensus on solutions for flood damage reduction and natural resource goals. Members of the "Thief River Watershed Work Group" include: Dave Bennett of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Wally Byklum of the Soil and Water Conservation District, Brian Dwight of the Board of Water and Soil Resources, Loiell Dyrud, landowner and homeowner, Delray Larson, Marshall County Commissioner, Mike MacDonald of Crookston, Stacy Martin, landowner-petitioner, Chuck Meyer, Red Lake Band of Chippewa, Cheryl Miller, National Audubon Society, Leonard Moe, RLWD-Marshall County, Dale Nelson, RLWD-Pennington county, Bruce Paakh, MPCA, Tony Rader, landowner, Tom Raster, U.S. Army Corp of Engineers, Arlo Rude, City of Thief River Falls, Lowell Smeby, RLWD-Beltrami County, Trent Stanley, landowner, and Paul Telander, DNR.

Fritz said this group is close to a consensus. This summary judgement, he said, has put some additional pressure on the group to complete agreement. The agreement, so far, includes dry diversions and impoundments.

Fritz said he is impressed with the group, which has met 12 times so far. Never, in his life, he said, has he been involved with a group where all of the participants show up for every meeting and are so committed.

Storhaug and Bergland

including a smaller, two-day job in the area which will coincide with the deer hunting season.

While they will keep roofing and working through the winter, Tim has plans to do some coaching, assisting with the hockey program in Fergus Falls, and Jeff would like to do the same if time permits.

The roofing job at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village is a big undertaking and will take several more days. While the weather certainly could have been a bit more agreeable, the elements are part of the making-a-living game the duo has chosen. What they can count on and look forward to, however, thanks to their Thief River Falls families, are the great meals that Gail faithfully delivers and the comforts of "home" at the end of the work day.

While retaining their boyish good looks and charm, the twosome, whose friendship began nearly three decades ago on the hockey rink, continues to enjoy working side by side with their biggest difference appearing to be the mere five days that separate them in age.

"We're just a couple of honest guys," Jeff Storhaug says, and he and Tim Bergland are just that — a couple of honest guys who, together, enjoy the game of life which includes an honest day's work.

Expectant parent classes at NWMC

The fall session of expectant parent classes of Northwest Medical Center will begin on Monday, October 4 at 7 p.m. in the B1-B2 classroom.

The classes are designed for those in their first six months of pregnancy and will provide information for parents-to-be that will promote healthy babies and mothers and get the new family off to a good start. The free classes will be held on five consecutive Monday evenings.

Grandparents-to-be are invited to attend the November 4 session at 7 p.m. They will find out what's new in childbirth, tour the Northwest Medical Center birthing area and discover how important they are as grandparents.

Evadell Tangquist, RN, patient education coordinator at NWMC, will be the instructor for all of the classes. For more information or to register, call Evadell at 683-4446.

Search conducted at local schools

have been put on it and the student's parents contacted. Hunt said there is a procedure in place for handling these situations. From that point, they would have begun an investigation. There is no presumption of guilt even if something had been found in the locker because officers and staff say they realize that there are many reasons why or how something could have been placed in the locker.

Thief River Falls Police Officer Craig Mattson deters crime and sends a strong message. He said that when students see the dog and officers searching in the hallways, word gets out pretty quick, and probably stops a lot of activity before it has a chance to happen.

Hunt said the bottom line is that we don't want any illegal substances in the school.

Magnum, Pennington County's canine officer, sniffs at lockers during a search conducted at the direction of Lincoln High School administrators. The officer with Magnum is his handler, Pennington County Sheriff's Deputy Terry Bayne. The search, one of several unannounced searches to be conducted yearly, did not yield any illegal substances.

doesn't happen.

Over the years Marv and I have spent many weekend and weekday morning together solving the world's problems in a cold, wet duck boat or in a swamp waiting for a duck or goose to fly over. For those who don't know him as well, Marv hunts with the same intensity he has exhibited editing copy - careful, precise and compassionate.

Having grown up in an area where duck hunting consisted of jump shooting over stock dams, I had never experienced "real" waterfowl hunting. So in my first year in Thief River Falls, Marv and his son Mark, invited me to go hunting with them. I remember stepping out of the warm truck that morning and into another world - a world of cattails and grass higher than my head, water nearly to the top of my waders, and poor footing made more unsteady by the mud and a shifting bog. It must have been a cloudy morning because there wasn't a star in the sky. It didn't make any difference to me. I've never been good with directions, so I had no idea where we were or what direction we were headed. I remember being confused and a little scared when I turned to Marv and asked, "where have you taken me?" I feel a little like that now.

Instead of struggling any further with goodbyes, I'll just say good luck with those interesting projects you'll finally be able to tackle. I'm sure your days of retirement will be busy, but I hope you'll be able to take a couple mornings off to go hunting.

Community Hospice volunteer training to be held October 5

Community Hospice in Crookston will hold a volunteer training session beginning Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 6 p.m. in the classroom at Riverview Healthcare Assn.

Training will cover many topics and assist individuals in preparing for a volunteer role in care of the terminally ill patient which is the purpose of the program. Individuals may attend the training and, after completing it, decide if they wish to volunteer. Many have found the training helpful in dealing with care-giving and grief experiences.

Three additional sessions will be held on Thurs., Oct. 7, Tues., Oct. 12 and Thurs., Oct. 14. The $10 registration fee will cover the cost of educational materials and snacks for the sessions. All sessions will be held in the classroom and will last three hours. Three continuing education credits will be available for each session, and partial participation will be welcome.

Community Hospice is a Medicare certified hospice program owned and operated by Riverview Healthcare Assn.

For more information or to register, call (218) 281-9478 or 1-800-743-6551, ext. 478.

Jam session at Embassy Center

Country music enthusiasts are invited to attend the monthly jam session on Sunday, Oct. 3 beginning at 1 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston.

Individuals and small groups will perform in the afternoon with a jam session following the 5 p.m. potluck supper.

Human rights rep visits Moorhead

A Spanish-speaking representative of the Minnesota Department of Human Rights will be at the Clay County Family Service Center at 715-11th Street North in Moorhead from 1 to 4 p.m. October 6 and 9 to 3 p.m. October 7.

Appointments may be made by calling Vicki Olivo at 651-296-5678.

Technical assistance is available to any employer, landlord, school, business or organization needing information about the Human Rights Act. Individuals who have questions or believe they may have been discriminated against in violation of the Act can visit the representative for information and assistance.

VA community flu vaccination clinics canceled

Community flu immunization clinics scheduled by the Veterans Administration Medical Centers for Grand Forks, ND, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Bemidji for October 4-7 have been canceled.

Cancelation is due to the VA's failure to receive the necessary quality assurance release from the manufacturer of the flu vaccine, thereby causing the FDA to delay distribution of the vaccine to VA medical centers.

It is planned to reschedule the vaccination clinics later in October or in early November.

Summary Judgement granted

con-con lands."

The summary judgement concludes that "The DNR's attempt to not pay their assessment based upon their interpretation of this section will interfere with the operation of Ditch 83. The DNR's assessment constitutes a majority of the $1.8 million total cost. Without this money the repair to Ditch 83 cannot occur as each landowner's share will be increased pro rata by the amount originally assessed by the DNR. Most if not all landowners will be incapable of paying this amount."

Comments

Chuck Fritz, Red Lake Watershed Administrator, said he wasn't really surprised by the decision. When he said he read the law, he said it sounded straight forward.

Fritz said the DNR has 60 days to appeal the matter. If they appeal, he said, the board will have to decide whether to keep spending money or find an alternative.

Fritz was referring to a mediation process already in the works. He explained that the state was looking at each permit request individually, but as a result of a perception that there was a cumulative impact by these projects, a moratorium was placed on all flood reduction efforts. The state was sued by the Red River Basin Watershed, and as a result a new agreement was created. That agreement, entitled the Red River Basin Flood Damage Reduction Work Group Agreement, was signed in December of 1998. This created several work groups to address problems. Fritz said the premise was to include all of the involved parties in the work groups and once an agreement was reached, permits would be a forgone conclusion.

On May 12 a work group was established to look at the Thief River. Their objective is to reach a consensus on solutions for flood damage reduction and natural resource goals. Members of the "Thief River Watershed Work Group" include: Dave Bennett of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Wally Byklum of the Soil and Water Conservation District, Brian Dwight of the Board of Water and Soil Resources, Lowell Dyrud, landowner and homeowner, Delray Larson, Marshall County Commissioner, Mike MacDonald of Crookston, Stacy Martin, landowner-petitioner, Chuck Meyer, Red Lake Band of Chippewa, Cheryl Miller, National Audubon Society, Leonard Moe, RLWD-Marshall County, Dale Nelson, RLWD-Pennington county, Bruce Paakh, MPCA, Tony Roder, landowner, Tom Raster, U.S. Army Corp of Engineers, Arlo Rude, City of Thief River Falls, Lowell Smeby, RLWD-Beltrami County, Trent Stanley, landowner, and Paul Telander, DNR.

Fritz said this group is close to a consensus. This summary judgement, he said, has put some additional pressure on the group to complete agreement. The agreement, so far, includes dry diversions and impoundments.

Fritz said he is impressed with the group, which has met 12 times so far. Never, in his life, he said, has he been involved with a group where all of the participants show up for every meeting and are so committed.

Storhaug and Bergland

including a smaller, two-day job in the area which will coincide with the deer hunting season.

While they will keep roofing and working through the winter, Tim has plans to do some coaching, assisting with the hockey program in Fergus Falls, and Jeff would like to do the same if time permits.

The roofing job at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village is a big undertaking and will take several more days. While the weather certainly could have been a bit more agreeable, the elements are part of the making-a-living game the duo has chosen. What they can count on and look forward to, however, thanks to their Thief River Falls families, are the great meals that Gail faithfully delivers and the comforts of "home" at the end of the work day.

While retaining their boyish good looks and charm, the twosome, whose friendship began nearly three decades ago on the hockey rink, continues to enjoy working side by side with their biggest difference appearing to be the mere five days that separate them in age.

"We're just a couple of honest guys," Jeff Storhaug says, and he and Tim Bergland are just that — a couple of honest guys who, together, enjoy the game of life which includes an honest day's work.

Expectant parent classes at NWMC

The fall session of expectant parent classes of Northwest Medical Center will begin on Monday, October 4 at 7 p.m. in the B1-B2 classroom.

The classes are designed for those in their first six months of pregnancy and will provide information for parents-to-be that will promote healthy babies and mothers and get the new family off to a good start. The free classes will be held on five consecutive Monday evenings.

Grandparents-to-be are invited to attend the November 4 session at 7 p.m. They will find out what's new in childbirth, tour the Northwest Medical Center birthing area and discover how important they are as grandparents.

Evadell Tangquist, RN, patient education coordinator at NWMC, will be the instructor for all of the classes. For more information or to register, call Evadell at 683-4446.

Search conducted at local schools

have been put on it and the student's parents contacted. Hunt said there is a procedure in place for handling these situations. From that point, they would have begun an investigation. There is no presumption of guilt even if something had been found in the locker because officers and staff say they realize that there are many reasons why or how something could have been placed in the locker.

Thief River Falls Police Officer Craig Mattson deters crime and sends a strong message. He said that when students see the dog and officers searching in the hallways, word gets out pretty quick, and probably stops a lot of activity before it has a chance to happen.

Hunt said the bottom line is that we don't want any illegal substances in the school.

doesn't happen.

Over the years Marv and I have spent many weekend and weekday mornings together solving the world's problems in a cold, wet duck boat or in a swamp waiting for a duck or goose to fly over. For those who don't know him as well, Marv hunts with the same intensity he has exhibited editing copy - careful, precise and compassionate.

Having grown up in an area where duck hunting consisted of jump shooting over stock dams, I had never experienced "real" waterfowl hunting. So in my first year in Thief River Falls, Marv and his son Mark, invited me to go hunting with them. I remember stepping out of the warm truck that morning and into another world - a world of cattails and grass higher than my head, water nearly to the top of my waders, and poor footing made more unsteady by the mud and a shifting bog. It must have been a cloudy morning because there wasn't a star in the sky. It didn't make any difference to me. I've never been good with directions, so I had no idea where we were or what direction we were headed. I remember being confused and a little scared when I turned to Marv and asked, "where have you taken me?"

I feel a little like that now.

Instead of struggling any further with goodbyes, I'll just say good luck with those interesting projects you'll finally be able to tackle. I'm sure your days of retirement will be busy, but I hope you'll be able to take a couple mornings off to go hunting.

Community Hospice volunteer training to be held October 5

Community Hospice in Crookston will hold a volunteer training session beginning Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 6 p.m. in the classroom at Riverview Healthcare Assn.

Training will cover many topics and assist individuals in preparing for a volunteer role in care of the terminally ill patient which is the purpose of the program. Individuals may attend the training and, after completing it, decide if they wish to volunteer. Many have found the training helpful in dealing with care-giving and grief experiences.

Three additional sessions will be held on Thurs., Oct. 7, Tues., Oct. 12 and Thurs., Oct. 14. The $10 registration fee will cover the cost of educational materials and snacks for the sessions. All sessions will be held in the classroom and will last three hours. Three continuing education credits will be available for each session, and partial participation will be welcome.

Community Hospice is a Medicare certified hospice program owned and operated by Riverview Healthcare Assn.

For more information or to register, call (218) 281-9478 or 1-800-743-6551, ext. 478.

Jam session at Embassy Center

Country music enthusiasts are invited to attend the monthly jam session on Sunday, Oct. 3 beginning at 1 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston.

Individuals and small groups will perform in the afternoon with a jam session following the 5 p.m. potluck supper.

VA community flu vaccination clinics canceled

Community flu immunization clinics scheduled by the Veterans Administration Medical Centers for Grand Forks, ND, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Bemidji for October 4-7 have been canceled.

Cancellation is due to the VA's failure to receive the necessary quality assurance release from the manufacturer of the flu vaccine, thereby causing the FDA to delay distribution of the vaccine to VA medical centers.

It is planned to reschedule the vaccination clinics later in October or in early November.

Arctic Cat ends personal watercraft line

Arctic Cat, Thief River Falls, has announced that it is exiting its personal watercraft line of business effective September 30, 1999. The Company expects to record a pre-tax charge of approximately $26 million related to the discontinuation of its Tigershark line of personal watercraft. These charges include the cost of closing down the production line, and supporting its dealers in selling their remaining personal watercraft inventory and continuing to service their personal watercraft customers.

Christopher Twomey, Arctic Cat president and CEO, said "We entered this business in 1993 during a time of rapid industry growth, however, in 1995, after only two years in the business, personal watercraft North American sales peaked at approximately 210,000 units and have declined in each of the last four years to about 110,000 units this model year. While we are uncertain how far the industry will continue to decline, at existing levels this is not a profitable market for Arctic Cat or its dealers. Because of the shrinking market many of our personal watercraft dealers have already left the business and more have indicated they intend to leave in the not-to-distant future."

Twomey added, "This decision will strengthen Arctic Cat as we refocus management time and the Company's significant financial resources on our profitable and strong snowmobile business and profitable and rapidly growing ATV product line. With over $90 million in cash and no debt, we are in a strong position to grow our existing businesses and, as previously announced, will look for profitable products to add to our business mix.

Twomey said they haven't defined a market product, but has hired strategic advisors to look at and for businesses that complement Arctic Cat.

Despite plans to get out of the personal watercraft business, Twomey said Arctic Cat plans to continue to sell and manufacture parts for the personal watercraft. They will also continue to honor warranties and provide service.

"Arctic Cat means, we take care of our customers. That's the brand promise," Twomey said.

For people who are accustomed to providing recreational equipment and doing it well, and not accustomed to giving up, this was a difficult decision. Twomey said the decision was a business decision.

Twomey said financial advisors congratulated him on making this difficult decision because it puts Arctic Cat in a stronger position. Four percent of 1999 Fiscal Year revenue came from personal watercraft. Now all the effort financial resources that went into supporting personal watercraft will go into the snowmobile and ATV business.

"This has been a challenging business (personal watercraft) especially with the numerous external threats such as emission regulations, as well as noise and use restrictions. This year, our new 1100Di personal watercraft exceeded emission level reduction requirements and for a second year in a row we were able to significantly reduce product noise levels. However, even with these exciting achievements we do not believe this industry will see significant growth in the near future and therefore further investment cannot be justified."

"Our personal watercraft field inventory is at its lowest level since we entered the business in 1993, which will minimize the financial impact of this action on the company and our dealers," said Twomey. "In fact, we expect to remain profitable this fiscal year despite the charges associated with this decision. In addition, we expect only minimal workforce reductions as most personal

Flu shots

Petro Pumper in Thief River Falls is one of the few businesses in the area that provides, as a health benefit, annual flu shots for its employees. Above, Nancy Garszewski receives a flu shot from Anita Cardinal. Flu shots are being provided during the next two weeks. In Pennington county, Inter-County Nursing will be holding flu shot clinics October 16 at its office on 318 North Knight, Thief River Falls, the Heritage Community Center on October 14, the Goodridge Senior Center on October 18, and at its office on October 20 and 27. Regional library finds new home

Northwest Regional Library office in Thief River Falls is moving to a new office in downtown Thief River Falls. Currently located in the Thief River Falls Public Library, the move to the downtown LaBree location, will free up space for the public library and provide more space for the regional library staff.

Barb Kalinoski, Northwest Regional Library director, explained that she has been looking for additional space for the regional library for about 10 years. At first she looked at moving into sharing space with other governmental agencies, but that didn't work. Then she looked at places to rent, but when the building on LaBree Avenue, formerly occupied by the Olin Law Office, came up for sale, the price was right. Kalinoski said ideally, the regional library should be located within the public library, but the public library and the regional library need more space. The regional library in Thief River Falls will not be the only regional library not located within a public library. Kalinoski noted that there are several that aren't located within a public library.

The regional library consists of six staff and the bookmobile. Kalinoski said although articles, videos and books pass through the regional library on their way to other locations via the Bookmobile, customers don't visit the regional library. The regional library is, more or less, a clearinghouse, or an office. Customers place their orders by making a telephone call to their local library, or by placing an order on the automated catalog. Books, videos and articles come from all over and arrive daily at the regional library office. Because of the need to process books, videos and articles quickly, and the volume of materials passing through the office daily, the regional library does require a considerable amount of space.

Kalinoski said she's excited about the move, but the regional library is not expected to move into its new quarters until sometime in December. Kalinoski pointed to a pile of color swatches and floor plans, and said the office has to be made handicapped accessible, and renovation needs to be completed before they can move in to the office.

Northwest Regional Library serves Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake and Kittson counties. Its primary method of delivery is the Bookmobile. Between September 1999 and June 2000, the Bookmobile can be found in the following communities on the following days:

Tuesday - (October 5 and 19, November 2, 16 and 30, December 14, and 28, January 11 and 25, February 8 and 22, March 7 and 21, April 4 and 18, and May 2, 16 and 30) at Plummer school between 9 and 10:30 a.m., Brooks between 10:45 and 11:30, Oklee (downtown) between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., and Oklee school between 1:30 and 2:30 p.m.

Agassiz Wildlife Refuge does the Wild Thing

National Wildlife Refuges within the United States Fish and Wildlife Service are celebrating National Wildlife Refuge Week from October 10-16.

National Wildlife Refuge Week 1999 is the fifth annual celebration leading up to the System's 100th anniversary in the year 2003. A flying blue goose symbol represents the National Wildlife Refuge System. All national wildlife refuge boundary signs have the blue goose symbol placed on them.

In addition to being open during regular office hours during the week of October 10-16, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge will have the office door open on Sunday, October 10 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dennis Hunt from Detroit Lakes, will present a progrom on goose hunting from 11:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Hunt is one of the premiere goose hunters, seminar speakers, and author of five goose hunting books. His progrom topic is titled "Goose Hunting — Doing It The Right Way."

After the program, videos on the National Wildlife Refuge System and the 1999 U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service "Status of Waterfowl" 20 minute waterfowl survey video will be shown. This annual North American waterfowl survey is one of the oldest and most comprehensive in the world. Waterfowl breeding population numbers, wetland habitat conditions, fall flight forecast and history of the Service's waterfowl survey are all explained in the video.

In recognition of National Wildlife Refuge Week posters and bookmarkers will be distributed at the refuge office. This year's poster and bookmarker display a desert scene. Posters and bookmarkers were a joint project of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Audubon Society and the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation.

Brats, hot dogs, potato chips and refreshments will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., or until the food is gone. Food and refreshments are provided by the Agassiz Audubon Society, Warren. All activities will be in the office building at Refuge headquarters.

The National Wildlife Refuge System is the only one of its kind in the world, dedicated specifically to wildlife and habitat conservation. Since the establishment of the first national wildlife refuge, Pelican Island in Florida, established in 1903 by President Theodore Roosevelt, the National Wildlife Refuge System has expanded

Bagley - Bowling history was made in Bagley recently when Jim Wynne Jr. of Bemidji rolled a high series of 804 on September 23 and Harlow Spears of Redlake bowled his second 300 game of 1999 on September 28.

According to Bowl Inn owner Cal Steindl, thousands of 300 games are bowled in the United States every year, but mere hundreds of 800-plus series are bowled in a year. Wynne's series was the second 800-plus series ever bowled in Bagley. Farmers Independent

Roseau youth promises haircut

Roseau - Last week, 17-year-old Gavin Johnson purchased a five-gallon water jug and took it to school with him. As students dropped coins into the container, Gavin assured them that once the jug was full, he would cut his shoulder-length hair.

Soon, the half-full jug weighed 80 pounds and instead of carrying it, the youth began pulling it on his skateboard. The money Gavin raises will be used for a youth church trip to Tennessee next summer. Roseau Times-Region

Agassiz Wildlife Refuge does the Wild Thing

National Wildlife Refuges within the United States Fish and Wildlife Service are celebrating National Wildlife Refuge Week from October 10-16.

National Wildlife Refuge Week 1999 is the fifth annual celebration leading up to the System's 100th anniversary in the year 2003. A flying blue goose symbol represents the National Wildlife Refuge System. All national wildlife refuge boundary signs have the blue goose symbol placed on them.

In addition to being open during regular office hours during the week of October 10-16, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge will have the office door open on Sunday, October 10 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dennis Hunt from Detroit Lakes, will present a program on goose hunting from 11:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Hunt is one of the premiere goose hunters, seminar speakers, and author of five goose hunting books. His program topic is titled "Goose Hunting — Doing It The Right Way."

After the program, videos on the National Wildlife Refuge System and the 1999 U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service "Status of Waterfowl" 20 minute waterfowl survey video will be shown. This annual North American waterfowl survey is one of the oldest and most comprehensive in the world. Waterfowl breeding population numbers, wetland habitat conditions, fall flight forecast and history of the Service's waterfowl survey are all explained in the video.

In recognition of National Wildlife Refuge Week posters and bookmarkers will be distributed at the refuge office. This year's poster and bookmarker display a desert scene. Posters and bookmarkers were a joint project of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Audubon Society and the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation.

Brats, hot dogs, potato chips and refreshments will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., or until the food is gone. Food and refreshments are provided by the Agassiz Audubon Society, Warren. All activities will be in the office building at Refuge headquarters.

The National Wildlife Refuge System is the only one of its kind in the world, dedicated specifically to wildlife and habitat conservation. Since the establishment of the first national wildlife refuge, Pelican Island in Florida, established in 1903 by President Theodore Roosevelt, the National Wildlife Refuge System has expanded

He's the editor...

by Kuthl Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

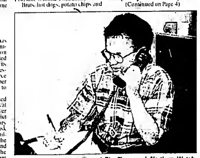
After participating in the Twin Cities Marathon on Sunday, October 2, Dave Hill returned to Thief River Falls Monday to begin his first full week as editor of The Times and Northern Watch.

For those of you who don't know a whole lot about our new editor, we'll fill you in on some of his background.

After growing up in Rapid City, SD, Dave attended Concordia College in Moorhead. He graduated in 1982 with a Bachelor of Arts with a major in history/political science and minors in English with writing emphasis, and business administration. In 1982-83, Dave attended Hamline School of Law in St. Paul before returning to Moorhead where he obtained a degree in print journalism at Moorhead State University in 1985.

While in school, he worked at Target in Fargo and was involved with the student newspaper at MSU. Dave began his employment at The Times in Thief River Falls in 1985 and was named its associate editor in 1987.

At The Times, he's done everything that reporters and editors do including editing, layout, general reporting, writing feature stories and editorials. His regular duties have been covering law enforcement, district court, city council, the school and county boards, and taking photographs at every imaginable community event.



In 1987 and 1991, Dave created readership surveys for The Times and in 1991, he worked on the newspaper's re-design. He has also participated in several Minnesota Newspaper Association workshops.

Through the years, Dave has been involved in a number of community organizations, serving on the Thief River Falls Area United Way board for two terms and as its president in 1995. He was also president of the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors in 1990 and a member of the committee from 1985 to 1992.

Other involvement has included the Minnesota Olympic Festival Torch Run committee, Thief River Falls Project 2000, School District 564 Community Education advisory board, Chemical Awareness Task Force and DARE advisory board. He has also been a member of the Thief River Falls Swim Club, and since 1989 participated in The Times Pension Investment Committee.

Currently, Dave is a member of OVERWHELMING!

No other word could describe my feelings about the outpouring of congratulations, well wishers, calls, letters, visits, cards, flowers and gifts received regarding my retirement as Editor of The Times and Northern Watch. I am both gratified and humbled by the multitude of kind comments I have received.

My sincerest thanks to those who participated in the dinner for Times' employees, their spouses, special guests and my family Thursday evening, and to the many who attended the open house reception Friday at Trinity Lutheran church. My special thanks to my wife Jan, our daughters Lori and Jeri, son Mark, sons-in-law, Steve Schwartz and Arne Espeseth and daughter-in-law Janelle Lundin for hosting the open house.

For 48 years I made my living with words and now, when I need them, I can't find any adequate to express the depth and magnitude of my appreciation. Let me simply say THANK YOU, THANK YOU, one and all for doing what you did, saying what you said and being who you are.

–Mary Lundin

Agassiz Wildlife Refuge does the Wild Thing

to 516 refuges. Total acreage of the National Wildlife Refuge System is more than 92 million acres. Size of refuges vary from the 0.5 acre Mille Lacs NWR on Mille Lacs Lake in Minnesota to the 20 million acre Yukon Flats NWR in Alaska.

Since the celebration of the 500th refuge established in West Virginia in 1994, every state in the nation has a national wildlife refuge. The mission of the refuge system is "to provide, preserve, restore, and manage a national network of lands and waters sufficient in size, diversity, and location to meet society's needs for areas where the widest possible spectrum of benefits associated with wildlife and wildlands is enhanced and made available.

Through the establishment of national wildlife refuges, a diversity of habitats have been acquired, protected, restored, and managed for the enhancement of wildlife and the continuing benefit of the American people. Most refuges are located along the four major north-south waterfowl migration flyways. Other refuges serve as sanctuaries for endangered species or for other species requiring unique habitat.

National Wildlife Refuge Week is timed to coincide with the annual fall waterfowl migration, so millions of birds are sure to fly in to most refuges in the lower 48 states on their way south. With a North American fall forecast of 105 million ducks migrating south bird-watching should be at its best. Ducks and Canada geese will be most abundant and visible from Marshall County road 7 and township roads adjacent to the refuge boundary at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

At the recent Waterfowl Expo held at the refuge, the following won door prizes: Tina Wagner of Grand Forks, Warren Sloe of Roseau, Michelle Frank of Karlstad, Wayne Bratang of Roseau, Peter Ringerud of Fargo, and Eric Bergman of Norwalk, IA.

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge is located 23 miles northeast of Thief River Falls, between Holt and Grygla. If additional information is needed please call 218-449-4115, extension 214. For additional information on National Wildlife Refuge Week and a brochure with a complete map of the refuge system and basic visitor's information for every refuge, call 1-800-344-WILD or visit the Internet home page at http://refuges.fws.gov.

He's the editor...

the local boards of the Salvation Army and American Cancer Society and was awarded the cancer society's William T. Harris award in communications for 1997-98.

In addition to participating in marathons and other running events, Dave enjoys swimming, downhill and cross-country skiing, hunting, fishing, travel and music. His Thief River Falls family includes "Custer," a chocolate Labrador retriever, and "Lucy," a black Labrador retriever.

Dave returned to Thief River Falls pleased with his performance in last Sunday's marathon, losing only eight seconds in his finishing time from last year. After all, he says he's a year older (he's 39) and five pounds heavier — perhaps too many stops at the Dairy Queen with his fellow running club members.

In actuality, as Dave participated in the marathon, he had a whole lot more on his mind this year as the new editor of The Times and Northern Watch, but was able, for 3 hours and 8.23 seconds, to concentrate on the task at hand.

His co-workers, who question why anyone would want to run that far, know that he will bring that same discipline to his new position at the newspaper and do an excellent job. We're all eager, too, to do whatever we can to make his job transition easier and pleasant.

Dave mentioned a while back that his mom, after hearing that be had accepted the editor's position, had asked if there would be a "formal" announcement. Knowing that he's not one to "blow his own horn," it didn't surprise this reporter to hear that his response to her was, "Don't worry about it, Mom..."

In that light, I dedicate this story to Mrs. Hill who, in my opinion, can be very proud of her son.

Undoubtedly, there will be changes at The Times and Northern Watch under Dave's leadership, and while change can sometimes be hard to get used to, it can be a very positive thing.

Knowing that a publication reflects the personality and character of its editor, we believe that "our" newspaper is in very good hands.

If you have the opportunity, stop by The Times office and get to know Editor Dave Hill. That's if you can catch him. Those fleet feet will be running around Thief River Falls and the Northern Watch area a good part of the time, catching the news and stories of the community.

Karlstad man killed in one-vehicle accident

Derek Brock Jacobson, 21, Karlstad, was killed in a one-vehicle accident Wednesday, October 6. A second person in the vehicle, James John Lund, 22, Karlstad, was taken to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls where he was treated and released.

Kittson County Sheriff's department responded to the one-vehicle rollover on County road 14 at about 12:15 a.m. on Wednesday, October 6. The accident happened about one mile south of Karlstad. When officers arrived, Jacobson, 21, was dead at the scene, and the other occupant, Lund, 22, was transported by Tri-County Ambulance to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

According to the accident report, the vehicle left the roadway and came to rest on its top, landing in a gravel pit.

The Minnesota State Patrol is assisting the Sheriff's office with the investigation.

TRF man hurt in one-vehicle accident Wednesday

Charles Turner, route 2, Thief River Falls, remains in fair to good condition at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls following an accident on the south edge of Red Lake Falls on Wednesday, October 6.

According to the Minnesota State Patrol, at about 5 a.m. on October 6 a truck driver alerted authorities that there was a man laying on the edge of the road. Upon arrival, authorities found Turner and he was transported to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. Turner is believed to have been an occupant in a OMC pickup that was found at the bottom of a ditch. According to the State Patrol, the vehicle had been traveling north on Highway 32 when it missed the curve and went into the ditch. The pickup is considered a total loss.

The accident remains under investigation.

Children taken to hospital after accident Wed.

A 14-year-old girl from Brooks faces charges in juvenile intake following an accident Wednesday on Red Lake County road 26. The 14-year-old girl and two passengers from Plummer, a 12-year-old girl and a 10-year-old boy, also were taken to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls, where they were treated for their injuries and released.

Red Lake County Sheriff's department received a report of the accident at about 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 6. According to the accident report, the 14-year-old girl was driving a 1990 Oldsmobile west on County road 26 in Red Lake county when she lost control of the vehicle and it overturned in a ditch. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $3,000. The accident remains under investigation by the Red Lake County Sheriff's department. Charges are pending against the owner of the vehicle.

Arctic Cat ends personal watercraft line

watercraft employees will have the opportunity to join other parts of the company."

Twomey said the decision to exit the personal watercraft business and the reasons for this decision has been shared with employees. Twomey said, "we cannot punish them for a decision that will strengthen the company down the road."

Of the employees working in the personal watercraft business for Arctic Cat, jobs can be offered to all but eight. Twomey said Arctic Cat is sensitive to the fact that this will have a big impact on those eight employees. They will be offering them a severance package and their assistance.

For the other employees, the decision will have little impact. Twomey said profit sharing bonuses, shared every year with employees, will be based on profits before the charge. Bottom line, he said, it will not affect bonuses. Due to the charge, however, employee layoffs during normal shutdowns will be a little longer.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

A little soup, a little bread, a tangy treat and you'll have a great meal.

Try this fresh, healthy soup on one of these cool fall days:

HARVEST CHICKEN SOUP
3 medium onions
3 chicken breast halves with bones, skinned
4 cups water
3 celery ribs, halved
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 (14 1/2 ounce) can diced tomatoes with liquid
3 medium carrots, thinly sliced
4 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
1 small zucchini, halved and thinly sliced
1 cup frozen peas
1 avocado, peeled and sliced

Chop one onion and set aside.

Quarter the other two onions and place in Dutch oven with chicken, water, celery, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer 2 hours or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken and set aside. Discard celery and onion.

To broth, add tomatoes, carrots, bouillon and chopped onion. Cover and simmer 30 minutes or until carrots are tender.

Debone and cube chicken. Add to soup with zucchini and peas. Cover and simmer 10 minutes or until zucchini is tender. Spoon into bowls. Garnish with avocado.

If a quick soup is called for, this microwave soup is the one to make:

MICROWAVE CLAM CHOWDER
4 bacon strips, cut into 1/2 inch pieces
2 (6 1/2 ounces each) cans chopped clams
1 1/2 cups diced, peeled raw potatoes, about 2 medium
1/3 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk (divided)
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper
1 teaspoon butter or margarine
Minced fresh parsley

In covered 2 quart micro-safe dish, cook bacon on high for 4-5 minutes or until crisp. Remove to drain.

Drain clam juice into the drippings and stir in potatoes and onion. Cover and cook on high for 8-10 minutes or until potatoes are tender, stirring once or twice.

Stir flour into 1/4 cup of the milk, then add to potato mixture. Stir in salt, pepper and remaining milk. Cover and cook on medium for 6 minutes, stirring once or twice. Let stand 3-5 minutes.

Stir in clams and butter. Garnish with bacon and parsley. (Makes 1 quart, serves 4.)

What better accompaniment for soup than home-made rolls – there's no kneading in this recipe – but start them the night before you need them:

ICEBOX BUTTERHORNS
1 package active dry yeast
2 tablespoons warm water (110 to 115 degrees)
2 cups warm milk
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
6 cups flour
3/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
Additional melted butter

In large bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Add milk, sugar, egg, salt and 3 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Beat in butter and remaining flour (dough will be slightly sticky). DO NOT KNEAD.

Place in greased bowl. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Punch dough down and divide in half.

On floured surface, roll each half into a 12 inch circle. Cut each circle into 12 pie shaped wedges. Beginning at the wide edge, roll up each wedge.

Place rolls, point side down, 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until golden brown. Immediately brush tops with melted butter. (Makes 2 dozen rolls.)

And then something tangy and sweet to top off your meal – this is a large recipe, so half it if necessary:

PISTACHIO AMBROSIA
2 (17 ounces each) cans fruit cocktail
2 (20 ounces each) cans pineapple chunks
2 (11 ounces each) cans mandarin oranges
4 (3.4 ounces each) packages instant pistachio pudding mix
2 (16 ounces total) cups sour cream
1 (12 ounce) carton frozen whipped topping, thawed
Chopped pecans, optional

Drain fruit cocktail, pineapple and oranges, reserving 3 cups juice. Set fruit aside and pour juice into a 4 quart bowl.

Add pudding mix to juice and mix smooth. Stir in sour cream. Add whipped topping and mix until smooth. Fold in fruit. Chill for several hours. Top with pecans just before serving, if desired. (Serves 16-20.)

Local newspapers: no end in sight

by David Hill, Editor

Looking through area newspapers this week, I wasn't surprised to discover a wide variety of stories. As might be expected, fall events were the general theme, but there was much, much more in these local newspapers.

In addition to homecomings, the farm crisis, and the harvest, there were stories about births, deaths, families, outstanding students, senseless crime, accidents, taxes - change.

Year in and year out, the employees of these newspapers, and employees of The Times and Northern Watch, work hard to bring you the news and happenings of our communities. They provide a forum for the good, the bad, the just and not so just. They provide as one reader said, an opportunity to "just vent".

They also help readers with recipes and directions, and provide important information that helps readers make informed decisions. In a small weekly newspaper, the news is much more personal. Many of you know the people who work in your local newspaper. They are your neighbors, and friends. You'll see them at church and your grocery stores, and restaurants. Quite often, you know them by their first name and wave to them as they walk down the street. They work hard to make sure your stories are shared with the rest of the community. Because they do, in a very real way, you might say, the people who work at local newspapers, and the newspapers they work for, define a community.

Will there be a local newspaper in the future? As long as there are communities, there will be newspapers.

Weekly newspapers offer sense of community

by Vicki Simons

(Editor's note: This week is National Newspaper Week, the purpose of which is to build the image of newspapers as a vital and vigorous news medium in the past, present and future as our industry uses all the changing technology to remain the leading gatherer, editor and dispenser of news in this nation. The theme for this week is "Newspapers: Carrying the Torch of Freedom into the New Millennium." I offer this guest editorial as an example of why weekly newspapers, like The Times and Northern Watch, are vital to our community.)

Amid all the talk of international markets and a global village, Americans are defining a new social trend as they seek to become closer to their communities, increasingly involved in local activities, more interested in knowing about their neighbors.

We witness this in the growth of community organizations and the expanded involvement of people in schools and neighborhood groups. And we can quantify this trend in the dynamic growth of community newspaper and their increasingly dominant role.

Jock Lauterer, a professor of journalism at Pennsylvania State University, contends that "People's urgent need for community" is the driving force behind the enormous growth of community newspapers — a dramatic 63 percent increase in circulation of weeklies during a 10-year period when circulation of daily newspapers was flat.

Community newspapers satisfy this urgent need because they are fundamentally different from other print or broadcast media. As Professor Lauterer points out, "At community newspapers, news is not events happening to jurors. News is people . . . and how the changing world affects their everyday lives."

As a result, community newspapers are blossoming. More than 85 percent of daily newspapers in the United States have circulations under 50,000, and there are more than 8,400 weeklies across the country, reaching more than 79 million households. "Ours is a country dominated by small newspapers, most of which are community newspapers," Professor Lauterer observes.

"How to Build Strong Home Towns," a report in the February issue of "American Demographics", describes the common trails of "thriving small towns" and "the most civic cities." The key factors are all attested by a strong community newspaper, underscoring their community-building role.

Whether exposing the actions of politicians, interpreting and analyzing complicated subjects, explaining bond issues, describing development proposals or translating tax increases, the community newspaper is crucial to keeping people informed on the issues that most directly affect them.

At the core of community newspapers' success is the effective packaging of news, features and commentary, sports and activities, and advertising — all from a local perspective.

Professionalism is what binds the package together.

While many decry the demise of American journalism by pointing to the rise of tabloid television and online "news" from anyone with a Web site, those accustomed to the professionalism of most community newspapers know that good journalism is alive and well in their own backyard.

Rather than the O.J. Simpson-Menendez brothers sensationalism or certain network programs, or the "if-it-bleeds-it-leads" approach to many local news broadcasts, community newspapers offer serious, professional reporting on important local issues: from school taxes and the quality of local education, proposed developments and their impact on the community to such social issues as drugs, welfare and public health.

From Amherst to Amityville, this quality-driven growth of weekly newspapers is evident across New York state. Continuous circulation growth, the launching of new publications and Web sites, and their increasing importance to life in the community underscore the vital role community newspapers have in the week-to-week life of New Yorkers.

This is no mere happenstance.

In most cases, ownership is local. Publishers and editors live in the communities they serve, socialize with their neighbors/readers, are involved with community organizations, and patronize the commercial establishments that advertise in their publications.

New York's community newspapers reflect a marvelous diversity. They come in different sizes, formats and graphic designs, but all have shared values and a common overarching objective: to serve their community, and serve it well.

These communities may be geographic, such as Chittenango, Chatham or Cheektowaga. They may be ethnic, such as the Korean, Greek or Caribbean communities of New York City, or they may be demographic or thematic: senior citizens or a region's business community. Each community has region's business community. Each community has distinct characteristics, and the newspapers that serve them understand this and respond accordingly.

The impact of community newspapers in New York is also growing. The more than 350 newspapers represented by the New York Press Association collectively serve more than 11 million readers. Every week, community newspapers land on the desks of decision makers, including those in congressional and state legislative offices. They keep legislators in touch with what is happening at home.

Governor Pataki, commenting on the voter approval of the Clean Water/Clean Air Bond Act, pointed to New York's weekly newspapers as a "wonderful means of reaching out to the public."

As we rush toward the 21st century, the consistency and comfort of a community newspaper will grow only more important. Amid our evolving Information Age — of satellite dishes and wireless cable offering television programs of innumerable variety; of Internet exchanges with the world; of digital telephones, CD-roms and sophisticated software — there will be an increasingly urgent need to read about local taxes and government actions; local quality-of-life isues sueh as crime, education, health care and social services; local business and economic development.

As long as there are communities, there will be community newspapers to keep people informed, involved and connected.

(Simons is editor of The Indepent, a community newspaper in Hillsdale serving Columbio and southern Rensselaer counties. She also is president of the New York Press Association, an Albany-based organization of more than 350 community newspapes founded in 1853. She was the 1998 recipient of NNA's Emma C. McKinney Award, and was president of NYPA in 1997.)

Local newspapers: no end in sight

by David Hill, Editor

Looking through area newspapers this week, I wasn't surprised to discover a wide variety of stories. As might be expected, fall events were the general theme, but there was much, much more in these local newspapers.

In addition to homecomings, the farm crisis, and the harvest, there were stories about births, deaths, families, outstanding students, senseless crime, accidents, taxes - change.

Year in and year out, the employees of these newspapers, and employees of The Times and Northern Watch, work hard to bring you the news and happenings of our communities. They provide a forum for the good, the bad, the just and not so just. They provide as one reader said, an opportunity to "just vent".

They also help readers with recipes and directions, and provide important information that helps readers make informed decisions. In a small weekly newspaper, the news is much more personal. Many of you know the people who work in your local newspaper. They are your neighbors, and friends. You'll see them at church and your grocery stores and restaurants. Quite often, you know them by their first name and wave to them as they walk down the street. They work hard to make sure your stories are shared with the rest of the community. Because they do, in a very real way, you might say, the people who work at local newspapers, and the newspapers they work for, define a community.

Will there be a local newspaper in the future? As long as there are communities, there will be newspapers.

Weekly newspapers offer sense of community

(Editor's note: This week is National Newspaper Week, the purpose of which is to build the image of newspapers as a vital and virgorous news medium in the past, present and future as our industry uses all the changing technology to remain the leading gatherer, editor and dispenser of news in this nation. Evolutionary Advantages

Grouse aren't very smart. Such earth shaking wisdom is certainly not news to anyone who has picked up a 12-gauge and walked down a logging road in the fall. Any creature that can do such a good job at remaining concealed for nine months out of the year, only to make their existence so mortally obvious just when the season for killing them opens, can't be moving quickly up any evolutionary ladder. At least the stegosaurus, with his "walnut-sized" brain, had the Darwinian sense to develop large, bony plates along his spine and four imposing tail spikes with which to ward off the attacks of larger predators. Several million years of potentially adaptive time later, what has the grouse done in terms of self-defense-dabbed a few colors on here and there and perfected a head twisting quizzical stare to be employed each time a shotgun is waved in his direction? Would Darwin consider "pity" an acceptable survival tactic?

Which brings us to the much ballyhooed "Grouse Hunting with a 4-Wheeler" issue. Apparently a large portion of the hunting and non-hunting world doesn't see an ATV as a necessity for pursuing grouse. I must admit, it does seem like technological overkill to use a mechanized vehicle in pursuit of quarry that can be subdued with a long stick or a well-cleaned window pane. Yet, there is a solid basis for use for the machine.

Again, grouse aren't very smart. Like many other birds, grouse have an impressive view of what's around them. That is, they see things in general, egocentric tones with little regard for important specifics. For example, like those giant, oversized goose decoys in which a hunter can actually sit, amidst a bunch of other normal-sized decoys, and wait for geese to land around him– the geese don't see anything odd about a gargantuan honker, they simply see the generalities of the whole picture, just a bunch of friendly geese. The flock lands and the hunter jumps up and yells "Aha!" and six or eight geese drop dead of either fright or embarrassment at being fooled by such a ridiculous set-up.

Grouse, similarly, see a big picture that is derived from their own, somewhat limited, perspective of the world. They don't see a hunter with a gun on a 4-wheeler, rather they see a giant grouse coming down the trail and that steady "thump, thump, thump" of the gas engine reminds the bird of the distant memories of spring courtship when grouse in search of a partner filled the woods with the steady "thump, thump, thump" of drumming. Never mind that mating season is either six months ahead or six months behind, this is a sound that these birds like. Grouse will not only not flush in the presence of a thumping 4-wheeler, they will actually be attracted to it.

The seasoned hunter will use this effect to his advantage, letting the 4-wheeler idle while carefully removing his shotgun from its case, loading it, and walking the appropriate, legal distance into the woods. The grouse, unable to contain an inherent sense of passionate curiosity will eventually walk up to inspect his large, drumming brethren at which point the hunter jumps out of the woods and yells "Aha!" The bird, as mentioned above, is not very smart, and still unaware of the deadly game that is transpiring, will simply twist his head to one side quizzically at which point the hunter is obliged to throw a stick at it to make it fly onto a nearby tree branch. The hunter then raises his gun, takes careful aim, shoots the branch out from under the bird and, while the bird is toppling awkwardly earthward to a most certain, neck-breaking fate, a second shot is fired into the grouse, thereby establishing an ethical "in the air" kill. The hunter, having satisfied his primal, hunter-gatherer instincts, then shuts of the thumping 4-wheeler and soaks in the deathly silence of the woods around him, becoming one with nature. Trust me, it's a rush.

I've never had the opportunity to hunt stegosauri, but given the relative body to brain size, I imagine that similar tactics to grouse hunting could be employed. However, taking into account the huge mass of bony-plated, tail-spiked lizard that would be amorously approaching your 4-wheeler, I suggest that you simply shoot first and save the jumping out of the woods and yelling "Aha!" part for later.

Habitat improvements such as prairie and wetland restoration have been done at the Refuge. Visitor highlights include a network of trails that have been developed, allowing visitors access to outdoor enjoyment.

Seven miles of trails have been developed. Three miles of trails are paved for better accessibility. Trails can be used for wildlife observation, photography, and other uses. Hiking, bicycling, and roller blades are allowed on the trails, but pets are not.

Other visitor services such as checking out binoculars or snowshoes in the winter are available. A birding checklist for the Rydell Refuge, posters and free handouts are available at the Visitors Center on a variety of natural resource topics including hummingbirds, bluebirds, bats and bird feeding. A variety of displays are also featured at the Visitors Center.

Everyone is welcome to come out this weekend for some final fall colors, or watch and listen to the geese and other waterfowl migrating through the area or enjoy other natural wonders. Refreshments will be served at the Visitors Center to help fuel your fire for an afternoon outing.

To get to the Rydell Refuge, go 3 miles east of Mentor or 3 miles west of Erskine on U.S. Highway 2 and turn south on Polk Co. 210 about 2.5 miles to the Refuge entrance sign and main gate. Annual ground water conference is set for Oct. 13-15 in St. Paul

The 44th Annual Midwest Ground Water Conference will be held at the Ramada Inn and Convention Center St. Paul on Oct. 13-15.

The conference will provide a forum for ground water professionals from state, local and federal government, along with their counterparts in the private sector, to share approaches to solving ground water management problems, and to exchange the results of field and laboratory work. This year, as in recent years, a group with particular interest in monitoring networks will meet in association with the conference.

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is the host agency this year. Co-sponsors are the Minnesota Department of Health, U.S. Geological Survey, Minnesota Geological Survey, Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources, and the Metropolitan Council.

The conference, held each year at the invitation of a Midwestern state, has continued for 44 years without a formal organizational structure. The conference is hosted each year by a different state. Minnesota last hosted the conference in 1985. Next year's conference will be hosted by Ohio.

All conference information is available on the DNR Waters web site at http://www.dnr.state.mn.us/water/. For more information, contact Conference Chair Sarah Tufford at 651-297-2431, or send e-mail to her at sarah.tufford@dnr.state.mn.us.

GAME, FISH & ENFORCEMENT

by Mike Ramstorf
MN Conservation Officer

Saturday was the Waterfowl opener for Minnesota. Reports from many other areas were poor. Several Conservation Officers, one as close as the Fosston area said it was the worst they had seen.

At Thief Lake, where I spent most of my time working, success was fair. A report, compiled by the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area Headquarters, showed that over the two day weekend, 542 hunters, harvested 1.51 ducks per hunter per day. How does one harvest 1.51 ducks you may ask? Managers and volunteers do game checks at access points to determine what type and how many waterfowl are being harvested. They accomplish this by dividing the estimated harvest by the number of hunters.

A mixed bag of ducks were seen. Red heads, and ring necks were most common, with mallards and wigeon 3rd and 4th. Hunters are reminded, with last Wednesday's waterfowl count showing approx 3,200 redheads on the lake, hunters must take caution. The limit on redheads is two per day. Again, duck identification is an important, and fun part of hunting. The staff at Thief Lake WMA encourage hunters to stop in and look at the info they have. This includes a wing board showing the various types of fowl that is seen in the area.

Bow hunters are also getting serious. The recent cold weather and frost took care of the bugs and is also working on the leaves. I've seen several nice bucks in my travel. Most of them have been near some public land. In this area, where public land is plentiful, a good spot to hunt requires only a little scouting time and plat book or map.

Again, over the weekend I spoke with a landowner that had some goose hunters trespassing. Please respect signs and remember Ag land does not have to be posted.

Also, take a minute before you go afield and check your equipment for safety and legality. Shotguns must not be capable of holding more than 3 shells for waterfowl hunting. Sign your duck stamps and check your hunting coat for lead shot left by the last grouse hunt. And above all, think safety.

Finally, just because the "take a kid hunting" events are over doesn't mean your responsibility is. Grab a kid, neighbor or relative, and hit the woods, this fall weather is not going to last, snow and cold weather is just around the corner. Remember, a busy kid doesn't look for trouble. Introduce someone to a great fall tradition.

Dr. Val Farmer to speak in Greenbush

What does a recovering alcoholic cowboy in Montana, a Florida teacher with a "bully" in her classroom and a North Dakota woman transplanted from city to farm have in common? They all have a special Val Farmer newspaper column that they carry with them for advice and comfort.

Dr. Val Farmer, a psychologist, writer and speaker, brings professional experience to his work in helping people help themselves through difficult times. Dr. Farmer, upon the invitation of the Badger-Greenbush-Middle River Ministerium, will be speaking at Bethel Lutheran Church in Greenbush on Tuesday, October 19 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

His presentation, "Farm Stress: From Main Street to the Kitchen Table" will provide tools to help our communities cope with the stress and loss of the present farm crisis.

The AgriTalk radio talk show network features Dr. Farmer as its Monday guest. A popular conference speaker, he has also appeared on "Good Morning America" and many PBS TV and radio programs in North and South Dakota. His writings have appeared in many area newspapers and farm journals.

Dr. Farmer presently has a part-time clinical practice with MeritCare Health System in Fargo and Valley City.

There is no charge for the evening thanks to grants from the Aid Association for Lutherans, the Knights of Columbus of the Greenbush Council, the Joerger Catholic Foundation, and Lutheran Brotherhood-North Star Branch 8676.

Annual ground water conference is set for Oct. 13-15 in St. Paul

The 44th Annual Midwest Ground Water Conference will be held at the Ramada Inn and Convention Center St. Paul on Oct. 13-15.

The conference will provide a forum for ground water professionals from state, local and federal government, along with their counterparts in the private sector, to share approaches to solving ground water management problems, and to exchange the results of field and laboratory work. This year, as in recent years, a group with particular interest in monitoring networks will meet in association with the conference.

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is the host agency this year. Co-sponsors are the Minnesota Department of Health, U.S. Geological Survey, Minnesota Geological Survey, Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources, and the Metropolitan Council.

The conference, held each year at the invitation of a Midwestern state, has continued for 44 years without a formal organizational structure. The conference is hosted each year by a different state. Minnesota last hosted the conference in 1985. Next year's conference will be hosted by Ohio.

All conference information is available on the DNR Waters web site at http://www.dnr.state.mn.us/water/. For more information, contact Conference Chair Sarah Tufford at 651-297-2431, or send e-mail to her at sarah.tufford@dnr.state.mn.us.

GAME, FISH & ENFORCEMENT

by Mike Ramstorf
MN Conservation Officer

Saturday was the Waterfowl opener for Minnesota. Reports from many other areas were poor. Several Conservation Officers, one as close as the Fosston area said it was the worst they had seen.

At Thief Lake, where I spent most of my time working, success was fair. A report, compiled by the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area Headquarters, showed that over the two day weekend, 542 hunters, harvested 1.51 ducks per hunter per day. How does one harvest 1.51 ducks you may ask? Managers and volunteers do game checks at access points to determine what type and how many waterfowl are being harvested. They accomplish this by dividing the estimated harvest by the number of hunters.

A mixed bag of ducks were seen. Red heads, and ring necks were most common, with mallards and wigeon 3rd and 4th. Hunters are reminded, with last Wednesday's waterfowl count showing approx 3,200 redheads on the lake, hunters must take caution. The limit on redheads is two per day. Again, duck identification is an important, and fun part of hunting. The staff at Thief Lake WMA encourage hunters to stop in and look at the info they have. This includes a wing board showing the various types of fowl that is seen in the area.

Bow hunters are also getting serious. The recent cold weather and frost took care of the bugs and is also working on the leaves. I've seen several nice bucks in my travel. Most of them have been near some public land. In this area, where public land is plentiful, a good spot to hunt requires only a little scouting time and plat book or map.

Again, over the weekend I spoke with a landowner that had some goose hunters trespassing. Please respect signs and remember Ag land does not have to be posted.

Also, take a minute before you go afield and check your equipment for safety and legality. Shotguns must not be capable of holding more than 3 shells for waterfowl hunting. Sign your duck stamps and check your hunting coat for lead shot left by the last grouse hunt. And above all, think safety.

Finally, just because the "take a kid hunting" events are over doesn't mean your responsibility is. Grab a kid, neighbor or relative, and hit the woods, this fall weather is not going to last, snow and cold weather is just around the corner. Remember, a busy kid doesn't look for trouble. Introduce someone to a great fall tradition.

Dr. Val Farmer to speak in Greenbush

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Prowlers stop Green Wave rally

Amy Roche admitted wondering if history was going to repeat itself Tuesday when East Grand Forks threatened to duplicate a come-from-behind effort that had netted the Green Wave a 3-2 high school volleyball win at Thief River Falls three weeks earlier.

This time the Prowlers held on, winning the rematch on the Green Wave court 15-7, 15-2, 12-15, 15-11.

Roche, the Thief River Falls co-head coach along with Bruce Jean, was more than a little worried as the Green Wave followed that second-game win with 5-0 and 7-2 leads in Game 4.

"We were a little concerned that it was happening again," said Roche. "We started out strong in the first two games, but the third game got away from us. And they (Green Wave) had the momentum in the fourth game. We started to fall apart."

But those volleyball runs are fickle. The Prowlers managed to regain their composure, mentioned Roche, and took advantage of Green Wave mistakes down the stretch to complete the four-game win.

Rachel Mathson and Becky Bray provided the Prowlers with a strong 1-2 attack by recording 24 and 23 kills, respectively. Bray also had four service aces. Ayla Donlin collected 31 assists.

"We made some mistakes, but overall, I thought we played pretty well," said Roche.

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 11-9-1.

TRF swimmers lose at Fosston

A return trip to Fosston didn't produce the same kind of results for the Thief River Falls girls, who lost a 59-35 high school swim dual to the Fosston/Bagley/Clearbrook-Gonvick cooperative.

The previous Saturday the Prowlers, on the strength of final-race scoring, edged the host team 315-314 to win the Fosston/Bagley/Clearbrook-Gonvick Invitational.

"A rough meet," reported Thief River Falls coach Mary Helen Houlihan, whose team saw its dual meet record slip to 6-3.

However, despite the loss, the Prowlers did get "excellent swims," said Houlihan, from Tiffany Sorenson, Michelle Johnson, Chelsea Haviland, and the 400 freestyle relay team.

Haviland set pool records with a 57.12 in the 100 freestyle and a 2:23.50 in the 200 individual medley, where she broke her own mark set Saturday. The sophomore doesn't get a chance to do what she does best – dive – at the Fosston pool. She is the defending Class A state diving champion.

Sorenson (1:18.30 in the 100 breaststroke) and Johnson (1:16.80 in the 100 butterfly) both had personal-best times.

The 400 freestyle relay team of Julie Chrzanowski, Kristin Naplin, Andi Sorvig, and Havilund also turned in a season-best 3:59.02 that bettered their Saturday pool record clocking, but still didn't produce Tuesday win.

Fosston/Bagley/Clearbrook-Gonvick also won the junior varsity portion of the meet, 49-45.

Slow start doesn't stop RLCC

Getting thumped in Game 1 is not the way you want to start. But for Red Lake County Central, it was no reason to panic. The Mustangs, who have been there, done that, turned things around and finished with a 5-15, 15-6, 15-9, 15-13 high school volleyball win over Crookston Tuesday at Plummer.

Just a week earlier on the same court, Red Lake County Central lost a 15-0 first-game decision and came back to beat Marshall County Central 3-1. So five early service aces that helped stake Crookston to a 14-0 match-opening start didn't worry the Mustangs, according to head coach Nancy Bray.

"Our passing wasn't very good, and we served only 75 percent in the first game," explained Bray. "But they (Mustangs) just forgot about it as soon as it was done. They knew they could come back; they've done it before."

Red Lake County Central took control in Games 2 and 3, then wiped out a 13-10 fourth-game deficit with a 5-0 scoreboard run to finish off the Pirates.

"We started moving and hitting," noted Bray, whose team won for the fourth straight time to go 13-5 for the year.

Becky Reinbold helped get the Mustangs' offense going with 19 service points. Reinbold, Emily Brustad and Amanda Spong each had three service aces.

Heather Schiefert led the Red Lake County Central attack with 21 kills. Spong had 11. Brustad picked up 27 assists.

Gators beaten by Bears

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River stayed with Lake of the Woods in the first game, but couldn't keep pace through the rest of the night in a 15-10, 15-4, 15-3 Tuesday high school volleyball win for the visiting Bears.

The first game was tied at 7-7, 8-8 and 9-9 before Lake of the Woods pulled it out. The Bears then dominated in Games 2 and 3.

"We started out strong," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian. "We were playing right with them. But then somebody flipped the switch."

Adrian said the Gators played well defensively against Heather Hanson, limiting the Bears' standout to 10 kills. "But we couldn't get the side-outs," she explained, "so we didn't get to the service line."

Nordics' passing is downfall in 3-1 loss at hands of Roseau

Marshall County Central played a solid match against a strong Roseau team Tuesday, but it was not a complete package, and the missing pieces cost the Nordics in a 3-1 high school volleyball loss at Newfolden.

The Rams lost Game 1 and erased an 11-7 deficit in Game 4 to win 13-15, 15-3, 15-7, 15-11.

"The first and last games were very good games for us," reported Marshall County Central coach Mark Jorgenson. "We played really good, aggressive volleyball. We did some nice things on the court."

However, problems with serve receive proved to be the Nordics' downfall, especially in the middle of the match.

"The disappointing part of the match was our passing," noted Jorgenson. "Overall, we didn't play too bad, but we did not serve receive very well. We did a good job hitting – when we got the ball up to the net. It all starts with passing. If you can't do that..."

Kristi Kilen (14 kills) and Tera Davidson (11) put pressure on the Roseau defense. But the Rams countered with 19 service aces.

"We came back and did a nice job in the fourth game, but we didn't finish it off," said Jorgenson, whose team lost for just the fourth time in 16 starts.

Homstad, Cougars run by Blue Devils in 40-12 KCN win

It was a case of too much Bret Homstad for Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke as the Kittson County North runningback carried 31 times for 330 yards and five touchdowns in the Cougars' 40-12 Friday (Oct. 1) high school football win at Goodridge.

"We couldn't contain Homstad," admitted Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach John Wilebski. "He's the best back in the conference."

The Blue Devils got themselves in trouble with fumbles that set up two of the Cougars' first three touchdowns.

Dustin Marquis finished with 101 yards on 10 carries for the Blue Devils. Free safety Alex Holte was the leader on defense, according to Wilebski.

Justin Buhl wins spot in NJCAA tournament

Justin Buhl, a Northland Community and Technical College freshman from Sauk Rapids, qualified for the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III national golf tournament with a sixth place finish in 1999 NJCAA Region 13 competition Monday and Tuesday at the Mankato Golf Club.

Minneapolis Community College won the team title by a 644-656 margin over runner-up Mid-State (WI) Technical College of Wisconsin Rapids. Granted 15 spots in the national tournament, Region 13 officials elected to send the championship team and top ten individuals to next spring's NJCAA event, which be held June 5-10 in Jamestown, NY.

The Region 13 medalist was Barrett Gange of Bismarck (ND) State College with a two-day 150 total on identical rounds of 75-75.

Buhl turned in a 160 with rounds of 79-81 to lead a Northland team that finished tenth in a 13-team field at 711.

"It was a very mature, difficult course," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It forced the guys to play a lot of different shots. Justin did a good job. As a team, I was a little surprised our score was so high – probably the highest it's been all year. I thought we would do better, but we're a first-year program, and we've got a ways to go."

The Region 13 event doubled as the state tournament for Minnesota Community College Conference teams, giving Minneapolis a pair of titles. Host Bethany wound up second in the MCCC standings at 661, but as an NJCAA Division II school, was not eligible for Region 13 honors.

Rest of the Pioneers' team-counting scores were provided by Pete Vacha and Dustin Stewart, sophomores from Warroad; Jon Lee, a freshman from Thief River Falls; and Dominic Ste. Marie, a freshman from Red Lake Falls.

Final home match is a 9-1 TRF tennis win

The contest included an extra singles match and two additional doubles matches as the teams played for 10 points instead of the regulation seven. The Prowlers won all five doubles matches and took four of the five singles encounters.

Sylvia Sjoberg-coached Prowlers were 5-0 in dual meets at home this fall.

Wolverines lose to RLF

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke, after putting together a five-match winning streak, lost for the third straight time Tuesday, dropping a 3-1 high school volleyball decision to Red Lake Falls in Goodridge.

The Eagles won 7-15, 15-8, 15-10, 15-11.

"We saw some good things, but we still need to do a better job communicating on the court," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz.

DaNae Wiseth had 13 kills and Anna Anderson contributed 7 for the Wolverines. Kelsey Johnsrud finished with 10 assists, while Lacy Hoffman had five aces and 15 service points.

Natalee Holte missed the match because of a knee problem.

The Wolverines took a 7-9 record into the Red Lake County Central Invitational today (Saturday). A tough upcoming schedule will find them playing Roseau Monday (at Grygla), Lake of the Woods Thursday (at Baudette) and Marshall County Central Friday (at Goodridge).

Pioneers beat Itasca 21-7...

Northland clinches MCCC playoff spot

Dan Willoughby was apologizing after the game for his conservative play calling. It might not have been a wide-open offense, but it wasn't anything to be ashamed of as fullback Scott Olsen and halfback Matt Hitchen combined for 420 yards Thursday to lead Northland past Itasca 21-7 in Minnesota Community College Conference football – a win that guaranteed a post-season playoff spot for the Pioneers.

Olsen, a powerful inside runner with deceptive open field speed, carried 33 times for 250 yards, including touchdown runs of 9 and 53 yards. The freshman from Hillsboro, ND, came into the game with an MCCC-leading 956 yards for the season. Hitchen's bursts off tackle netted him 170 yards on 19 carries, including a 71-yard touchdown run.

The entire Northland offensive production came on the ground. Mike Svojanovski, starting in place of injured Ben Mosack, was incomplete on his only pass attempt of the night. Adding to Willoughby's concerns was the fact that Svojanovski was operating under center Seth Vettleson, another injury-prompted fill-in.

While the Northland ground game racked up big numbers, Willoughby was quick to credit his defense for the win – a defense that had given up 73 points over the last two games.

"I admit, I was a little bit conservative on my play calling," said Willoughby. "With our quarterback and center both being new, I didn't want to take any chances offensively. I wanted to put it in the hands of our defense, and they did a tremendous job."

Northland started impressively with an 8-play, 67-yard touchdown drive to open the game. Hitchen carried the ball on the first four snaps, which included a 24-yard run, to set up Olsen's 9-yard dive through the middle. Ryan Polzin added the first of his three conversion kicks for a 7-0 head start with just 4:02 elapsed.

Hitchen made it a two-touchdown spread when he broke into the clear off right tackle and picked up a crunching downfield block from Pete Mooney that wiped out the last defender on a 71-yard run with 5:45 left in the first half.

The 14-0 halftime spread could have been doubled, but a 50-yard Olsen touchdown run was called back on a penalty, and after having a first-and-goal opportunity from the Itasca 3-yard line in the final minute of the second quarter, the Pioneers fumbled the ball away.

Itasca let scoring chances slip away, too, coming up empty-handed after reaching the Northland 10, 14 and 25-yard lines during the course of the night.

The Vikings' only scoring came when versatile Kevin Jordan popped through the left side and out-ran the Northland defense on a 68-yard touchdown run with 5:55 to play in the third quarter. Jordan opened the game at quarterback, but switched to runningback at the start of the second half, and wound up rushing for 162 yards on 22 carries.

Jan Moller's conversion made it 14-7.

Itasca twice had the Northland offense pinned down in the fourth quarter, but strong punts by Kelly Fossum, accompanied by outstanding coverage, got the Pioneers out of trouble. Punting out of his end zone with 9:41 to play, Fossum got off a 36-yard kick. Then with 5:45 to play, the sophomore from Thief River Falls drilled a 42-yarder back to the Itasca 32. Both punts were fielded by Bryan O'Farrell, but he was buried immediately each time.

"Those (punts) were huge," noted Willoughby. "He got off two good kicks, and our coverage was excellent. Our special teams played well all night."

Olsen wrapped it up when he stepped to the outside on a play in which the entire Itasca defense was pinching in and had a wide-open path to the end zone on a 53-yard run with 3:35 left.

The Pioneers will take a 5-2 overall record to Virginia Thursday for a 7 p.m. regular season finale against Mesabi Range. A Northland win will produce a Northern Division title and a home game for the MCCC playoff semifinals.

Itasca fell to 3-4 and out of the post-season picture. If the Vikings would have won, they would be going to the playoffs and the Pioneers would have been eliminated.

Fighting off a blocker, Northland's Mike Osowski, a freshman from Stephen, went after Itasca quarterback Kevin Jorden in the first quarter of Thursday's Minnesota Community College Conference football game in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers clinched an MCCC playoff berth with a 21-7 win over the Vikings.

Rams sweep Gators

Two early leads weren't nearly enough for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River to upset host Roseau Thursday in high school volleyball.

The Rams trailed 5-0 in Game 1 and fell behind 2-0 in Game 2, but still swept the Gators 15-9, 15-6, 15-3.

"We started out pretty well, but it's a long way to 15," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian. "They (Rams) have too much power."

The Gators' limited offense included five kills by Sarah Peterson and four service aces by Allison Johnson.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River is 8-10 for the year.

Blue Devils fall to 0-5; facing Storm Tuesday

The elusive first win stayed just out of the reach of Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke Thursday when the Blue Devils gave up 23 second quarter points and lost a 35-24 high school football game at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The task certainly won't be any easier Tuesday when the 0-5 Blue Devils take on unbeaten Stephen-Argyle in Grygla.

"We played pretty well, except on defense in the second quarter," reported Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach John Wilebski. "The defense pulled it together in the second half, but..."

Sacred Heart broke the game open with a 43-yard Nate Bonderud touchdown pass to Tam Ebertowski in the final minute of the first half, making it 29-16 at intermission.

"That one really hurt," noted Wilebski. "The pass was tipped and it fell right into their hands."

A balanced Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke running game found Dustin Marquis with 61 yards on 13 carries, Alex Holte 50 yards on 11 attempts and Chad Johnson with 45 yards on 12 rushes. Holte was 12-for-23 in the air for 154 yards, with Johnson catching six passes for 105 yards.

"Chad and Dustin had good games on offense," mentioned Wilebski. Marshall Tanner (linebacker) and Adam Cwikla (line) played well on defense."
